The reception committee of the Council accepted the date, April 12, for the civic dinner to Senator Ivan C. Fallis at a city hall meeting Thursday night at which Alderman Castins presided. Others present were Mayor Macdonald, Aldermen Dutton, Glover and Gordon, Mrs. W. R. Morris, Mrs. Joseph Mills, and Miss Trucie Pearson. Prelim-inary plans for the banquet were outlined.

CREATES SMOKE SCREEN.

Clouds of smoke billowing from an apartment window over Grant and Loucks store on George street resulted this (Friday) noon in an alarm being sent in to Peterborough City Fire Department. The brigade with all equipment responded smartly, but found their services were not needed. It was learned that the smoke screen resulted from a forenoon pot that had been allowed to boil dry on the top of a stove and cause the contents to burn-up.

SEATS $3.75 to $15

A communication from the offices of the High Commissioner for Canada in London received by A. O. Phillips of this city, reveals that seats reserved for Dominion visitors to view the Coronation procession are priced from 15 shillings to three pounds each—about $3.75 to $15. Mr. Phillips is among a number of Peterborough residents who plan to visit England for the Coronation and is anxiously for seats. An active member of the St. John Ambulance Brigade here, it is possible Mr. Phillips will serve with one of the units in London during the cere-monies.

ICE DAMAGED DOCKS.

Widespread damage to docks and boathouses on the shores of Clear and Stoney lakes from ice pressure early this year is reported by resi-dents and visitors in the region. The damage resulted from a premature break-up of ice along the lake shores during the long mid-winter thaw. Wind pressure on the great ice masses thus cut loose from the shores caused destruction of a number of boathouses and permanent docks.

TO MAKE REQUISITION.

For the purpose of reequisitioning the Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries relative to requires ments of fish fry in Peterborough area, during the coming summer months, a meeting of Peterborough Fish and Game Association executive is to be held at Empress Hotel on Saturday evening. This meet-ing of the executive is one of the most important meetings of the en-tire year, and we would urge a large turnout of executive mem-bers," E. A. Outram, secretary, recommended.

BRITAIN PROBING PLANE SABOTAGE

Secret Service Men Sent To Check Up At Aircraft Plants After Incident At One

LONDON, March 5 (A.P.). — The British Government began a secret service investigation to-day of con-ditions at several aircraft factories, following what appeared to be a case of sabotage at one plant. A plane was damaged at a factory in the Midlands, but details of the inci-dent were withheld.

Regulations which prevent unau-thorized persons from coming in contact with plants were tightened stringently.

Only last Monday, the Govern-ment announced in the House of Commons it was investigating sus-pected cases of sabotage at factor-ies engaged in armament produc-tion.

MRS. MARY JANE TRENNUM

LAKEFIELD, March 5.—The death occurred suddenly early on Friday morning of Mary Jane Harrison, widow of Allie Trennum, in her 73rd year. Although she was not in the best of health since Christmas, she seemed to be improving until six days previous to her death she con-tracted the 'flu.

Mrs. Trennum was a life-long re-sident of Smith Township, and came to the one village of Lakefield to reside fifteen years ago. She was an ac-tive member of Lakefield Baptist Church and Mission Circle, and rarely missed a service until her health failed in December of last year.

Mrs. Trennum will be sadly missed, not only by her church but by all who knew her. She was a good neighbor and a friend to all.

Her husband predeceased her 22 years ago, and fifteen years ago her only son (Roger) was drowned. Left to mourn her passing are four bro-thers: John and Ross of Smith Township, George of Lakefield, and Richard of Omaha.

Her funeral service was held on Sunday afternoon, February 28, with interment made in the United Church Cemetery, Coe Hill.

Six thousand copies of "Three Little Pigs" in Russian were sold daily in Moscow and the entire first edition of 250,000 copies was disposed of throughout Russia within a short time.

The Rambling REPORTERS

LOST—NINE LIVES

This is a prisoner at the Police Station who had to have a special barricade this morning. Placing him firmly in the centre of the cell, where he watched proceedings out of frightened big green eyes, two of the guardians of the law amended the cell cot and fixed it firmly against the door before closing the latter, just in case he took a notion to get out through the bars. He is a big, sleek, Per-sian cat with a lovely, thick black coat and a fine mannlive meow which makes one think he would like to go home wherever that is. He was found this morning stroll-ing along George street near the Y.M.C.A.—C.L.M.

ONE PRESENT GONE.

A certain recently-married cou-ple in Peterborough are finding out that their wedding presents are not quite what they seemed when they were received.

Among the array of beautiful presents received was a hand-some silver coffee percolator. They were using it the other evening and forgetfully left it atop a very hot stove while they went to a movie. When they returned they found the percolator had turned into a bubbling mass of pewter.—CP.R.

ORGANIZED LABOR ALWAYS DUBIOUS MINIMUM WAGES

Fear That Minimum Rate Will Be Inclined To Become Basic Rate

NOT IDEAL SITUATION

Organized labor has always been dubious of the benefits of a mini-mum wage law, T. J. McMurray, president of the Trades and Labor Council remarked to The Examiner to-day in regard to Hon. David Croll's announcement that the pro-vincial government was planning a minimum of $17 or $18 a week for men not engaged in domestic or farm work.

Some employers would be in-clined to make the basic rate too general," Mr. McMurray said, "and would confer it to men who by their experience and ability are worth more than the minimum. On the other hand there is no doubt the minimum wage would be a real benefit to workers in factories and other lines of trade who have had to take low wages which the public knows are a disgrace, that are not sufficient for standard level of liv-ing, and enough to enable parents to provide their children with op-portunities for education and a bet-ter chance to succeed in life."

Mr. McMurray said he was per-sonally in favor of the minimum wage, but from his own observa-tions in many years of activity as an advocate of better conditions for labor the ideal situation was found wherever workers received an ade-quate living wage without assist-ment of governmental compulsion.

CENTRAL WINS 6-0 OVER QUEEN MARY IN SCHOOL PLAYOFF

Uptown School League Finalists Cop Decision Handily In First Game Of Series

SHINNY IN THIRD

Before a large crowd of school children, Central handed Queen Mary a 6-0 lacing yesterday afternoon at the Brock in the first game of the School Hockey League playoffs. The winners had a clean cut margin all the way over their opponents and their passing plays were clicking perfectly while their rivals could not seem to get organized. Central sifted through the Queen Mary defence as if it were paper while their own defence men made the way to the goal a rocky one. The ice became sticky as the game wore on and in the final period the game developed into a sliding match with the winners even shining in this.

H. Clark was the leading marksman for the winners. He bulged the twine on three occasions and figured in a couple more. L. Clark notched himself a pair of markers while Hogg got the remaining tally. Central scored twice in the opening frame, once in the second and banged home three goals in the final period. Mortimer and Ackford were the pick of the losers with the latter twice having Lomax at his mercy only to shoot wild in the last casio.

The teams:

Referee—D. Crawford.

HERSEY CONTEST COMES UNDER BAN

A. A. U. However Points Out Meet May Go On Under Middle Atlantic Guidance

NEW YORK, March 5.—(AP)—Firing another shot in its warfare with the Eastern Amateur Hockey League, the United States Amateur Athletic Union has withdrawn its sanction for the Hersey (Pa.) A.C. track and field meet next week, but there's an "out" by which the meet may still be held.

The A.A.U. contended, in announcing its decision last night, that the management of the Hersey A.C. and the Hersey Hockey Club of the Eastern League are "one and the same," and that the track meet sanction must be withdrawn, since the hockey club is ineligible in A. A. U. circles.

"However," explained A.A.U. Secretary Dan Ferris, "since the Middle Atlantic A.A.U. championships were to have been part of the Hersey meet the Middle Atlantic district can take over the meet and hold it at Hersey, or, if desirable, at Philadelphia."

Meantime, a third member of the Eastern U.S. Amateur Hockey league became ineligible when New York Rovers played the "outlawed" Baltimore Orioles last night.

The Orioles were declared ineligible Monday by the Southern A.A.U., which questioned the amateur status and "means of livelihood" of some of the Baltimore players. As a result of the ruling that any club which plays the Orioles becomes automatically ineligible so far as the A.A.U. is concerned, the Hersey B'ars met a similar edict two nights ago.

C.G.E. SHOP LEAGUE

The Wire and Machine shop of the C.G.E. Shop League will meet in the first of the semi-final games at the Brock street rink on Saturday afternoon. The game will start sharp at 2.30.

Breaks Record

Father Time received a severe jolt when Thomas Deckard of Indiana University ran the 3,000 metres steeplechase in 8 minutes 46 6-10 seconds in New York, in setting this new world's indoor record. Deckard cutran the former champion, Joe McClusky of the New York A.C., who held the shattered record of 8 minutes, 37.1 seconds. The meet was sponsored by A.A.U.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Latest Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

PLENTY OF basketball here again this weekend. Girls' games at the Y.W. tonight are: "Y" Quakers vs. St. John's Juniors at T.A.C.; Westclox Seniors vs. Marconi Radio at 8.15, and C.G.E. Juniors vs. Westclox at 9.00. Lindsay senior collegians play P.C.I. boys here this eve, too. Tomorrow night at the Y.M.C.A., it's Neill's vs. Dominion Life at 8.15 and St. Paul's vs. C.G.E. at 9.15 in Senior City Cage Loop squabbles. Followed by a dance in the gym. The Junior P.C.I. boys have intersectional playoffs here on Monday and in Bowmanville Friday with total points counting.

* * * * * *

THOSE BLOOD and Thunder Loop semi-finalists, Lakefield and Mayfairs, just can't get their series settled. For the second time, last night they battled to a draw, 2-2 being the final score. Now a third game is necessary. It will be Monday at 8.30 in the Brock St. rink. Winner meets Westclox in loop finals. The teams were supposed to play overtime, if necessary, last night but agreed beforehand not to on account of poor ice. What the heck kind of a home-and-home series is it when a third game is played? With three goals scored in the third frame, it seems to us that another might easily have been tallied in overtime. The fans wanted some overtime when it was tied but they went home disappointed.

* * * * * *

DESPITE BAD ice, it was an exciting scrap and those on deck liked it—judging by the racket they raised. Lakefield looked like the winner most of the way but the scrappy Cafe Kids stayed in their fighting and then they took a 2-1 lead in the third. Looked to be all over, but Lakefield came right back and evened it up just as the timer was getting set to give the final jimjix of the going. A fast, even battle between two extra well-matched teams. Scoring stars were Gardner and Blewett and defensive standouts were Curtis and Junkin. Either team should give the Westclox crew a real battle. But which crew will it be?

* * * * * *

CENTRAL TOOK the first of the home-and-home School Hockey League playoffs yesterday afternoon at the Brock, 6-0, from Queen Mary. Some say it was 7-0, but anyway that's a mighty comfortable lead—for Central. They should breeze through now to another puck title. Good hockey school teams go in cycles and this is sure Central's turn. They have a fine young outfit with some good kids being developed for future O.H.A. teams maybe. Next game is supposed to be at All Saints' rink when there is ice—if, as and when.

* * * * * *

AURORA BEAT Lindsay Juniors last eve, 5-3, to take their O.H.A. playdown round by an 8-6 count. We haven't heard anything officially yet but kind of expect Aurora and our Colts will be drawn together in the next round, playing next week. Just what will happen if there is no ice on natural-ice rinks for the next week or so we don't know. Can't transfer any games to Oshawa as the Motor City arena officials are taking out their artificial ice this Saturday for the winter. Seems there is a bad leak in the brine pipes and, as hockey is about over in Oshawa anyway, they'll close up the rink this weekend. Nearest artificial ice to Peterborough now will be in Toronto, by gosh!

* * * * * *

SPEAKING OF the Cobourg-Lakefield O.H.A. juvenile tussle in the northern village recently, ye Cobourg scribe writes: "Although beaten in their second game with Lakefield, the Cobourg boys were lucky to get away without an ambulance. We've read a lot about the blood and thunder league in the Peterborough district but didn't expect to run into such a dose of it." Well, when the boys in this district are playing hockey, they really play hockey—and leave less rugged sports like pillow throwing and post office to gentler souls. But the game he mentions was really a mild affair; in fact, we didn't hear of anyone losing an ear or even going to hospital. Come, come, Cobourg, is this the town of Ney, Ethier, Henderson, Dufton, et'al, speaking?

* * * * * *

DAN HOWLEY will take three young Canadian ball players south with Toronto Leafs for training in a couple of weeks. They are Bobby Porter and Art Upper of Toronto, and Dick Mitchell of Cobourg. The latter went south last year but returned to do his catching for Cobourg in Lakeshore Loop. He is only 20 and quite a hustler so they still figure he may have a future in pro ball. However, we doubt very much if any of these three will make the grade as a fast brand of baseball is played in the International League and it's a long, long trail which leads to diamond prominence in pro ranks.

* * * * * *

UP IN Tourneyville—well, then, Lindsay—the scribes see less of their beds by night nowadays than Walter Winchell. They are longingly looking forward to the distant future—maybe another week or two—when they can tuck the dinner-pail under the arm and shuffle off home at sunset for a square night's sleep. As one miserable brethren of the columnistic craft to another, we can extend a feeble gesture of sympathy. Every morn the rings around the eyes are darker and every eve the games are longer. At this time of year, hockey loses much of its thrill for weather-beaten writers who have stood the gaff of chilly rinks, colds in the head, arguments in the dressing-room and less sleep than a neurotic—all this for months. All we crave is 10 solid hours of sleep on a warm sand beach beside a lonely lake. And then an encore.

* * * * * *

HITHER AND yawn: Kadunks were better than Reinhardts in the first Felt Cup game but got off to a bad start and barely won, say the Sougog scribblers . . . Finals in this tourney will be held in Lindsay tonight . . . All local puck loops should hustle playoffs along before the ice goes out for the last time . . . The Triad and Blunder Loop finals may start here Tuesday . . . But for Trenton Fliers, the Petes might just as well have won the O.H.A. intermediate "A" title this winter, what? . . . The crews in the March 24th Oxford-Cambridge boat race are from Canada: H. P. Massey of Upper Canada and Balliol and T. H. Hunter of Harvard and Trinity Hall . . . We have heard of no double volleyball entries for the proposed regional playdowns here this weekend . . . POME: The absent-minded referee is really out of luck: he faced off the whistle one evening and then up and swallowed the puck!

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BANCROFT, March 5.—A fast game of hockey was played here on Monday, March 1st, the school defeating L.O.L. 5-3 in a ten minute overtime tilt. It was the first playoff game and both teams fought fiercely to win it.

The second period was hard fought but the school team had the edge on the L.O.L. and K. Sprung banged in a rebound to even it up.

The third opened with the L.O.L. battling to tie the score. M. Tryon succeeded in netting the rubber twice. With only a few moments left, B. McAlpine evened the tally on a pass from K. Sprung.

SKIING

by Charles Schaer

SWISS SKI INSTRUCTOR

The illustrations show (1) the start of the swing (2) half-way around and (3) the swing completed.

Telemark Lunging Position

19—THE TELEMARK SWING

The telemark is executed in the telemark or lunging position and its use is especially advantageous in heavy deep snow. It can, of course be used in other snow but when conditions are suitable the use of the christiania is preferable.

Assume the telemark running position (see articles 37 and 38) with the intended outside ski advanced. Thrust the leading knee well forward over the toe and keep the thigh of the rear leg approximately at right angles to the ski. By forcing the knee of the rear leg in behind the forward leg the skis will be held close together, which is essential. Hold the ankles normal. The leading ski is tended or pivoted in the direction of the swing and the weight shifted to it. The body must not be leaned forward over the leading knee but should be leaned backwards with relation to the leading ski. The leading or outer ski is rotated either by body muscular effort, in which case the swing is "forced" or by utilization of body momentum and weight when the swing is "undercut". In the former method the rope way held forward and swung to the outside of the swing, while the shoulders are turned inwards, the whole movement being vigorously carried out. In the undercut method the heel of the leading foot is well weighted and the rear end of the ski forced outward. Leaning the body well back assists in weighting the heel. In both methods the weight is carried well on the outside ski during the swing and the ankles are held normal. When the outside ski swings around it will come into contact with the upturn of the inside ski and force it around as well.

Try the swing first on a gentle slope with soft, loose, fairly shallow snow. Run on a right traverse and make the swing uphill, that is, the downhill ski will be leading and on the outside. The slope will thus assist the rotary motion of the ski. Special attention should be paid to a correct telemark position, to carrying the weight on the outside ski during the swing and to leaning the body outward.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

If Clas Taylor had thrown his last two stones out the window, he and his rink would still be in the Vice-Skips' Bonspiel instead of sitting on the outside, looking in.

Jack Green, subbing for C. Blewett, four down playing the final end, tied up the game and then goes on to win out in the extra frame.

Here's the picture as we saw it—Green trailing all the way through, by a combination of good skipping, bad curling, bad skipping and good curling succeeded in getting a big four on the 12th end to tie up the game—Taylor's man played somewhat short and narrow—Green got one on the rings and then another—and now comes the part that was the deciding "break" of the game—Clay came down with his first stone and very kindly bumped into one of Green's—now Green is laying three shots—Green immediately draws in another one and right there and then the old ball game is tied up—Clay again does the decent trick by playing wide and missing everything.

In the extra end, all played a little short and had the "T" well guarded until Bert Austin drew a dandy right on the little sunset and the game was over—Exit Mr. Taylor—Come on, Dr. John Green!

We had another story all fixed up for our column today but we'll save it for some other time. It's about the two skips who, for some reason or other, did not play with their rinks Thursday night but instead elected to stay in on our No. 8.

We wish they had played — we have an awful headache today.

ON HEAVY ICE

Lakefield and Maytairs battled to their second draw in the Senior City Hockey League semi-finals, 2-2, last night before over 300 noisy fans at the Brock St. rink. The first game ended in a 4-all tie so the teams will carry six goals apiece into a third game to settle the winner, who will meet Westclox in the finals. The managers agreed before the game last night not to play any overtime, if necessary, because of heavy ice.

Despite the poor ice, it was a rousing, exciting battle with the congestion of the contest changing rapidly in a hectic third heat. The Lakefield crew scored an early goal in the first frame and looked like the ultimate winners from then until halfway through the third. Maytairs then tied it up and came back shortly to take a lead and look like sure winners. But with seconds of play left before the end, Lakefield again saved it up.

Ice Is Heavy

Play was fast, thrilling and rough in spots. But good hockey was out of the question, the burrowing puck interfering badly with combination and stickhandling. Both teams resorted often to long shots, the players then tearing in after the disc and golfing it toward the net. The game was very even most of the way with a hot pace kept up regularly. Six penalties were drawn, Maytairs getting four.

The two goalies turned in a fine performance, having no chances on those that beat them and kicking out a flock of hard thrusts. The Lakefield first line and C. Charlton on defence stood out for the Northerners, but the rest were nearly as effective. Gardner again starred for Maytairs on the offensive while he and Vilarelli—the 60-minute defencemen—checked up in effective style. There was little difference between the work of either front-line for this squad.

Blewett scored the first one in close in six minutes, picking up a loose puck by the defence to bore in on Currie. It was a hard, even frame with Maytairs pacing at times but Lakefield threatening on breakaways. Gardner was off twice and Jewell once in the second and the teams pressed in turn with a man advantage. Some rugged hockey was seen but no scoring. In the third Maytairs ganged hard and finally Gardner scored at close range. He just got back from serving a penalty in time to ram home another with Mill and Vilarelli getting assists. Lakefield then took the offensive and almost at the last gong Blewett scored on Chittick's pass.

Lakefield: Goal, Junkin; defence, Sabatino and C. Charlton; centre, Chittick; wings, Jewell and Blewett; alternates, Pearson, J. Charlton, Heath, Chappell and Lennox.

Remember When—

Bartley Madden, courageous Irish fighter, was killed in a 25-foot fall while sightseeing in Washington seven years ago today. He was 48 years old and at one time was an aspirant to the world's heavyweight championship. In 39 years in the ring he won 33 out of 54 bouts, losing 14 and obtaining draws in four. No decisions were given in 34.

69-YEAR-OLD SCOT SHOWS CURLERS 'HOW IT'S DONE'

Lays Half-Dozen Shots On Button Without Miss Before Wondering Gallery

"JUST TESTING THE SHEET"

TORONTO, March 5 (CP).—Before the greatest curlers in Canada walked out on the Granite Club ice and into championship competition, a 69-year-old Scot shows these champions from British Columbia and Prince Edward Island how it's done. He lays a half-dozen or so shots on the button. Funny part of it is, he doesn't miss.

He stands at the tee and runs a rock up the ice and the rock stops on the button. Slowly he trudges after it, turns around and shoves it back. Again it stops in the exact centre of the ring. The old man moves over and repeats the performance in another ice lane.

It's all fascinating to the arriving gallery and even to the champion curlers, who frankly would like to know how a stone may be thrown to the button without fail.

He's the Granite Club icemaker—Andrew Harvey from Scotland—and he's just testing the sheet to see there's no "falling off on the outturn" before the MacDonald's Brier Tankard curlers take over. Can he throw a rock on the button every time?

"I wouldn' like to say I can put them on the spot ev'ra time, but in most cases—yes, in most cases," he says. Andy can find nothing surprising in his experience since he's been at it so long, since he was a boy in Lanark.

Better At Lawn Bowls

There he was a good curler and a much better lawn bowler. He won international honors in lawn bowling and was the Edinburgh West-End Bowling Club singles champion three years in a row, the best record in the club's 90-year history.

Having watched champion curlers in Canada for several years—especially the western stars who come down for the MacDonald Brier—he is convinced Scotland no longer is supreme in this sport. "Such curling as cannot be seen anywhere else," he comments, looking down on the Canadians.

"The westerners' fast, short game is the best in the world," he says.

Today, Andy is pulling for young Jimmy Welsh of Manitoba to win the playoff from Cliff Manahan of Alberta. Jimmy was born near Lanark. The old icemaker also is proud of another Manitoba curler, Jock Reid, the second stone, who also is from Scotland.

"They learned the game in Canada, though, and that's the proper place," he says. "Canada has the winter for curling. In Scotland curling weather is good about one in ten winters."

STRATFORD-MIKES JUNIOR STRUGGLE IN THE SPOTLIGHT

DANGER IN RIDEAUS

TORONTO, Mar. 5.—(CP)—Select Ontario junior hockey teams armed today for the more important playoff battles, but oddly enough no one was booming the teams with the most imposing records. While most eyes focused on an impending classic in the south of the Province, Pembroke Little Lumber Kings and Copper Cliff Redmen, strong Northern aspirants, were almost disregarded.

Pembroke, undefeated all season, will play Perth in the next round of district competition. If they win, the Kings will likely go against Cy Denneny's Ottawa Rideaus. Copper Cliff, after playing in Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior ranks most of the winter, waits for a winner to emerge from the Timmins-Noranda series.

But drawing the spotlight now is a contest that will be tradition-packed. Stratford Midgets and St. Michael's College will meet in Toronto tomorrow afternoon in the first of finals for the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A title and one of the largest attendances for an Ontario age-limit game in years is expected.

—Out for Four Years

Four seasons ago Stratford had its last great junior team. That pack was beaten by Newmarket Redmen in a gruelling four-game round for the O.H.A. crown and Redmen went on to the Canadian championship and the Memorial Cup. Now Dave Pinker has developed another high-powered machine for Stratford and the Classic City is looking for the laurels it nearly sailed in 1933.

St. Michael's won the Dominion title in 1934. The Irish haven't had the same luck since, but now they've come along with the best team since that time, one that includes several of last season's stars, and they've swept everything before so far. It's little wonder their series with Stratford has attracted so much attention.

Pembroke won't mind being out of the spotlight for a while. The little Lumber Kings were dark horses last year and they gave West Toronto Nationals a tremendous battle before Nats were able to go on to the Memorial Cup.

The North has always sent down strong teams, Sudbury, Copper Cliff, Timmins, Kirkland Lake and Pembroke all having had their turn at the Ontario crown. Sudbury and Kirkland Lake have been eliminated in the early rounds.

Normie Smith Holds Driving New Yorkers Down 2 To 1 In Detroit

KELLY POPS IN WINNER

DETROIT, March 5 (C.P.).—New York Rangers' drive to recapture second place in the National Hockey League's United States Division was stopped last night as Detroit's Red Wings turned them back 2 to 1 in their last appearance here this season.

Rangers hit a fast pace, only to be balked by Normie Smith's superb net minding. The Detroit goalie kicked out shot after shot during the third period New York power plays.

Cecil Dillon put Rangers ahead at 4.05 of the first period, taking a pass from Frank Boucher for a short lift from left wing over Smith's stick.

"Bucko" McDonald tied the score a minute and 32 seconds later, taking the puck from Wally Kilrea at the side of the New York goal to beat Dave Kerr.

Pete Kelly's third period goal at 3.15 was Detroit's winning tally, climaxing a play in which Wally Kilrea passed to Goodfellow at left wing and Goodfellow fed it to Kelly in front of the nets.

ALBERTANS WILL MEET MANITOBA IN BRIER FINALS

ODDS ON FORMER

TORONTO, March 5—(A.P.).—A pulsating ice battle was in prospect to-day as two of Canada's curling great prepared for the match that will decide the 1937 holder of the Macdonald's Brier Tankard and the Dominion title.

In a play-off that promised to produce thrills seldom seen even in Brier curling, Edmonton's Cliff Manahan will meet Jimmy Welsh of Winnipeg this afternoon, a climatic finish to a week of sensational curling. The two were tied for first place last night, the scheduled finale to this year's championship meet.

An extra-end 13-10 victory over Hugh Ferguson of Truro, N.S. brought the Albertan to the top of the standing after all but being counted out. The 37-year-old Winnipeg skip had arrived here a short time earlier with a 10-8 win over Saskatchewan's champions, skinned by Frank Smith of Moose Jaw.

They still talked to-day of Manahan's great five-ender that snatched victory from defeat in the ninth round of the bonspiel. But the Nova Scotians, too, were being praised for the stiff battle they put up. Their two points on the 13th and final end forced the rinks to an extra end for a decision.

Odds on Manahan

As the Prairie skippers prepared for the titular match, the odds slightly favored Manahan. He won the tankard in 1933 and had already squeezed out a win over the Manitoban rink in an earlier round this week. The 46-year-old Albertan also had the edge on Welsh in experience.

But tradition rested with the Winnipeg Deer Lodgers. Manitoba has won the Brier, played for since 1927, five previous times and seven times, Welsh was on the Jimmy Douglas rink that lost to Manahan four years ago and was out to avenge that defeat.

The Manahan-Ferguson match last night produced curling seldom equalled—certainly never excelled—in tankard play. The Edmonton rink trailed the surprising Nova Scotians until the 11th end. The five scored then but the Albertans two points ahead but Ferguson's two tied the match, ended when Manahan scored a three on the 13th.

Welsh Falters a Bit

Tied with the Edmonton skip with seven wins and one defeat going into the last round, Welsh was shaky as he eliminated the Saskatchewan curlers. His first-end four didn't look so big as Skip Smith settled down and on the ninth end came within a point of tying the Manitobans.

Third place in the final standings went to Skip Emmett Smith of Haileybury, Ont., representative of Northern Ontario. He gained a 10-9 decision over A. E. Dunker of Kitchener, curling for Ontario, to wind up with seven wins and two loses.

Rolly David of Vancouver had little difficulty in winning 16-4 over Quebec, while New Brunswick's curlers sat into the win column with a 13-8 defeat of Prince Edward Island. It was Judge C. R. Barry's only victory of the unit.

Eighth-round afternoon matches produced a few surprises. While Emmet Smith was grounding out a 9-8 win over the British Columbia quartet, Saskatchewan was turning back New Brunswick 15-12, and Alberta walloped Prince Edward Island 18-5. Nova Scotia turned a 10-7 defeat on Quebec and Manitoba turned back Ontario 10-6.

LARGEST ELM IN CANADA?

PICTON, Ont., March 5 (CP)—In answer to claims from Toronto that an elm in Scarborough Township is the largest in Canada east of the Rockies, Picton Council is having a claim made to mark an old tree here it claims is the "greatest elm east of the Rockies." The tree measures 24 feet in circumference at shoulder height, compared with the Scarborough tree's circumference of 24 feet at shoulder height.

Paddlers Beat Blazers In Exhibition Contest

The Peterborough Canoe Co. puckets defeated the Kingan Hardware Blazers in a battle royal at the Brock St. rink Wednesday. It was a lively exhibition tussle and ended up 4-3 for the Paddlers. Benny notched for the first for the Canoemen, Henwood, Curtin and Baldwin all tallied for the Hardware. The teams:

HAWKS FLY HIGH TO SLAP CANADIENS 5 TO 3 IN MONTREAL

Cellar - Dwellers Play Like Champs To Keep Alive Playoff Hopes

THIRD WIN IN FIVE DAYS

MONTREAL, March 5—(CP).—Chicago Black Hawks, keeping alive the faintest of hopes for an N.H.L. playoff berth, defeated the sectional leading Montreal Canadiens 5 to 3 last night for their third victory in five days. They played more like champions than a team on the verge of elimination.

Before some 8,000 fans, Johnny Gottselig ran up a two-goal first period lead, and the cellar dwellers of the United States Section never were headed. The teams split four goals in the second period and two in the third, when Hawks should have had a dozen, so often did they break two and three abreast on the unprotected Montreal defence.

Hawks skated Canadiens ragged most of the way, showing a classier brand of play than at any other time in Montreal this season. George Mantha, with the first of two goals, cut their lead once in the second period, and Paul Haynes did it again eight minutes later, after Wildor Larochelle and Paul Thompson had fired past Cude. 'Pep' Kelly and Mantha split the last pair.

There wasn't a sign of defensive play from either team, and the goalies was fast and wide open. Only Cude's brilliant work during the last half of the third period, when his defence left him alone almost all the time, prevented Hawks running up a wide margin.

Officials—Ollie Cleghorn and Ag Smith.

First Period.

1—Chicago, Gottselig (Marsh, Trudel) 4.11
2—Chicago, Gottselig (Trudel) 11.07
Penalties—None.

Second Period.

3—Canadiens, Mantha (McKenzie) 8.37
4—Chicago, Larochelle (Romnes, Thompson) 14.35
5—Chicago, Thompson 16.45
6—Canadiens, Haynes (Joliat, Gagnon 18.34
Penalties—Gagnon (misconduct).

Third Period.

7—Chicago, Kelly (Levinsky) 11.00
8—Canadiens, Mantha (Siebert) 11.45
Penalties—Marsh, Gottselig, Blake.

ROLLS ROYCE STRIKE.

LONDON, March 5—(A.P.).—A strike of skilled workers at the Rolls Royce Aircraft engine works at Derby to-day, threatened to interfere with Great Britain's re-armament program.

More than half of the plant's 7,000 workmen were forced into idleness as the result of a strike of 270 grinders of high precision tools.

IN MEMORIAM

SCHOLEY.—In loving memory of a beloved Wife and Mother, Mrs. G. Scholey, who passed away March 5, 1936.

Her faint last wish we should like to have heard.
And breathed in her ear one last parting word.
A beautiful life that came to an end.
She died as she lived—everyone's friend.

AIR RAID WARDENS TO BE RECRUITED

300,000 Will Be Chosen Across Britain To Direct Populace In Case Of Attack

LONDON, March 5.—(CP Cable)—Three hundred thousand air raid wardens are to be recruited. They will be part of Britain's precautions against war from the skies.

Air raid wardens will be recruited by local authorities. Their duty will be to advise their fellow citizens on officially recommended precautions against air raids, assist in the distribution of civilian respirators and, in the event of war, play an active part in helping the public, both during and after an air raid.

The wardens will operate from fixed posts and each will be responsible for a defined group of streets or a sector. During times of air raid each post will be manned by two or perhaps three wardens.

One air warden unit is established to every 500 inhabitants in residential districts and to every mile in industrial and business areas. Women as well as men may be recruited as wardens.

Wardens will be given full antigas training. The government will supply them with equipment for their personal protection.

Details of the scheme are now being worked out for the distribution of civilian respirators.

In the air warden scheme the government is harking back to the days of the Napoleonic wars. Then street captains were appointed in coastal towns to organize the civilians' resistance to invasion.

HYDRO INCREASES NORTHERN OUTPUT

Mining Development Takes More Power From Ontario Enterprise

TORONTO, Feb. 5—(CP)—One of the outstanding features of the operations of Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario during the past year has been the "very remarkable increase" in the use of electric energy in the gold-mining and milling industry in Northern Ontario, states T. Stewart Lyon, chairman of the Hydro Commission.

Under a sub-heading "Northern demand grows," Mr. Lyon describes power developments in the northern areas in The Bulletin, official Hydro publication. Mr. Lyon points out the Abitibi Canyon development under first construction is now supplying 65,000 horsepower for mining and metallurgical operations. The reduction in the cost of power in the mining districts, because of the entry of the Commission into the field has assisted greatly in the development of properties containing large quantities of "marginal ore."

"Much of this ore was of a grade too low to be mined and milled profitably when gold was worth $20 an ounce and power cost the operator $50 per h.p. year for long-term contracts. Gold at almost $35 an ounce, or at from $32.50 to $35 per h.p. per year have changed the picture to an extraordinary extent," he says. "We look for an extension of this development that will enable us to utilize to the profit of the people of Ontario practically all the available power provided by the Canyon development."

TRENT RIVER W.A. TO AID BOYS LEAGUE

St. John's Members Will Hold Pot Luck Supper—Work On Quilt Blocks

TRENT RIVER, March 5.—The Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Anglican church, Havelock, met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Cook, 'Maple Inn,' Cook cottage, with an attendance of 17.

Rev. Mr. Lemon, rector of St. John's, conducted the devotional part of the meeting, with Miss Bessie Thompson at the piano. Mr. Lemon read the Scripture lesson from 2nd Corinthians, 1, after which he gave a talk on two Bible characters taken from Romans, 16: "Priscila and Aquila," the president. Mrs. (Dr.) Holdcroft, Sr., voiced the appreciation on behalf of the W.A. for Mr. Lemon's interesting address.

The matter of assisting the 'Boys' League' work was brought up and discussed; the members decided to have a pot luck supper for the boys some time after Lent. Rev. Mr. Lemon closed the meeting with the Benediction, after which the members worked at quilt blocks for an hour. A delightful lunch was served by Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Cook.

Mrs. (Dr.) Holdcroft favored the gathering by a vocal number, "Still, Still With Thee" most effectively, with piano accompaniment played by Miss Bessie Thompson.

Mrs. Post moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Cook for opening their home for the occasion.

The following were in attendance: Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Lemon, Mrs. Holdcroft, Sr., Mrs. Don Holdcroft, Mrs. Post, Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. Bruce Longmuir, Miss Ira Smith, Mrs. Ray Scott, Mrs. George Russell, Miss Bessie Thompson, Mrs. Balthrope, Mrs. Ernest Leeson, Mrs. Davies, Miss Kate Munroe, all of Havelock, Miss B. G. French of Trent River.

SHAW CONFESSES HE OFTEN SWANKS

Agrees Also He Is Most Distinguished Dramatist Of English Literature Since Shakespeare

LONDON, March 5 (C.P.-Havas)—George Bernard Shaw last night talked with newspapermen about his favorite subject—himself.

He commented on a recent speech by Dr. Archibald Henderson in which the Yale University professor said the playwright's "boastfulness and egotism" were the result of "a split personality and an inferiority complex."

"I don't know," the dramatist said. "I have been generally accused of having a superiority complex, which every Irishman in England has, more or less.

"As a matter of fact, I occasionally swank a little because people like it, because a modest man is such a nuisance.

"As to split personality—well, I should say I have about 20 personalities. At least, everybody has. Everybody is shy—on certain occasions and subjects."

On one point, Shaw said, he is in complete agreement with Prof. Henderson, who described him as "the most distinguished dramatist of English literature since Shakespeare."

"I think the part about Shakespeare is quite sound," Shaw remarked.

The Day That I Forget

CHAPTER 27

JANET PAYNTER caught Carol Griest off guard at the costume ball when she said pleasantly—and for all in hearing distance to catch—that she thought it was nice to be back and that they'd all "have a lot of fun together."

Carol's expression said plainly that she hadn't the least idea how. Also that she was considerably surprised by Janet's attitude. She had under-rated Janet if she thought Joel's wife was going to be intimidated to vocalize linking her name to Janet's famous husband.

"We've always made friends with Joel's fellow artists and I've wanted to know you. I know you're working terribly hard but I want you to come over and play some tennis with me when there's a lull."

She smiled pleasantly and made to move on, quite satisfactorily conscious of the unveiled surprise in Carol's big grey eyes.

Carol Griest was a good head taller that Janet, and in her elaborate costume of ostrich and silver cloth she was a far more picturesque figure than Janet in her mediaeval costume. But the first honors went to Janet. Janet knew it and knew that before the night was over, someone would have told someone else and it would be all over Hollywood.

She joined a group of her friends and immediately she said, "Isn't Carol Griest simply ravishing! I'm so pleased that Joel has the opportunity to play opposite her. Her pictures are always a success."

Some one said that she was unduly modest. Wasn't Joel Paynter the most sought-after hero of the day?

Under her breath, another woman said that Janet was more than modest, she was smart or else she was a fool.

Janet didn't hear it.

She made a point of not staying close to Joel's side but, when she was dancing, she was conscious of every woman he danced with and hated herself for the quick glances she gave in his direction trying to follow him. She had never done that before and thought that uncertainty was the beginning of jealousy and jealousy was the ugliest thing she knew of. Its sign post led to a street of misery and she would have none of it.

She danced with him once and told him she was glad she had come to the party, that she was having a wonderful time.

Then she left him and joined Vernon Chester for a game of billiards. She made much that was obvious of her gaiety and chatted brightly of all the small things she could think of.

But when the game was over and they had gone back to the "big" house from the playhouse to get some supper, she let Chester and wandered into the garden by herself. She wouldn't have admitted that she was looking for Joel but she was.

She strolled by herself wrapped in lonliness and her silly little Spanish shawl. She walked down the path toward the pond back of the playhouse and there in the moonlight she saw the shimmer of Carol's silver gown.

She saw the silhouette of two people standing to the right of a clump of trees. Saw that the second figure was Joel's. Saw his profile turned down toward Carol's uplifted one. The actress was taller than Janet but still Joel had to bend his head to meet her gaze.

They were talking—earnestly. Janet could see from the position of Joel's best head. She couldn't hear what they were saying. She didn't want to. She hadn't come to spy or to eavesdrop but she couldn't turn back.

All of her inclinations told her to turn on her heel and return the way she had come but there was something older and more primitive in her than her breeding.

"Hello," she said. "I was looking for you. It's after 2, darling."

If only she hadn't been so sensitive, she wouldn't have noted how guiltily Joel stepped back away from Carol. Perhaps even then it was only that she had expected it, that Joel hadn't really done it.

"I thought you would be looking," Carol said in the same friendly tone Janet had used. But both Janet and Carol knew that it wasn't friendly.

So Carol thought that Janet would stoop to fighting for her husband with another woman!

"I just wanted to tell you, Joel, that I think I'll go on with Vernon."

She turned to Carol. "I'm simply dead from my trip. I'm not an intrepid flyer and the trip west was a terrific strain on me. I was scared to death all the way."

"Of flying?" Carol asked pleasantly.

"Of flying, certainly," Janet answered calmly. "I'll never do it again even if Joel does send me another of his S.O.S.'s."

There, Janet won another honor! "Aren't men helpless?" Carol said and favored Joel with a glance that was not lost on Janet.

Janet knew that her remark was no compliment.

"No, I don't want you to, Joel. I want you to stay please." Again she turned to Carol. "You know ever since we've been in Hollywood I've been trying to get Joel to go to parties. And... well... get away from my apron strings."

Joel said gruffly, "Come along, Janet. There'll be lots of other parties and you'll have no trouble getting rid of me."

Janet laughed lightly. "That's what you always say! Well let's go back and tell Vernon we'll drop him. Good night, Miss Griest. Don't forget that you're coming to play tennis with me."

"I'm not the athletic type, Mrs. Paynter," Carol answered coolly.

"Aren't you?" Janet returned. "Then bring along you knitting and we'll just be a couple of home girls. Good night."

There was a rising, pleasant inflection at the end of her greeting. It keyed her conversation for the long drive back.

It needed keying to a light touch. The drive back was not a merry one. Vernon Chester, who knew Janet as well as he knew most people—and therein he knew a great deal for he looked below the surface of appearances—pulled silently on his cigar. Joel's silence was almost morose.

Chester thought; Janet is being hurt and Joel is angry. The fool! There'll be fireworks when I get out. Well, I'm betting that little lady. She's got more brains in that little noodle of hers than the rest of these babies put together.

He was wrong. There was no fireworks. Fireworks would have cleared the air.

No sooner had Chester alighted than Joel said, "Well, Jan, you did that up pretty. Why be nasty to Carol? She hasn't done you any harm."

"Oh, come, dearest, I wasn't nasty to her. I was very pleasant to her. Also, I know she hasn't done anything to me but I'm afraid she might do something to you."

Joel laughed uproariously. For a minute Janet hoped that his laughing could clear the something that was between them. But when he finished, he resumed his gloomy study of the moonlight view from the car windows.

Neither of them said anything more on the way home and that night, for the first time since her marriage, Janet Paynter cried herself to sleep.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY CUTS LOOSE

"Whoopee! Whoopee!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

The jolly old rabbit gentleman was cheering but he wasn't tossing his hat up in the air which is something done when cheering is called for. Uncle Wiggily couldn't toss his hat in the air because it was already there.

As I said, you in the story last night, Mr. Longears went out on a blustery, windy March day, to look for adventure. He had a long string around his hat and the other end of the string was around his neck so it wouldn't blow away. I mean so his hat wouldn't blow away.

But a gust of wind took the hat off the rabbit's head, and blew it high in the air. I mean it blew the seat high in the air, not the bunny gentleman's head. Though, as a matter of fact, Uncle Wiggily's head followed his hat.

The string was strong, it didn't break and that hat, like a kite took Uncle Wiggily up and up in the wind.

Like a Plane

"Whoopee!" he cried again. After his first surprise he began to like his strange wind ride. He was now high above the trees, sailing over them as if he were an airplane. He could look down and see his bungalow. It appeared to be getting smaller and smaller. He was fast being blown away from it.

"Well, this is fun," thought Uncle Wiggily, "but I wonder where I am going? It will be a dreadful thing if this string breaks and lets me down plippity plop! Oh, whatn that?" he suddenly cried.

Well might Uncle Wiggily be surprised and ask what that was. Something whooshed past him as he was wind riding in the air. At first he thought it might be his wife or Nurse Jane coming to pull him back. But a moment later he saw it was a Snow Bird that was flying around him as airplanes sometimes fly around a dirigible baloon.

"Hello!" chirped the Snow Bird in a friendly way.

"Oh, hello!" answered Uncle Wiggily.

"Have you come to join us?" asked the Snow Bird. "I mean are you going to start growing feathers instead of fur?"

"I hope not," said Uncle Wiggily being blown through the air as easily as the bird was flying. "I got up here by accident," the rabbit gentleman explained. He told about his hat which was flying ahead of him, attached to him by the long string.

"Then you don't like it up here?" asked the Snow Bird.

Not Much

"Well, a little of it goes a long way," said the rabbit. "I really think I ought to go back to earth. But I don't know how to manage it."

"You must cut loose," said the bird.

"Cut loose?" asked the rabbit.

"Yes. You must cut the string and let your kite hat sail where it will. Without the hat, which is filled with wind, to pull you along, you will soon fall to the ground."

"That's just the trouble!" said the rabbit. "I'm afraid to fall."

"Nonsense!" chirped the Snow Bird. "Here! I'll cut you loose and we'll see what happens." With that the bird cut the string in his sharp beak. Away flew the hat. Uncle Wiggily, no longer held up by it, began to fall toward the ground.

"Oh! Oh!" he cried. "This is terrible!"

"Don't worry!" laughed the bird. "I'll save you!"

And if the onion will stop playing hide and seek in the potato salad I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily finding his hat.

GOING TO THE DOGS

England Becomes Decadent Along Musical Lines.

LONDON, March 5 (A.P.). — The famed violinist Jascha Heifitz, convinced "England is going to the dogs musically speaking," prepared for his first appearance to-day on an English concert tour by practicing on the accordion.

"This country has become decadent and next time I may find it necessary to..." He let the sentence end itself as he looked significantly at the accordion.

BAILIEBORO

BAILIEBORO, March 5.—A season once in awhile brings forth an exceptionally lean crop to the county and the observers not engaged in agriculture state, that even lean years have their advantages as they cause a produce shortage which gives the agriculturist an opportunity of demanding a superior price for his produce, owing to the shortage caused.

Little do many, not directly connected with the farm and its problems, realize the plight of the farmer under such existing circumstances, for they are the people who utilize a very large percentage of the product which is lacking and the increase in price simply means that the farmer is paying more for the commodity which the shortage has forced him to purchase.

When the season is dry and crops fail or when the product he is forced to buy soars out of range in price, the farmer does not go on a sit-down strike but simply takes it on the chin and goes as merrily along as he possibly can, saying to himself, "Oh, well, perhaps next year we will more than make up for this season's deficit."

Feeding Hens Expensive

This winter farmers of this district are feeding their hens a laying mash which costs about two dollars and eighty-five cents per hundred pounds, while a year ago the same mixture would have cost about one dollar and forty-five cents per hundred. Eggs locally are now bringing from eighteen to twelve cents per dozen. A year ago eggs were bringing locally around twenty-five cents per dozen. While the laying mash costs the farmer almost twice as much as a year ago he is receiving eight or nine cents per dozen less for eggs than a year ago.

The Hog Situation

Today hogs are being fed at a cost of about two and a half cents per pound for grain. The price is about on a par with a year ago when feed grain cost about one cent a pound. Some hog raisers claim that for winter feeding it takes one thousand pounds of grain to finish a hog for market, this amount for the average hog raiser. Therefore at the present price of eight cents for market hogs the farmer is actually raising hogs for market at a loss, while a year ago he was making a fair profit.

The same applies to seed grain and grass seeds. When there is a shortage it usually effects the entire community and each time the agriculturist pays.

A Better Understanding

A clearer understanding between the citizen of the rural district and the urban citizen helps each to understand and sympathize when crises arise over which they have little or no control and it is wise for both to study conditions outside their own realm in order that both rural and urban citizen may know the problems and handicaps under which the other fellow may be laboring. There is also the possibility that the optimistic spirit adopted by one may prove an inspiration to the other and help both to continue even against odds to give the finest possible type of citizenship to the country, which we believe is attempting to unravel the problems which have confronted the industries of our country.

MEAN CONTRACTS LATER

Chamberlain Heavy - Hearted At Enormous Outlay—Taxpayers Must Sacrifice

LONDON, March 6—(CP Cable)—The attention of the world was called today to the determination of Britain "an old, proud nation" to defend itself, "even to the very end."

Sir Thomas Inskip, minister of defence coordination issued that call last night as he and the chancellor of the exchequer, Neville Chamberlain, speaking on different platforms, warned Britain of the effect the $7,500,000,000 rearmament program would have on her immediate future.

Inskip suggested erection of new buildings and reconstruction of old ones might well be halted for two or three years, due to shortage of steel, while armaments were being built up.

Chamberlain, stated he could not say the taxpayers had come to the end of their sacrifices. He referred to diversion of treasury surpluses to defence purposes as "a negation of common sense and common humanity" made compulsory by stark necessity.

Speaking at Newcastle-On-Tyne, Sir Thomas declared there was no intention of permitting the rearmaments program to interfere without control in the normal conduct of trade.

Such interference would be both foolish and disastrous, he declared, urging businessmen to go after foreign orders "which are the lifeblood of the nation." Nothing could be more shortsighted than to concentrate attention on the rearmament program which at the end would leave Britain high and dry.

"Not A Bad Thing"

But, "it would be no bad thing," he added, if construction and reconstruction of buildings should be postponed.

Contractors for the next two or three years would be busy on the essential rearmaments. At the end of that time, were construction postponed unnecessarily, a rise of unemployment unless certain might result.

Everyone, he said, might feel the folly and wickedness of rearmament, but who could doubt that if Britain remained defenceless she would not only have met, but deserved her fate.

"I hope other nations will not be unmindful of the determination of the old, proud nation to defend itself, even to the end," Sir Thomas said.

Britain's prosperity was not principally due to the rearmaments program but to a genuine business revival that resulted from the country recovering her position as the leading export nation of the world, he affirmed.

The chancellor of the exchequer spoke at Edinburgh. Economic ruin could result from too much armament, he implied. "I cannot dismiss the hope we and the other nations of Europe may presently find some less suicidal way of ending our fears and suspicions of one another before we are all ruined by our own efforts to defend ourselves."

He was heavy-hearted over the enormous expenditures entailed as head of the treasury he had labor-

QUEEN'S PARK RUN BY LAWLESSNESS

So Dr. Shields Charges—Says Votes Alone Will Beat Hepburn

TORONTO, March 6 (CP)—Rev. Dr. T. T. Shields, Toronto Baptist minister, told the Ontario Temperance Federation yesterday "lawlessness is in power at Queen's Park and no matter how strongly any resolution is framed, it will do us no good."

Attacking the Ontario Government for its liquor policy, Dr. Shields said: "Let us resign from the diplomatic corps and join the army. Votes alone will beat Hepburn. He has no respect whatever for us, and I'm afraid the feeling is mutual."

"Prohibition is not the biggest issue of the day to place before our government, but the taste of democracy is," said Rev. Raymond Booth, pastor of Friends Meeting House. "We do not want virtual dictatorship."

The convention unanimously adopted a resolution proposing that an immediate referendum on sale of beer and wine by the glass be demanded and that in event of refusal, a party be formed to campaign for it in the Legislature.

Hepburn Reads Liberal Member From Party

Is Read Out

DR. A. D. ROBERTS.

Member of the Ontario Legislature for Sault Ste. Marie who was read out of the Liberal party by Premier Hepburn. The premier accused him of "blackmailing" and of "conduct unbecoming a member of the legislature".

DRAMATIC SCENE

White Trillium Proposed As Ontario Emblem—Cauliflower Says Macauley

TORONTO, March 6.—(CP)—Doors to party preserves of political Ontario were closed today to Dr. A. Duncan Roberts, ousted from Liberal ranks at a dramatic session of the legislature.

While signs indicated the Sault Ste. Marie member would not be welcomed by the Conservatives he once supported, Dr. Roberts is expected Monday to join Sam Lawrence, C.C.F. member for Hamilton East, in lonely legislative exile where no calls to party caucus come.

In cold calculated terms, Premier Mitchell Hepburn yesterday read Dr. Roberts out of the Liberal party after accusing him of "blackmailing" and of "conduct unbecoming a member of the legislature."

The Sault member was accused of seeking to "blackmail the Algoma Steel company into giving him a job on the company payroll in consideration of his support of the iron ore bill."

The bill, now before the legislature, would provide a bonus of $1.62 a ton on Ontario ore from which foreign substances have been removed.

In the legislature Thursday, Dr. Roberts had accused Premier Hepburn of "utter discourtesy and cheap autocracy" because announcement of the iron-ore bounty was made through Sir James Dunn, president of Algoma Steel, instead of through him, the people's representative.

Other Incidents

In answering this, Premier Hepburn angrily charged Dr. Roberts with having befriended the District highway engineers office at Sault Ste. Marie with patronage matters until the government was forced to move it to Blind River. He also alleged Dr. Roberts had used his prestige as a member to get a medical contract for pulpwood camp 140 miles from the Soo and had then farmed out the contract to a non-resident doctor.

Mr. Hepburn read a telegram from Sir James Dunn in which it was charged Dr. Roberts had asked for appointment as medical officer of the Steel Company in consideration of his support of the iron ore bill.

Dr. Roberts made brief answer yesterday. He saw nothing wrong in his suggestion to Sir James Dunn he be named medical officer. The suggestion was made in the presence of other parties and was not underhand.

The 42-year-old former mayor of Sault Ste. Marie pleaded with the House to accept his word against that of Sir James Dunn. He said his agreement for the lumber camp service was an oral one. There was no contract. It had been promised but had not materialized.

It was the ingratitude of it all which stung the premier, Mr. Hepburn said announcing Dr. Roberts

He did state however, he thought heads of adjoining nations should get together once in a while.

Higher Wages Granted After Dispute Ties Up 20 Plants In 11 Centres

Minimum Salary Rates To Be Effective, Rates To Differ In Two Zones

COME UNDER NEW LAW

Co-operation With Ontario Department Gives Chance For Demonstration Of Croll's Plan

TORONTO, March 6.— (CP).—Settlement of Ontario's furniture workers' strike, involving more than 1,000 workers in 20 factories in 11 centres, was announced to-day, by Hon. David Croll, Minister of Labor. The men will return to their jobs Monday.

Wage increases have been granted and a conference will start next week to bring the industry under the Industrial Standards Act.

The agreement climaxed a week's peace efforts by B. F. Marsh, Deputy Labor Minister, and Louis Pine, industrial standards officer, who have been mediating since the strike started a week ago.

Terms of the agreement signed to-day between union representatives and the manufacturers provide for conferences under the Industrial Standards Act to work out details of wages and hours, but pending these conferences, minimum wage rates have been established, to become effective April 1.

"The minimum rates will stand," said Mr. Croll. "What the conference will have to work out will be the details of classification for various employees."

Under the settlement two zones for the industry are established. Zone A will be all Ontario except the "furniture area" in Stratford-Kitchener district in Western Ontario, which will be designated as Zone B.

Rates Agreed On.

Minimum hourly wage rates have been set as follows:

	Zone A	Zone B
Unskilled labor	32c	34c
Semi-skilled labor	37c	39c
Skilled labor	40c	42c

In Zone A the average for all employees must not fall below 37 cents and in Zone B below 39 cents.

In the whole Province a minimum of 18 cents an hour is established for boys with a provision for an annual increase of 3 cents an hour for four years, after which they will classify in the other groups.

"I am deeply gratified the difficulties in the industry have been settled," said Mr. Croll. "Both sides to the dispute showed the utmost desire to end the strike and co-operate to the full with department officers in working out a settlement."

BRITISH ACTOR VANISHES AFTER PARTY ON LINER

Disappears During Height Of Champagne Revelry In 'Beauty Queen's' Cabin

GIRL DENIES LOVE AFFAIR

PLYMOUTH, England, March 6—(AP)—Frank Vosper, 37, one of England's "brilliant young men" of the theatre, walked out of a British Beauty Queen's champagne party aboard the French liner Paris today and vanished.

Passengers who attended the gay affair in the cabin of Muriel Oxford, "Miss Great Britain" of 1936, were reported summoned for an investigation by officers of the liner.

Another inquiry was likely when the ship reach Le Havre, France. Vosper disappeared two hours out of Plymouth.

Miss Oxford, who had been appearing in a New York revue, was deeply distressed. She said Vosper, an actor-playwright, stepped out of her cabin onto a deck and "did not come back."

Friends said she and Vosper became acquainted on the voyage from New York.

Peter Wiles, a fellow London and intimate of Vosper, said she was convinced her friend was dead.

In New York Chorus

Miss Oxford went to New York some time ago with a group of chorus girls. She previously had done small film parts in London and was a mannequin before she was chosen "Miss Great Britain."

When she reached London on the boat train from Plymouth she gave her first detailed statement of the incident.

"We were just friends," she said. "There was no question of a love affair between us. In America the newspapers had 'engaged me' several times. It was just talk. Mr. Vosper and I were nothing more than friends."

Ship's officers reported a passenger on the Paris, whose identity

2,500 ITALIAN WARRIORS

GIBRALTAR, March 6—(AP)—A group of Italian volunteers for the Spanish war was reported today by a usually reliable source to have arrived recently at Cadiz, Spain. However, a report from Rome that there were 2,500 in the group was officially denied.

"The cabinet will meet today and a definite decision as to what we will do will likely be reached," said Mr. Hepburn. Premier Hepburn said he had no estimates of the cost of the Port Arthur hospital nor did he know the exact site. Money will be provided in the estimates to be brought down with the budget Tuesday.

HYDRO REBATE OF $22,709.28 IS GIVEN CITY

Cost Of Horsepower To Peterborough Utilities Last Year Was $26.60

PROFIT OF $31,666

A rebate of $22,709.28 to the Peterborough Utilities Commission on the charges for power bought from the Hydro-Electric Power Commission in 1936 is indicated in the annual 12th bill which has reached this city. Commission Chairman Gordon S. Matthews reported ... day.

Representing the Hydro's adjustment for the spread between the rates charged Peterborough on power bought during the year and the actual cost of the power, the rebate may make possible consideration of a further reduction in power rates here later this year, Mr. Matthews said. However, the results of an analysis of the individual costs of domestic, commercial and industrial power now being made, must first be considered, he said. It is expected the analysis will be completed by early summer.

An interim rate of $30 per horsepower was charged the Commission during 1936. The rebate brings the net cost per horsepower of power used there down to $26.60. In 1935, the interim rate was $32 and the net cost after receipt of the 12th bill for power consumed that year brought the net cost down to $27.86 per horse-power. Thus a decrease of $1.26 a horse-power in the cost of power bought here in 1936 as compared with 1936 is evident.

ONE JUROR FORCES A SECOND TRIAL IN CROSLEY CASE

Draws Censure Of Justice MacKay For Refusal To Discuss Verdict

"MAY COST OTHER LIVES"

KINGSTON, Ont., March 6. (CP).—Failure of one juror to discuss the case in the jury room early to-day forced Mr. Justice Keller MacKay to dismiss the jury and put the murder trial of Chester Crosley over until the next sitting.

Crosley, Iggyo convict at Kingston penitentiary, was on trial for the fatal stabbing of Guard John McCormick at the penitentiary last July 11.

"I am very sorry," Mr. Justice MacKay said, "that one of our citizens should assume such an attitude, but I am powerless." R. N. Anglin, foreman of the jury, told His Lordship one of the jurymen failed to agree and would not even discuss the case, saying his mind was already made up.

"On a life has already been taken and others may also," Mr. Justice MacKay continued. "To the 11 jurors who gave honest and careful consideration, I express my thanks. To the 12th I have nothing to say and do not care to say anything."

C. L. Snyder, Crown counsel, said he had never come across a case when one juror failed to discuss the case in the jury room. On that juror's shoulders would fall the responsibility of thousands of dollars of expense for the trial, Mr. Snyder declared.

All evidence was completed early yesterday and the addresses and charges made to the jury at an early hour. Twice the jury foreman returned to tell the court an agreement could not be reached. The jury was discharged after the third attempt to reach an agreement.

Throughout the trial the aged convict interrupted proceedings by long sweet sobbing and pleas for justice. At different times he claimed racial prejudices were being directed against him, but Mr. Justice MacKay assured him of a fair trial.

WINDSOR, Ont., March 6—(CP)—A raid on the exclusive Michigan club here last Saturday in which 180 persons, including 27 women, were arrested as frequenters of a gambling house, was cleaned up in police court today when 40 of the founding were fined $10 and costs. Eddie Patel, former Windsor boxer arrested as the proprietor, was fined $200 and costs.

Charges of frequenting against the other 139 persons, most of them from Detroit, were withdrawn when Cecil Croll, defence counsel, told the court the club had definitely stopped operating.

GRASSHOPPER THREAT

Plague Likely To Be More Serious Than Last Year.

OTTAWA, March 6—(CP)— The department of agriculture today declared Saskatchewan is threatened with a grasshopper plague far more serious than that of last year and that the situation in Alberta probably will be at least as serious as any in the last five years.

The department, compiling results of surveys undertaken last fall by officers of the entomological branch on grasshopper egg deposits in the prairie provinces, said it appeared Manitoba would escape any serious infestation.

CAPTURED REBELS SAY "VOLUNTEERS" MOSTLY ITALIANS

Report Few Germans Fighting —Act As Military Specialists And Technicians

RESENTED BY POPULACE

By Christian Ozanne
(Copyright, 1937, Havas News Agency.)

VALENCIA, March 6 (CP-Havas)—Italian "volunteers," many of them in Italian army garb, are extremely numerous in insurgent ranks on all fronts, this correspondent was assured last night by four Spanish Phalangists (Fascists) who were amazed to find themselves still alive after a week spent as prisoners of the government.

The men declared that relatively few Germans are fighting for the insurgents and that most of them are military specialists and technicians. The presence of foreign soldiers creates profound resentment amongst the civil populations in Seville and other insurgent-held cities where they are quartered, the prisoners said.

The men, captured on the Cordoba front last Friday and brought to Valencia, are Lieut. Guillermo Villa-Vecchia Ricart, Lieut. Rafael Barraben de Las Moneras, [illegible] Luz Moreneas Olonga, a 19-year-old Cuban, and Jose Mora Montero.

32 LUMBERJACKS SAVED FROM RIVER

Caught While Working Off Quebec Coast—Ice Drifts Off Shore

MURRAY BAY, Que., March 6 (CP) — Thirty-two lumberjacks drifting on the St. Lawrence River on disintegrating ice pans were rescued by the coastal steamship Sable I. Its crew reported here today.

The lumbermen were caught Wednesday morning when a sudden ice shove broke loose the ice on which they were working with 11 horses and strobe off Trinity Bay.

The ice moved several miles downstream before Captain Antoine Fournier was able to negotiate his ship into a gap of the shifting field. The crew launched boats and succeeded in reaching all but two of the men who were on an isolated section of ice.

The two were adrift for six hours before the steamship crew was able to reach them.

ONTARIO TO BUILD 2, POSSIBLY THREE MENTAL HOSPITALS

600-Bed Building to Accommodate Northern Ontario Patients Listed For Port Arthur

ANOTHER AT PT. STANLEY

TORONTO, March 6—(CP)—Ontario government has decided on construction of a 600-bed mental hospital at Port Arthur, Premier Mitchell Hepburn announced today. Under consideration as the site of a second new hospital is Port Stanley, Elgin county, Mr. Hepburn said.

A policy of locating mental hospitals on water or within sight of it, outside industrial areas, had been recommended to the Department of Health by experts, said Mr. Hepburn, and it will be followed.

Premier Hepburn commented on reports current at Port Stanley, a hospital would be built there. The reports followed on the heels of an inspection trip made by Mr. Hepburn, accompanied by Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, minister of health.

For Northern Patients.

"We've been considering various sites for mental hospitals" he said. "We have definitely decided on Port Arthur as the site for a 600-bed hospital to accommodate patients from Northern Ontario. now in Southern Ontario institutions. There are 662 patients from the north in the south and they will be transferred."

Premier Hepburn said definite recommendation for two, and possibly three, New Ontario hospitals had been made by the health department and the government was prepared to accept it.

The expansion program for mental hospitals will also include additions to existing hospitals.

Henry Wants The Air Cleared Facts Bared In Roberts' Case

Not Satisfied To Leave Incident As It Is With Statements Conflicting

MORE ABOUT IT MONDAY

TORONTO, March 6 (CP). — George S. Henry, Conservative House leader in the Ontario Legislature, in a statement issued last night regarding Premier Hepburn's action in reading out of the Liberal Party Dr. A. D. Roberts, Sault Ste. Marie member, stated:

"We are not satisfied to leave the incident where it now stands, in view of the conflicting statements between the Prime Minister and the member for Sault Ste. Marie. We feel there should be a clearing of the air and a more definite statement of what the facts really are. The matter will no doubt be taken up at the next sitting of the House on Monday."

PROPOSE LICENSING ALBERTA TRADES

Give Government Control Over All Industry—End Unfair Practices

By J. F. Sanderson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

EDMONTON, March 6 (CP)—Details of the Alberta budget, to be presented to the legislature next Friday, were under review today by Provincial Treasurer Low while the House began a four-day recess.

The government proposed the recess yesterday so that opportunity might be presented for continuous work on the estimates and the budget. The legislature adjourned until Wednesday.

Government bills on the order paper were augmented by one proposing to empower the administration to license "all trades, businesses, industries and occupations."

In sweeping terms, the bill, as introduced by Hon. W. W. Cross, Minister of Trade and Industry, would empower the government to place any business or industry in Alberta under its provisions. All persons engaged in an industry could be licensed and registered. Unfair practices could be prohibited and all persons having a financial interest in any industry be required to register.

Under one provision of the bill, which may not be discussed for another week or 10 days, an industry licensed under the act could be forced to have a license for each branch.

Agnes Is Puzzled Why Quebec's Women Endure Going Voteless

Would Greatly Enjoy Joining Fight For Their Franchise

POINTS TO SWEDEN

MONTREAL, March 6 (CP)—Agnes Macphail, United Farmers of Ontario-Labor member of parliament for Grey Bruce, told a women's group here last night she wished she could be in this province "to join in the fight" for a Quebec franchise for women.

Miss Macphail said that without a vote one isn't a personality, "and if one isn't a personality, one is nothing at all." She then went on to say that "if I was in this province, nothing would stay me until the fight was won."

"I don't know how you endure it," she said, adding there was a lack of self-respect in not being able to assert one's self as a person.

The outspoken parliamentarian also said "the monarchial show" which will take place in London May 12 at coronation of King George VI was one of the few things in the world which failed to excite her.

The coronation, she said, wherein the "monarch is the only incident to make the show possible," shrinks into insignificance beside the problems of this civilization.

Earlier, Miss Macphail told another women's group Sweden was building a new social order but the people were "upset when you call them radical."

UNEMPLOYMENT VOTE IS UNLIKELY BEFORE TUESDAY

Majority of 11 Speakers Friday Favor Bennett's Want-Of-Confidence Amendment

WESTERNER DEFENDED

OTTAWA, March 6 (CP)—Debate on the budget amendment on unemployment which has pursued a more or less placid course in the House of Commons since Tuesday continued up to the hour of adjournment last night with no certain indication of when the vote would be reached.

A number of members remained on the list of those who had indicated a desire to speak on the amendment and it appeared possible no vote would be reached until Tuesday. A great deal of the ground will be covered again when the debate opens on the main motion of Finance Minister Dunning for the House to go into committee to consider the budget resolutions.

Of the 11 speakers who took part in yesterday's debate, the majority supported Conservative leader Bennett's want-of-confidence amendment which regrets the government "has failed to take effective measures to deal with the problem of unemployment."

It would appear from the week of debate that all the Social Credit and C.C.F. members will join Conservatives in voting for the amendment. Those speaking yesterday were, in order: Hon. Grote Stirling (Cons. Yale); Former Minister of National Defence; Rev. E. G. Hansell (S.C. MacLeod); John R. MacNicol (Cons. Toronto-Davenport); James Ilsley (Lib. Marquette); O. B. Elliott (S.C. Kingsway); R. W. Winkler (Lib. Lisgar); Hon. J. Earl Lawson (Cons. York South), former Minister of National Revenue; Charles Johnston (S.C. Bow River); Norman Lockhart (Cons., Lincoln); W. A. Tucker (Lib. Rothern) and Maurice Lalonde (Lib. Labelle).

Westerner No "Rayseed".

Highlights of the day's discussions included a heated defence of Western Canada farmers by Mr. Hansell who declared the farmer had been too long depicted as some sort of "hayseed, hill-Billy—ignoramus from the back woods." Farmers were wise and trusted men who had been the "most instrumental in building up the Dominion of Canada," he declared.

Relief camps are still operating in British Columbia despite the government's claim to have closed them, Mr. Stirling told the House. He defended the camps as set up by the former Conservative government against the criticism they were militaristic in character and slave camps.

Canada should take a leaf from the experience of United States in dealing with unemployment, said Mr. MacNicol as he told of a 120,000-mile trip through United States during the past summer. He made the trip, he said, to see why the people were so solidly behind the Roosevelt administration. Everywhere he found men at work, put to work by the government.

It was time to realize unemployment was not a passing condition.

PLAN TO PROTECT LONDON VISITORS

Metropolis Moves To Obtain Better Rates For Coronation Roomers

LONDON, March 6 (CP). — The Coronation Accommodation Committee, working in collaboration with the Hotels and Restaurants Association and the Residential Hotels Association, is well into its work of facilitating the house-hunting problem for coronation visitors.

The immediate task of the committee is to establish a comprehensive list of just what accommodation is still available, at what price and of what quality. The committee then plans to send inspectors to these places and to seek by persuasive force only (for there is no law by which they could act) to prevent householders and innkeepers from charging fantastic prices for lodgings.

The committee will deal with requests for accommodation ranging from houses at $5,000 a week to bed and breakfast at $1. The government was responsible for its organization and will pay a portion of its expenses, the balance to come from a small commission charge against both lessors and lessees.

But the committee announces that prospective bookers must make their reservation dates definite, otherwise their requests cannot be entertained. The committee will not include on its clients' list any householders charging prohibitive rates. Another committee service will be the handling of all charges, thus saving the visitor from the problem of looking after rental cheques, except, of course, the initial over-all cheque to the committee which is due in advance.

The committee's plans are still formulative in many respects, but the various Dominions and Colonial Commissioners have been requested to co-operate in the task of settling their respective visitors.

FURNITURE STRIKE SETTLEMENT NEAR

Union And Workers Of Twenty Plants Agree—Meet Factory Heads Today

TORONTO, March 6 (C.P.). — Armed with authority to accept settlement proposals, union delegates came to Toronto to-day to meet representatives of manufacturers and Government officials in a conference which is expected to end the week-old furniture strike.

The union delegates met workers from 11 centres affected by the walk-out in Listowel last night. They presented the tentative agreement arrived at during the Thursday conference in Toronto. The workers approved the proposals which were not divulged.

Louis B. Pine of the Ontario Labor Department will preside over the conference at Queen's Park. Members of the executive of the Ontario Furniture Manufacturers' Association will attend and the union will be represented by Herbert Bagshaw of Kincardine; James Kane of Stratford; William Fischer of Hanover; Bert Jacques of Listowel; and Felix Eziman of Owen Sound.

When the workers quit their jobs on Monday they demanded a 44-hour week, 50 cents an hour for skilled labor, time and a half for overtime, and half-holidays on Saturdays. The last agreement terminated in August last year, and since then negotiations have been under way, finally brought to a head by the strike and the men and officials brought together by the Labor Department intervention.

Although the text of the latest pact was not revealed it is believed striking employees will retain their positions and the previous code continued in most cases. Mr. Pine is expected to announce settlement after this morning's conference and the workers will return to their jobs on Monday morning.

More than 1,000 workers were affected by the strike in 21 factories.

38 MILLION LOSS LAID BY RAILWAYS TO TRUCKS, BUSES

TRANSPORT BILL DEBATE

OTTAWA, March 6 (CP)—Canadian railways lost $38,000,000 a year attributable to competition from trucks and buses, Bernard Allen, Canadian National Railways economist, told the Senate Railways Committee yesterday as it strove to reach a decision on the transport bill.

Trucks competed with railways "up to hauls of 1,000 and 2,000 miles," Mr. Allen said. He specified shipments of frozen fish from Winnipeg to New York City.

The $38,000,000 gross yearly loss to railways from truck and bus competition represented a little more than 16 per cent. of the total freight traffic and was from all highway traffic, provincial, interprovincial and international.

He endorsed the clause of the transport bill which would give a Federal body control over interprovincial, Dominion and international highways traffic because he felt it would provide a uniformity of regulation.

The bill would authorize a new board of transport commissioners, set up in place of the present Board of Railway Commissioners, to regulate certain forms of rail, air, water and highway traffic.

Transport Minister Howe defended his bill and said its object was to "obtain stabilization of the transport industry in Canada in the public interest as well as of those engaged in it."

Promises Amendments.

Striking back at the critics who have indicted the bill before the committee during the past two weeks, the Minister said objections were based chiefly on "misconceptions of the results which might arise from application of regulation in all forms of transport." He promised amendments to the bill which he would announce later.

The suggestion that water transport between the Maritime Provinces and some points on the St. Lawrence River and the Great Lakes should be free of regulation could not be accepted, the Minister said.

He said it is hoped the bill would lay the foundation for a co-ordinated system of transport in Canada from which would be absent many abuses and evils now apparent.

With regard to transport by air, it was not the intention at present to make rate regulation apply in the case of irregular services in Northern Canada, such as those in mining areas, Mr. Howe said.

John P. Doherty, representing the Lake Freighters Association, Montreal, told the committee that members of his Association of Package Freight Carriers as opposed to "bulk carriers" did not engage in rate-cutting on inland shipping among themselves. The association represented all the package freight carriers on the Great Lakes.

A bulk carrier, Mr. Doherty explained, carried a cargo of one product; while a package carrier carried a cargo of varied goods.

"As I understood the way in which the bill will be amended, we support the measure with such amendments," Mr. Doherty said.

There was rate-cutting in water rates as against the railways in recent years, he stated. But the railways themselves had under-quoted water rates in the competition between the two.

In view of proposed amendments Mr. Doherty thought about 75 per cent. of "bulk carriers" on the Great Lakes would support the bill.

The committee adjourned until Tuesday.

England has more persons learning to run automobiles than ever before.

SERVICES IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES TO-MORROW

The Golden Text

John 14:6—"I am the way, and the truth, and the life; no one cometh unto the Father, but by me."

Sabbath Message For the Shut-Ins

By REV. E. R. JAMES Toronto

THE LORD'S PRAYER

Our Father, Who art in Heaven.

We are to offer this prayer "in the Name of the Lord Jesus." "Verily, verily, I say unto you, whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in My Name He will give it you." What does this mean?

First, we are to pray as He prayed. His consciously realized the Presence of the Father. We also must consciously place ourselves in the Presence of the Father. An old French peasant went daily to Church where he spent much time. A neighbour asked him what prayers he said. "I say very little," replied the old man; "I simply look up and know that God sees me." A little boy, the son of a devout mother, was smiling in Church. His mother enquiring was startled by the beautiful answer: "Mother, I am smiling at God." "A little child shall lead them."

"In the Name of the Lord Jesus" has another meaning. God is our Father because He has created us. So God is near to all of us. But He has adopted us through Jesus Christ Our Lord. What does this mean? A young man was talking business with an elder. The elder man enquired if the young man was a relation of an old college friend, whom he had not seen for over thirty years. "He is my Father, sir," was the reply. The men were sitting near to each other. But the young man was now nearer to the elder because of his relationship to his old college friend. There was now a closer bond between them. Even so it is with God the Father. We are all His children by creation. But when you draw near to Him and cry: "Father, I offer this prayer because Thy only Son, Jesus Christ taught it to me." Instantly you are nearer to the Father. There is a closer bond of union between you and the Heavenly Father because of your relationship to the Lord Jesus, the Incarnate Son of God, the God-Man, Who is your Elder Brother.

"IN HEAVEN." Where is Heaven? Your child looks up to the sky, which means heaven to him. Is that you idea also? The very thought of above implies that man's enlightenment in this age had as its ideal that was above him. To you, in this age, heaven is a condition of mind and heart. Is your heart and mind full of love, sympathy, kindness and unselfishness? If so, your heart is full of joy and happiness and heaven is in your very soul. As a great saint said: "Where God is there is heaven." Heaven is nearness to God. You have heaven in your heart and in your little home.

"OUR." You are chatting with two boys, strangers to you. A man approaches. One of the boys says to you: "That is our Father." What do you learn from that? That the boys are brothers. So when you say "Our Father" you include all the other children of the Heavenly Father, no matter what the colour or language may be. The prayer is full of unselfishness, which is the character of God for "He gave His only begotten Son." When your family, friends and neighbours see your unselfishness, loving kindness and goodness they will recognise your likeness to the Heavenly Father. "Now are we the children of God."

"Heaven's gate is shut to him who comes alone;
Save Thou a soul, and it shall save thine own."

—Whittier.

Life Through Christ

"BRASS TACKS" OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 7, is John, chapters 14 and 15, especially 14:1-15, the Golden Text being 14:6, "I am the way, and the truth, and the life: no one cometh unto the Father, but by Me.")

THE FOURTEENTH chapter of John has been called "the comforting chapter". It is probably the favorite of more Christians than any other chapter in the Bible.

The Untroubled Heart

It is so precious because it points out the way to the untroubled heart. "Let not your heart be troubled: believe in God, believe also in Me." Faith, then is the only way to the untroubled heart. Faith unites the soul with God and gives to the soul the calm and peace and stability of God. Hope also is the way to the untroubled heart, the hope that if things are not right here they shall be hereafter: "In My Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you: for I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I come again, and will receive you unto Myself; that where I am, there ye may be also." If Christ loves us enough to want us with him eternally, this love of his lights the way for our faith and hope to find the way to the untroubled heart. "Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be fearful."

"I Am the Way"

The disciples were troubled about their Master's words that he would shortly leave them and return to His Father. It was too profound a mystery for them to fathom. Where was He going? How could they follow? How could they find the way? "Jesus saith, I am the way, and the truth, and the life: no one cometh unto the Father, but by Me." Like Jacob's ladder, His foot is on earth and His head in the heavens. His perfect humanity contacts man here below, His perfect deity contacts God in the heavens. Thus our Lord, as God-man, bridges the breach sin made between God and man and links not only heaven and earth, but is "the way" of at-one-ment, between unrighteous man and a holy God. He is also "the truth" to guide us and "the life" which is the goal to seek.

God Is Like Jesus

How many a child has been told "you are the image of your father." How hope such a resemblance to his heavenly Father that to know one was to know the other. Therefore, Jesus said, "If ye had known Me, ye would have known My Father also: from hence forth ye know Him, and have seen Him." And when Philip desired the point, and said "Lord, show us the Father, and it sufficeth us." Jesus replied, "Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known Me, Philip? he that hath seen Me hath seen the Father; how saist thou, Show us the Father? Believest thou not that I am in the Father, and the Father in Me? . . . Believe Me that I am in the Father, and the Father in Me." Should our heart ask then, "What is God like?" the answer is, "God is like Jesus, for He and God are one, and knowing Christ we know God."

"Greater Works Than These"

That this faith is not too "other-worldly" to be practical in this life Jesus Himself assures us, saying, "verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on Me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go to the Father."

CATHEDRAL MUSINGS

"The ways of the gods are natural, the ways of men un-natural, and there is nothing supernatural except this: that if a man does a useless thing none reproves him; if he does a harmful thing, few seek to restrain him; but if he seeks to imitate the gods, and to encourage others, all those in authority accuse him of corruption. By it is more dangerous to teach truth than to enter a powder magazine with a lighted torch." (From the Book of Sayings of Thang Samdup).

Some have often wondered what has happened to those who lived and died before the time of the ministry of the Master. Even Dante, who was a Rosicrucian could do no better, in order not to offend the bigotry of his times, than place them in hell, true, not in a state of acute suffering, but what was much worse, a state devoid of hope. Fortunately most of us today have a higher conception of God than this. We feel instinctively that God would not punish because He caused them to be born before a certain period of history. It would be neither justice or love. There is no need to go into the actual facts of the matter, but we would like to point out that in the statement that Abraham rejoiced to see the day of the Christ, the past-tense is used, not the present tense; and also, that according to St. John, the Christ is the True Light of every man, not only from the time of Jesus, but from the very beginning. As most of us are conversant only with our Bible and not with the scriptures of other religions we tend to be prejudiced to think that to us has been given the sole revelation. But even a cursory study of these other scriptures will clearly show that God has not confined His revelation to one little section of His children; that He has spoken to all who have sincerely sought Him. To say that other religions have degenerated even to idolatry is a two-edged argument. In all history there has been no religion but has lost its pristine purity. Christianity not excepted. It might well be better to help these others to a clearer comprehension of their own faiths, we would then get a better understanding of the inner values of our own. For truth is one, and cannot be antagonistic to itself. In whatever form she reveals herself truth must and does harmonize with every other form, and on that basis it is not hard to find the unity of Christ underlying all.

For although there is only one Shepherd, yet there are many shepherds besides that of the western religions. Upon that unity, common to all, can be built up a mutual understanding that will do much to destroy the barriers that mankind has erected. Religion, perhaps as never before, is menaced by the results of its indifference in the past to the cry of suffering humanity. It has raised up for itself deadly and determined enemies and so must necessarily suffer for its sins; but in that suffering it will have the opportunity to purify itself, and rise anew, not a thing of dogmas and creeds but a church of humanity in which all men, of all religions, can worship their God.

A National Message

For instance, modern critics assumed that the art of writing was invented not earlier than the seventh century B.C., or thereabouts. Now the books of Moses cover a period many centuries earlier than the assumed time of the invention of the art of writing. Therefore, as no books could be written before the art of writing was invented, and as Moses lived before that assumed period, Moses did not write the Pentateuch; and by the same reasoning, Isaiah did not write the Isaiah literature.

So the conclusion was reached that none of the books of the Bible were written before the captivities. All the books of the Bible must, therefore, be post-captivity books.

What could be clearer than this? No book could have been written before the art of writing was invented. If the art of writing were not invented until the seventh century B.C., then no Bible books or other books could have been written before that time.

Even modern critics have now learned that the art of writing long ante-dated the time of Moses; and that Moses lived and acted in the waning time of a period of great literary activity. That Moses would himself know the art of writing is now assured by the known facts of the case.

Thus the major premise, upon which the argument rested for the late production of the Bible books is removed, and the argument falls to the ground. So it would seem. But it is not so. Arguments such as these, in the hands of such as those who desire to maintain an hypothesis, need only the help of fact, or of fallacy taken as fact, to be floated. ONCE FLOATED, the argument remains afloat UNSUPPORTED BY FACTS, OR EVEN BY FALLACIES. Such arguments are thenceforth passed on from one to another, and from one generation to another, as facts beyond dispute, by which even the statements of Holy Writ should be measured.

This is not strange. The old Grecian philosophers built up such arguments. Modern science has knocked away the foundations of many such arguments and schools of thought, and yet the arguments themselves are afloat today as strikingly intact as ever.

One instance of this is the argument of evolution, using the term as it was used a generation ago to denote life as evolving from lower to higher specie by its own innate power. No basis for the doctrine for which the word stood has been discovered, although it has been sought for ages. YET the old stark doctrine still remains.

FOUR ASPECTS OF LIFE

(Extracts from a sermon preached by the late Rev. W. G. Carter, B.A., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Carter, 23 Lansdowne street, on the occasion of his leaving St. John's parish church, Hawick, Scotland. Rev. Carter who was born in Hastings village died recently at Carluke, Scotland, where he was the minister of the Carluke parish church.—Editor.)

"On the east three gates, on the north three gates, on the west three gates, and on the south three gates."—Revelation XXI: 13.

These words have been given a variety of interpretations. Different minds have thought of them differently. However, I want to consider them in my own way; and I invite you to think of them as standing for four aspects of our life.

FIRST — "On the east three gates." The east is where the dawn is born; where the sun rises and where each new day has its origin. The gates which face eastward may be regarded as that aspect of life which we call youth, and youth, you will agree, is the happiest and most lively aspect of life. Its hour is as gay and as full of song as the summer's morn. Sometimes we older folk, oppressed with the burden and heat of the day, catch ourselves wishing that we could be young and carefree again. But such is a vain wish. The tide of the years never flows backward. What we can do, however, is to stand with the young at the eastern gate of life and seek to help them to win that happiness which God offers. That, in fact, is part of the work to which Christ calls us. He, Himself, is always to be found beside the eastern gate amid the glories and splendors of the sunrise, amid the little children and the young folk. He is there to bless them with life's richest blessing to show them the way to His Father's kingdom, to true discipleship and to real joy. We are His helpers. We must therefore, seek to help the little ones whom He desires to bless, and the young people whom He would have as His valiant knights. Not only so, but it is advantageous to be at the eastern gates with the young, for it gives God a chance to help us. When we are there it is easier for Him to keep up like the children—truthful and pure, with a song to sing and a smile to smile, and also to keep us like the young folk—youthful in spirit—full of zeal and hope, and that strong and chivalrous spirit that never admits defeat.

—SECOND — "On the north three gates." Life goes on. Year follows year in quick succession. Our responsibilities become greater. Our duties are multiplied. The sun rises higher and higher in the heavens. The glory and the freshness of the dawn pass away. The splendor and invigorance of childhood and youth fade and die. We find ourselves in life's mid-day and the sun is often hidden. The cold, biting winds, of life north sweep over and around us at times. Cares press upon us. Problems vex us. Troubles worry us. So hard is the lot of some of us that we forget that we were ever at the eastern gates. We seem never to have known any gates save the northern ones, with their bitter winds and fierce storms. But resting through the northern gates are thousands of Gods' stricken children who have found Him and His salvation and peace there, and have had a new and inspiring vision of Him. And remember that there also, amid the cold and storm, stands the Savior. While in the Jews He was often there because of His own sorrows, and also because of the sorrows of those whose burden He sought to ease. There He, the Great Companion and Comforter delights to stand today — there among those who, with heavy cross, and weary step, and well-nigh broken heart are toiling up their Calvary.

THIRD—"On the south three gates." If we cannot abide always at the eastern gates, we have not to abide forever at the northern gates either. There are the southern gates also—the gates of blue skies and sunshine, the gates of laughter and joy. There the flowers give forth their perfume, and the birds sing their sweetest. And Christ is also with those who rest in cast beside these gates, for Christ is not only the man of sorrow—He is also the man of joy. There was much bright sunshine and deep laughter in His Holy life. He loved and obeyed God, gave Himself to men, spent His life ministering to others, was willing to die to save God's world, and because of this the sunshine of Heaven flooded His life, and joy and song were born in His heart. So it is with all of us. God sends us sunshine as well as tears, light as well as darkness, the warm breezes as the biting blasts, the summer as well as the winter, and thus gives us a chance of finding Him and His salvation besides the gates which face southward. And because of this the work of the minister is not always either at the eastern or the northern gates. He finds many opportunities of rejoicing with those who rejoice.

FOURTH—"And on the west three gates." The sands of time sink, the sun moves onward towards its setting, the gloaming comes, the darkness gathers and the evening star comes out. The western gates—the work of life ended, the tools of life laid by. One by one remove from all the gates of life to the western ones, and linger there waiting the call of God. Christ is at these gates also. He never forsakes those who company with Him. He is with them to the very end—with them always and forever. The eastern and northern gates, the southern and western gates—four aspects of life, and Christ with us in each aspect—Christ the loving Savior, Christ the unfailing friend, the ever-present helper; Christ who gives childhood its sweetness, and youth its glory; Christ who tares the sting from the northern blasts, who gives the southern sun its warmth, and the evening hour its rest; Christ our all in all; with us always, in every aspect of our life, together or apart—to Him be glory for ever and ever. Hitherto He hath helped us. Henceforth He will help us.

NORWOOD W.M.S. TO SEND DELEGATE

NORWOOD, March 6.—The regular meeting of the W.M.S. of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church was held at the home of Mrs. A. C. Reeves, with the president, Mrs. J. W. Rork, in the chair.

A letter was read by Mrs. Rork from Mrs. Fletcher with directions for supply secretaries and treasurers. Mrs. Robb and Mrs. Becker were appointed to get material and arrange for work on the quilt. For the thankoffering meeting in April it was suggested to ask as guest speaker either Mrs. Barr, Mrs. Ewart or Mrs. Turner. It was suggested that a delegate be sent if possible to the provincial which meets April 20-22. The topic, Missionary Work in the Province of Quebec was taken up very fully by Rev. Mr. Reeves, after which the Chinese work was very ably given by Mrs. O. R. Edwards. The meeting was then favored by a solo, "Because He Loved Me So," by Mrs. Burtt.

A vote of thanks was given Mrs. Reeves for opening her home and her hospitality, also the Rev. Mr. Reeves, Mrs. O. R. Edwards and Mrs. Burtt, for assisting in the program. Mrs. Reeves served refreshments and a social half-hour was enjoyed.

Life Through Christ — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—John 14:1-15:27.
By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Boucher

As Jesus and his disciples were seated about the supper table they were troubled about his leaving them. To comfort them he said, "Let not your heart be troubled: believe in God, believe also in me."

"In my Father's house are many mansions; I go to prepare a place for you . . . I come again, and will receive you unto myself, that where I am there ye may be also." "I am the way, the truth and the life, no man cometh unto the Father but by me."

Jesus wanted them to know that God was like him, so he said, "If ye had known me, ye would have known my Father also: from henceforth ye know him, and have seen him . . . He that hath seen me hath seen the Father."

To assure them that he would work through them and make them fruitful he said, "I am the vine, ye are the branches: he that abideth in me, and I in him, the same beareth much fruit." (GOLDEN TEXT—John 14:6.)

Sabbath Message For the Shut-Ins

By REV. E. R. JAMES Toronto

SABBATH MESSAGE

THE LORD'S PRAYER

Our Father, Who art in Heaven.

We are to offer this prayer "in the Name of the Lord Jesus." "Verily, verily, I say unto you, whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in My Name He will give it you." What does this mean?

First, we are to pray as He prayed. He consciously realized the Presence of the Father. We also must consciously place ourselves in the Presence of the Father. An old French peasant went daily to Church where he spent much time. A neighbour asked him what prayers he said. "I say very little," replied the old man; "I simply look up and know that God sees me." A little boy, the son of a devout mother, was smiling in Church. His mother enquiring was startled by the beautiful answer: "Mother, I am smiling at God." "A little child shall lead them."

"In the Name of the Lord Jesus" has another meaning. God is our Father because He has created us. So God is near to all of us. But He has adopted us through Jesus Christ Our Lord. What does this mean? A young man was talking business with an elder. The elder man enquired if the young man was any relation of an old college friend, whom he had not seen for over thirty years. "He is my Father, sir," was the reply. The men were sitting near to each other. But the young man was now nearer to the elder because of his relationship to his old college friend. There was now a closer bond between them. Even so it is with God the Father. We are His children by creation. But when you draw near to Him and cry: "Father, I offer this prayer because Thy only Son, Jesus Christ taught it to me." Instantly you are nearer to the Father. There is a closer bond of union between you and the Heavenly Father because of your relationship to the Lord Jesus, the incarnate Son of God, the God-Man, Who is your Elder Brother.

"IN HEAVEN." Where is Heaven? Your child looks up to the sky, which means heaven to him. Is that what you idea is also? The very thought of above implies that man all through the ages had an ideal that was above him. To you, in this age, heaven is a condition of mind and heart. Is your heart and mind full of love, sympathy, kindness and unselfishness? If so, your heart is full of joy and happiness and heaven is in your very soul. As a great saint said: "Where God is there is heaven." Heaven is nearness to God. You have heaven in your heart and in your little home.

"OUR." You are chatting with two boys, strangers to you. A man approaches. One of the boys says to you: "That is our Father." What do you learn from that? That the boys are brothers. So when you say "Our Father" you include all the other children of the Heavenly Father, no matter what the colour or language may be. The prayer is full of unselfishness, which is the character of God for "He gave His only begotten Son." When your family, friends and neighbours see your unselfishness, loving kindness and goodness they will recognize your likeness to the Heavenly Father. "Now are we the children of God."

"Heaven's gate is shut to him who comes alone;
Bare thou a soul, and it shall save thine own."

—Whittier.

A National Message

For instance, modern critics assumed that the art of writing was invented not earlier than the seventh century B.C., or thereabouts. Now the books of Moses cover a period many centuries earlier than the assumed time of the invention of the art of writing. Therefore, as no books could be written before the art of writing was invented, and as Moses lived before that assumed period, Moses did not write the Pentateuch; and by the same reasoning, Isaiah did not write the Isaiah literature.

So the conclusion was reached that some of the books of the Bible were written before the captivities. All the books of the Bible must, therefore, be post-captivity books.

What could be clearer than this? No book could have been written before the art of writing was invented. If the art of writing were not invented until the seventh century B.C. then no Bible books or other books could have been written before that time.

Even modern critics have now learned that the art of writing long ante-dated the time of Moses; and that Moses lived and acted in the waning time of a period of great literary activity. That Moses would himself know the art of writing is now assured by the known facts of the case.

Thus the major premise upon which the argument rested for the late production of the Bible books is removed, and the argument falls to the ground. So it would seem, as these, in the hands of such as those who desire to maintain an hypothesis, need only the help of fact, or of fallacy taken as fact, to be floated, ONCE FLOATED, the argument remains afloat UNSUPPORTED BY FACTS OR EVEN BY FALLACIES. Such arguments are benecerth passed on from one to another, and from one generation to another, as facts beyond dispute, by which even the statements of Holy Writ should be measured.

This is not strange. The old Grecian philosophers built up such arguments. Modern science has knocked away the foundations of many such arguments and schools of thought, and yet the arguments themselves are afloat today as strikingly intact as ever.

One instance of this is the argument of evolution, using the term as it was used a generation ago to denote life as evolving from lower to higher specie by its own innate power. No basis for the doctrine for which the word stood has been discovered, although it has been sought for ages. YET the old stark doctrine still remains.

FOUR ASPECTS OF LIFE

(Extracts from a sermon preached by the late Rev. W. O. Carter, B.A., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Carter, 23 Lansdowne street, on the occasion of his leaving St. John's parish church, Hawick, Scotland. Rev. Carter who was born in Hastings village died recently at Carluke, Scotland, where he was the minister of the Carluke parish church.—Editor.)

"On the east three gates, on the north three gates, on the west three gates, and on the south three gates."—Revelation XXI: 13.

These words have been given a variety of interpretations. Different minds have thought of them differently. However, I want to consider them in my own way; and I invite you to think of them as standing for four aspects of our life.

FIRST — "On the east three gates." The east is where the dawn is born; where the sun rises and where each new day has its origin. The gates which face eastward may be regarded as that aspect of life which we call youth, and youth, you will agree, is the happiest and most lively aspect of life. Its hour is as gay and as full of song as the summer's morn. Sometimes we older folk, oppressed with the burden and heat of the day, catch ourselves wishing that we could be young and carefree again. But such is a vain wish. The tide of the years never flows backward. What we can do, however, is to stand with the young at the eastern gates of life and seek to help them to win that happiness which God offers. That, in fact, is part of the work to which Christ calls us. He, Himself, is always to be found beside the eastern gate amid the glories and splendors of the sunrise, amid the little children and the young folk. He is there to bless them with life's richest blessing to show them the way to His Father's kingdom, to true discipleship and to real joy. We are His hopers. We must therefore, seek to help the little ones whom He desires to bless, and the young people whom He would have as His valiant knights. Not only so, but it is advantageous to be at the eastern gates with the young, for it gives God a chance to help us. When we are there it is easier for Him to keep up like the children—trustful and pure, with a song to sing and a smile to smile, and also to keep us like the young folk—youthful in spirit—full of zeal and hope, and that strong and chivalrous spirit that never admits defeat.

SECOND — "On the north three gates." Life goes on. Year follows year in quick succession. Our responsibilities become greater. Our duties are multiplied. The sun rises higher and higher in the heavens. The glory and the freshness of the dawn pass away. The splendor and invigorance of childhood and youth fade and die. We find ourselves in life's mid-day and the sun is often hidden. The cold, biting winds, of the north sweep over and around us at times. Cares press upon us. Problems vex us. Troubles worry us. So hard is the lot of some of us that we forget that we were ever at the eastern gates. We seem never to have known any gates save the northern ones, with their bitter winds and fierce storms. But testing through the northern gates are thousands of Gods' stricken children who have found Him and His salvation and peace there, and have had a new and inspiring vision of Him. And remember that there also, amid the cold and storm, stands the Savior. While in the days He was often there because of His own sorrows, and also because of the sorrows of those whose burden He sought to ease. There He, the Great Companion and Comforter among those who, with heavy cross, and weary step, and well-nigh broken heart are toiling up their Calvary.

THIRD—"On the south three gates." If we cannot abide always at the eastern gates, we have not to abide forever at the northern gates either. There are the southern gates also—the gates of blue skies and sunshine, the gates of laughter and joy. There the flowers give forth their perfume, and the birds sing their song. And Christ is also with those whose lot is cast beside these gates for Christ is not only the man of sorrows, He is also the man of joy. There was much bright sunshine and deep laughter in His Holy life. He loved and obeyed God, gave Himself to men, spent His life ministering to others, was willing to die to save God's world, and because of this the sunshine of Heaven flooded His life, and joy and song were born in His heart. So it is with all of us. God sends us sunshine as well as tears, light as well as darkness, the warm breezes as the biting blasts, the summer as well as the winter, and thus gives us a chance of finding Him and His salvation besides the gates which face southward. And because of this the work of the minister is not always either at the eastern or the northern gates. He finds many opportunities of rejoicing with those who rejoice.

FOURTH—"And on the west three gates." The sands of time sink, the sun moves onward towards its setting, the gloaming comes, the darkness gathers, and the evening star comes out. The western gates—the work of life ended, the tools of life laid by. One by one remove from all the gates of life to the western ones, and linger there waiting the call of God. Christ is at these gates also. He never forsakes those who company with Him. He is with them to the very end—with them always and forever. The eastern and northern gates, the southern and western gates—four aspects of life, and Christ with us in each aspect—Christ the loving Savior, Christ the unfailing friend, the ever-present helper; Christ who gives childhood its sweetness, and youth its glory; Christ who takes the sting from the northern blasts, who gives the southern sun its warmth, and the evening hour its lustre; Christ our all in all; with us always, in every aspect of our life, together or apart—to Him be glory for ever and ever. Hitherto He hath helped us. Henceforth He will help us.

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 7, is John, chapters 14 and 15, especially 14:1-15, the Golden Text being 14:6, "I am the way, and the truth, and the life: no one cometh unto the Father, but by Me.")

THE FOURTEENTH chapter of John has been called "the comforting chapter". It is probably the favorite of more Christians than any other chapter in the Bible.

The Untroubled Heart

It is so precious because it points out the way to the untroubled heart. "Let not your heart be troubled: believe in God, believe also in Me." Faith, then is the way to the untroubled heart. Faith unites the soul with God and gives to the soul the calm and peace and stability of God. Hope also is the way to the untroubled heart, the hope that if things are not right here they shall be hereafter: "In My Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you: for I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I come again, and will receive you unto Myself; that where I am, there ye may be also." If Christ loves us enough to want us with him eternally, this love of his lights the way for our faith and hope to find the way to the untroubled heart. "Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be fearful."

"I Am the Way"

The disciples were troubled about their Master's words that he would shortly leave them and return to His Father. It was too profound a mystery for them to fathom. Where was He going? How could they follow? How could they find the way? "Jesus saith, I am the way, and the truth, and the life; no one cometh unto the Father, but by Me." Like Jacob's ladder, His foot is on earth and His head in the heavens. His perfect humanity contacts man here below. His perfect deity contacts God in the heavens. Thus our Lord, as God-man, bridges the breach sin made between God and man and links not only heaven and earth, but is "the way" of at-one-ment between unrighteous man and a holy God. He is also "the truth" to guide us and "the life" which is the goal to seek.

God Is Like Jesus

How many a child has been told you are the image of your father," Jesus bore such a resemblance to His heavenly Father that to know Me was to know the other. Therefore, Jesus said, "If ye had known Me ye would have known My Father also: from henceforth ye know Him, and have seen Him." And when Philip raised the point and said, "Lord, show us the Father, and it sufficeth us." Jesus replied, "Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known Me, Philip? he that hath seen Me hath seen the Father; how sayest thou, Show us the Father? Believest thou not that I am in the Father, and the Father in Me? . . . Believe Me that I am in the Father and the Father in Me." Should our heart ask then, "What is God like?" the answer is, "God is like Jesus, for He and God are one, and knowing Christ we know God."

"Greater Works Than These"

That this faith is not too "otherworldly" to be practical in this life Jesus Himself assures us, saying "verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on Me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go to the Father."

CATHEDRAL MUSINGS

"The ways of the girls are natural, the ways of men un-natural, and there is nothing supernatural except this: that if a man does a useless thing, none reproves him; if he does a harmful thing, few seek to restrain him; but if he seeks to imitate the gods, and to encourage others, all those in authority accuse him of corruption. So it is more dangerous to teach truth than to enter a powder magazine with a lighted torch." (From the Book of Sayings of Tuisug Samajup).

Some have often wondered what has happened to those who lived and died before the time of the ministry of the Master. Even Dante, who was a Rosicrucian could do no better, in order not to offend the dignity of his times, than place them in hell, true, not in a state of acute suffering, but what was much worse, a state devoid of hope. Fortunately most of us today have a higher conception of God than this. We feel instinctively that God would not punish because He caused them to be born before a certain period of history. It would be neither justice or love. There is no need to go into the actual facts of the matter, but we would like to point out that in the statement that Abraham rejoiced to see the day of the Christ, the past-tense is used, not the present tense; and also, that according to St. John, the Christ is the "True Light of every man, not only from the time of Jesus, but from the very beginning. As most of us are conversant only with our Bible and not with the scriptures of other religions we tend to be prejudiced, to think that to us has been given the sole revelation. But even a cursory study of these other scriptures will clearly show that God has not confined His revelation to one little section of His children; that He has spoken to all who have sincerely sought Him. To say that other religions have degenerated even to idolatry is a two-edged argument. In all history there has been no religion but has lost its pristine purity, Christianity not excepted. It might well be better to help these others to a clearer comprehension of their own faiths, we would then get a better understanding of the inner values of our own. For truth is one, and cannot be antagonistic to itself. In whatever form she reveals herself truth must and does harmonize with every

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—John 14:1-15:27.

As Jesus and his disciples were seated about the supper table they were troubled about his leaving them. To comfort them he said, "Let not your heart be troubled: believe in God, believe also in me."

"In my Father's house are many mansions; I go to prepare a place for you . . . I come again, and will receive you unto myself, that where I am there ye may be also." "I am the way, the truth and the life, no man cometh unto the Father but by me."

Jesus wanted them to know that God was like him, so he said, "If ye had known me, ye would have known my Father also: from henceforth ye know him, and have seen him . . . He that hath seen me hath seen the Father."

To assure them that he would work through them and make them fruitful he said, "I am the vine, ye are the branches: he that abideth in me, and I in him, the same beareth much fruit." (GOLDEN TEXT—John 14:6.)

An Unusual Chance

There are so many good things for Peterborough wrapped up in the success of the Home Improvement Plan that the enthusiasm that has already been engendered by the campaign must be regarded as most gratifying. At stake in this movement are jobs for many folk in the building trades and for those who help turn out building materials, business for Peterborough dealers, more modern and comfortable homes, a solution of the housing problem that threatens soon to become acute here in view of the very real shortage of desirable places in which to live, a more attractive city.

For years there has been stagnation in building, jobs of much-needed repairs and alterations that have been fairly crying to be done have been put off from year to year because the necessary capital to go ahead with them was not in sight. Now a change has come over the picture. The financial institutions in cooperation with the Federal Government have tossed $50,000,000 into the pot and supplied a method of easy financing with which the citizen who wants to improve his home can vault out of the rut in which the depression has left him. The urban property-owner who has been planning to turn his house into a duplex, the farmer whose property contains a piece of ground that would make an admirable site for tourist huts or cottages, the householder who has long wanted to launch out on a program of alterations and repairs, can now have his innings.

The whole thing is simple. Loans to finance home repairs, improvements and extensions are available to any one who has a good credit standing and the ability to repay out of income. No security or endorser is required and the loan can be repaid on the monthly instalment plan over a period of from one to three years, with five years for repayment if the loan exceeds $1,000. It is possible for example for the owner of a property large enough to be converted into four apartments to borrow $1,000 on each of the four apartments and another $1,000 on the building itself, a total of $5,000.

Canadians have never been offered such an opportunity to finance a program of home improvement and it will be surprising indeed if the chance does not lead to intense activity all over the country.

Success locally means so much for Peterborough that we are glad to see very positive signs that this city apparently has no intention of missing the boat on this occasion. The meetings so far held have been marked by an enthusiasm that seems to guarantee the desired results.

The Law Must Act

Again we repeat the attention of the Attorney-General should be directed toward the situation in Sarnia where press despatches report employees of the night shift of the Holmes Foundry as remaining on the premises "suitably armed" to protect the property against possible trouble from strike sympathizers.

That is an impossible situation. As The Examiner has already pointed out the sit-down strikers who tried to remain in the plant were trespassers who had no legal right there but the responsibility of ousting them was on the shoulders of the law enforcement officers and not on anybody else. The non-strikers who used violence to drive them out broke the law in so doing and now the situation is being aggravated by "suitably arming" these men and using them as a defence force.

Dealing with trespassers and protecting property are duties of the police and it would be a dangerous practice to allow any one else to usurp their authority. If there are not enough police on hand to deal with the situation then it is plainly the responsibility of the Attorney-General to see that adequate reinforcements are provided. The danger of leaving the administration of the law in the hands of outsiders is so apparent that even Mr. Roebuck's disinclination to use anything that savors of force in dealing with labor troubles should not blind him to the necessity of getting the Sarnia situation under proper control before there is more bloodshed.

Temperance Education

The Ontario Temperance Federation has been meeting in Toronto this week, and as far as we have been able to find out there has been a good deal said about political action, referendums and that kind of thing and very little about the only really effective way of promoting sobriety, that is through medium of temperance education.

That is most unfortunate for figures just published of last year's liquor sales in Ontario showing a booze bill of $52,408,246 for a new all-time high in this province are a challenge to the temperance forces. There is reason to believe that not only are the older drinkers consuming more but that a new crop of young consumers, many of them women, are helping to pile up a record expenditure on something that at its best can only be called a luxury. Blaming the government, suggesting political action, demanding referendum from an administration that has not the slightest intention of yielding to such demands, seems a sheer waste of time. Much better would it have been if Ontario Temperance forces had devoted their sessions of this week to formulating an extensive and intelligent campaign of education, designed to impress upon the people of Ontario the foolishness of spending millions of dollars on booze and the harm that is done financially and socially by indulgence to excess. There was a great deal of that kind of education in the days of the open bar and while it did not dry up drinking it undoubtedly caused the bar-room to be shunned by the very type of young people who today are keeping the waiters and the cash registers of the beverage rooms busy.

It Is Worth Trying

The introduction of a minimum wage law for men in Ontario by Hon. David Croll has made this week's proceedings in the Ontario Legislature notable. It is the first real step that has been made in this province to jack up the wages of male workers and should be welcome on that account, even if there are many who do not share in the enthusiasm shown by the sponsor of the bill, notably some of the labor leaders who feel that in legislation of this kind there is always some danger of the minimum wage developing into a maximum.

Ontario has had considerable experience with minimum wage for women. It has not given perfect satisfaction for there have been evasions and chiselling by a certain type of employer but on the whole it has undoubtedly made its contribution toward more adequate wages for women workers and if a similarly high percentage can be set up by the legislation introduced by Mr. Croll the drafting of the measure will have been justified. There are many inequalities in the wage scales in this province and it cannot be denied that the recompense paid some of the workers has been lamentably inadequate. The Industrial Standards Act, in a limited way, and in certain zones, has effected a partial improvement but the present measure is the first attempt to deal with the problem on a province-wide scale, and the public should wish it well. It may not do all that is claimed for it, and the situation is complicated by the fact that the imposition of a minimum wage may leave Ontario manufacturers at a disadvantage in competition with industrialists of other provinces where no such provision is in force, but at least it is worth trying.

Now What Is An American?

We referred the other day to the case of the former resident of Canada who fought for this country in the Great War and then was refused re-admittance to the Dominion when he tried to return from the United States.

Strangely enough an almost similar incident has cropped up of United States immigration officials slamming the door in the face of a man who wore the uniform of Uncle Sam in the world conflict. In this case, the veteran who is now blind, was a Canadian who lived for 25 years in the United States and enlisted with the American army. When the famous war bonus was paid last autumn he and his wife decided to use the money to pay a visit to friends in Montreal but they found that when they tried to get back into the United States they were considered as aliens. The result is that for five months they have been shut out of their adopted country while their sixteen-year-old son remains in Boston.

Here we have two instances in succession in which men who were considered quite good enough to fight for a country in time of war have been denied the right of citizenship, under a technicality in the piping days of peace.

We often boast about the thousands of miles of boundary line between United States and Canada without a gun anywhere along the route. There may be no guns but these recent cases have shown there are some very stupid and unreasonable immigration regulations that lack altogether the saving grace of flexibility.

Putting on Great Show

The Coronation of King George VI is being looked forward to as certain to produce the greatest show of modern times, from the viewpoint of color and pageantry and John Bull is evidently determined that the world is not going to be disappointed.

Nothing that will add to the thrills of the Coronation visitor is being neglected and the latest decision is to give the Londoner and his guests from all over the map a chance to see the British navy at close quarters. We read that 29 warships of the Home Fleet will be berthed in the Thames from May 7 to 13 so that visitors may have the opportunity of going on board them before the ships take part in the Coronation naval review at Spithead on May 20. Six battleships will be anchored off Southend at the mouth of the river; cruisers, destroyers, submarines and other vessels will be berthed between Gravesend and the Pool of London and some of the smaller vessels will be moored near London Bridge.

The fleet on view at London will include some of the crack vessels of the navy, among them the battleship Nelson, the flagship of the Commander-in-chief of the Home Fleet, and the cruisers Northampton and Newcastle, the latest additions to the navy, which the public will see for the first time. They are the first British cruisers to be designed with aircraft hangers and each carries three sea-planes, while the netlayer Guardian, in addition to her other equipment, has a complete cinematographic plant for recording fleet manoeuvres and the effects of gunnery practice.

Many ocean liners bringing visitors to London for the Coronation will also be given mooring facilities in the Thames and the display of ships there will probably prove one of the most memorable features of the historic occasion.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Waiters in a Toronto beverage room have walked out. That is a different kind of sit-down strike inasmuch as the patrons do the sitting-down and the waiters the striking.

Herman Trelle has been suggested as a possible senator. There have been all kinds of folk in the Upper Chamber but a five-times world's wheat champion would be a novelty.

A neurologist says that the basis of the ideal marriage is the complete autonomy of the parties concerned. Unfortunately however he does not give the formula for obtaining that arrangement.

Fourteen Japanese fishermen arrived home two weeks after funeral services had been held for them. That is the kind of thing most folk would be glad to be late for.

It has been discovered that only five members of the Alberta Legislature were born in the province. The Native Sons' vote in Alberta is apparently a negligible factor.

According to the experts English cricket needs to develop better batters, bowlers and fielders. Otherwise we gather the game as played in the Old Country at the present time is practically without a flaw.

We notice in the supplementary estimates a vote of $400,000 to assist fishermen. Unfortunately that applies only to the commercial fishers so, we'll have to go on financing our angling expeditions with no help from the public treasury.

Minister of Pensions, Charles G. Power, has started a drive to secure jobs for unemployed returned ex-service men. It seems a pity that such an effort should be necessary more than eighteen years after the close of the conflict.

While strike ballots are being collected it is worthy of note that the Federal Government has had to place in the supplementary estimates the sum of $35,000,000 to take care of the C.N.R.'s income deficits during the current year.

Hon. Peter Heenan has apologized to the speaker of the Legislature and the incident is declared over. There was probably no one who thought that the Minister would do anything else; there is not a surplus of cabinet jobs in the offing these days.

Only two Liberals rose to their feet in the Legislature to defend the Hepburn government's Succession Act amendments but when the time for voting arrived they all supported the change. Unfortunately that is the way the game of politics is played.

Only four caribou are left in the United States and it is proposed to import reinforcements from Canada. However we will have to change our ways on this side of the line or we will soon be in a position when we will have no surplus of wild life to share with our neighbors.

The stamp hobby has become big business with the opening of philatelic exchanges in New York and Cleveland operated along the line of brokerage houses. It is obvious that handling such a commodity some one is sure to get stuck.

The mayor of Atlanta has been advising the citizens of that city to do a little night prowling and probably his mail for the next few days will contain a lot of letters from indignant wives who will claim that there is too much being done now.

THE SNOW STORM

White flakes floating, whirling, twirling
Drop a blanket soft and warm.
Sense of beauty, sense of comfort
Come down with the growing storm.
Soft and warm and full of friendship
Like a friendly touching hand,
Touch so intimate and kindly
Covering all the barren land.
Deep the peace that rests upon me
As the clinging snow comes down.
White flakes resting sparkling, shining,
Scintillating crystal gems.
Trees are maidens tall and graceful
Crowned with jeweled diadems.
World of white, with pale sun over
In the clearest winter skies,
Show a world of blinding beauty
To our eager startled eyes.

Really Nothing New About Doles

(By A. K. Hamilton Jenkin In Coming Events)

SPEAKING of the working classes in 1831, a writer said "Of the two difficulties of the poor labourer first to get a little money for corn and then to get a little corn for money, the second is often the greatest." In early times, therefore, charities which provided doles in kind served a very real purpose and though the change in economic conditions has since deprived them of much of their usefulness, a surprising number still remain.

Among the most ancient is the Tichborne Dole, in Hampshire, which is said to have been instituted in the reign of Henry I. The story runs that as Lady Mabella, the wife of the reigning Tichborne of those days, lay dying, she pleaded with her husband to set aside a piece of land to provide an annual dole of bread for the poor. Seizing a blazing stick from the hearth, he harshly declared that he would give all the land she could walk around whilst the flame was burning. Thereupon she arose from her deathbed and though too ill to stand, contrived to crawl round a twenty-three acre field during the time in which the brand miraculously remained alight.

The produce of this land, still known as the "Crawls," provides the dole of wheat flour which is distributed each Lady Day, March 25.

The ceremony is preceded by a Roman Catholic service in Latin, commencing with prayers for the soul of the founder. The family chaplain, accompanied by the heir to the estate who assists as an acolyte, then blesses the flour which is contained in a great wooden bin. It is afterwards distributed to the people of the village, at the rate of one gallon for each male, and half a gallon for each woman and child.

It is alleged that a curse will fall upon the family if the custom should cease to be observed, and that this misfortune will be foreshadowed by the birth of a generation of seven sons, followed by one of seven daughters. In 1796 Sir Henry Tichborne stopped the distribution of flour and instead gave the money to the church. It is a remarkable fact that about this time a generation of seven sons was actually followed by one of seven daughters.

The Dole was soon afterwards restored to its original form and the curse was staved off. The subsequent misfortunes of the family, however, arising out of the famous "Tichborne case," might suggest that their tampering with the charity had not been overlooked by its founder!

Ancient doles are commonly associated with the period of Lent, when the Church has always enjoined the use of pious works. At Upton Court, in Berkshire, another dole, founded by a certain Lady Marvin in 1585, is still kept up each year on the Friday after the third Sunday in Lent which falls this year on March 5. The bequest entails the gift of 180 loaves to the poor of the district, in addition to which nine persons receive five yards of flannel and eleven yards of calico each, for clothing.

The distribution is made from a window at the back of the house which, in itself, is noteworthy as a splendid example of Elizabethan architecture.

A similar dole, also endowed by Lady Marvin, is maintained in the neighbouring village of Padworth.

Easter also was a season favored for doles, the most celebrated being the Biddenden Dole, which is distributed at the White House, Biddenden, Kent, on the morning of Easter Monday. The gifts consist of bread and cheese, together with the famous "Biddenden Cakes"—the latter a sort of biscuit impressed with a representation of the founders. There were the twin sister, Eliza and Mary Chaulkhurst, who are said to have been born in the village about the year 1100.

Like the famous Siamese Twins, they were joined together at the hip and thigh and died within a few hours of each other at the age of thirty-four.

The twenty acres which they bequeathed to the parish are still called the "Bread and Cheese" lands, and provide the income for the dole.

Another Easter dole is given at the village of Sillington, near Huntingdon, the only necessary qualification being the recipient should have slept in the parish overnight.

Daily doles are still provided in a number of places, though only in one case has such a charity survived in an unbroken line from the Middle Ages. This is the "Wayfarer's Dole" at St. Cross, near Winchester, an institution founded in 1132.

The dole consists of a piece of bread and cheese and a horn of beer, and is still given daily, and without question, of all who knock at the Porter's Lodge — as it has been for nearly nine hundred years. The genuine "tramp" receives larger portions than the mere visitor who calls out of curiosity but both are served, and from this place of ancient memories none can go on his way without some sense of reverence for the spirit of the Middle Ages.

JUNKING CARS.

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

LEADERS of the American automobile industry estimate that during the next five years 14,000,000 automobiles now operated in the United States will be put on the scrap heaps. During those five years it is further estimated that 20,000,000 new cars will be made and sold, so that about 1942 there will be 6,000,000 more vehicles in the country than there are now.

It is estimated that the life of the average automobile is eight years. Some owners may hold onto their cars much longer than that, but the average car changes hands several times before it is finally discarded. As each year passes its value as well as its serviceability steadily diminishes, until it reaches the stage when it becomes too dilapidated to operate except at cost of too much money and risk of accidents.

Many parts are salvaged and revamped into something else. There is an immense scrap-iron value in old cars, and the body of the rattling vehicle that may be seen on the streets this year may be part of the structure of a house, a ship, a locomotive or a thousand and one other uses next year.

SURE OF IT

A Shepherd Musician.

(From the St. Thomas Times-Journal.)

ONE scarcely expects a high order of musical ability among the ranks of shepherds — but did not Scotland produce great poets who were connected with the farm—Robert Burns and William Hogg? — yet tribute has just been paid to a humble Aberdeenshire shepherd in "he person of George Riddell, on his 85th birthday.

George Riddell never had a teacher; never learned a note of music except by picking it up when he lay in the fields as a lad and traced printed notes by the sounds he knew they represented. One of the greatest generations, he has composed an enormous amount of music which will take its place among the finest native compositions. General Wolfe is said, legend has it, that he would rather have been the author of Gray's "Elegy in a Churchyard" than have had the honor of capturing Quebec. The late Sir William Boulton, chairman of an Edinburgh musical organization, said he would die happy if he could claim the authorship of Mr. Riddell's song, "The Tarrin' o' the Yoll." "How I admire your genius," he wrote the composer on his death-bed, and his last act was to inscribe his name on the latest song composed by George Riddell.

The Scottish shepherd has written hundreds of songs for soloists, choirs and instrumental music as well. Once there was a competition for settling a Scottish poem to music. There were 173 competitors and Mr. Riddell's composition won. Yet he just "picked up music." He has been asked to compose for some of the most famous choirs in Great Britain and his songs are frequently broadcast from the BBC in London. He has composed for violin, piano and bagpipes. There is a vast collection of his works which have been offered a place in the National Library of Scotland at Edinburgh—reels, strathspeys, hornpipes, even hymns, an amazing assemblage of compositions and showing extraordinary versatility.

Music is a talent that can be developed by training, but George Riddell is one of those rare souls who were just born with the divine spark of music, just as Robert Burns was born (with the magic of poetry in his make-up. Such men are only born a century apart.

"Let Them Keep It."

(From the Victoria Times.)

WHAT they mean by swing music, incidentally, is a mystery to me. You hear of it on all sides. You see articles about it in all the magazines. Even the solemn pink-radical review, "The Republic," runs learned discourses on it. The head of a leading swing orchestra in the United States is a noted man, more famous than the statesmen of the country. He is hailed as a genuine artist, a musical genius.

Yet hardly anybody knows what swing is. You have to be born with it, they say. Unhappily, I was not born with it. At least I have never been conscious of swing. They say, though, that a man can go through life without knowing what this great thing is in him and then it will suddenly burst forth and he will know he has it. He has swing. He buys a saxophone And annoys the n Lbors. It is wonderful, is it not?

A lot of young people in Victoria tell me they have swing. They speak about it as if they had measles or second sight. They speak about it with a superior air as if they had a sixth sense not possessed by other men, a wondrous secret which they won't reveal, a higher instinct not shared by the lower animals. They talk in mysterious technical terms, and sneer you down if you don't understand them. Th r make weird sounds like a busy barnyard. They groan and mumble and chatter like a cage of monkeys.

Ah, but it is a glorious mumble and chatter, with a hidden meaning in it, a rhythm, a great something which you and I can never understand. Yes, they have swing now. They have it in Harlem, where it originated, a dank product of African jungles, and they have it here in Victoria, another aspect of American civilization which is becoming universal. They have swing. Let them keep it.

Protecting the Pedestrian.

(From the Oshawa Times.)

SPEAKING of risks a pedestrian takes when walking on the highway at night in dark clothing and without a light, or a reflector of some sort one man was heard to remark "it is a good way to commit suicide."

We are quite safe in saying that there is hardly a motorist who has driven a car for five years or more, but has at some time narrowly escaped hitting a pedestrian because the pedestrian wore dark clothing and was not easily discernable when walking along the highway at night. Deaths of pedestrians in this district have been numerous during the past few years. Sometimes glaring headlights have blinded the driver and in other instances the driver has been unable to see the pedestrian until it has been too late to avoid the accident, and again the pedestrian has been partly at fault.

Some people advance the argument that because the autoist pays a license to travel on the highway and the pedestrian pays nothing, the car driver has the right of way. Whether that is worth arguing or not does not give the car driver the license to deliberately disregard the pedestrian. We would say that for our own protection we would not walk on the highway at night without a light, a reflector a good-sized arm-band of white cloth so that a driver would be able to distinguish at some distance what was in front of him.

Appeals have been made to the Highway Department on different occasions to have walks for pedestrians placed along the highways. Nothing has been done. The Automobile Association should strongly recommend to the Highway Department, that as all vehicles are required to display a red light at the rear, pedestrians should also be required to display white arm bands, white leg bands, reflectors, or whatever is deemed best for the protection of the person who walks on the highway at night.

WOMEN'S DRESSES.

(Port Erie Times-Review)

BY POPULAR report, hell hath no fury like a woman who has just purchased a new and expensive dress and sees its twin on another female the first time she wears it. But that bugaboo no longer need worry unduly. For according to fashion experts, two identical gowns, if treated properly from the standpoint of accessories, make-up, coiffures and ensemble, will not conflict or cause any self-consciousness to their wearers.

This complex, which has ruined the dispositions of countless ladies, seems peculiar to the female sex. The male can look at any number of his brothers wearing a blue serge suit on any occasion, can glance complacently at his own, similar garb, and rather than feel indignant will probably congratulate himself on his good taste.

But the female of the species is more individualistic than the male. When she wears a gown, a frock or even a humble dress she wants a distinctive garment. And although there are no records obtainable, it is probable that the same urge existed in the Stone Age, and that husbands were sent out to kill animals with distinctive coats, so that Mrs. Lionesse could wear a rare leopard skin and look scornfully down her nose at Mrs. Rockhatchet, attired in a more humble fox pelt.

But now, the fashion experts say that the same clothes no longer make the same appearance. It is a theory to which husbands will readily and eagerly subscribe, but its effect on the wives is doubtful.

To The Editor

DON'T WANT THE GLORY

Editor Examiner:

Sir: I would like to ask the courtesy of your column to reply to Mr. Ferguson. First may I say that the Peterborough Workers and Unemployed Association is non-political, that I am personally C.C.F. has nothing whatever to do with my presidency of that association. The Peterborough Workers and Unemployed Association is not seeking glory and are quite prepared to thank any group that is interested in the welfare of the unemployed. We therefore, cannot understand this attack.

Mr. Ferguson says he represents three organizations, may I say there are many organizations in Peterborough that consist of the president and one other member. Our association represents a larger body of the unemployed. Our delegation made no arrangements for a demonstration of any kind. It was an accident that so many turned out to the council meeting and resulted only from interest because their standard of living was under discussion.

I have enquired from many unemployed as to the strength of the organizations listed by Mr. Ferguson, and as yet have not found anyone who knows of their activities and meeting place. Let me be fair, however, if Mr. Ferguson and his groups are earnestly endeavouring to better the lot of the Peterborough unemployed we welcome them into our field of activity and they can have all the glory of being first. Our organization doesn't want glory, we want work and wages and the right to take our place as citizens in this fair city of ours. Sincerely,

CHARLES LAMBERT
President P.W. and U.A.

P.S. The delegation from P.W. and U.A. represents every political party and is not C.C.F.

NEW POST OFFICE FOR BOBCAYGEON

$12,000 Structure To Be Built This Year—Anglican Parish Hall Burns In Minden

LINDSAY, March 6. — The announcement was made yesterday that the village of Bobcaygeon will have a new post office this year. The cost of the new structure will be $12,000. No selection of a site has been made as yet. It is expected that it will be ready for occupancy sometime in the fall.

A resident of Dorset was yesterday sentenced to three months in jail by Magistrate Gee for assaulting his fifteen-year-old son. According to the testimony given in court, the father who was a sawyer in the bush, had his son helping him. He allegedly made the remark that the boy was "not worth his meals" and at the noon meal the boy refused to eat, saying: "If I am not worth my meals I will not eat." The father then beat him over the head with a stick. He was given a severe reprimand by the magistrate. He inflicted painful, if not serious, injuries on the youth.

The Anglicans of Minden lost their parish hall on Thursday night in a mysterious fire. The Ladies' Auxiliary had prepared lunch for two hockey teams during the evening, and every thing was in order when the hall was locked. The alarm was given by a party unknown. The building and equipment, it is understood, is covered by insurance.

STRONG MARKET IS REGISTERED IN INDUSTRIALS

Mines Lost Ground During Past Week, Particularly The Golds

ADVANCE IS GENERAL

(Canadian Press Financial Writer)

TORONTO, March 6. —(CP)— A strong advance was registered by Canadian industrial stocks in the final week of March while the mines lost ground, particularly the golds. With the decline, trading diminished in volume until on Friday the turnover on the Toronto mining section was under the million share mark, the smallest for a full session since October 31.

Metals, steels, implements and the building shares featured the advance on the industrial section with gains ranging up to $6 and the exchange index registered a net advance for the week of 6.93 to 167.37. In four of the five full sessions the price level was lifted to new peaks for the last seven years.

Cockshutt Plow led the implements with a 37 per cent gain from $16 to $22 and the Massey-Harris stocks recorded a gain of $3.25 for the common and $4.50 for the preferred. Waterloo manufacturing and Brantford Cordage trailed along.

Gained $4.50.

Dominion Steel and Coal B led the steels with a gain of $4.50, closing yesterday at $24 while Steel of Canada common firmed $2.65, Hamilton Bridge $1.75 and Dominion Bridge 50 cents. National Steel Car and Canadian Car and Foundry common suffered moderate declines.

Building Products advanced $4, Canada Cement common $1.10 and Gypsum $1.90. The big oils had a good week, Imperial and International Petroleum adding $1.50 and 90 cents respectively and other interlisted leaders, including C. P. R., Brazilian, Walkers Common and Dominion Stores recorded moderate gains.

The big metal producers moved upward in accord with stiffening metal quotations on the London and New York markets. Consolidated Mining and Smelting reached a new high price for the present stock at $80.90, showing a gain for the week of $5 and International Nickel advanced $1.25 to $72. Base Metal listings of the mining section were unable to breast the weakness of the mines in general and Noranda declined 50 cents, Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting 90 cents, Falconbridge $1, Pend Oreille 40 cents while smaller losses were booked by Sherritt, Ventures and Sudbury Basin. Silver stocks continued to mark time, obtaining no advantage marketwise from Thursday's bulge in the London silver mark.

Among the senior golds Dome alone displayed definite weakness. In some quarters the loss of $3 in the week was credited to dissatisfaction over the annual report although the price rallied moderately after the report was made public. McIntyre had a loss of 35 cents and Hollinger and Wright Hargreaves were down 25 cents each.

MARKET GLUTTED WITH FRESH EGGS

Twenty Cents a Dozen Is General Price Although Some Bring 23 Cents

Eggs flooded the Farmers' Market to-day and drove the price down to a general 20-cent level. A few farmers asked 22 and 23 cents but the finest were to be had at a score of stalls at the lower figure. Complaints that the return on 20-cent eggs does not equal the present high cost of feeds were to be heard from the vendors.

Chickens sold at 18 and 20 cents and butter was offered at 35 to 38 cents. A large supply of potatoes was offered on the outdoor market at $2 to $2.25 a bag. One heavy truck-load was on sale at the even two-dollar price. Apples were not so plentiful at 30 to 50 cents a peck. Beef sold at 8 to 11 cents and pork 12 to 14 cents. Clear honey was 13 cents and dark, 9 cents.

Short addresses were given by Dr. Hickman and Mr. Kerr. Mr. Earle voiced the appreciation of Mrs. Earle and himself at being present. Miss M. A. Ferguson, president of the class, presided. Arrangements for the banquet were in charge of the social convenor, Mrs. B. F. Moseley and members of the class.

POLICE PULL RAID ON TWO ALLEGED BETTING HOUSES

Two Are Charged With Running Common Betting House

BOOKS, SLIPS SEIZED

Swooping down almost simultaneously on two widely separated George street stores, city police on Friday afternoon, took three local men into custody on charges connected with alleged horse race betting operations.

George Dormer, proprietor of The Sugar Bowl and his assistant Charles Griffin, were booked on charges of running a common betting house and recording bets, respectively, while Bert Heard, grocery, 239 George street was apprehended on a charge of running a common betting house.

Released on bail in the sum of $1,000 each, the three accused are to answer to charges before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., on Monday morning.

Police taking part in the raids included: Detective-Sergeant William Meagher, Sergeant John Thompson, and Constables William Piercy, Gordon Puffer, and Joseph Wheeler. Books, betting slips and money were seized, according to police. At The Sugar Bowl, Constable Puffer remained on telephone duty, while at Heard's store, Sergeant Thompson adopted the role of telephone operator, to receive incoming calls.

WHEAT ADVANCES ON STRONG DEMAND

Higher Price Is Also Asked For Argentina Wheat By Exporters

WINNIPEG, March 6 (C.P.). — Higher prices asked for Argentine wheat by exporters in that country, coupled with improved demand in Europe, imparted strength to future prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange this week. Values prior to the opening to-day were 4¼ to 3 cents a bushel above the levels prevailing a week ago.

Narrowing of the spread between Canadian and Argentine wheats improved Canada's selling position in the international market. The May option closed the week at $1.28⅝, July $1.24¼-⅜, and October $1.12⅝.

In mid-February the Dominion's No. 1 and No. 2 Northern wheats were 32 and 30 cents respectively, above the price of Argentine Rosafe. Now, this "spread" has narrowed to 28¼ and 23 cents.

Since February 26, the Buenos Aires market has never recorded a loss. On five successive days new seasonal highs were established. Prices now are around the $1.05 mark.

Coarse grains also advanced during the week. Oats were ½ to ¾ cent higher, barley 2¼ to ¾ cents higher, flax 3 to 2¾ cents up, and rye 2¼ to 1¾ cents advanced for the week. Fair demand was experienced in this section of the market.

Germany, Italy, the United Kingdom, and other importing countries purchased substantial amounts of Plate wheat and some quantities of Australian wheat. Foreign demand for some of the Canadian grades was in evidence although the volume was small—about 2,000,000 bushels — compared with Argentine sales.

HYDRO REBATE

in 1936 was 7,337 horse-power as compared with 6,791 horse-power in 1935.

The rebate brings the operating profit of the Electrical Department of the Peterborough Utilities Commission for 1936 to the total $31,696, Mr. Matthews reported.

An increased consumption of power in the Eastern Ontario system is indicated by the size of the rebate, he said. A share increase in the demand for power from the H.E.P.C. by the other communities in Eastern Ontario has apparently resulted in a wider distribution of costs with the result of cheaper power for all, he stated. The rebate is, with the exception of last year's, the largest rebate of the post-depression years. Last year $20,000 was received.

CONUNDRUM TEA HELD

Floral Committee Of Keene Church Has Charge Of Social.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, March 6.—A conundrum tea was held in the basement of Knox Presbyterian Church, Keene, on Thursday evening, February 25, under the auspices of the Floral Committee.

A very delightful tea was served beginning at six o'clock, followed by a short program, Rev. Mr. Preston acting as chairman. Opening the program Mr. Preston explained what a very worthy cause the people had helped by attending the tea. A piano duet was then played by the Misses Virginia Lobb and Reta Dickson, followed by a solo by Helen Clarkson. Blanche Draper then sang a cowboy song accompanied by Margaret Manley on the piano. Mrs. Ross McIntyre recited a piece entitled "The Girl I Left Behind Me." The old familiar song "Reuben and Rachel" was sung by Miss Reta Dickson and Mr. Fred Renwick.

Community singing was then sung with Mae Renwick at the piano which brought the pleasant evening to a close.

CARS CARRIED EQUIPMENT TO REPAIR ROADS

CARS THEN "BALKED"

SAINT JOHN, N.B., March 6.— (CP).— Early days of the New Brunswick Automobile Association, when some of the officials and members would load their cars with drags, shovels and picks for highway repair work on bad spots between Saint John and St. George, were recalled here by T. P. Regan, K.C., president of the association.

In those days a car "balked" instead of "stalling," Mr. Regan remarked. Speed was compared with that of a horse can travel.

The number of motor vehicles registered in New Brunswick in 1906, when the N.B.A.A. was formed, was 41 and license fees collected amounted to $163. In 1936 there were 31,223 motor vehicles licensed, with fees amounting to $941,472.

As traffic increased the present No. 1 highway was marked with blue bands because visiting motorists frequently became lost.

Erection of Signs.

Necessity for symbol signs also arose. The association established these all over the province, spending about $3,000 for this work in a few years.

These symbols were approved by a Canadian Good Roads Association convention at Winnipeg and adopted for standard use in Canada. Soon after the convention an article in a United States magazine showed the signs originating in New Brunswick and recommended them as a proper system.

"In 1907 we became affiliated with the American Automobile Association and they have at all times given excellent cooperation in carrying on any work to benefit the motorists, and in the late years to increase tourist travel in New Brunswick," said Mr. Regan.

"Although the original purposes of the association were the observance of the automobile law and the improving of highway conditions throughout the province, due to the rapid growth of motor clubs with which we are affiliated and the demand for information from the public, it was necessary to inaugurate a well equipped travel bureau. From a few hundred queries a year the calls for information now run into the thousands."

Fifteen thousand inquiries were answered and 50,000 pieces of tourist and travel literature were distributed by the N.B.A.A. from its office here last year.

Many Old Houses Are Well Worth Renovating Or Remodelling

EXAMINE SILLS

Many old houses which might be considered to have reached the age of "retirement" are well worth renovating or remodelling if they are structurally sound and in desirable neighborhoods. Often when a house is larger than necessary for single family occupancy it can easily be rearranged to house two families in comfort. It is well in such cases to consult a building expert or to have him inspect the house, because skill and experience are essential in estimating depreciation, or planning renovations.

Before going too far in such alterations, however, it is wise to examine carefully the structure of the house to make sure that it is in sound condition. Otherwise when the work of re-arranging the interior layout gets well under way so much unforeseen work will have to be done that the cost will amount alarmingly.

The first place to look for decay is in the sills that rest on the foundations. If they are sound, it is safe to assume that the balance of the frame is sound.

When you are reasonably satisfied that there is little danger from this source, look at the outside trim where it comes near the earth and around the eaves, particularly where the gutters and downspouts are located.

Sometimes when gutters have been allowed to sag or have not been kept clean or they have rotted the concentration of water on isolated parts of the trim will cause it to rot, too.

If this rotting has been allowed to go too far, it may have penetrated even to the frame. Needless to say, all rotten wood should be removed and replaced to prevent the spread of the rotting.

Another point of danger is in the chimney. This should be carefully examined to see that there are no cracks or open joints or loose bricks. If there are any indications of weakness, the chimney should be rebuilt, and in the rebuilding it would be well to install flue linings.

The roof is another place to look for possible deterioration. Wood shingles will not last forever, slate and tile and composition shingles may have broken loose, or paper or felt shingles may have reached the point where they must be replaced.

Home Improvement Meeting Tuesday

The final meeting of the recently organized advisory committee for the Home Improvement Plan in the Peterborough district will be held Tuesday evening at 7.30 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce.

The men who were appointed as representatives of the various branches of the building trades are reminded of this meeting which will consider steps for extending throughout the city and district information regarding the details of the Plan.

Among the enquiries for loans to enable home owners to undertake home improvements were several which have been granted in Lakefield, where the movement has just been started.

MODERN KITCHENS FOLLOW STRAIGHT LINE PRINCIPLE

Convenient Arrangement Provides Facility In Home Work

How many women know what the "straight-line" principle represents? It is safe to say very few do. It has invaded the culinary department of the home, a department blooming increasingly important as the festive season grows near.

The question used to be a teaser which baffled quite a few if not nearly all young aspirants for office positions with large companies on "intelligence" tests. The civil service used to ask this question: The answer is simple; straight rows of desks in line formation in offices is the "straight line principle."

The kitchen planners and culinary experts got together in an efficiency drive on the kitchen with the result that if one's kitchen has not this principle incorporated, sometimes called "progressive functioning" one is practically taking backward steps, like the plumber who forgot his tools. Strange sounding technical terms are used freely these days as science takes in the cooking department of the home in its ever-embracing stride, faculties of household science turn out experts and even bureaus are established to wrestle with individual problems. Domestic life so far as the kitchen is concerned is fast approaching a stage where the button is pressed and the thing is done. Some day a machine may even be evolved to pour out ingredients, mix them and finish up by cooking.

Steady Progress

The straight line principle, the fundamental of all kitchens, means that the food shall proceed through its various functions of treatment in as straight a line as the confines of the kitchen will permit. That is, the food storage centre with its refrigerator should be near the service entrance of the house. A working surface at this point on which deliveries can be temporarily placed before being distributed to their storage points is desirable. The storage centre should be part of or near the food preparation centre. Since water is needed both for food preparation and cooking, the sink may well be placed next to the preparing centre, with the stove beyond.

A working surface between the sink and stove is an advantage for the cook to allow "secondary" cooking with appliances, and provide clear space on which to place hot dishes from the range.

All utensils and supplies should be conveniently stored at the point of first use, experts point out. For example, a frying pan is first used at the range, for it is usually heated before food is placed in it for cooking. It should, therefore, be stored at, or very near the range, but a saucepan used for cooking vegetables, such as potatoes, is filled with the vegetables at the sink, hence it should be stored near this point.

Table china such as dinner plates, usually warmed before serving, should be stored near the warming oven or plate warmer, while silver and glassware may be located as near to the dining-room as possible because it is first used at that point. Serving dishes belong near the range or serving centre—similar considerations apply to all other utensils, dishes and supplies.

A storage pantry is necessary only for a large house with two or more servants. This pantry is primarily a serving and storage centre in which dishwashing facilities should also be incorporated. The cleaning centre in the kitchen may then be established for washing pots, pans and kitchen utensils.

Adequate wall space is considered the most essential part of a well-planned kitchen. There should be as few doors as possible in the kitchen and none of them should be placed either in the middle of the wall or at the extreme corners. In a well-planned kitchen, doors should be placed approximately two feet four inches from the corner, allowing space for work surfaces. Window sills should be about three feet ten inches from the floor and the top about seven feet six inches from the floor.

Take Estimate Of Job To Bank To Get Loan

The Home Improvement Plan may be easily explained to the general public by the system of questions and answers of which the following are some pertinent examples:

How Do I Go About Getting a Loan?

Your house needs certain repairs, which you may have been putting off for years; or you have been thinking about modernizing your kitchen; or you want to make a new room in the attic; and so on over a long list of possible home improvements. You first estimate the cost, perhaps calling in a contractor or tradesman as the case may be, and that determines the amount of money you need. The next step is to go to any bank, and sign an application form for the money which you may get at once, possibly, or at least in two or three days. There are no deterrent delays, but there may be some trifling and necessary wait of a day or two.

How Much May I Borrow?

Just as much as you need and can repay—$50 is the smallest amount and $2,000 is the maximum.

Must I Engage a Contractor?

Not necessarily, but it would seem to be advisable to engage a competent man to do the work. Peterborough has plenty of skilled mechanics in the building trades of all kinds, and this Plan is intended to be a means of stimulating employment.

Must I Have An Estimate of the Cost?

Yes. Your own estimate will do, but again it is preferable to call in competent advice. Tradesmen generally will give you an estimate of the work you are considering.

Is There Any Fuss About Getting the Loan?

No. You simply fill out an application form and sign it. You don't need an endorser, and you don't need to be a depositor of the bank. In fact you don't need to go to the bank yourself. It might be that the contractor will look after getting the form for you to sign. But, why not go to the bank, and take the contractor along with you. The banker is a friendly agent of the Plan and you will find him interested in your affair.

Do I Personally Pay the Bills With the Money Allowed by the Bank?

Yes, if you wish; or you can arrange to have the bills sent to the bank for payment, and the amounts charged against the loan.

Must I Own the Property?

Yes.

Is Any Security Required?

No, but you must have a good credit record in the community and be able to meet your monthly payments out of income, that is out of wages or salary.

Where Do I Make Repayments?

At the local bank where the loan is obtained.

May I Pay This Loan in Full Before Maturity Date?

Yes, at any time. A reasonable rebate will be allowed for prepayment. Suppose you took out a loan for two or three years, and decided to pay it off before the time agreed upon. You may do so at any time you decide, and you are allowed a proportionate refund of the discount.

What Does the Loan Cost Me?

Discount for a one-year loan is 3¼ per cent. For example, suppose you wish for an advance of $96.75. You give the bank a note for $100 and repay it in twelve equal monthly instalments. Other amounts and periods in proportion. There are not other charges. The cost is lower than for any other similar type of loan ever before available.

PASS CABINET REAL BIG HELP TO HOUSEWIFE

Kitchen Too Often Causes Housewifery To Become Pure Drudgery

The topic of kitchens is fascinating, because all too often the kitchen causes housewifery to become pure and simple drudgery just because it lacks those little conveniences that could be very easily built in.

Too frequently it is considered the least important room in the house when in reality it is the most important—the centre from which the health, happiness and well-being of any family is controlled.

In a small house where members of the family do most of the kitchen work, what has been named as the "pass cabinet" is a much more useful provision for getting meals from the kitchen to the table in the dining room and the dishes back to the sink in the kitchen.

Series of Shelves

The "pass cabinet" is built into the communicating wall between the kitchen and dining-room. There is an opening with a series of shelves, as wide as the wall is thick, placed in and concealed by sliding panels or doors on both the dining-room side and the kitchen side. Corresponding shelves of course extend from the wall on either side and are so arranged as to be part of a built-in cupboard.

The handy-man-about-the-house could make a very attractive cupboard on the dining-room's side to just fit in with the rest of the furniture, or, if he wished, he could utilize an old-style buffet. Whether a cupboard were built in or an old-style buffet used, there would be storage below for linens and silver and shelving at the sides for china and glass.

On the kitchen side a lovely kitchen cabinet could be built with those new metal-lined drawers for bread and flour that have the metal lids which automatically close when the drawer is closed and slide open when the drawer is pulled out.

If it were pointed out to friend husband that by building these cupboards and "pass cabinet" he would get his meals so much more quickly and piping hot, and that this would be an excellent opportunity to prove his talent and ingenuity along the building lines, then undoubtedly he would provide his full co-operation and the cupboards and "pass-cabinet" would be built in no time at all.

It's worth trying.

After a lively battle between those who favored sun bathing with trunks the only apparel and those who were not so modern, Potchefstroom, South Africa, council has ruled against the wearing of trunks and other "rolled-down" costumes.

Hon. R. C. Matthews Endorses Home Improvement Project

Opens a Way To Assist In Re-Establishing The Building Trades

THUS GIVES EMPLOYMENT

OTTAWA, March 6.—Canadians should look with favor on the Home Improvement Plan, Hon. R. C. Matthews, President of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, emphasized in a statement on this project of the National Employment Commission.

The Plan, he says opens a way to assist in re-establishing the building trades, thus giving employment. At the same time it offers an opportunity to Canadians to repair, modernize and beautify their homes.

Mr. Matthews' statement follows:

"As a constructive step towards the solution of one of Canada's most pressing problems — unemployment — I welcome and endorse the Home Improvement Plan.

"It's simplicity and the speed with which it functions are practical and commendable. The plan, as outlined in the press, has already been utilized by thousands of Canadians, who are taking advantage of its generous terms. Undoubtedly, thousands more are planning to make exterior home improvements in the Spring months and will find it possible to do so through the help of the plan.

Hon. R. C. Matthews

Depends On Citizens.

"The success of the Home Improvement Plan depends upon the active support given to it by the men and women of Canada. It is hoped that citizens generally will realize that they can contribute substantially to the success of the plan, and at the same time use it to their own advantage and enjoyment. It is a well known fact that the building trades have not kept pace with other industries in the general business recovery. Here is an opportunity for Canadians to help re-establish these trades, and in aiding them obtain for themselves better, more attractive homes. Unemployment is definitely the responsibility of every citizen, and when he improves his home, he is contributing at least something of benefit to unemployed men. For this reason alone, altogether apart from the beautification of their homes, Canadians should look with favour upon the co-operative effort now being made.

"In hundreds of communities across Canada, local committees have been organized to promote the Home Improvement Plan. Let us co-operate with them. If your home needs improvements, now is the time to make them. If you have the money, spend it on your home, increase the convenience and beauty of your house, and add substantially to its value. If you haven't the money, the Home Improvement Plan makes it possible for you to carry out the work. Any contractor, architect or banker will help you with the details of the arrangement.

Should Appeal to Women.

"This plan should appeal particularly to women, the homemakers. They have to spend so much of their time in the home surroundings and know so well the changes necessary to make the home more convenient and more attractive. I should like to urge them through this plan to improve their homes, better their communities, and help the country as a whole."

PLAN ENDORSED IN CAMPBELLFORD AND LAKEFIELD

Organization Of Committees Underway In Both Towns

INSTALL WATERWORKS

Plans for the organization of committees to promote the Home Improvement Plan in Campbellford and Lakefield were set in motion this week by John E. Jones of Toronto, representing in Peterborough and Northumberland counties the advisory committee for Ontario, and in both town arrangements were made for further advance steps next week.

A group of prominent Lakefield citizens called together by Reeve C. S. Tanner, heard Mr. Jones' exposition of the details of the Plan, and immediately appointed Sam J. Charlton, N. A. Moore, J. McKerchar and George Spence, as a committee to proceed with the details of organization. The committee was nominated by Reeve Tanner, seconded by W. J. Charlton.

The immediate response of the Lakefield group which met in the council chamber of the Memorial Hall was in favor of the Home Improvement Plan as a means of assisting many citizens to make improvements and repairs to their homes by obtaining loans from the bank without the red tape of endorsements and security.

Plan Waterworks

W. J. Charlton said that Lakefield was planning a waterworks system for the village, and the Home Improvement Plan seemed to offer timely aid to many citizens who might otherwise be deterred from putting in plumbing fixtures.

The council has complete plans of a waterworks system with estimated cost and a general idea of the number of homes that would apply for connections. Prospects of paving the main street this summer were mentioned as another factor supporting action this year. Laying of mains and connections should precede paving operations, it was said, and some action may be taken by the council next Monday evening or at least within the near future.

Banker's Assistance

Mr. McKerchar of the Royal Bank was requested by Reeve Tanner to express his opinion of the Plan. He produced samples of the blank forms which applicants for loans are required to fill out and sign, and by that means provided an object lesson that was simple and effective.

The attitude of the first meeting Thursday afternoon accepted the Home Improvement Plan as a helpful instrument for the country as a whole and thereby for Lakefield, and, as the building season was rapidly approaching, nothing was to be gained by delay in organization.

Mr. Jones was given the fullest assurance that the Lakefield committee would go to work at once on the job of organizing a committee to "put the Plan across" in the village, and it was said that substantial progress would be made next week.

In Campbellford

At a similar conference in Campbellford Wednesday afternoon, Mayor Frank Long expressed the opinion that the Home Improvement Plan might be utilized by citizens who wished to borrow money on easy terms for necessary improvements to their homes. He told Mr. Jones that a meeting of citizens would be called within a week. Among those who were present in the office of John McGregor, town clerk, were Mayor Long, Reeve F. C. McKee, Councillor John O'Sullivan and J. Mills.

BIG ADVANCES IN COMFORT OF HOMES AFFECT DESIGNS

Developments In Last Twenty Years Combine Efficiency And Appearance

A recent research report on the development of home-building during the past 20 years shows that there is scarcely any industry starting two decades ago that has shown greater progress in design, durability, efficiency and structure methods. The waste space of the old-fashioned parlor has been used as an all-use living room; things scarcely in the experimental stage to remove drudgery in housekeeping 20 years ago are commonplace today, the "miracle" age.

Space for relaxation, such as recreation rooms in the basement, and sleeping porches to promote health and comfort, are considered in every well-designed house. Windows are carefully weather-stripped, walls and ceilings are washable and insulated to give coolness in summer and warmth in winter. Mechanical equipment in homes of today would have astounded urban dwellers of a quarter-century ago.

The unsightly alley has largely gone in well-planned areas; offensive stables disappeared with the passing of the faithful horse as a means of personal transportation. The garage took its place at the rear, and gradually it has moved up and attached itself to the house, sometimes at the side, sometimes underneath.

The front porch has been driven around to the side by the intense automobile traffic, for greater privacy, and in some cases it has completed a half-circle and finds itself in the rear in intimate relation to the garden side of the house.

The damp and stuffy basement, which was the catch all storage dump for the entire household, has become one of the most serviceable parts of the house. The waterproof basement is well-lighted, clean, and airy. Workshops for the child, recreation rooms, playrooms or ping-pong and card-rooms have become as desirable in the basement as in any other part of the house.

With all this advancement, the individuality or personality of the house has not been sacrificed, the report points out. In the commercial and apartment field and in scientific management, remodelling and modernizing of structures and equipment, there lies a field in which builders, equipment manufacturers and realtors are making great strides.

Utility, Color And Beauty Are Needed In Modern Bathroom

Primary Factor In Determining Where a House Is Modern

VARIETY OF COLORS

Today the bathroom is the primary factor in determining whether a house is modern and desirable. The age of the bathroom is an important element in determining the value of the house. Bathroom renovations are among the chief improvements for greater home convenience and enhancing property value, which may be made under the Home Improvement Plan.

Modern bathrooms combine beauty comfort and convience on a scale hardly dreamed of a generation ago, says the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating. Not only has the bathroom equipment reached a high stage of development, but the cost has been steadily reduced.

There is a rapidly growing trend toward the installation of two bathrooms, a bathroom and an extra first floor lavatory, or a bathroom and an extra separate shower stall.

Bathroom fixtures and appointments today are available in a wide variety of colours to suit every taste. There are delicate pastel shades which are particularly attractive, and striking effects in black and silver for the sophisticated and ultra-modern.

Design has received as much attention as colour. During recent years plumbing fixtures have been completely re-styled for better appearance and greater utility. Lavatories are shaped to give service while taking up a minimum amount of room. They have more slab space, a combination fitting permits tempering of water, and the faucets are out of the way. Tubs have been re-styled for greater safety and better appearance. Closets are made in one piece, and are virtually noiseless and easy to clean.

MAYORS DEMAND TAXATION PROBE

Would Define Federal, Provincial And Municipal Shares More Clearly

BRANTFORD, March 6 (CP).—Demand for a complete investigation of taxation methods by a commission to be launched immediately faced the Ontario Mayors' Association today as they settled down to a general session for discussing ways and means of bettering municipal government.

"This conference of mayors will demonstrate that municipal problems are not static," Mayor J. Albert Smith, Kitchener, said in his presidential address yesterday. "They are alive and heavily freighted with strife and no municipality can afford to be indifferent in an effort to obtain relief from these conditions."

New sources of municipal revenue formed the basis of Mayor Smith's address in which he declared overlapping or double taxation made this problem the most serious in municipal administration at present. There was a definite need, he said, for a final determination of federal, provincial and municipal fields of taxation.

"There is a strong feeling at the present time that public opinion will back the appointment of a competent commission to study and report upon the question of taxation, define the responsibilities of the federal, provincial and municipal governments for functions of administration and sharing funds therefore.

"This commission could develop plans for the co-ordinating of tax systems and propose methods for putting such plans into effect, allocate functions between the federal, provincial and municipal governments, collect facts and statistics in respect to tax levies and laws, and make a general and complete survey of governmental functions and expenditures as well as provide up-to-date data."

UNBORN BABY CASE WORRIES A COUNCIL

Debates Whether It Has Full Rights Of a Resident Or Not

PORT ALBERNI, B.C., March 6.—(CP)—Mayor Walter Hamilton and his city councillors scratched worried heads today and tried to decide whether an "unborn baby has full rights of a resident. On their deliberations rested the fate of a Port Alberni hospital bill.

The British Columbia Hospital Act provides a municipality shall be liable—at 70 cents a day—for the bill of every patient treated at a hospital if the patient has lived in the municipality three months.

The hospital board billed the city at the 70-cent rate for an unnamed woman patient and added another 70 cents daily for her baby, starting the day it was born.

"The baby is not a person until it is born and therefore cannot have had a three-month residence in the municipality," Mayor Hamilton argued.

"Absurd," the hospital replied.

"The baby was an unborn person, and if its mother has lived here three months then the child has also been here that long."

Those taking part in the Viennese dance were "thrilled" on receiving lovely corsage bouquets and boutonnieres which were marked carefully for individual wearers. These came from a mysterious donor. Talk About Stained Glass

Mrs. Derwent Kinton Tells Ladies All About An Ancient Art

"Stained Glass" was the subject of an extremely entertaining talk given to members of the Lyceum Club and Women's Art Association on Friday afternoon in the green room of the Y.W.C.A., by Mrs. Derwent Kinton of Toronto, who brought with her a stained-glass window that was universally admired, and whose graphic and descriptive outline of what she described as "one of the most beautiful arts in the world" was listened to with profound attention by a good-sized audience.

Introduced by the president of the local association, Mrs. F. E. Hooper, Mrs. Kinton said:

"The art of stained glass, though reaching to very high and great things, is in its methods and processes, comparatively simple, or at least, limited. There are actually only a few things to be done, while at the same time the principles in operation touch the whole field of art and one has to consider too the laws which guide decorative art generally.

"It is with mixed emotions that one studies the history of Stained Glass. We glass painters have had our ups and downs; in one century petted by kings and mitred abbots, in the next disregarded or, worse still, hanged for idle rascals. Stained glass was the pastime of a captive king in the 16th century, a flourishing handicraft in the 16th, a decaying one in the 17th. Now glass painting has come into its own again."

General Principles

Going on to describe the general principles of the craft, Mrs. Kinton declared that the most important principle for any worker is the observance of one's limitations and the right exercise of all legitimate freedom within these principles. One of the limitations in stained-glass making is the lead line, which must be accepted willingly, while the worker strives to make it contribute to the beauty of the whole.

If the subjects demands violent action, this must be treated decoratively, or so mixed up with the background that the observer does not perceive such action standing out prominently as he stands in the church. Artistic sense, discretion, and above all, repose, must be the aim of the worker.

The piece must also be in harmony with the architecture of the building.

"Light is the life of stained glass as anyone may see by handling a panel of old glass. At one moment it may seem like an ashy mosaic of irregularly decayed substance, with a coarse pitted surface held together by strips of the least appealing of all metals—lead. Then, when held up to the light, the full force of the color is perceived. Nothing is so bleak and lustreless as the surface of a stained-glass window seen from the outside of the church—nothing so vibrant and colorful as that same window from within.

"It is not necessary to be novel in order to be original," asserted the speaker. "There is quite enough originality in making the noble figure of a saint or treating with reverence and dignity some actual episode in Scripture, and working into its detail the sweetness of nature and the skill of the hands, without going into eccentricity for the sake of novelty."

SMARTT CORPSE REFUSES TO DIE

Takes a Lot To Kill People In British Guiana—Just Slight Mistake

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, March 6.—(CP)—It takes a lot to kill people in British Guiana. Undertaker Henry Wiltshire has decided after his latest experience.

Mr. Wiltshire responded to a call from Mrs. H. Smartt of Georgetown who said her husband had just died. Pausing long enough for a few consoling remarks to Mrs. Smartt when he reached the house, he began to fix up the "corpse" for burial.

Then Undertaker Wiltshire made his great discovery; the "corpse" was not dead. Five minutes later, Mr. Smartt was sitting up and assuring him there had been a slight mistake.

Just Between Us Women

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors, Conducted by Roberta

I SHOULD like to add a word to the petitions in the litany saying, forgive us our sins, negligences, ignorances, and prejudices. How many wrong thoughts of others, false estimates of things, conclusions formed hastily, or from some bias of feeling, from drawing wrong conclusions from insufficient knowledge or too great confidence in our own judgment.—Hare.

Dear Friends:

Are you easily prejudiced against people because of their different religion, or because they do things differently from you, or because they have more money, or a better disposition, or are able to make friends more easily, or any one of a hundred things?

Because if so, you are a very unfair person. About religion, whatever they are, they were brought up to it, and you might as well blame anyone for being born in a different country to you, as blame them for being a Protestant if you are a Catholic, or a Catholic if you are a Protestant.

And how much real truth do either side know about the other? Someone says something about religion different to yours, and you swallow every word of it, without finding out if it is true or not. And this goes for both sides. Don't get thinking that it is only the other fellow that does such a thing. You have done it yourself many a the time.

What fun I have sometimes listening to the talk from either side, and never have I seen a Catholic changed by the talk of a Protestant, and never a Protestant changed by a Catholic. On the contrary, they each get more embedded in their own side, and what is it all about anyway?

You hear people assume also, that because someone they know has more money than they have, that there can be no good in that one at all. How silly. I knew a woman in Western Canada, who said her near neighbor was a dirty housekeeper, because she did not boil her clothes when she laundered them. How ridiculous.

The longer you live, and the more you study and read, the less prejudices you allow to clutter your life. You realize that everyone is entitled to the same freedom which you claim for yourself. None of us can see every angle to a case, we often see only a part of the very thing we are arguing about, just as the soldiers taking part in a war never know as much as those who are only reading about it.

The more facets that are cut into a diamond, the more brilliance it will give forth. The more open your mind is, the more truth you can absorb, but prejudice gives you a one-track mind.

This is a hackneyed verse, but is worth repeating and remembering: There is so much good in the worst of us,

And so much bad in the best of us,

That it hardly becomes any of us,

To talk about the rest of us.

Nothing nor anyone, is all bad or all good. I know persons who pride themselves on being strongly for God, who seem by their actions only to be strongly for themselves, yet why should I let myself be prejudiced against them if they are trying to do their best? It is all to their credit if they are trying to fight against their own nature, and maybe I would act just like them, had I been born with their disposition.

So don't get into the habit of judging other people by your own yardstick. Maybe it is short, or defective. God said "Judge not, that ye be not judged," and that is what you do when you let prejudices rule you. What about your petties thought as you do? Might they not have been mistaken also? Are you so perfect that you can condemn anyone else? And how do you know you are so right?

So let the winds of reason clear the cobwebs from your brain. Give others the chance to live as they want to, to worship as they like, (both sides mind you), to dress as they like, in fact as long as they are not trying to push their way of living down your throat, why should you care? If you don't like their gate you do not have to swing on it, so throw away all these worn-out prejudices you have been carrying so long, and take a big deep breath of freedom.

Your Friend,

ROBERTA.

AUXILIARY MEETS IN THE STARR HOME

Short Memorial Service For Late Minister Held By Helen Roger Auxiliary

Mrs. M. Starr of Armour Road acted as hostess for the March meeting of the Helen Roger Auxiliary of Knox United Church. There was an attendance of twenty-three members.

The meeting was opened with a short memorial service for the late pastor, the Rev. S. G. McCormack. This consisted of the reading of the Shepherd's Psalm, a brief silence and a prayer, rendering of the hymns "Nearer My God to Thee" and "The Old Rugged Cross" by Miss Audrey Murray on her guitar.

The devotional period had as its theme "Jesus the Pioneer of Life" the leaflet being read by Mrs. Bustard.

Following the business, Mrs. R. Williamson, secretary of Christian Stewardship and Finance read an article on The Thanksgiving meeting.

Church," by the Rev. R. T. P. Brain. A short business meeting was held in the Parish Hall, at which the members decided to buy tables for the Sunday school. The branch also consented to repeat the 'Minstrel Revue' next month, under the auspices of the Boy Scouts.

ST. JAMES', EMILY.

The Young People of St. James', Emily, enjoyed a very interesting and educational program under the direction of Miss Helen Franks, acting in the absence of the regular literary convenor, Reg. Boate.

The evening was spent in spelling matches, jig-saw and cross-word puzzles. The spelling proved very enjoyable to all those present. There were two contests—the first one being the common spelling match with two sides chosen and a leader calling out the words for each side to spell alternately. The other was a progressive spelling match, which was new to everybody, but which proved itself very enjoyable indeed. For this match, two sides were chosen, and the words were spelled by each member adding a letter to those spelled before until a word was formed. Then the one spelling the last letter of that word was forced to go to the opposite side. This game proved a very great success.

RURAL BOY NEEDS FARM TRAINING IN THE HIGH SCHOOLS

Reconstruction Of Present-day Secondary School Education Urged

MUTUAL DEPENDENCE

Reconstruction of the present-day high school education program to meet rural needs as well as urban needs was urged by Stewart Rose, agricultural representative for North Simcoe, in an address to the Peterborough Kiwanis Club Friday. "For his secondary education the farm boy must go to an urban school staffed by teachers with the urban outlook and adhere to a curriculum of study almost entirely urban in nature, he said.

"The day is gone when a farm boy was ready for farming after a public school education." Mr. Rose said. "He needs the advanced education of the secondary schools and he needs a type of education that the urban schools are not offering. Our secondary schools prepare a boy for industry and commerce and advanced university courses but do not afford much farm education. I do not offer a solution but suggest this as one of the problems which should be kept in mind."

Mutual Dependence

The mutual dependence of the farmer and the city dweller was stressed by the agricultural representative as he developed a theme appropriate to the occasion. It was the annual Kiwanis agricultural day. Twenty prominent farmers representing a half-dozen townships were guests of the members of the meeting. Dr. J. J. Craig, chairman of the Kiwanis agricultural committee, was in charge of the program.

"The prosperity of those who earn their livelihoods in the cities depends directly and indirectly on the prosperity of those engaged in agriculture," he said. He suggested that the viewpoint of townspeople should extend beyond their city limits to include a consideration of the problems of farmers. Service club members in particular should avail themselves of every opportunity to acquaint themselves more fully with farm problems, he said.

Great Advance

The speaker pointed out that a greater advance has been made in the application of power to farming in the lifetimes of the present generation of farmers than in all previous history. He spoke of the perfection of the combined reaper and binder, the evolution of an automatic potato digger and bagger and the development of crop dusting from airplanes. It is a day when scientific farmers are stepping in to solve the problem of grain rust and land erosion by breeding grains which take root for five and six years.

Education

Education for farm boys is needed and the farmers of the land need the full economic co-operation of the city dwellers in keeping space for revolution in farming, he said.

Ken Morrison of Toronto, chairman of the Kiwanis agricultural committee for the Ontario-Quebec-Maritime district, was a special guest at the meeting. Musical entertainment on the way of piano and guitar selections was afforded by Helen Auchinvole, Dorothy Whatley, Dorothy Anderson and Alma Tucker.

WORK IN THE WEST TO BE SHOWN HERE

Rev. J. C. Clough Will Show In Pictures "The Fellowship Of The West"

Next Wednesday evening the regular Lenten service in All Saints' Church will be devoted to the "Fellowship of the West" represented by the Rev. J. C. Clough. This will be of very special interest because the work done last summer was under the direction of the Rev. F. E. Smith who is so well known in All Saints' parish. Both motion pictures and still pictures are to be shown of the work at Clear Hills and those who have been so generously supporting the work in the past will now have an opportunity to see and hear exactly of the magnitude of the work and the conditions under which it is carried on.

The "Fellowship of the West" is an organization of young men within the church, which aims to send out teams consisting of one clergyman and one layman for the summer months to carry the services, sacraments and teaching of the church into the isolated districts of Western Canada, otherwise without ministrations.

In the summer of 1936, the Toronto team consisting of the Rev. J. C. Clough and Mr. William Mills Jr., were at the disposal of the Bishop of Athabasca who visited here a year ago. He asked them to join Rev. F. E. Smith and to assist in the development of the work in his enormous district, 100 miles square, so that when they came to us on Wednesday, March 10th, they have much to tell us about a work in which we are keenly interested.

Compulsory exhibition of education shorts and Indian news-reels in every motion picture program is being urged in India.

ACTIVE TRAINING OF NEW BATTALION STARTS MARCH 30

Annual Camp Will Be Held This Year In June At Connaught Ranges

COURSE COMPLETED

The machine gunnery or "K" Course as it is officially known, which forty-seven officers and N.C.O.'s of Prince of Wales' Rangers have been studying for two nights weekly during the past two months, has concluded and examinations are to be held on Tuesday and Thursday next week, according to Lieut.-Colonel J. A. Dewart, M.C., officer commanding the unit.

On amalgamation all the personnel of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons and Peterborough Rangers who have become a part of the new machine gun battalion, were required to qualify in machine gunnery, and the course just concluded was undertaken by the forty-seven officers and N.C.O.'s without pay.

The class of instruction was under auspices of the officers and N.C.O.'s of the former C. Company, 45th Battalion Machine Gun Battalion, and was in charge of Captain R. C. Roney and Lieut. Graham Falkner.

Train 300 Men

An organization meeting of the new unit is to be held on March 16, and active training of the whole unit will start on March 30, it is announced. Colonel Dewart indicating there are some vacancies to fill in the unit, said he expects to train around 300 men. Due to the fact that only a part of the Battalion has had previous machine gun training, there will be a great deal of extra work to be done this year.

In addition to the "K" Course seven officers of the unit are taking a militia staff course at Cobourg one night a week. They are: Majors James Turnbull, H. O. Mason, G. R. E. Melton, and A. R. Macrae; and Captains J. P. McGrath, M.M., J. O. Armstrong, and Emmett F. Sheehy.

The annual camp this year is to be held at Connaught Ranges in June, and Colonel Dewart expects to take 100 officers, N.C.O.'s and men away to this special training camp.

MARKSMEN AT WORK

The members of the P.C.V.S. shooting team have, for some time now, been potting away with their rifles in the shooting galleries of the Armouries. The latter part of this week they finished their annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association shoot. Each member of the team is submitting three targets.

The team is composed of the following: Melville Le Grow, Gordon Seymour, Malcolm Paksenham, Max Sexsmith, Keith Kidd, Robert Dean, Peter Demos, Hugh Davidson, Frank Patterson, Julian Wade, Allen Marshall and Ralph Hagerman. Hagerman has been the star marksman of the school for the last couple of years and has won many shooting medals.

POSTER AWARDS

Monday morning from the auditorium platform, George Hall, president of the students council awarded three cash prizes to the winners of the poster contest held in connection with the Operetta. The three posters done by Edna Borland, Doris Blade, and Doris Glover were picked as the best out of a field of 22 submitted.

Wednesday morning a short preview of the Operetta was staged for the student body. Ormsa Lacheur and Griffen Young, the romantic juveniles of the production, sang "Remember." Alicia Langley and Tom Hooper sang "Dreamy, Schemy Widow." The dress rehearsal, Wednesday evening, marked the zero hour after weeks of hard work by the members of the cast.

END OF THE TRAIL

With one team out of the running, a second on the fence, and a third still in the clear for a C.O.S.S.A. championship, P.C.V.S. basketball is nearing the end of the seasonal trail. The P.C.V.S. Senior Girls are through with league competition, finishing second to Cobourg, the group winners. They have not yet hung up their togs, however, as they are scheduled to play an exhibition game with a team of ex-P.C.V.S. basketball stars tonight in the school gym. Coach Dorothy Briain is trying to get the Bowmanville girls team here for a further exhibition match.

Defeating the Port Hope junior boys basketball team, the P.C.V.S. junior boys climbed to top position in their league and won the right to meet Bowmanville for the group championship. Already the boys are optimistically planning a trip to Toronto for the finals.

The senior basketball team has three more games to play. If the boys can win all these remaining games they will be tied with Bowmanville, now in first position. A tie-breaker then would be played to decide the group championship.

A girls inter-form basketball league has been formed at the school. Practically all the forms in the school have teams entered. These games are played Friday afternoons. Girls who play for the P.C.V.S. team are barred from this league for the sake of more even matching. The juvenile hockey team has been idle this week. The squad is now in good condition in the group and awaiting yesterday the schedule to be wound up. Coach Jack Patterson declines to predict which team will be P.C.V.S.'s opponent in the finals.

ALUMNI NOTES

When the boys and girls go forth from P.C.V.S. halls after graduating, their names may be quickly forgotten among the ever-changing student body out, in a great many instances, their renown spreads in new and infinitely wider fields. For example, take Bob Breckenridge and Fred Soward.

Bob Breckenridge graduated from P.C.V.S. in 1921. After studying medicine for six years at Queen's University, he went to Rochester where he served as an interne in the Rochester General Hospital. He was later appointed house surgeon in the Akron City Hospital, Akron, Ohio. He is now practicing in Akron and from all reports, is on the way to a distinguished medical career.

Fred Soward, after graduating from P.C.V.S. in 1918, attended Toronto University where he won the Riddell scholarship. Subsequently he went to Oxford University and there obtained a Bachelor of Letters degree. He is now making a name for himself as professor of history in the University of British Columbia.

ODDS AND ENDS

Many pupils are wondering who the young man was that came to school one morning last week minus one of his spats. When he noticed his mistake he hurriedly took off the one spat he was wearing and put it in his locker. Moral: Arise early enough each morning to don both your spats.

Pictures of the three P.C.V.S. basketball teams, senior rugby team, juvenile hockey team and the Students Council, were on display in the photography case the latter part of this week.

There were no basketball games Friday night owing to the staging of the Operetta.

The senior boy basketballers are tangling with the Lindsay senior squad tonight in the P.C.V.S. gymnasium.

ARSENAL BEATEN IN SIXTH ROUND OF ENGLISH CUP

Preston North-End And Millwall Also Advance Into Semi-Finals

ONE GAME IS TIED

LONDON, March 6—(CP Cable)—Spectacular upsets were recorded in sixth-round English Football Cup games to-day. Heavy favorite to capture the trophy for the second year in succession, Arsenal was beaten 3-1 by West Bromwich and Millwall and Preston North End rumbled strong opposition, Wolverhampton Wanderers and Sunderland tied 1-1 at Wolverhampton.

Conqueror of Chelsea and Derby County in previous rounds, Millwall, plucky third division squad, smashed Manchester City, 2-0, in London. Preston, strong cup-fighting major league, ended Tottenham Hotspurs' hopes with a 3-1 victory at White Hart Lane.

Unexpected Defeat

Few expected the powerful Gunners to fall to the low-place West Bromwich team at Birmingham. In earlier rounds the Londoners had overcome opposition with ease, but the Albion had given set on their 13th semi-final in the competition.

Millwall's success means that London will have only one team in the penultimate round. Spurs' supporters were confident their second division favorites would be more than a match for the Lancashire team who had a slight edge in pregame wagering.

The Wolves' ground was jammed to capacity for the match with the league champion. The teams will replay next week at Roker Park.

Athletic Beaten

Charlton Athletic, English Football League leader, lost a grand opportunity to extend its margin over Arsenal, playing in the Cup. The Athletic was defeated 3-1 by Sheffield Wednesday in the Yorkshire city. Brentford and Middlesbrough broke a five-team third-place tie, the former beating Leeds United 4-1 while Middlesbrough downed Everton, 3-2.

Rangers Four Points Up

Driving ahead for the Scottish Football League championship, Glasgow Rangers went four points ahead of the idle Aberdeen squad by blanking Queen of South at Dumfries. Celtic jumped into a third-place tie with Hearts by drawing 2-2 with Hibernians at Edinburgh. Kilmarnock trounced Hearts, 7-0.

QUEEN ATTENDS PLAY.

LONDON, March 6—(CP Cable)—Queen Mary last night attended a performance of "White Oaks," the play based on the noted series of books on the Jalna family written by Mazo de la Roche of Clarkston, Ont.

Nancy Price, playing the 101-year-old patriarch of the Ontario fiction family, was presented to the Queen Mother. Binny, Miss Price's pet parrot, playing the part of the parrot in the book, was on the actress' shoulder at the time.

Kidnapped, Slain

A recent portrait study of two-year-old Eugenio Pereyra Iraolo, son of a wealthy Argentine family, who was kidnapped and slain under circumstances resembling the baby Lindbergh kidnapping. The body of the child was found a few days later. There was evidence he had been strangled. Police are said to have arrested a tramp, Jose Gancedo Gonzales, and, allegedly, obtained a confession from him.

OBITUARY

A full representation of Knights of Columbus' members and representatives from a large group of friends and business acquaintances attended to pay a final tribute as the late William Henry Bell was laid to rest in St. Peter's Cemetery Friday. Many floral offerings and spiritual tributes bespoke the community loss.

GEORGE DOIG

In failing health for the past two years, George Doig of Bell avenue, North Monaghan Township died at his residence on Friday night in his 73rd year. A lifelong resident of the district, Mr. Doig was held in admiration and respect by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. Although handicapped by total blindness for a greater part of his life he operated his own business as a waste metal merchant and raised a family. He leaves his wife and four daughters and one son all of this city.

Remains are to rest at Duffus' Funeral Parlors from Sunday noon until the service which is to be held there at 2 o'clock p.m. Monday with the Rev. Dr. C. V. McLean, pastor of St. Andrew's United Church officiating. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

JAMES STOTHART

One of the oldest residents of Smith township was removed in the death of James Stothart at Nicholls Hospital early this morning (Saturday). He was 91 years of age.

He was born in Smith and spent his lifetime there. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Stothart who came from Scotland to settle in the township in 1819.

When a young man, he served with the rank of sergeant-major in the old Peterborough Dragoons. For many years with his brother, Thomas Stothart, he farmed on the original Stothart homestead in Smith before moving to the present farm. He proudly contended he and his brother were the first farmers to bring pure bred Holstein cattle into Peterborough county 50 years ago.

He was a member of the Presbyterian church. A neice, Mrs. Alfred Oliver, survives.

The funeral will be held Monday at 2 p.m. from the residence on the Lakefield Highway to Little Lake cemetery. Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr will officiate.

R. J. BREYFOGLE HOME FROM SPAIN HAS LITTLE TO SAY

Seems As If There Are More Foreign "Volunteers" Than Spaniards Fighting

PLANS TO RETURN

(Special to The Examiner)

NEW YORK, March 6.—Although hesitant to discuss at length his first-hand observations on the Spanish revolution in view of his necessary return to Barcelona, independent stronghold, where he is manager of the International Banking Corporation, Robert J. Breyfogle of Peterborough, Ont., aboard the United States liner Washington, stated that it would seem as if there are more foreign "volunteers" engaged on both sides in the revolution than there are Spaniards.

Mr. Breyfogle, who is en route to 393 Weller street, Peterborough, where he will visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Breyfogle, said that Spain is "virtually crowded to the borders with volunteers from practically every major European country."

The Peterborough banker said that he did not feel he could authoratively predict which side would eventually win out in the fratricidal conflict. Mr. Breyfogle plans to remain in New York for a few days before leaving for Peterborough.

His wife, formerly Elsie McLauchlin of Toronto, and two children have been in Canada for some time, having left Spain for a visit here shortly before the revolution broke out. It is Mr. Breyfogle's first departure since the revolution, and he plans to return to his post at the conclusion of his leave.

OXFORD'S BLUES PINNING HOPES ON FIVE VETERANS

Drop Canadian Cox, Massey, For Man With More Experience

BREAK RECORDS IN TRIALS

By John Rowley
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, March 6.—(CP)—With season and experience in their favor Oxford's dark blue crew hope to shatter the record Cambridge winning streak in the annual university boat race this year.

The race will be rowed March 24 over the historic Tideway course which extends four miles, 200 yards between Putney Bridge and Mortlake on the Thames.

Cambridge has won the race for the last 13 years. Of the 83 races which have been rowed since the first bruch in 1829 Cambridge has 47 victories while Oxford has 4 to tal of 40. In 1871 a dramatic race ended in a dead heat.

Oxford has five veterans rowing this year while their rivals have only two in their boat. Canada lost a chance of being represented in the race when Oxford's vest-pocket cox, Hart Massey, and formerly a student of Upper Canada College, was replaced at the tiller by C. J. Merifield, who has had more experience.

Trials indicate both eights are shaping up well. Recently Cambridge rowed a three-mile test and clipped three seconds off the time made the previous week. They covered the distance in 15 minutes, 50 seconds, the second best time recorded for the course.

The dark blues meantime have broken two records on the Thames and have equalled a third.

Their best mark was on Wednesday when they rowed from Chiswick Steps to Putney Bridge in 11 minutes, nine seconds, clipping 48 seconds from a record which had stood for 40 years.

Look Good—On Paper.

With both weight and experience to their advantage, the Oxford eight are also given the call on paper. But last year also found Oxford with a good crew on paper and yet they lost by five lengths. Cambridge was favorite in 1923 and they lost by three quarters of a length.

This year's race will be in sharp contrast with the original race of 1829. Crews wearing canvas trousers, beards and straw hats took part in the first race and Oxford won. They rowed heavy barge-like affairs.

The second race in 1836, won by Cambridge, was rowed over a six mile course from Westminster Bridge to Putney.

Each of the featherweight boats used in the race cost approximately $700 in comparison to the small sum of $30 paid for the cumbersome boats which were used by the bewhiskered eights of years ago.

The crews of 108 years ago would probably grunt at present-day training rules. The crews are called at 7 a.m. and go for a brisk walk before breakfast of plain food.

Fish and steak and even brown sugar are important items of diet. The meat undergoes a special process in which all fat is removed.

Race statistics show Oxford's two winning streaks of nine years which started in 1861 and 1890. Oxford held the time record for the race with a mark of 18 minutes, 19 seconds made in 1911, until 1934 when the rival light blue squad won in 16 minutes, three seconds, defeating Oxford by 4½ lengths.

Following Are the Rival Crews:

Oxford—G. C. Ashby, Oundle and New College, bow; J. S. Lewis, King's School and Christ Church; D. R. B. Mynors, Eton and New College; R. G. Rowe Eton and University; J. F. Burrough, St. Edward's and St. Edmund Hall; J. D. Simcock, Winchester and Magdalen; J. C. Cherry, Westminster and Rosenose; A. B. Hodgson, Eton and Oriel, stroke; G. J. P. Merifield, King Edward's school and St. Edmund Hall, coxswain.

Cambridge—T. S. Cree, Geelong and Jesus, bow; H. W. Mason, Clifton and Trinity Hall; M. Bradley, Monkton Combe and Pembroke; D. W. M. Napier, Eton and Magdlen; M. P. Lonnon, Westminster and Third Trinity; T. B. Langton, Radley and Jesus; A. Burrough, St. Paul's and Jesus; R. J. L. Pevmott, King's College and Trinity Hall, stroke; and T. H. Hunter, Harvard and Trinity Hall, coxswain.

Ski Notes

(By Andy Ratter)

Taking advantage of this unexpected snowfall it has been decided by the executive to hold a good old-fashioned bean feed at the Nassau Club House on Sunday. All club members are invited to bring a lunch and join in the feast. There will not be any events during the day but a run will be organized sometime during the afternoon. All persons interested are advised to arrange for transportation if possible and to drive past the Empress Hotel any time after 10.30 to pick up any stragglers. Members lacking transportation are asked to meet at the Empress Hotel between 10.30 and 11 o'clock. Other centres are having snow trouble as well as ourselves. Huntsville's Carnival of the Snow will be run off says ski committeeing although the Ontario Ski Zone has sanctioned an invitation meet at Walkerton this week-end.

KING OF WINTER SPORTS

Ski-ing
By Charles Schaer
Sponsored By Peterborough Ski Club

68—THE STEP TURN

The step turn or stepping around is a method of changing direction while running that may be used under practically all conditions of snow and surface. It is particularly useful in breakable crust as no skidding, steering or side-slipping takes place.

At moderate speed and in half-crouch running position lift the intended inside ski clear of the snow, figure 1. Turn it slightly in the direction of the turn, figure 2, and without advancing it replace it on the snow, figure 3. The weight must now be transferred from the outer ski to the inner ski, instantly. The body is swung forward to aid the transference of weight, which must be done very quickly. The outer ski is lifted immediately it is unweighted, figure 4, and placed parallel to the inner ski and the "stepping around" continued until the desired change of direction is attained. Do not attempt too great a change of direction in one step, rather take two or three steps to complete the turn. The whole weight is on one or the other of the skis practically all the time and with practice a rhythm can be developed and the steps made quite quickly.

Stepping around is a very beneficial exercise for the beginner as it develops skill in balancing on one ski. It is also a welcome relief to the muscles during a long run from the strain of holding the running position continuously.

Westclox Seniors increased their lead in the Ladies' Basketball League last night with an 18-7 victory over Marconi Radio in the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium before a small crowd of fans. Whatman was main scorer with eight points, G. Mortimer and B. Blade having four each and A. Livingstone two. For Marconi, S. Levine, D. Ackford and F. Bestard had two points each and M. Armstrong one. The teams:

Westclox: G. Mortimer, G. Hunter, A. Livingstone, B. Blade, M. Blade, M. Snowden, D. Merritt, C. Whatman, M. Ferguson.

Marconi: L. Masee, S. Levine, M. Armstrong, D. Ackford, F. Bestard, B. Flynn, R. Ellis, L. Wesley, E. Rogove.

Carpet Ball Notes

Central School Playboys ran rings around the sleeping Snipers, making a clean up by four straight to a score of 62 to 19.

Toronto-Peterborough Transport entertained the Moose skippers and rinks to a banquet in the Oriental Room last night.

Toronto-Peterborough Transport had to put on a spare tire to carry the cup game for the C.G.E. squad.

Those fighting Parsons overplayed the Packing company in two straight falls.

The executive will meet at the Moose Hall at 7 p.m. sharp, Thursday, March 11th. All representatives are requested to be present.

Alberta Rink Wins From Manitoba 19 To 7

Alberta captured the Macdonald's Brier Tankard, emblematic of the Canadian single-rink curling championship when Skip Cliff Manahan and his helpers from the Royal Curling Club of Edmonton, scored a veritable walkaway from Manitoba's youthful entry skipped by Jimmy Welsh in a playoff for first place before a capacity gallery on Granite Club ice Friday afternoon. The score was 19 to 7. Personnel of winning rink from LEFT TO RIGHT, L. C. McIntyre, lead; G. R. Manahan, J. W. Robinson and C. R. Manahan, skip.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

THE MERRY basketeers have a brace of battles this e'en in the Y.M.C.A. gym. Two Senior City Cage Loop tussles are listed, first one at 8.15 between Neill's and Dominion Life; and the other seeing St. Paul's and C.G.E. tangling. Both contests should be full of action and close enough. Quite a crowd of followers of the hoop game have been parking up in the "Y" balcony of a Saturday evening this season casting the longnette at the lads who bounce the big ball around to the tune of a whistle. There is generally a dance afterward all of which no doubt helps to swell the crowd.

* * * * * *

LOCAL MEN'S softball league should be calling an organization meeting in the not-too-distant future to get a line on things. They never cleaned up all last year's business yet, either. This loop will take some squaring away before everything is set this Spring. The gals' softball circuit may undergo a few radical changes, too. One suggestion is that it be enlarged to take in Cobourg and Lindsay. Not likely to be more than two teams—C.G.E. and Westclox—from here again. Won't be long till there is plenty of chatter up and down the Rue Rainer here, softball chatter.

* * * * * *

AND OUR senior baseball moguls ought to have a get-together this coming week. If not a general meeting, at least an executive one to appoint officers to the Spring meeting of the O.B.B.L. in Belleville next Saturday. Things do not look too bright in Belleville yet, but they may combine with Trenton Airpors for a team along with the Petes, Oshawa, Napanee and Kingston. Of course, six teams in the circuit would be much better. Nothing new here—and the deadline for importing players is March 15th—but we imagine a good squad will be wearing local livery when summer rolls around. We hope so, but it'll take lots of work and co-operation to accomplish this — and in a hurry.

* * * * * *

NO SENIOR City Hockey League semi-final last night due to soft ice. If the ice is okay and there is no O.H.A. tilt here Monday, the Lakefield and Mayfairs will tangle at 8.30 in Brock to declare a loop finalist. Otherwise, it'll be there on Tuesday night. This league had better hustle its playoffs along or they'll be trying to battle in mud and slush. The finals consist of a two-game series between Westclox and the winner of the Lakefield-Mayfair go, goals counting. It was a mistake not to have gone starting Thursday to clean up the semi-finals.

* * * * * *

HAVING A nightoff last p.m. after covering hockey practically every evening for a couple of months, we took a busman's holiday and went up to see Kadunks play in the Felt Cup tourney at Lindsay. But stayed away from the press box and just rodelled from a rail seat. Not much to yodel about as our lads took an 8-2 pasting from General Motors of Oshawa. It was a most upsetting evening as Lindsay got the daylights whammed out of 'em by the Sunderland squad and then, in cup finals, Sunderland put the skids under the rocky crew from Oshawa. Yeah, Sunderland succeeds Peterborough as holder of the Felt Trophy and they earned it all the way. The locals couldn't do anything right last night, aside from goals by Creighton and Coughlin and a good fight by Ned Vitarelli—who saved McAlpine a denial bill by extracting two teeth for him. Williamson took Burton's place, the latter having hurt his wrist in the first fracas.

* * * * * *

WE DROPPED into the Oshawa dressing-room and shook hands with Roy Covert. Ta said he'd like to be back here again but Roy didn't say anything about it. He played a good game against our squad and had a bit of a brush with Smoke Gardner back of a net. Both went off feeling friendly again. None of the GM-men could turn a wheel in the final game, young Lorne Beare in goal blocking 'em right along. Quite a crowd of Lindsay rooters took in the three-game windup and seemed to enjoy it all the way. Some of the Kadunks were talking about going into a Bobsaygeon tournament next week but others said: "Nuts, I'm going to hang 'em up and call it a winter." Two Lindsay scribes, the Oshawa key-pounder and yours truly all sat around with sour pans as their favorites in turn were rubbed out.

* * * * * *

NOTHING YET on the Colts' next O.H.A. playdown round. Aurora has been drawn against Barrie while two strong Toronto teams, Northern Vocational and East Toronto, are mated up. Along about the middle of next week, there will be only about half a dozen teams left. The O.H.A. must be figuring on letting the local juniors into the semi-finals or finals with no further playdown series. That's all very well but there won't be any ice here for our home game or games. It's mighty queer why Peterborough has to stall around for going on two weeks without a game.

* * * * * *

THREE FINE girls' cage games were staged before a slim crowd last e'en in the Y.W. gym. The first junior game went overtime before "Y" Quakers pulled out a 7-5 verdict over St. John's. Westclox Seniors were too strong for Marconi Radio and dialed 'em out, 18-7. The final junior tilt saw C.G.E. getting the nod over Westclox, 6-2. These games are worthy of much larger crowds, the junior jousts getting better all the time and the races warming up. It will require two more weeks to finish the schedules, which had to be re-arranged with a shakeup in entries some time ago. Contests next Friday are: Westclox Juniors vs. St. John's at 7.45, C.G.E. Seniors vs. Westclox at 8.15, and "Y" Quakers vs. Westclox Juniors at 9.00, the Marconi girls getting the bye.

* * * * * *

GRAB-BAG: Southend Puck Loop accounts are in elsewhere tonight . . . . Mike Rodden will referee the Allan Cup series between Trenton Fliers and Port Colborne Seniors, starting in Belleville on Monday . . . . The Kadunks asked us to thank "Mucker" Legros for invaluable assistance to them during their Felt Cup tournament in Lindsay . . . . Tommy Foley, local star outfielder, will probably pull out of here shortly to play ball in another town—dunno which one yet . . . . Intermediate southend finals are Monday and Tuesday nights at the Brock between Pirates and China Clippers . . . . Nothing much else to talk about now.

P.C.I. Juveniles Win Over Canucks, 3 To 0

P.C.I. Juveniles of the Southend Hockey League took a 3-0 decision over Canucks last night at the Brock St. rink. R. Parnall scored the only marker in the first but King and Dorris both tallied in the second as the Students showed an edge on the attack. Play was fast and fairly close most of the way with Canucks going best in the third period. On Tuesday at eight, Aces and St. Peter's Juveniles play. The teams:

Referee, W. Wright.

Scoreless Game In Southend League

Canucks and St. Peter's battled to a Southend Hockey League midget scoreless draw last evening at the Brock St. rink. It was a close-checking, tight battle from start to finish with both goalies kicking out a bunch to earn shutouts. The forwards backchecked all the way and the two defences blocked well to keep many of the shots from wall out. The game will be replayed Monday night from seven to eight. The teams:

St. Peter's—Goal, Crary; defence, Rex. Prete; centre, Rochetta; wings, Smith, O'Connor; alternates, Boyle, Basciano, O'Donnell, Garvey.

Referee, W. Wright.

C.G.E. JUNIORS WIN GIRLS' TILT

Take 8-2 Decision From Westclox In Snappy Basketball Game

C.G.E. Juniors added to their string of wins in the Ladies' Basketball League last night at the Y.W.C.A. with an 8-2 verdict over Westclox. They had a 4-2 lead at the half-way mark and showed a slight edge on play in the windup frame. Play was quite keen all the way with some good checking shown on both sides, neither team cashing in on penalty tosses. It was fast, cagey play for junior squads. Z. Birkhoff led the scorers with four points, while W. Barney and E. Lynch had two each. J. Crowe got the lone basket for the Ashburnham crew. The teams:

C.G.E.: M. Cummiskey, F. Nolan, P. Baxter, E. Foster, Z. Birkhoff, V. Barney, M. Beard, E. Lynch.

Referee, J. Cooper.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

After playing all week and ending up with a double-header last night (Friday), the rinks skipped by Doc Green and Tommy Holyman have reached the finals of the Vice-Skips' bonspiel. Now these two teams will fight it out early next week for the honor of holding the E. O. Patterson trophy for one year.

Commencing at 7 o'clock and playing right through until about the midnight hour these two teams were successful in pushing aside any obstacle that might have been in their way as far as this competition was concerned. Riley-man upset J. McWilliams to the tune of 18-11 and then went right on to defeat Lawes 11-8 on the other half of the draw. "Doc" Green had no trouble putting D. Grant out of commission and then walked right into Jimmy Cullen with a 12-8 score. Both J. Cullen and J. Lawes were vices and the rinks that won the championships in the schedule of the groups No. 1 and 2 respectively.

And just in passing it might not hurt to mention that "Doc" Green was the chap who at the last annual meeting of the club sponsored the new idea about the skips playing lead, in the competition.

It is more than likely that the rinks for the Leads and Seconds' bonspiel will be made up at once, the draw made and play will most likely commence early next week. Interested players are asked to watch this column for further announcements.

Friday Night's Scores.

J. Cullen 15, Dr. C. M. Lawrence 11.
J. Lawes 16, Dr. D. Clark 8.
Dr. J. C. Green 17, D. Grant 7.
T. Holyman 16, J. McWilliams 12.

(Semi-finals)

Dr. J. C. Green 12, J. Cullen 8.
T. Holyman 11, J. Lawes 6.

Forced To Go Overtime In Tight Ladies' Loop Battle Before Grabbing Verdict

"Y" Quakers took a 7-5 Junior Ladies' Basketball League victory from St. John's in overtime last evening in the Y.W. gym. The teams were tied 5-all at the end of regulation time, but the Quakers scored the winning basket in the extra inning. It was a fine junior battle from start to finish, both sides making snappy plays and keeping up a fast pace. The checking was close, but few personal fouls were called, each side scoring one free throw. R. Dalliday scored four points for the winners and M. Sullivan two. E. Gynane collected four for the losers and M. Snowden one. The teams:

"Y" Quakers: W. Woods, M. Sullivan, M. Boyle, B. Frost, D. Frost, E. O'Leary, E. Alexander, J. Reiman, J. Hollingsworth, M. Kingsbury, R. Dalliday, D. Bestard.

Pirates Oust Leafs In Southend Tussle

Pirates won the Southend Intermediate Hockey League semi-finals from Maple Leafs last night at the Brock, winning the round 4-3 when they took this second game by a 4-0 count. The win puts them into the league finals against China Clippers next week in home-and-home games. Fleming was the big star in Pirates' win, scoring three goals and assisting Whatman in the other. Beavis also shone in the winners' net. R. Riel and Prete stood out for the Leafs, all of whom went down battling in a torrid tussle. The teams:

Pirates: Goal, Beavis; defence, Hobbins, Whatman; centre, Transfer; wings, Courser, Fleming; alternates, DeCarlo, Thomas.

EDMONTON RINK BEATS OUT WELSH MACDONALD BRIER

SCORE 19 TO 7

TORONTO, March 6.—(CP)—For the second time in its 12-year history, the Macdonald Brier Tankard, Canadian token of Canadian curling supremacy, will be displayed in the Royal Curling Club of Edmonton this year.

In as disappointing a finale as the Dominion championships ever have witnessed, 46-year-old Cliff Manahan shoved "Junior" Welsh of Winnipeg through the finer points of the ancient Scottish game in a playoff for the title here yesterday. The score was 19-7.

Decidedly off the form that won 23 of the 29 games they played this winter, the Manitoba "kid" rink proved no match for the curling veterans from Alberta. The 27-year-old skip admitted it. "We were off," he said after the game. "Alberta was too good for us."

The big gallery expected superlative curling from the two western skips yesterday. Throughout a week of sensational play in the annual bonspiel, they had battled neck and neck for the leadership. They wound up Thursday night tied for first place, each with eight victories and but one defeat.

Welsh Nervous.

But nervousness appeared to grip the Welsh rink. Winner of the Tankard in 1933, Manahan got away to a flying start and was never touched. The Edmontonians held a 13-3 lead at the sixth end and a four on the eighth thoroughly smothered a fleeting Manitoba rally. Curling experience told in the crucial playoff. As far as Manahan was concerned, there was no "turning point" to the game. "We got the jump on them from the first, and started away from there," he said. The Winnipeg youngsters simply couldn't match the accuracy of the Manahan rink.

The win was Alberta's second since Macdonald's play began in 1927. Nova Scotia won the first national event in which only a handful of rinks participated. Manitoba took the title seven times in the intervening years. Ontario winning in 1935. Now the Brier has gained a second. All provinces competed. Northern Ontario sending a rink to the 'spiel as well.

TRENT RIVER WINS EDWARDS TROPHY

Beat Donegal 4-0 After Nosing Out Westwood And South Dummer

TRENT RIVER, March 6.—After tying Westwood Saturday night 1-1 and playing a two-all draw with South Dummer on Monday night, Trent River moved into the semi-finals in third place. On Tuesday night at the Norwood rink they took a 2-1 decision over the first place Westwood team and won the right to meet Donegal, who had raced out Eight.

In spite of the fact that Trent River had played Saturday, Monday and Tuesday nights, they had little trouble in downing of Donegal, shutting them out four to nothing, to take the league championship and the newly donated Edwards trophy.

This cup was presented to the East Peterborough Rural League by Mr. Holly Edwards of the King Edward Hotel, Norwood. In his fine gesture of sportsmanship, Mr. Edwards has sown the seed which no doubt will during the ensuing year, blossom into keen rivalry in this league.

Heretofore the boys have played merely for the glory of the game and the champions have had no tangible evidence of victory to prideful parade. With this beautiful cup as the "ring of hockey might" which must be won three years in succession before ownership can be claimed, there can be little doubt that from this year on the East Peterborough Rural League games will be worth watching.

Horner Again Leading In Penalties

A quick look at the records would indicate that "Red" Horner of Toronto Maple Leafs is living up to his reputation of bad man of the N.H.L. He is now leading the league in minutes spent in the penalty box, with over one hundred minutes to his "credit". At the first of the season he seemed to have cooled down and started out to play a good brand of hockey minus the penalties, but when the boys start mixing it up Mr. Horner is right in there.

TWEED IS BEATEN IN FIRST PLAY-OFF GAME BY MADOC

Best Game Of Season Sees Plenty Of Action For 3 To 2 Score

ONE GENUINE FIGHT

TWEED, March 6.—Playing before the largest crowd of the season, Tweed Intermediates were downed in the first game of the playoffs on Friday evening by the count of 3 to 2, by their bitter and aggressive rivals, Madoc. As a result of the game, Madoc carry a one goal lead into the next round on their own ice.

In the first period, Madoc jumped into a two goal lead when Akey, their star player, tallied twice. The first goal was the result of poor clearing, as Tummon had taken the puck carrier out of the play, and Marsh delayed his clearing of the puck, and Akey swept in from the side of the rink giving Thompson no chance. The second Madoc goal, was tallied when Tweed players were bottled up in their own end of the rink, and Alexander left uncovered, passed one out from behind the nets across the goal mouth to Akey who made no mistake on the result. For tripping Akey as he rushed in on one play, Tip Tummon took the bench and on the penalty shot, Thompson made the save, on an ankle high drive.

Second Period

Only one goal was tallied in the second period, with Courneyea rushing down the boards, to drive a waist high shot into the nets. The play in this period went mostly to the home forces, with Nicola displaying clever goal-tending. On three successive drives, Nicole ended up on the ice with the puck on top of him but Tweed was unable to make a counter. Tip Tummon and E. Tummon went off for the Tweed team while Ayleworth was given the only Madoc penalty of the period. The play at times proved to be rather rough with the body checks being handed out high, wide and handsome. Akey was the body checking demonstrator, and certainly made all that went near him know that he was present.

Third Period

In the last canto, both teams tallied once. Madoc, on a rather assembly play got the first goal of the period, when Emmury tallied the third goal for Madoc. This was a most unusual feature for Emmury, and he received a great ovation from the Madocites who came over en masse to boost their team. Early in the next minute, Harry Leal of Tweed and Kincaid of the Madoc forces went into a clinch, and it developed into a first class fight with both players laying it on; the referee, Holloway was rather helpless for the moment and in the melee several of the players received some rather bad bumps for trying to separate the fighters. When the two boys went to the penalty box for five minutes, they continued their battle, and had to be separated.

While the teams were short handed, Tip Tummon received his third penalty of the game, and the home forces played three to four. The penalty-killing team of Emmury and Long went onto the ice at this stage and made it not for the visitors, being all over the ice, checking and ragging the puck.

With a minute to go, Hailstone tripped Tip Tummon as he rushed in and went to the ice. On the penalty shot, Evan Tummon dashed down the ice, and tallied, as Nickle sprawled to save, the puck went under him into the nets. It was one of the best tallies of the season, and the crowd went wild.

Both teams put on a great exhibition, and although Tweed was without the services of Maguire, they put up a great game and should give a good account of themselves when they journey to Madoc.

For Madoc, Akey with his two counters, Alexander, and goalkeeper Nickle were the standouts, while E. Tummon, Shorty Long and Thompson with his spectacular saves in goal were the home forces favorites.

The game was well handled by "Bouncer" Holgway of Belleville, and nothing missed his attension. It appeared that every attitude of a mere trapdoor caught his attention, and at times had the fans rather peeved. The lineups:

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE-CRACKER.

Mister Sportin' Editor:

Well Mac, the best crack of the week was made by this bird Mister Bunny Morganson when he headed a spinkle in the Tells with something about the O.H.A. playoff system working perfectly. Aint that a laff, neighbors. Here's our colts been waiting a whole week now without nobody being able even to tell who if anybody they play in the next round of the junior B series which now in the 1st week in March has still got 10 or a dos. assorted teams scattered over the countryside. If that is working perfectly, old timer I hope we never have a season when the O.H.A. system finds itself in a jam.

The colts come through their hard series with the Kingston Kids all pepped up and raring to go places in the next round and they been waiting ever since for the moguls to remember they are still in the running and pick a opponent for them. It's got so kids week that all the follows on the sheet hated to go outside, so many folks hailed them with the same old question "Who do the lads play next?" The answer may be out by the time this is but at present your guess is as good as mine.

A Fighting Gang

If they never win another game Mac, the boys come insurgents proud by the fighting spirit they showed against Kingston. Their was times in that battle here when a gang with less courage mighve folded, notably when the Kingstons grabbed an easy goal in the 2nd period and evened up the score on the game after the Peles had battled for 25 minutes to carve 1 counter off the opposition lead. The Colts didn't fold. Instead they turned on the heat so smarty that by the end of the period they had the round sewed up and then they were out in the last 20 mins and grabbed off the round by a goal. It was a great game and a great fight and if you don't think the crowd liked it, Mac, you're goofy.

Sandy Claws Stuff

In the pro ranks Mac, the biggest feature these days seems to be the goal-scoring battle and that looks like a race on the part of the official scorers which can give the best imitation of Sandy Claws, with the Toronto scorer out in front and going away. He give 3 points to Mister Syl Apps last Sat. nite that was pure gifts and the 1st of them bust 2 different scoring rules. You see according to the regulations they is no assist if the puck is touched by 1 of the other side during the play leading up to the score and they aint no assist when the score is made from a rebound. In this particular play Mister Apps fired a long shot at the Maroons goal which Mister Beveridge blocked. Mister Northcott of the Maroons gathered in the rubber on the rebound and attempted to bang it down the ice. However Mister Jackson had other ideas and he stopped the puck out near the blue line, took a pot shot and beat the goalie and the good-natured cuss whist hands out the Toronto points immediately marks Mister Apps with a assist. Aint that cute? Which reminds me of the story told of Mister Marker of the Maroons who scored a honey of a goal in a recent setto and immediately skated over to the official scorer and yelled, "Oracle and Cain set assists on that 1." "Dizzy for Gracie," says the scorer. "He was in the dressing-room getting a skate fixed." "Oh, that's where he was," says Mister Marker. "It's a great racket."

Well Mac, we aint got Mister Lou Gehrig signed yet but that aint our problem, any way.

Nothing more for now
Sportfully Yours
A. Wise Cracker

MONTREAL, QUEBEC BALK AT PLAYING FINALS IN WEST

Hockey Association Expected To Ignore Holdouts—Maritimes In Finals

SUDBURY LEADS IN NORTH

TORONTO, Mar. 6 (CP)—If Montreal Royals and Quebec Aces would pause before Eastern Canada's senior hockey panorama would be rosy. Retreat of the two clubs to agree to staging Allan Cup finals in the west has been the only hitch so far in the East's race to provide a challenger.

Montreal and Quebec say as far as they're concerned finals at Calgary in April are out—but their stand is not expected to bother the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association much. Last year Hamilton Tigers refused to play a game at Toronto and the C.A.H.A. promptly continued playdowns minus the powerful Tigers.

Otherwise the campaign rolls smoothly in the East. Already New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island have declared champions.

Nova Scotia is down to finals and chases in the Ottawa district. The Ontario Hockey Association and the Northern Ontario Hockey Association are nicely advanced.

Aces and Royals are finalists in the Montreal group and the survivor will be a strong contender if it does enter the playdowns. Aces knocked off McGill's International Intercollegiate champions in playoffs.

Moncton Best In N.B.

Last night Moncton Maroons retained the New Brunswick title by blasting Bathurst, 11-4, taking the round 23-7. Maroons will meet Charlottetown Abcwetis, Prince Edward Island champions, in the next round and the survivor will play the winner between Berwick and Antigonish, Nova Scotia finalists.

The Ottawa district still presents five teams, two of them intermediate. Cornwall Flyers and Hull Volants are tied at one win each in their best-of-five round. Smiths Falls is marking time after eliminating Hull 6t. Gerard's; Ottawa Canoes and Marville are the intermediates playing off for the right to continue in senior competition.

Sudbury Tigers, who played as Frood Mine during the regular schedule, are one game up on Kirkland Lake in N.O.H.A. senior finals. Frood has been strengthened by the addition of six other Sudbury players but the management says the extras—all stars—will not be used unless it becomes necessary.

Toronto Goodyears and Toronto Dominions will start their round for the O.H.A. senior title next week. Dominions earned their way into finals last night by ousting Toronto Consols with a 3-1 decision in the third game of semi-finals.

Trenton Flyers, representing the Royal Canadian Air Force base, won the O.H.A. intermediate A crown this week and will play Port Colborne, only senior B team in the province, for the right to oppose the senior A winners.

BRITISH HOCKEY GOVERNING HEADS MAY BE CHANGED

Rink Managers Threaten To Form Body Of Own Following Association Tactics

"BEHIND THE TIMES"

LONDON, March 6—(CP)—Friction between rink managers and the British Ice Hockey Association threatens to rob the amateur governing body of control of hockey in England. Dissatisfied with B.I.H.A. treatment, the managers are threatening to form a body of their own to be known as the "Hockey Promoters Association."

Backed by team owners, the managers complain that the association is completely out of touch with modern conditions and indifferent to financial developments that have popularized the sport in England.

Relations between the Association and the Earl's Court rink are particularly strained and recently F. L. Summerhayes, Earl's Court managing director openly defied the Association.

Three members of the two Earl's Court teams—Rangers and Royals—were selected on England's team to compete in the world's championship. On the night they were to play their first game for England Earl's Court Royals and Rangers were scheduled to play a National League match.

All three players—Jimmy Chappell, Paul McPhail and Johnny Abbesson—are English born and this left Royals and Rangers without their quota of two native players as required by Association rules. Summerhayes suggested an exemption from the rule for one game but the Association refused.

The Earl's Court managing director then declared he would not grant the three players permission to play for England. Finally, the B.I.H.A. had to accept his ultimatum and suspend the rule.

A. J. Elvin, managing director of Wembley Stadium and Empire Pool, is also backing the Amateur Association. "More people with a financial interest in the game must be given seats on the board," he declares. "The game has advanced out of all recognition in the past few years but the Association has not advanced with it."

Manager Langdon of Brighton and Richmond Stadiums is also peeved at the attitude of the Association. "Control of ice hockey should be taken out of their hands," he says. "They should have nothing to do with the game other than deal with the questions of amateur status. They are purely an amateur body."

Langdon suggests the alternative will be outlaw hockey.

DYNAMITERS GROW ANXIOUS FOR HOME

Kimberly Squad Fed Up With Touring Over Europe—Only One Loss

LONDON, March 6—(CP)—World hockey champions and winners of 28 of 30 exhibition games, Kimberley Dynamiters will be happy young men when they roll through Crow's Nest Pass on the way to their British Columbia home.

They think touring Europe all winter and winning the world title for Canada has been grand but they are more than slightly fed up with travelling now and looking forward to their imminent departure for home.

Dynamiters have but only one game since they arrived in Europe. That was Thursday night when they were defeated 3-2 by Harringay Racers of the English National League. They tied one game with a team in Germany which was made up of Canadian players.

Coach Johnny Achtemer didn't have things as easy as they anticipated. In Czechoslovakia and Switzerland the Allan Cup holders met teams which would give any Canadian club amateur moments. Achtemer, formerly a professional, refused an offer to remain in England and coach a team as one of the larger risks. He decided against remaining in this country.

UNCLE WIGGILY FINDS HIS HAT

"Quick! Quick! Do something!" cried Uncle Wiggily to the Snow Bird. "Save me!"

"Don't be afraid," chirped the bird, flying around Uncle Wiggily's head. "There is no danger."

"Yes may say that about yourself but what about me?" asked the rabbit gentleman. "I haven't wings like you. Oh, I'm falling! Falling!"

Truly Uncle Wiggily was falling. The worst of it was he was falling down. Oh, yes, you can fall up, too. Did you ever fall up the steps?

Of course that isn't quite as bad as falling down. It isn't so far. But all Uncle Wiggily was thinking of now was that he was falling down, down, down.

The March wind had blown off his hat. And as the hat was tied to the rabbit gentleman by a long string, of course when the hat went up like a kite or balloon, so did he.

Then he met the Snow Bird. The Snow Bird cut the string and, with the hat no longer holding him up, the bunny fell.

"But you aren't going to get hurt," said the bird.

"I shall be badly hurt when I hit the ground," said the rabbit.

"You won't hit the ground if you use your parachute!" said the bird. "Open your parachute, Uncle Wiggily!"

"My parachute?"

"Certainly. Your umbrella!"

For the first time since he had started this adventure, Uncle Wiggily remembered he had taken his umbrella with him. He had it now, under one paw.

"Open your umbrella," said the Snow Bird who was following the rabbit on his trip back to earth. "That's all a parachute is, even the kind the airplane pilots bail out with—just something like a big umbrella. Open yours and you will fall to the ground as lightly as one of my feathers."

"Oh, sure enough! My umbrella! I forgot it!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. He was feeling jolly now. In a moment he opened his umbrella. It showed his fall and he began to float gently to the ground. The Snow Bird flew down with him.

"What did I tell you?" asked the bird.

"You were right," agreed Mr. Longears. "But where is my hat?"

"Oh, your hat must have flown a long way off after I cut the string," chirped the bird. "I wouldn't worry about that."

Searches for Hat

"Oh, I must have my hat," said Mr. Longears. "I can't go home without it. But I'll hop around and find it." So Uncle Wiggily began hopping to find his lost hat.

Now when his hat was cut loose it also, like a parachute, fell to the ground. It fell in a patch of woods where the Bob Cat was asleep and the hat fell right on the Bob Cat's head.

"Oh, my goodness!" mewed the Bob Cat, suddenly awakening. "Why," he purred, "this is Uncle Wiggily's hat. Hurray! Uncle Wiggily must be coming this way. I'll catch him. He sent his hat on ahead to tell me he was coming! Oh, what luck!"

So the Bob Cat took the bunny's hat and hid in the bushes. But when Mr. Longears came hopping softly along, looking for his hat, and saw the Bad Chap, the bunny turned around and went home. So quietly the Bob Cat with the hat never saw the rabbit.

"Let him keep the hat," said the rabbit. "I can buy a new one but I couldn't buy new ears if the Bob Cat chewed them off." So all was well.

And if the bath tub will give the hair brush a permanent wave I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's new cap.

The Day That I Forget

By MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER 26

IF JANET, during these first days of her return, had told Joel what was in her mind, asked him to clear away the tangling webs that were confusing her, she might have spared herself much pain. But she thought she knew the way a man's mind worked and so she kept silent.

Between her and Joel there had never been any scenes and she wanted to keep the personal side of his life free of them.

She saw marked changes in him that were indicative of his changing attitude toward his life and his work. He was still sweet, always considerate of her. There was no change in his feeling or his attitude toward her.

But there was a change in him.

He was acting like a movie idol. The great screen lover was beginning to take his attractiveness seriously.

His manner toward all women had always been courteous. Now it had a new quality. He played back to them. He sought admiration from them and he expanded under it. His watchfulness no longer had the quality of complete naturalness. Trained before the camera to make the most of his mannerisms, he carried them into the drawing rooms and paraded them, not too obviously but more effectively for the benefit of all.

Janet watched and was saddened but she kept her silence as always.

When she became aware of the change in Joel, she ceased to worry about Carol Griest. She understood the situation. She knew that Joel was flattered by the attentions of the glamorous star.

She was fair in her attitude about that. She did not delude herself into thinking that any man was strong enough to withstand the flattering attentions of a beautiful woman. She knew that she was not any more fascinating that she was not any more fascinating than any other wife is to a husband to whom she had been married for three years. She knew that she was a good companion. She knew that Joel's passion for her had not waned and so she did not doubt his fidelity.

But sometimes she thought that fidelity was not the most important thing in marriage.

And she was aware of all the things in marriage that form the bonds that weave two lives together. She and Joel, with the exception of their first few months of marriage, had had nothing to build together. Money had come to them so quickly that they had had no struggles to share and bind them. They had no children. They had no friends of lifelong duration.

Everything that they had was an open book shared by the others in their world. In Hollywood, pasts were dimmed in no time and futures were vague. Friendships weren't made to endure a lifetime nor were they based on mutual affections. Friendships were made by studio associations and bound by the frail ties of shared work that was as unsteady as any such castles built on sand.

Standards were formed on a basis of success.

And the only success that Janet wanted, or could have, was in her marriage. The value of marriage was not raised as high in her society as it was in her own mind.

Janet was an individual in a group of groups. In these groups, men and women did not act as persons, they acted as part of the group. What one did, another did.

Janet followed suit.

When she was laid up with a mild attack of influenza, she insisted that Joel carry on. It wasn't good for him, she said, to work hard at the studio all day and come home to a house of illness.

So she read herself sleepy in the confines of her lovely bedroom where she was attended by a trained nurse, while Joel went to his parties.

The first few nights, he stole softly into her room to tell her about them, to kiss her good night. But then as a week stretched on into the second one, he stopped those visits and Janet had only the telephone to bring her his voice.

Then she was up and dressed for the first time and Joel was anxious to get home early. He took Janet home and accepted her invitation to step for something to eat.

Janet had loved the concert. Joel was bored. She was glad to have Larry to talk it over with her. He shared her enjoyment of music and knew no more about it than she did.

It was after 1 when he left.

The next week, he rang her up and asked her if she'd like to go to hear "La Boheme" which was being sung by a visiting opera company at the Hollywood Bowl.

He didn't ask her if Joel would like to go. It was the first invitation she had received from a man since she had been married. Larry was a friend of Joel's and she didn't know how to answer him. She said she'd love to go but she wasn't quite sure whether she had made arrangements for that evening and asked him to call her back.

She wanted to talk it over with Joel.

"I'd really love to go, Joel, but I feel so queer about accepting an invitation that doesn't include you. You don't really care about opera, though, do you?"

Joel laughed at her anxiety. "Little goose, you know I simply loath opera. Go ahead by all means."

She said yes, he had. And she thought: But I'll never want to go with anyone else in preference to you. She wanted to say: You can talk about freedom in marriage but you can't make yourself feel free, you shouldn't want to.

She knew that by giving her her ticket to such things, Joel was making himself free as he wanted her to be.

She went to the opera with Larry Kelton and put her mind in order as precisely as she dressed. She was going to enjoy herself. She wasn't going to feel like an old-fashioned wife. She was modern.

She learned to be modern. She played golf with Jim Somebody or other who was visiting from New York. She met a foreign director at the Jarrel's house and accepted his invitation to cocktails one afternoon. She forgot to tell Joel that the flowers she wore that night were from Franz, the director. She gave all the outward appearances of having a lovely time, killing time with a number of people. But she was not having a lovely time.

There was a nameless ache in her heart when she thought of the days and nights that she had shared—with anyone else in preference to Joel—with Joel. Joel was not "running around" but he had his dates as casually as she had hers and apparently it did not disturb their happiness or their routine.

But Janet could have had three dates a day with three different men and she couldn't have told you a thing one of them said to her when the date was over. Her dates were only shadows blending into the shadows of those passing days.

Then she met Russell Bode.

Tweed Man Fined For Road Accident

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, March 6.—A motor accident was reported to the Belleville police on Thursday evening by John Wood of Trenton. Mr. Wood informed the authorities that his automobile had been struck by another motor car travelling in the opposite direction, which failed to stop. Later police apprehended Lauglen Ketcheson of Tweed, who on Friday morning pleaded guilty to the charge of failing to allow an oncoming motor vehicle one half of the highway contrary to the Highway Traffic Act. There was no great amount of damage, only the paint being scraped off Mr. Wood's car, pleaded T. D. Corcoran, Tweed barrister, who appeared on behalf of the accused. A fine of three dollars and costs was paid.

Here's Simple Way to Curb a Cold

Two "ASPIRIN" Tablets—A Full Glass of Water—That's All

The modern way to curb a cold is this: Two "Aspirin" tablets the moment you feel a cold coming on. Then repeat, if necessary, according to instructions in the box.

At the same time, if you have a sore throat, crush and dissolve three "Aspirin" tablets in one-third glass of water. And gargle with this mixture twice.

The "Aspirin" you take internally will act to combat fever, cold pains and the cold itself. The gargle will act as a medicinal gargle to provide almost instant relief from rawness and pain. It is really marvelous: for it acts like a local anesthetic on the irritated membrane of your throat.

Try this way. Your doctor, we know, will endorse it. For it is quick, effective and ends the taking of strong medicines for a cold.

● "Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

would be moved to the opposition benches. He would purge the members of their association with Dr. Roberts. He read a resolution of confidence in him passed by the Liberal members an hour or so previously.

Recalls Price Rebuke

The premier's memory went back to last session when he recalled the House passed censure on W. H. Price (Con., Toronto-Parkdale) for allegedly saying Dr. Roberts "for political favors was willing to kiss any part of the body of Dr. Godfrey he might care to expose."

The statement, which Mr. Price claimed was inaccurate went back to the time Dr. Roberts was a member of the Conservative Association of York West, represented by Dr. Forbes Godfrey, then Conservative minister of health.

By a 68-14 vote the legislature upheld the honor of the Sault's Newfoundland-born representative and censured Mr. Price.

Shortly before the Roberts incident, a bill was introduced by W. J. Chardhouse (Lib., York West) to make Ontario's floral emblem the white trillium, sometimes known as "the white lily of peace."

Thinks Cauliflower Better

"It should be the cauliflower in view of some of the happenings around this House," said Leopold Macaulay (Con., York South) with a sly glance at Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Lands and Forests, the cabinet's fighting Irishman. Last week Mr. Macaulay said everybody knew to be true something not admitted officially. This was that Mr. Heenan had thrown a cabinet colleague out of his office.

Legislature members were talking today of the week's stirring events in the House. Tuesday night Premier Hepburn caused a sudden adjournment when Mr. Heenan persistently defied the Speaker by rising to halt interruptions of George S. Henry, Conservative House leader, and wound up by labelling the opposition chief a "Dumb Dora." But this incident ended happily all round and the next day the three concerned were smiling.

Yesterday Mr. Hepburn diverged from his condemnation of Dr. Roberts to pay a tribute to Mr. Henry as a considerate opponent.

"I give him credit for the diligent manner in which he discharges his duties as leader of the opposition," he said. "He is a man of independent means. Yet he denies himself the comforts of home life in the public's service. It is characteristic of him."

UNEMPLOYMENT

United States had done so and taken steps to meet it in the present and in the future.

War Scare Bringing Work.

Much of the improvement in industry was due to the war scare. The Government could not claim credit for additional employment in nickel and iron and steel industries as soon as the war scare passed that activity would disappear.

Mr. Lawson said every declaration of policy by a Conservative was treated as an election promise but Liberals forgot their own promises.

At Vancouver Prime Minister Mackenzie King had pledged himself to the democratization of industry, to give labor an equal share with capital in the formation of industry. The Government had done nothing to carry out that promise.

"If the Minister of Labor (Hon. Norman Rogers) had given as much attention to carrying out the policies of his leader as he did to fussing with the National Employment Commission he might have accomplished more for the unemployed," said Mr. Lawson.

One Big Happy Family.

Mr. Lawson said the Government had promised co-operation in the fight against unemployment and other problems because practically all Governments in the country would be Liberal. The Prime Minister had said if his party was elected the Dominion and Provincial Governments would be "one big happy family." Only recently, Mr. Lawson said, he had heard of one Ontario minister protesting bitterly because he could get no co-operation from Ottawa.

If there was to be co-operation between the Dominion and Provinces, Mr. Lawson asked why they did not get together and agree upon social legislation so badly needed.

Mr. Johnston commended the Government for continuing the policy of coal subventions, but criticized the Wheat Board operations. It was not generally known, Mr. Johnston said, that farmers never got the top prices for their wheat. They must sell in the fall when the prices are lowest and speculators reaped the benefits of high prices.

Mr. Lockhart recalled he had opposed creation of the National Employment Commission last year and said he had greater reason to oppose it now. Conditions were improving, but young Canadians in increasing numbers were asking when they were to be provided with employment as promised in pre-election pledges and unemployment was increasing.

The Home Improvement Loan was a worthy piece of legislation, but was of no use to the man without a job, he added.

Criticism Too Soon.

Mr. Tucker submitted Conservative Leader Bennett's budget amendment was moved with the knowledge that it was not doing justice to the Government whose measures had hardly time to become effective. He was glad, however, Labor Minister Rogers had not expressed satisfaction with the employment situation, but had said instead that he was encouraged and confident.

He would not pretend, Mr. Tucker said, that he was in accord with all the policies of the government.

"Monetary policies?" suggested Mr. Bennett.

Mr. Tucker agreed, but asked the Conservative leader if he, as a young man, had not been opposed to some policies of the government he supported but had continued loyal because he thought it the best government.

Mr. Bennett observed that he had voted against his own party, and Mr. Tucker replied that it was possible he might some day do the same. No government could possibly do everything each of its supporters thought it should do.

Again the member for Restigouche clashed with the Conservative leader when he deplored the textile industry. In 29 years the Dominion textiles had made an average of 97 per cent. on its investment in common shares, Mr. Tucker said. He suggested it would have been better if the tariff protection had been lowered. The industry would then have sold more, employed more workers and distributed more of the profits among the workers.

Their Pact Halts Possible Strike

MYRON C. TAYLOR JOHN L. LEWIS

Probably the biggest piece of labor news ever announced in America came as a result of a secret meeting between these two men—Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the giant U. S. Steel Corporation, and John L. Lewis, the powerful leader of industrial unionism. Announcement that the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Co., largest unit of U.S. Steel, had agreed to negotiate with Lewis' union, is considered momentous. Meanwhile, the steel mills are approaching an all-time high record.

Mount Pleasant Women's Institute Discusses Proposal—Will Hold Crokinole Party

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MOUNT PLEASANT, March 6.—The March meeting of the Mount Pleasant Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. T. C. Morden on Wednesday with a good attendance of members.

The vice-president, Mrs. G. Shield, in the chair and conducted the meeting. The roll call, "A Wise Saying of Fathers," was answered by eight members.

Reports of the various committees were given by the convenors.

Now he was obliged to divert the resulting surplus to forging weapons of defence "which bring no economic return."

Taxpayers had to prepare for further sacrifices. The government had never hesitated to call upon taxpayers for sacrifices when necessary.

In an address at Taunton the home secretary, Sir John Simon, said the defence program was far more likely to provide a basis on which an international limitation of armaments might be obtained than unilateral disarmament. Parliamentary institutions were on trial, he said. It was in Britain that the fight for democracy had to be fought and won.

Leopold Amery, former colonial secretary and Conservative member of parliament in an address at York said the burden of defence could only be borne by all partners of the empire. "A foreign policy that is looked upon with mistrust and misgiving by the Dominions is fatal to the unity of the Empire," he declared.

FOREIGN LIGHTS FOR CORONATION

British-Made Bulbs To Be Used In Trinidad Total Only 6,000

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Mar. 6.—When Trinidad celebrates in connection with the coronation ceremonies in London, May 12, British-made electric light bulbs will be far outnumbered by those of foreign manufacture, a survey here has revealed.

At a meeting of the Finance Committee of the Island, it was said there were enough bulbs in the colony for the occasion and the proposal of the Coronation Committee to guarantee the Trinidad Electric Company against loss on importation of other bulbs was deemed unnecessary.

(The Coronation Committee had advised the Government, should it guarantee the company against loss for the purchase of more than 13,500 colored bulbs of British make for use during the celebration.)

There were on the Island, the committee reported, about 20,000 lights, of which 6,000 were of British make.

SOCIAL CREDIT COHORTS STAND WITH ABERHART

Carry On—With You 100 Per Cent. Say Letters Received By Premier

"99 P.C. SATISFIED"

Leader However Admits a Few Former Members Advise Resigning

By J. C. Sanderson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

EDMONTON, March 8 (CP) — Members of the Social Credit League, the political organization behind the government of Premier William Aberhart, apparently are satisfied with his efforts to establish a new economic order in Alberta.

Judging by letters and resolutions the premier read to the Edmonton Prophetic Bible Conference last night, he will be confirmed in office by league members. A week ago he admitted to them his failure to establish Social Credit in the time-limit of 18 months he set during the election campaign and asked them to advise whether they wanted him to resign or continue his efforts.

The premier last night read from letters and resolutions he had received in the week, while admitting it was impossible for many organizations to hold meetings in that time.

The following were samples: "Stay with the post, we are behind you 100 per cent"; "stay with the government, do not let the opposition scare you"; "Wishing you the best luck on the debt adjustment, with you 100 per cent."

99 Per Cent Satisfied.

A resolution read: "A motion was made and carried that you should not put your resignation to a vote in June as we feel that 99 per cent of all Social Crediters are well satisfied."

Another resolution read: "It is our hope and wish that you continue as premier until your promise can be fulfilled and, if this is not possible, continue just the same because we have had one man who at least tried something."

The premier said he had received a few letters signed "Former Social Crediters," advising him to resign. "That was fair," he commented, "and I answer you, if I get enough of them, I shall not take long to decide what to do. I would ask, however, when you say you are a former Social Crediter, you should tell to what group you belonged and who the president was."

Premier Aberhart repeated he was willing to stay on the job if his followers desired.

"We are still prepared to press on if you desire it. I promised to let you know in 18 months and be guided by your decision whether I should press on or not. I have no intention to quit unless you desire.

"I have no particular desire for high office if I cannot help my fellow men or if they do not want me to try. I am willing to give over to anyone else whom you desire to have whenever you so desire it.

"In the meantime, I shall do the best I can to give you honest government and to press forward for deliverance from economic bondage."

17-YEAR DETROIT GIRL MURDERED

Police Issue Warning To Avoid Dark Places After Five

Assaults

DETROIT, March 8.—(AP).— A sudden series of attacks on women, climaxed by the brutish murder of 17-year-old Bernice Ontsko in suburban Hamtramck, spurred a police round-up of suspicious characters to-day.

Questioning of 20 men, however, yielded authorities no clues to the girl's death, discovered Sunday morning when her bruised body was found.

Police awaited an autopsy to-day to determine the cause of death. Miss Ontsko, one of five children in a worker's family, apparently was seized and criminally attacked. Police Capt. John Sikorski said, upon her way home from church. She was the daughter of Mrs. Cecelia Ontsko.

Five attacks or attempted assaults on women had been reported by police Friday night. Police warned women to "avoid all dark places" until Miss Ontsko's assailant is captured.

No Barricading Of Shops Or Attempts At Ejection Reported

DETROIT, March 8—(A.P.).—Richard T. Frankensteen, organizational director of the United Automobile Workers of American, announced this afternoon that strikes had been called in all major units of the Chrysler Corporation in Detroit.

The announcement climaxed a day of rapid-fire developments which included strikes in the Chevrolet Motor Co. plant at Flint, and the Hudson Motor Car Co. and the Packard Motor Car Co. in Detroit, and the refusal of Chrysler Corporation officials to recognize the U.A.W.A. as sole collective bargaining agency in its plants.

The main Chrysler plant in Highland Park, scene of negotiations between the union and the corporation, still was operating at 2.10 p.m., but a company officials said he understood a strike was to become effective there soon.

Several Branches Close

DETROIT, March 8 (AP)—A sit-down strike affecting 5,500 of the 10,000 employees of the Hudson Motor Car Co. closed several departments of the plant shortly after noon (E.S.T. today).

6,400 Involved

FLINT, Mich., March 8 (AP)—A strike in the motor assembly division of the Chevrolet Motor Co. office in Maritnez said the movement "dwarfed the sit-downs" they had felt since the 1906 San Francisco disaster. The quake started an Albany burglar alarm ringing.

Hercules Logan, night deputy in the sheriff's office at Martinez, reported the quake shook the Granite building "like it was nothing." He heard of no damage, however.

Thousands were awakened by the shock which the coast guard station at Fort Funston described as "sharp." Telephones in newspaper offices rang almost continuously for an hour after the quake.

Bottles on liquor store shelves were shaken to the floor and broken in an Albany store. A crowd of men gathered in front waiting for the proprietor in hopes of helping dispose of the salvage.

The shock was less severe in San Francisco, where the Telephone Company reported hundreds of Calls by alarmed residents. Telephone exchanges were so badly swamped it sometimes took 15 minutes to get through a call.

Dr. Perry Byerly, of the University of California said the seismograph at Berkeley indicated the quake was "within 30, probably 15 miles."

TWO MEET DEATH ON ITALIAN LINER IN ATLANTIC GALE

Scores Injured As Rex Is Buffeted Badly Off Gibraltar

TRIP TAKES NINE DAYS

GENOA, Italy, March 8 (AP) — Two persons were fatally injured, it was learned today, when the Italian liner Rex heeled over under the impact of a mountainous wave off Gibraltar during one of the stormiest passages of the Atlantic ever made.

Scores of passengers were injured when the huge wave, described as "a mountain of water," broke over the vessel last Thursday. The list of injured for the crossing totalled more than 70.

A first class passenger of Italian nationality and a member of the crew died later from injuries. The wave was the greatest of a series go high they swept the famed Lido deck of the former blue ribbon holder.

Most of the injured passengers were watching a motion picture in the grand salon when the wall of water struck.

The film Ave Maria, had just reached its climax with Bevia Mino Giglis singing the Toreador Song when the liner lurched over and the audience was hurled across the floor of the salon.

The Italian passenger suffered an abdominal rupture and died two days later. The seaman, fatally injured, was thrown against a stanchion in another part of the ship and his backbone was broken.

An emergency operation was performed on the seaman during the storm but lack of facilities aboard for a blood transfusion was understood to have handicapped the effort.

The Rex docked yesterday after a nine-day crossing from New York.

ITALIAN SAVAGERY ROUSES PROTEST

British M.P.'s Hear Innocent Suffered With Guilty In Addis Ababa Affair

LONDON, March 8.—(AP)—Members of the House of Commons today assailed the "savagery" with which, they said, Italian troops in Addis Ababa carried out reprisals against natives suspected of the recent attempt to assassinate Viceroy Rodolfo Graziani.

Replying for the government to questions, Viscount Cranborne, undersecretary of state for foreign affairs said:

"Although His Majesty's government have been unable to get full information, it has been learned that the soldiers took severe reprisals, causing a large number of deaths and extensive destruction of property."

Horne dispatches in February, following the wounding of Graziani and several of his aides by bombs throwing Ethiopians, stated scores of Ethiopians were tried summarily, taken to the edge of Addis Ababa and executed by firing squads.)

Three Labor members—Lieut. L. R. Fletcher, Arthur Henderson and Philip Noel-Baker—asked questions concerning the attempted assassination at Addis Ababa.

"Are the government aware that these reprisals were carried out with a savagery equalling the worst atrocities in Africa?" Fletcher queried.

"I am aware there have been reports," replied Lord Cranborne, "and I am sorry to say our reports partly bear them out."

"Is it not true the Italian authorities lost their heads and a certain proportion of those injured were absolutely innocent?" asked Henderson.

ADVENTURER DIES IN YACHT WRECK

Russian Well Known In Canada As Newsman—Woman Companion Lost

EXMOUTH, England, March 8 (C.P.). — Search was carried on today for the body of a woman believed to have drowned with Constantin Zolotoohin, Russian adventurer and newspaperman well known in Canada, following grounding of his small yacht here yesterday.

The body of Zolotoohin, better known in Canada as Serge Zolo and for several years a member of the Montreal Herald Staff, was picked up yesterday on the shore of the Exe River directly opposite the spot where the yacht Rona was driven ashore.

His woman companion, named Phyllis, was first believed to have been his wife, but later word from Victoria, B.C., was that Mrs. Zolotoohin had not accompanied her husband when he left Canada recently for England. The adventurous Russian's wife was said to have remained in Victoria with her mother, Mrs. J. Courlay Lang.

Phyllis was believed to have been Zolo's secretary.

When the Rona grounded on the sandy shore, Zolo and his companion apparently took to a small boat. When the body was found it wore a life preserver and another was nearby, as though it might have slipped from his companion's hand.

Son of Russian General.

Zolo was apparently en route from Dartmouth to Brixham when caught in the storm. He was believed to be the son of a Russian general killed in the 1917 Revolution. His

COMMONS RESENTS VON RIBBENTROP'S COLONY SPEECH

Suggest Ambassadors Named To Deal With Governments, Not Public Propaganda

ACT TERMED "UNUSUAL"

By George Hambleton
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, March 8—(CP Cable)—Resentment smouldered in the German ambassador to London, received a quiet rap over the fingers in the House of Commons this afternoon.

It was over his Leipzig speech, in which Von Ribbentrop demanded return of the old German colonies.

Commander Reginald Fletcher, Labor, raised the point in question and asked whether representations would be made to the German government that the British government did not propose to transfer any colonies.

Viscount Cranborne, undersecretary for foreign affairs, referred Fletcher to Foreign Secretary Eden's statement in the House that the British government had not considered and were not considering such a transfer.

"Is it not the case," Fletcher pursued, "that ambassadors are accredited for the express purpose of discussing such matters as this with the government to which they are accredited instead of making them subject to political speeches and propaganda."

Labor members cheered.

Lord Cranborne added he had read a report of the Leipzig speech but did not think formal action was necessary or desirable.

140 MILES OFF BILBAO

Incident Bodes Ill For Neutrality Patrol Of Spanish Peninsula

LONDON, March 8—(AP)— Four British destroyers were rushed at forced draft through the Bay of Biscay today to the point where a vessel believed to be the British motorship Adda sent out an SOS, reporting she had been bombarded and was sinking.

One version of the SOS said the ship reported she was being raked from fore to aft by fire from "an unidentified warship."

The SOS was received both by Lloyds, the great marine underwriters, and by the Croix D'Hins Grande wireless station in France. The bay area is a hotbed of Spanish sea and air warfare.

140 Miles Off Shore.

"Fire aboard—sinking" said the message picked up by Lloyds. The position given was roughly about 140 miles out of the bay.

The Admiralty announced the destroyers Echo, Escapade, Encounter and Escapade were foaming in the scene.

The motorship Adda is a vessel of 8,000 tons operated by the Elder Dempster Line, Liverpool. She was built in 1933 at Greenock.

However, an official of the Elder Dempster line here said "As far as we know, we have no ship in the position of the one given in the radio messages."

That position put the vessel almost exactly notch of Bilbao, Spain.

Latest of Dangerous Events.

The SOS brought word of the latest of a series of dangerous international marine incidents arising out of attempts, both by the Spanish government and the Spanish insurgents, to keep foreign ships from reaching enemy ports.

The incidents have occurred off every Spanish coast, from the Bay of Biscay to the Straits of Gibraltar, and on east and north to the Catalan coast.

Recently three ships, one British, one French and one Greek, struck mines—with serious damage and, in the case of the Greek ship, loss of life—off Catalonia, on the Eastern Mediterranean coats of Spain.

The incidents boded ill for the projected neutrality patrol of Spain by warships of Britain, France, Germany and Italy, which the international non-intervention committee today decided to attempt on March 13.

The insurgent cruiser Canarias has been especially active in the Bay of Biscay area. Last Thursday, this warship captured the Spanish government steamer Galdames, carrying 180 men, women and children, from an escort of armed government craft. The Canarias' shells killed two women and four children aboard the Galdames. The rest were imprisoned in Spanish insurgent territory.)

The latest messages gave the call letters of the sinking vessel as "GJPR," which are those of the Adda, in the African service.

Passengers Aboard

They said the fire still was burning aboard the ship and that "passengers" — the number unstated — still were aboard. The ship was bis below the loadline.

One message read: "We are lost—fire aboard—these are passengers—we ask help!"

There was no more word of the attacking vessel, presumably a participant in the intense Spanish air and sea warfare which has ravaged the broad and busy bay for months.

LABORITES MAKE BID FOR POWER AFTER LONDON WIN

Draft Program Calling For Control Of Finance, Transportation, Power By The Nation

ON SOCIALIST LINES

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—The Labor party made a new bid for power today after consolidating its strength in the London county council elections.

A Socialist program for the economic reorganization of Great Britain, calling for control of finance, transportation, coal and power by the nation, was drawn up by the party's executive committee.

A Labor government, if returned to power, would attempt to put the program into effect, the committee said.

Clement Atlee, leader of the opposition, declared "Our plans deal with the immediate situation as we find it, and lay the foundation for a socialist commonwealth."

The party program promised that the Bank of England would become a public institution, a national investment board would be formed to control new investments, and railroad nationalization would be instituted for the coal, gas and electricity industries.

The Daily Mail criticised the program as "visionary and dangerous" and said "it appears that the socialist ideal is to pull credit and industry to pieces at home and involve Britain in any war that breaks out anywhere."

The News Chronicle disagreed with The Mail's editorial position, declaring "Whatever else they may be advocating, it is assuredly not violent political or economic change."

Identification Card Needed When John Doe Travelling

Michigan Banker Finds Difficulty Cashing Cheques And Registering At Hotels

ROE ALSO HAS TROUBLE

DETROIT, March 8 (C.P.). — Identification cards are important to John O. Doe of Kalamazoo, Mich., and Richard F. Roe of Tecumseh, Mich., because everywhere they go they are suspected of using fictitious names made famous by the legal profession and used extensively in banking instruction forms.

They are experts familiar with widespread use of their names to cover anonymity because Doe is a banker and Roe a lawyer.

Roe said he enrolled as R. Fred Roe at University of Michigan because "I knew my name would provide a field day for campus wits," but he changed his mind about hiding his anonymous anonymity by the time he was graduated.

Doe, Federal Land Bank representative in 13 counties of South-western Michigan, finds his principal trouble in cashing cheques, registering at hotels, signing papers, and appearing as a witness in courts where he is not known.

Shock Of Winning $150,000 Proves Fatal To Railroader

Excitement Over Luck In Sweepstakes Is Too Much For Weak Heart

HAD HAD ENOUGH WORK

HALIFAX, March 8 (C.P.). — C. W. Lutes, 68, retired railway man who won $150,000 on an Irish sweepstakes ticket, died here yesterday. He held a ticket on Dan Bulger, winner of the Cambridgeshire Stakes last October 26.

All Lutes wanted to do with the money, he said soon after the race, was to return with Mrs. Lutes to their little cottage at nearby Enfield. He'd had enough travelling on trains.

He had been confined to his hotel suite here practically since the day he received word he held a ticket on Dan Bulger.

Leftist Commander Fears Troops Unable To Stem Coming Drive

20,000 Tons Food Behind Rebel Lines Ready For Population After City Falls

ROAD TO VALENCIA OPEN

Lisbon Dispatches Say Six Government Ships Captured In Mediterranean Sunday

PARIS, March 8—(UP).—Unconfirmed reports from Spain last night said General Jose Miaja, supreme loyalist commander in Central Spain, telegraphed the Valencia Government that he could "no longer guarantee the safety of Madrid" and that the Capital should be abandoned.

Miaja was said to fear that his armies would be unable to withstand an expected mass attack by Rebel General Francisco Franco, who was reported concentrating his men south of Madrid and withdrawing thousands from other fronts.

He succeeded to the loyalist Government, according to the report, that the loyal armies fall back toward Valencia and take up more easily defended positions along the Madrid-Valencia highway. It was added that evacuation should begin with movement of heavy artillery.

According to rebel reports, bad weather alone prevents start of the major offensive which Franco and his staff long have planned. They reported that 20,000 tons of food were piled up behind rebel lines for the Capital's civilians after the city is captured.

Keeping Escape Open

Preparatory to evacuation, Malla was reported concentrating the bulk of his international brigades, 20 anti-aircraft guns—all the Capital has—heavy artillery, tanks and armored cars southeast of the Capital between the Jarama and Tajuna Rivers.

Miaja's plan was to keep the Aranjuez road to Valencia open as long as possible for an orderly retreat from the Capital.

Dispatches from Lisbon said insurgent General Gonzalo Queipo de Llano, speaking over the Seville radio, asserted insurgents captured six government ships in the Mediterranean Sunday. Four gunboats and two steamers, loaded with ammunition and volunteers, comprised the insurgent haul, the general stated.

KU KLUX WARNS HARLEM'S 'GOD'

Object To White Woman And Her Children In His Baltimore Heaven

NO BODYGUARD

NEW YORK, March 8.—The United States Government and its G-men having more or less declined to save "God" from the Ku Klux Klan, Father Divine—who is God, according to his followers—tonight hired a lawyer and took steps to save himself. The bald, beaming negro politely declined to discuss Ku Klux threats against him, so "Brother Lamb," a soft-spoken white man, who is "God's mouthpiece" and personal secretary in Harlem, did the talking.

The threat, it appeared, came through the mail. The Ku Kluxers of Atlanta, Ga., objected to Father Divine supposedly keeping a white woman and her three children in his Baltimore, Md., "Heaven," and said he better get them out, or else.—The message closed with a warning—three of them, in fact. It read: "Warning, Warning, Warning."

At first Brother Lamb did not want to talk about it, particularly to reporters. He said if the editors came up he might talk, but his treatment at the hands of ordinary newsmen had not been as "salubrious." After a while, however, he softened up and admitted Father Divine had called in the Government on the Ku Klux business.

"Not because he's afraid—no, suh, not him!" Brother Lamb hastily added, lapsing for an instant into the ecclesiastical vernacular in vogue in Harlem's "Heaven." "He ain't got no bods-gahd, either."

What happened was that Father Divine, figuring threats that came through the mail should be turned over to the Government before "God" took action, sent them along to Washington.

Father Divine, sans a bodyguard, but accompanied by numerous female secretaries, promptly drove to Newark, N.J., where he hired N. N. Kranzler, counsellor-at-law, to take up the matter. Kranzler wrote a letter to Representative Samuel Dickstein, noted foe of un-Americanism, and Brother Lamb said Representative Dickstein was "looking into it."

Further than that, Brother Lamb said austerely, he had nothing to say. He pointed out that "God" did not need newspapers to take up cudgels for him, and he added Father Divine reposed faith in only two newspapers in the entire United States. These are the World-Herald, a weekly, and the Spoken Word, a semi-weekly. Both, as you may have suspected, are published by Father Divine.

CLOSE BY EASTER IS HELD POSSIBLE FOR PARLIAMENT

Vote Likely Tuesday on Budget Will End Last Long Debate

AIRWAY BILL TO COME

OTTAWA, March 8—(CP)—Parliament today was believed poised for a drive to the finish line of a session that started last January 14 and must end or be adjourned in time to allow the nation's representatives to reach London for the coronation May 12.

Some lobby gossips predicted prorogation by Easter. Others, less sanguine, suggested mid-April as the session's latest ending time. The budget debate on which first vote may come tomorrow was said to be probably the last extended word battle before the close.

Two government resolutions and consideration of two bills may interrupt the budget orabory today, but a vote seemed assured by tomorrow night on Conservative Leader Bennett's amendment censuring the administration for alleged failure to deal effectively with the unemployment problem.

Hon. T. A. Crerar, leading the House at Friday night's adjournment, said the Combines Act amendment and the foreign enlistment bill might receive consideration today. Besides, two resolutions were on the order paper, one preliminary to a bill establishing a fisheries research board replacing the biological board, the other preceding a measure to regulate imports and exports of cattle feed.

The Combines Act amendment would authorize appointment of a combines commissioner under jurisdiction of the Labor minister. The foreign enlistment bill would prohibit Canadians taking part in any foreign wars, including civil conflicts such as Spain's.

If Mr. Bennett's amendment reaches a vote tomorrow debate will proceed in committee on the budget resolutions, but little opposition is

MT. JULIAN BOASTS LIVE BUTTERFLY

Unusual Visitor Makes Himself At Home In Burleigh Farm-House

MOUNT JULIAN, March 8.—To see a butterfly fluttering gayly around during the winter season is rather unusual but last week one was seen fluttering around inside a stable window on a farm near Mount Julian. It was carefully carried to the farm house, where it was placed on a south window, where house plants are blooming. Since then it has fluttered around the window in real summer-time fashion. At night it seem to disappear, but a careful search reveals it snugly tucked in among the folds of the curtain. When the morning sun appears, this summer season visitor returns to its day-time abode.

65-Year-Old Dummer Farmer Fells 100-Foot Elm Tree Alone

Butt Measurement Was Over Five Feet—Made Eight Loads Of Wood

TOOK FOUR HOURS

Swinging a long axe for a space of four hours he felled a 100-foot elm tree, the butt of which had a girth measurement of 5 feet 8 inches. When it was later split into cord-wood lengths the tree was found to contain enough wood to make eight loads.

Mr. Payne who declares that trees of such a size are not very plentiful now remarked that he let it stand so long as it looked healthy, and only cut it down when he realized the tree was slowly dying.

He believes, "Woodcutting is good for a man if he has his health." In a hollow section of the tree, Mr. Payne states he found a bee hive, and a coon's nest. Both were uncorrupted.

Mr. Payne is recognized as one of the largest raisers of berries in the county. This year, he is planning to have 6½-acres of raspberries and 3½-acres of strawberries.

He acknowledges there is only one other man in the district who goes in for berry raising on a similar scale. He described him as being Oliver Garneau, near Trent Bridge who has an area of 10 acres under cultivation each year for the raising of raspberries and strawberries.

C.P.R. TRAINMAN KILLED BY FALL

CREW FINDS BODY

SMITHS FALLS, March 8—Harry Buchanan, Smiths Falls trainman, was fatally injured early Saturday morning in an accident which occurred on the C.P.R. main line near Echo, forty-seven miles west of Smiths Falls.

There were no witnesses to the accident. Brakeman on a westbound Smiths Falls-to-Trenton train, Mr. Buchanan is believed to have fallen from the engine as the crew prepared to put the train on a siding. Members of the crew missed the brakeman when they arrived at the siding and returned along the track, finding the body some distance back.

Injuries indicated that the brakeman had been crushed beneath the engine pilot, and that his body had not fallen beneath the wheels. Death had probably been instantaneous.

Harry Buchanan, a native of Havelock, had been working out of Smiths Falls for many years. He is survived by his widow and two children, all residing in Havelock.

$5 LICENSE CUT FOR MOTORISTS SEEN IN BUDGET

Expect Nuisance Taxes, One Affecting Farm Tractors, To Be Wiped Out

ADDRESS ON TUESDAY

TORONTO, March 8(CP). — The Globe and Mail today says Premier Hepburn in his budget address on Tuesday will announce a substantial reduction in motor license fees, probably a cut of $5 or more.

According to Queen's Park reports, the paper added, he will reveal plans to eliminate some "nuisance taxes," one of them affecting tractors and other gasoline-powered farm machinery.

The paper also says before the end of the present session, Conservatives are expected to propose repeal of the school tax legislation which changed the distribution of taxes among municipalities. Opposition Leader George S. Henry is expected to sponsor the bill.

CORONATION SEATS STILL AVAILABLE

Canadian Applications Must Be Received By April 1--10,000 Expected From Dominion

LONDON, March 8.—(CP Cable)—Canadians may still obtain seats in the official stands along the coronation processional route, it was learned today, but applications must reach Canada House before April 1.

Thus, while the demand for the official seats allotted to United Kingdom groups increases amid complaints from all sides that such and such an organization has been neglected, Canada's allocation remains equal to the Canadian demand so far.

But it is stressed that prospective visitors must apply immediately as the high commissioner's allotment is expected to be closed April 1.

Uncovered seats on government stands are selling for $3.75 while covered places cost $5.80. The government is standing a loss on this enterprise. The seats are not being sold to the general public, but are being allotted in batches to various groups, such as ex-service men, the trades unions and the Dominions and colonies.

Fewer Canadians Than Expected

Meanwhile the cost of commercial seats is rising, though apparently not as fast as was anticipated. It is rental figures for comfortable windows along the route, with meals, service, etc., that are skyrocketing.

It now appears the early estimate that 10,000 Canadians would attend the coronation was too high. Steamship bookings and advance accommodation reservations in London indicate not more than 10,000 will witness the pageantry.

It is insisted only a great many who would likely have attended went to the Vimy Pilgrimage last year and are unable to repeat the journey across the Atlantic. Moreover, while Canadian interest and loyalty is unquestioned here, it is throught the tremendous coronation excitement, with accompanying costs, has perhaps steered off a lot of visitors who would prefer Britain in her natural state.

HIS LUMBAGO WENT IN TWO WEEKS

Never Felt Better in His Life

Though he tried many so-called remedies, this man continued to suffer with lumbago for years. It troubled him, in fact, until he found the right remedy, Kruschen Salts. These are his own words:—

"I would like to tell you of the benefit I derived from taking Kruschen Salts. For some years past I have been a sufferer from lumbago. I tried no end of other remedies, but got no relief whatever until one day I saw Kruschen advertised and thought I would give it a trial. I did, and to my surprise the lumbago left me after taking Kruschen for a fortnight. I am now taking it regularly every day and never felt better in my life."—W. E.

Kruschen is a combination of mineral salts which assist in stimulating your liver, kidneys and digestive tract to healthy, regular activity. If you could see how Kruschen dissolves away uric acid deposits, you would agree that the Kruschen treatment should bring relief in cases of lumbago.

ROBERTS OUSTING LIKELY BE "AIRED"

Henry's Demand For Explanation Of Facts May Be Met Today

TORONTO, March 8 — (CP) — Business expedited by three night sessions last week, the Ontario legislature today may deal with Premier Hepburn's expulsion of Dr. A. Duncan Roberts, Sault Ste. Marie Liberal, from the party ranks.

George Henry, Conservative House leader, has said he believes there should be an investigation because of differences in statements made to the House by Premier Hepburn and Dr. Roberts. If the opposition presses this move the committee on privileges and elections may be consulted or a special committee named.

During the week-end Premier Hepburn spent hours putting the finishing touches on his budget address. The House will hear it Tuesday. The premier has announced the government will tackle the problem of overcrowding of mental hospitals by building two or possibly three new ones.

Public accounts committee will hear witnesses Wednesday in connection with road expenditures in Kenora constituency. It was discussion on these expenditures by Mr. Henry that annoyed Hon. Peter Heenan. The Kenora member defied the speaker, rejected advice of his colleagues and continued interrupting Mr. Henry. Irked by the conduct of his Minister of lands and forests, Premier Hepburn called a sudden adjournment. The next day Mr. Heenan apologized to the speaker and the Heenan-Henry-Hepburn tiff ended with everybody happy.

On their return, they came also by way of Cincinnati and saw much of the devastated flood area, where cleaning-up operations are going on and where they saw terrifying instances of the recent flood rampage. They report colder weather in the South than for some seasons past, the thermometer often dropping as low as twenty-eight degrees during their stay, necessitating wearing knitted things and topcoats. They encountered much warmer weather on their arrival in Detroit than when they left St. Petersburg.

Weddings

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINN—RUTHERFORD

MARMORA, March 8.—The Presbyterian Manse, Burnbrae, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday morning as James, only son of Reeve and Mrs. William Linn, of Marmora, and Pauline Awanda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Rutherford, of Bonarlaw, were united in wedlock by Rev. D. McMillan in the presence of the immediate relatives of both families.

The young couple were unattended. The bride was daintily attired in a dress of brown rosemere crepe, with hat of brown crepe and straw and other matching accessories. She carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and baby's breath. Mrs. H. P. Nayler, sister of the groom, and Miss Nona Rutherford, sister of the bride, witnessed the signing of the register.

After the ceremony, the wedding party motored to the home of the bride for the wedding dinner, after which the happy young couple left on a short honeymoon trip to Toronto.

Among the guests were both grandmothers of the bride, Reeve and Mrs. W. R. Linn, and Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Nayler and little daughter Helen of Marmora, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Linn of Stirling, Dr. and Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Charles Bailey and Mr. Frank Cosbey of Campbellford.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Linn will reside in Marmora.

DEBTOR'S "CONSCIENCE" WREATH.

LONDON.—(CP).—A wreath inscribed, "I will never forgive' myself.—A conscience-stricken debtor," was placed at the graveside of George Chester, a builder, who before committing suicide, wrote: "To my debtors, Please help my wife by paying up."

To divert heavy traffic from the ancient and historic city of York, England, a highway is to be constructed, around it at a cost of $2,000,000.

Gets Anonymous Gift To Aid Millar Will Claim

One of the strangest developments of the bizarre Millar will story came when an unnamed benefactor, identified only as a Toronto lawyer, placed an unidentified sum of money at the disposal of C. R. McKeown, solicitor for Mrs. Pauline Mae Clarke, one of the contenders in the baby derby, to finance her fight for a share of the half million dollar fortune, if necessary, to the highest courts in the land. Mrs. Clarke's chances of sharing in the fortune were believed hinged on the question of legitimacy of five of her ten children, all born within the ten-year period stipulated in the will, since the courts ruled that only legitimate children can share. The 26-year-old mother, who does not know the name of her benefactor, is pictured here on the steps of her Toronto home with six of her children. The amount of the sum was also not revealed.

Fashion Service

Daughter will look and feel so smart in this fitted and flared dress of blue cotton inspired by Tyrolean fashion.

The fitted bodice has bright red lacing down the front that bow so charmingly at the waistline.

Two rows of bias binds—one bright red and the other snowy white, accentuate the hem of the flared skirt. The bias binds also edge the petaling shirt collar and the turn-back flared sleeve cuffs. And by the way, these bias binds come already folded, ready to stitch, and for a very nominal sum.

To copy it exactly it takes only 2¼ yards of 39-inch material with 7 yards of braid for the 8-year size.

She'll want mummy to make her another of a colorful peasant cotton print.

LOVE OF HUSBAND MADE A WOMAN CHAMPION CLIMBER

Mrs. Dyhrenfurth Admits She Wanted To Quit At 22,000 Feet But Couldn't

HIMALAYAN PEAK

MONTREAL, March 8.—(CP).—People win championships for fame, money and once in a while for personal satisfaction, but Hettie Dyhrenfurth became world's feminine mountain-climbing champion because she loves her husband.

Mrs. Dyhrenfurth told the people's forum last night of her mountain climbing experiences, particularly of the second International Himalayan expedition in 1934 with which she conquered the Queen Mary peak—24,400 feet above the ground.

She had no intention of being with the climbers at the top, Mrs. Dyhrenfurth said. "At 22,000 feet she'd had enough. Then and there she didn't like mountain climbing. But she likes to be with her husband, whose ambition was the conquest of Queen Mary peak, so up and up she went.

At 23,000 feet, holder of the record then by 100 feet, she was satisfied to leave hubby go along without her. "That was sufficient," she told an appreciative audience. "I felt it was going to die anyway, I could hardly breathe."

But she couldn't go down alone and if any of the men turned back with her, the attempt would have to be called off. And it was her husband's ambition so Mrs. Dyhrenfurth went along and stood on the summit— 24,400 feet high, higher than any woman had stood before.

"Every step was a terrific effort. Breathing difficult. I felt I would die every time I moved my foot. I wanted to rest—just for a moment. I pleaded—but the men wouldn't let me, because that would have been fatal."

Woman Gets Urge To Fight Some Fires

Highstown, N.J., Mar. 8 (AP)

AN aspirant fire laddie—a slender mother of a 13-year-old boy has shown the men folk her prowess with a fire hose and awaited anxiously today their vote on her application for a volunteer membership.

Mrs. Augusta Chasin, wife of Morris Chasin, a homesteader at the federal resettlement administration village near here, took her place beside the men yesterday at the first fire drill.

When she applied for the job last week, temporary fire Chief Irving Pinsky told her to attend the drill and her name would be put up for vote. The vote has been postponed.

Just Between Us Women

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors Conducted by Roberta

CUSTOM doth make dotards of us all. Philosophy complains that custom has hoodwinked us from the first; that we do everything by custom, even believe by it; that our very axioms, let us boast of free-thinking as we may, are oftenest such beliefs as we have never heard questioned.—Carlyle.

Dear Friends:

Did you ever think of how our lives were ruled by custom? I have written of it before, but could not say all I wanted to do in one article. So many of the things we do are done because our parents did them, that we have a tendency to get into a rut, and of not thinking for ourselves.

There is no doubt at all that the world has advanced by leaps and bounds in the last twenty years, and to tell you the truth, I am all for this new way of living. Of course, there are some who have swung too far in the opposite direction, but haven't there always been some who did that? I know there were when I was a girl. (Doesn't seem right for me to be saying "when I was a girl," for it seems only yesterday I was one.)

But oh how sick I used to get of the old customs, of doing things because they had always been done. And how we shocked mother because we tried to do things in a more modern way. Just because things are customary does not necessarily make them right.

We had to go to the opera, to give us a true sense of music, and many bored hours we spent listening to songs sung in a foreign tongue, of seeing people strut on the stage singing things that should have been spoken, and never understanding a word of it.

You had to sit in perfect silence, not even a whisper, and I remember an usher tip-toeing over to my friend and I, telling us we must keep still or go out, all because we had said a word or two in a whisper. How old were we? Seventeen. I can imagine some seventeen year olds sitting through it now.

I like the music they have now. It has pep and life to it. No more do they seem as if they were grappling (although some of those who try to be torch singers, should wake up to themselves.) We had the era of sad songs, long drawn out misery in most cases, but how about "You Turned the Tables On Me," and a lot of other modern songs which come right out and say what they think.

I like the modern way of dressing. No longer need dress be yards in the streets, with brush braid on them. No longer need women wear smiles of cloth in petticoats, hampering their step and causing them to take hours to dress.

And no longer need we load our tables up with so much food that we cannot move after we have eaten a meal, no longer need we dress differently because we have reached the old age of forty, and give ourselves up as old women. (Men did not have to do that, but kept stepping right along.)

No longer do men and women have to live together until the ugly one killed the other off with bad usage. (I had a dear sister who died at forty due to ill-usage of the one who promised to "love and cherish her".) Not any more is the line so sharply drawn between men and women, so that women were supposed to have all the virtues while men did as they liked.

And not any more are women debarred from going places because they did not have an escort. My sister and I used to like to go to football matches, but we dare not go until about five minutes after they started, and we had to leave before it was finished, because men did not approve of women seeing a football match. And we had to sit in the press box with the reporters, else we would have been annoyed. That is why I always like reporters and editors, and newspapers because they were broadminded. I could go on for pages, but time's up. More later. Maybe. But me for the good new days that we have now, instead of the "good old days" that we were so tired of, and had little good in them.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

KNOW ENGLAND OVER TEA CUP

Canadian Don Much Impressed With Value Of Old English Custom

MUST TAKE TEA

OTTAWA, March 8—(C.P.)—If you are planning a visit to England and do not drink tea, learn to do so at once, otherwise you will miss half the fun of a trip to the Old Country. Professor J. K. Robertson of Queen's University, Faculty of Physics, writes from London to the Citizen.

"Indeed if you would really understand England and the English, you must take tea," the professor declares. One might take it at twopence (four cents) or half-a-crown (60 cents).

"Wherever you happen to be in London at four o'clock in the afternoon, a walk of a few steps is sure to bring you to a place where you can get tea. It may be only a restaurant with marble-topped tables, or perchance one low in the scale of graded houses, but the tea (Indian or China) will be excellent. You will pay only tuppence a cup, you will have an excellent assortment of pastries just as cheap, and there will be human nature in abundance."

According to Price

"Tea may be tea wherever you take it in England, the professor found, but the company differs with the environment—and the price. For instance:

"If you wish to observe the average Londoner, there is no better place to go than to one of the Corner Houses (you will find them at Marble Arch, near Piccadilly Circus, and at Charing Cross). Here for an additional penny you get the same tea a bigger choice of pastries, music and crowds of people.

"If you wish to be a little more select and are willing to pay sixpence a cup there are plenty of places throughout the West End where the cups are of a more delicate china and perchance the teapot is silver. At these the people will be better dressed but no more interesting than those at the cheaper restaurants. Then there are the hotels where non-residents can always drop in for tea.

"For a really 'swanky' tea—or is 'posh' now the correct word?—go to a hotel like the Dorchester or Grosvenor House or the May Fair. You will pay half-a-crown, but for special occasions it is worth the money. For this sum a well-groomed waiter will pass you daintily ornamented food, while you sit amidst the beautifully decorated surroundings and listen to soft English voices—and perhaps a few American—and first class music."

Museum Restaurant

The Canadian professor found tea in the British Museum and he knows of few more interesting places than the Museum restaurant at the tea hour. But: "Whether you have arranged for inclusive terms or not, you should not miss having tea in a London boarding-house. There will be thin bread and butter and sultana cake and jelly sandwich; there will be the 'permanents,' two or three ladies of a class once called spinsters, a retired gentleman with or without monocle, a middle-aged couple of independent means, and two or three transients like yourself.

"At some places the maid, after bringing in the tea things, leaves the guests to help themselves. You will see the permanents, in order of seniority, turn out their tea either in silence or with an occasional remark such as 'weak as usual.' Always Indian, or sometimes 'with a dash,' or 'with a drop.' Then you will be left your slice of bread and piece of cake. Whatever you do, you must not introduce yourself, but in due course, if you remain long enough, you will be accepted and learn to love these shy people."

The Thing Is Infectious

There is a feature of the Home Improvement Plan that has already come into evidence in Peterborough and that is that the enthusiasm that has been created by the campaign has inspired several citizens who had no need of making loans to go ahead with home improvement work. That has been the experience in the United States where for several years a scheme much similar to the Canadian plan has been in successful operation. Uncle Sam's record shows that in two years loans numbering 1,100,000 and representing a total of $500,000,000 were made under the home modernization and repair scheme but, what is even more significant, $1,500,000,000 of private capital was spent during the same period on improvements, alterations and repairs by citizens who had plenty of funds available but who had been holding back from lack either of confidence or initiative until they were caught by the infection set up by the national plan.

There is every reason to expect proportionately beneficial results throughout the Dominion. In other words while loans up to a total of $50,000,000 are possible under the Home Improvement Plan, a far larger expenditure is probable. The success scored in the United States shows that there is a cumulative trend to a campaign of this kind. The painting and re-decorating of one house often results in half a dozen residences in the same neighborhood receiving similar attention; the converting of one large dwelling into a duplex or a series of apartments fires other property-owners with the ambition to undertake the same improvements. In short the whole community comes under the influence of this drive for better homes and the final result is likely to be that the $50,000,000 capital available for loan purposes will prove to be the small end of this comprehensive scheme.

Orderly Marketing Again

The Examiner learns that one day this week Hon. Duncan Marshall will arise to his feet in the Legislature and introduce a bill to provide for a system of orderly marketing of farm products in Ontario. The measure, we understand, will on a provincial scale, bring about what the Natural Products Marketing Act was planned to effect for the whole country and will bear a very marked resemblance to Mr. Bennett's ill-fated legislation that was pronounced ultra vires by the Privy Council. It will provide for the marketing of most farm products through provincial and local boards and the element of compulsion that was an outstanding feature of the Bennett act will be found repeated in the provincial measure. That is to say, when a majority of the producers of any one farm commodity request the handling of that product under the marketing scheme it will be compulsory for all other producers to come in.

The Examiner will wait with considerable interest to learn how W. A. Fraser, the Liberal member for Northumberland, receives the introduction of this measure, particularly to see what welcome he will give the compulsory feature of the act. Mr. Bennett's Natural Products Marketing Act was Mr. Fraser's pet bogey. There is scarcely a country school house or a village hall in Eastern Ontario that has not had its walls rattled and its roof shaken by the vehemence with which the member for Northumberland denounced the Bennett scheme for orderly marketing. It was, Mr. Fraser used to thunder, un-British and autocratic and by introducing such a measure Mr. Bennett had left himself open to being charged with all the worst characteristics of a Mussolini. In fact Northumberland's representative could not find a shred of virtue anywhere in the legislation.

Now back comes the same program on a provincial scale and it will be interesting to watch what happens. Will Mr. Fraser start a new crusade or will it prove that a scheme that appeared so sinister when introduced by a Conservative Federal premier has taken on a totally different aspect as sponsored by a Liberal provincial cabinet minister?

Death in the Home

There are so many warning articles written about the perils of the highway and so much is said about the toll of lives in traffic mishaps that it may come as a shock to find that there were more folk in the United States killed in their own homes through accidents last year than there were slain on the roads and streets. Figures just released show that automobile fatalities totalled 38,500 as against 37,000 the previous year while at the same time deaths from home accidents showed a total of 39,000 while the 1935 figure was only 31,000.

The comparative statistics for Canada are not yet available but it is probably the case they were proportionately on all fours with the United States record.

The moral seems to be that carelessness whether on the road or in the home involves a terrible penalty. The drunken driver is a menace on the highway but he is matched by the excessively slippery floor at home; hundreds are killed on the road every year because drivers take chances passing on hills or curves but this tragic list is no longer than that containing the names of those who have lost their lives toppling down a stairway. Falls and burns and coal-gas take a deadly toll; and in the place where it might reasonably be expected safety would prevail disaster stalks the unwary and the careless. The United States record for last year indicates that in addition to trying to make conditions less dangerous on the highway, safety campaigns should be directed also to the homes of the nation where accidental fatalities have climbed to a new all-time high.

Smoking Out Chiselers

The Ontario government plans to make it compulsory for all employers in the province to supply the relief authorities with a list of the men and women in their employ, accompanied by the amount of wages paid to each.

The first thought of course is that firms already have so many government returns of one kind or another to make that the whole thing has long since been a nuisance. This latest order, however, becomes more justifiable on closer examination because it should make possible a more effective purging of relief lists and that is badly needed to protect the long-suffering taxpayer from exploitation.

The vast majority of the folk on relief, The Examiner is satisfied, play the game; they accept aid from the public purse because no other course is open to them except to sit down with their families and slowly starve to death. However there is a chiselling minority in every community who hide their sources of income and who have not the slightest compunction about taking public assistance, despite the fact that they know that if all the circumstances were revealed they would be voted not eligible for relief. They represent themselves as destitute, accept food and shelter and fuel from the relief authorities and spend the money they earn upon their own amusement and edification.

The compulsory reporting of every employee to the authorities should do much to smoke out these cheaters and eventually to trim down the relief lists until they contain only those who are genuinely in need of assistance.

That Transport Bill

The Toronto Star would have the Dominion government not only withdraw its transport bill at the present session but refrain from re-introducing it. The measure, it submits is "not in accord with Liberal Principles and would be a serious disadvantage to the Canadian consumer."

We are quite content to let Liberal principles take care of themselves but the case of the consumer is something else again. The plain fact is that the older types of transportation spoken of by the Star as designed to benefit from the Federal control of all forms of transport are costing the people of this country many millions of dollars a year. We have considered it necessary to put them under regulation and they are bound up by a lot of rules administered by the railway board while their competitors in the newer fields of transportation operate under no such handicap. If Federal control is justifiable in the case of the railways then it is difficult to see why it is not justifiable in the case of competing agencies engaged in inter-provincial traffic. If motor transport and highway bus companies are to be given a free hand because, as the Star says, competition is to the financial advantage of the public, then the railways have a logical right to demand that they should be no longer hamstrung by restrictions.

The consumers, that is the folks who patronize these newer forms of transport, may benefit to a degree by lower rates, but on the other hand they have to dig down into their pockets to help pay the annual deficit of the government-owned railway, a deficit that is the larger because of the handicap under which the railway has to operate as opposed to these newer transportation methods.

The German Minister of Education has decreed that before German school girls are to be allowed to take their higher examinations they must learn the rudiments of household work. Accordingly it has been ruled that they must receive instructions in such matters as boiling and frying potatoes, making an omelette, washing up, keeping the floors clean and other elementary household duties.

That seems to be one of the most sensible orders that has been issued by the Nazi administration, one of the very few commands indeed that other countries would think for a moment of adopting for use among their own people. Instructions in housework might not be amiss in the curriculum laid down for school girls everywhere.

At the same time, however, we must admit that we read the rules with a feeling akin to amazement. We would have thought that in view of Hitler's general attitude, any list of instructions for training in house work would have included explicit directions on how to make beds while wearing a gas mask, what to do when a bomb carries away the kitchen, how to use boiling water in dealing with invaders and other similar wrinkles the Nazis might consider necessary in view of existing conditions.

TOO BAD

(By A. E. K.)

¶ When I was but a little lad, I used to think perhaps some day, I'd have a watch and chain; I saw my elders here and there, they'd linger at their chain with care. It was a touch of fame.

¶ The village banker had a chain, and it was worthy of the name, and it was very great; of gold I'm sure it was the best, it dangled heavy on his vest, and it could hook the gate.

¶ I always felt a trifle sad, when I was but a little lad, my hopes got touched with frost; I thought to get a chain like that, 'twould leave me stranded high and flat, I trembled at the cost.

¶ And yet I figured how I'd toil, and gouge great holes within the soil, I'd go and fight my way; when I had won both wealth and fame, why then I'd buy a monster chain, and I'd come back some day.

¶ And folk I used to know I'd greet, as I walked on the village street, and I would swing my cane; and as I talked I'd use my hand, so all around would understand, I'd finger with my chain.

¶ And in the years between I thought, and had my chain as good as bought, I'd pawn my brindle cow; but things I learned they made me sad, things changed since when I was a lad—and men don't wear them now.

Jack Rabbits Moving Around

(From the Brockville Recorder and Times)

THE suggestion was recently made that jack rabbits from western Ontario should be transferred to this area with the object of increasing the hunting resources of the surrounding district. Very little is apt to come of this idea for the reason that these rabbits, while affording excellent sport, are also capable of doing considerable damage to crops, and especially fruit crops, and farmers would scarcely welcome them.

As the Provincial Fish and Game Department points out, the origin of the "jack" in Ontario can be readily traced to a farm near Brantford. Here, apparently, a number were kept in captivity until the early years of the war. When, through neglect of fences or otherwise, they were released and have since spread in greater or lesser numbers to almost every section of southwestern Ontario. They have travelled as far north as Bruce County and as far east as Durham County.

They are very prolific breeders and in many instances will produce about seven litters in a year. The usual number of young is from two to five per litter, and, unlike the snowshoe rabbit, the young are born with their eyes open and fairly well furred. The young have been found as early as February and from then to September, other litters will be born at periodic intervals.

Some years ago, shortly after the "jacks" had scattered throughout the district and were discovered in sufficient numbers to be hunted it was not uncommon for sportsmen to bag them from 16 to 20 pounds in weight. During recent years, however, one is rarely captured in excess of 14 or 15 pounds. The reason for this has not yet been satisfactorily explained.

They do not burrow in the ground like the snowshoe, and their favorite resting or hiding place is a plowed field, where the furrows afford a measure of protection. There they will lie partially covered with snow and are almost invisible until the sportsman approaches and the danger becomes obvious. For the most part, they sense danger in good time and are away before the hunter comes within range.

The damage they do to wheatfields and sometimes to young fruit trees can be considerable and for this reason it would appear that eastern Ontario can well afford to do without them, notwithstanding the feelings of the hunters.

REAL RELIEF.

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

ONE of the most popular items in the Budget speech of the Minister of Finance is found to be that granting free entry into Canada from all countries of small personal gifts.

Nothing is more exasperating to individuals than to discover that the small present sent to them at Christmas time or on a personal anniversary is considered dutiable by the Customs authorities and that a payment must be made before it can be released.

It is true that upon numerous occasions the Customs officers, taking cognizance of the circumstances of the case, have exercised considerable latitude and passed these small presents duty-free. But the fact remains that hitherto no exception has been officially made in favor of these gifts and, strictly speaking, they are as dutiable as any other article which may be imported unless it be on the free list.

Mr. Dunning's action in granting free entry to these small personal gifts will remove a constant source of annoyance and spare customs officers many harsh words on the part of people who have had to pay duty upon small packages received by them as presents.

BAG PIPES.

(Christian Science Monitor)

WHAT is to become of the bagpipes. Only 42 per cent. of the vote of Scottish youths favored the inclusion of bagpipe music on the radio programs. The remainder were either silent or opposed. Before the vote was taken the position of the bagpipes in Scotland was considered unassailable. Now Scots begin to wonder. For the vote follows another significant incident, the imposition of a fine on a piper for playing in the streets of London. Did this stop him? No. He merely muffled his pipes, circumvented the law, and blew to his heart's content. The bagpipes have seen better days. Once Mendelssohn introduced their music in one of his compositions: the overture of "The Hebrides." And the partiality of the Duke of Windsor for the pipes has long been a matter of public knowledge. But youth will be bound by no traditions. So the dance band is ousting a cherished institution.

THE GREAT SILENCE.

(Vancouver Province)

THERE is such a thing as a silence that can be felt—and by that saying hangs a tale of melancholy import to the people of this very city of Vancouver.

From Thursday, January 14, to Friday, February 12, it was a month and a day, calendar wise, in which occurred the first twenty-two sittings of the second session of the Eighteenth Parliament of Canada. In that time, in the unchallengeable pages of Hansard, there was no mention, as mover of motion, asker of question or maker of speech, of a certain name.

It was the name—you must have had a premonition of it—of Mr. O. G. McGeer, K.C., M.P. for Vancouver-Burrard.

Historians will deal with this circumstance—and perhaps they will know what to say. But what is to be said now? It is not merely a strange thing, it is almost an incredible thing.

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics.

RETIREMENT AT 65

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Having regard to the long-continued periods of unemployment of the less lucky, the high cost of relief and general social conditions it seems imperative that some steps should be taken by the civic bodies to retire present incumbents of office over 65 years of age who are approaching physical and mental incapacity.

Incumbents of public offices for 40 and 50 years are certainly not operating at ordinary efficiency but are blocking the advancement of the worthy, those efficient and physically and mentally alert.

The Trades and Labor Council of Canada advocates retirement of all workers at 60 years of age whether usually employed in sheltered occupations or not. The retiring age for the Federal and Ontario civil service is 65 years. In industrial occupations of necessity the machine will soon dictate and fix the retiring age of the employees at 40.

As no one man is indispensable, this is not the effusion of a job hunter or a "Daniel come to judgment" but an honest endeavor to invite attention to a crying evil, without bias, partiality, favor or affection and has no regard to social or fraternal affiliations.

There should certainly be no heirlooms from public funds.

VERITAS

WAS MISUNDERSTOOD

Editor Examiner:

Sir: You were kind enough to allow space for a recent letter of mine in your editorial columns. I see you accuse me of "loose talk" and of "blindfolding myself to the truth," and other far from complimentary terms are made use of. Perhaps the way in which I worded my letter led to misunderstanding. For this of course I am to blame.

I did not mean to state nothing had been done for those on relief. This of course would have been a direct mis-statement. I am not on relief myself, nor do I expect to be and am aware of the tremendous burden carried by taxpayers. What I meant to put across was the idea that although there has been money found by the "powers that be" to increase our defence estimates, there has always been the cry "where is the money to come from?" when further assistance is asked.

Now, Sir, I maintain that if there is money for the weapons of destruction and for the means of ending life with medals for the heroes at the end, why not money for more help and to save life? Why not seventeen million dollars more to create better times. I maintain I am right no matter what the capitalists or their press may say. Furthermore, I do not believe the taking of human life is justifiable under any circumstances. "What would Jesus do?" That is the question any true Christian must ask himself and "Thou shalt not kill" was not made to read "only in warfare."

However, I am aware I am upholding a losing cause and that the world is once more going war mad. I am sorry the worming of my previous letter led to misunderstandings.

Much has been done, more could be done for the poor, not as charity but to get them on their own feet. I did not intend to utter any untruthful statement but worded my letter unfortunately it seems. I have always been on the side of the under-dog on general principles. They seem to have few enough advocates. One must run the risk of being misjudged, even called a "Red," "Communist," or "Agitator," if they venture to draw up any injustices. One expects that.

Thanking you for your space, I remain

Yours truly

G.M.

WHAT IS A CANADIAN?

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Your editorial under the above heading in your issue of Friday, March 5, is admirable. I wish that many other editors, and our legislators too, would take notice with similar sympathy and understanding of the cruelty in the red tape application of the law at national borders. The victim in this case should be welcomed to the country for which he fought with distinction. His respect for a king, George V, of honoured memory to us, was his misfortune, and now he faces ruin.

There are far too many cases of hardships and of families broken up like this. Not long ago there was the case of a wife and husband who were doomed never to meet again except on an international bridge or ferry boat. We hear of hard cases like these several times every year, which arouse a fleeting sympathy in thinking men. But what of the thousands of unfortunates, good people and not criminals, that we never hear of as they have neither votes nor news value? These miserable exclusion laws are born of selfish small-trade minds, and applied in practice with stupidity and inhumanity, regardless of the merits and justice of any particular case.

There seems to be no court of appeal, and a victim seldom has any pull. For a political refugee from some despotism, deportation may mean practically a sentence of death. This treatment of human beings is rotten, and is as much in need of revision as the tariffs on the materials of trade which bring more grist to the mills of legislation.

Yours truly,

A.J.

The Smiles of Spring.

(From the Ottawa Journal.)

TO THE gardener, amateur or otherwise, March snows are just something which stand between him and good brown earth bursting into life in beds and borders. Anxiously the real flower lover is wondering how the tulips are doing under their cold white blanket. It really is earliest he is harassed by the thought that by down-to-zero days long chilly fingers may have reached his precious bulbs, and cruelly killed the jonquils.

Concern for growing things is deep in the minds of many quite unconscious of the feeling. Few pass a florist's display without a thrill of interest. Something blooming on a window sill never fails to appeal. A garden in full flower compels more than admiration—it makes life easier to accept.

And all this being so, the book of seeds is at present more popular in many a home than a best seller. What will appear to advantage in the third row of a grandmother's border dwarfs to insignificance the present unpleasantness in Spain.

It will not be very long before light yellow tufts the best kept lawns and the gold of dandelions rouses the ire of those to whom a perfect sward is of more consequence than a favorite form of home made beverage.

And when the dandelions have turned white with age and lost their beauty, comes that long series of lilies and lilacs, of roses and all their relations that until late Autumn passes in a gorgeous parade of color and fragrance. While man can worry about the growing things in his garden instead of concentrating on international matters it seems as if shadows are not as black as they are painted and that mankind, if not all, is fairly right with the world.

What About the Drinking Driver?

(From the St. Thomas Times-Journal.)

WE HEAR so much these days—and rightly so—about the drunken driver. Behind the wheel of a motor car is no place for an intoxicated man or woman.

With the law bearing down heavily on the drunken driver it is becoming increasingly difficult to secure convictions. The accused, facing a certain jail term, leave no stone untumed to secure evidence showing that, while they may have been drinking, they were not drunk.

It is the age-long question of "What is a man drunk?" Examining doctors, law enforcement officers, crown attorneys, defence counsels, magistrates and judges may agree that a man is not drunk until he is incapable.

This leaves all quarter-drunk, half-drunk and three-quarter-drunk men and women still behind the wheels. And a man or woman in this stage is far more dangerous that he or she who is wholly drunk and incapable. The latter are too far gone to drive; the partially-drunk attempt to do so—and in scores trouble.

In order to halt the evil the legislature may find it necessary to change the law which sends to jail persons who drive cars while drunk to those who drive cars after they have been drinking. It may even be necessary to go the limit and rule, as Chief Draper of Toronto once suggested, that one drink makes a man or woman incapable of driving a car.

The axe will soon be directed against the drinking as well as the drunk driver.

ENOUGH PROBLEMS.

(Niagara Falls Review)

THE suggestion is made at Queen's Park that the sale of bread, milk and fuel should be handled by the government. Following the Hydro precedent, no taxes would be paid on such businesses and it is doubtful if distribution would be as efficient as at present. The fact is that the provincial government has enough problems on its hands without any further invasion of private business.

TAKING CHANCES.

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

ALTHOUGH influenza was of a fairly mild type this winter, it caused quite a number of deaths usually from other maladies that seemed to be aggravated by the influenza attack.

Doctors and directors of physical exercise, however, are of the opinion that a considerable percentage of men past middle age leave the door open to an onset of illness or death by the injudicious way in which they take exercise or over-exert themselves at work to which their muscles are not accustomed. In the first place they agree that all past forty years of age are declining physically whether or not they realize that. Therefore, they ought to be careful about sudden strain on the heart such as might be occasioned by cranking a motor on a cold morning. It is pointed out that any damage done to the heart never can be repaired and this relates to the injury that might arise from too strenuous participation in athletics such as badminton, tennis or other sports that involve sustained speed in action. The advice of the experts is that games like tennis and badminton should not be played competitively by men or women over forty years of age, though a half-hour's exercise at these sports might not be harmful.

Evidently moderation in exercise and eating is essential to long life. People are advised not to eat to an extent that will produce overweight and they are urged to take enough exercise to keep them in good physical condition but to avoid the strenuous games. Walking is highly recommended, as is golf, if it is not indulged in during excessively hot weather or after the player is exhausted.

OUR NEIGHBOR.

(The New Outlook)

HOW little we really know about the people next door! The great brightness of Sirius, as the Dog star is familiarly called, is largely due to the fact that he is one of our nearest stellar neighbors. Astronomers watching this star dog through telescopes now tell us that he is accompanied on his celestial rounds by a puppy.

And this very faint star is proving to be of considerable greater interest and importance to scientists than its more splendid companion. Although only one-thirtieth of the diameter of the sun, it differs very little from that body in weight. And the only explanation seems to be that it is composed of material 80,000 times as heavy as water. A matchbox full of it would weigh over a ton!

And now the physicists are really puzzled, for an element known or unknown, could be so dense as that. There are still some great things to be seen, before we go to Paradise by way of Kensal Green.

HAS ITS MERITS.

(Chatham News)

HON. DAVID CROLL announces the government has no intention of passing legislation making it possible to grant limited taxation on new houses. However the idea has its merits. If such limited taxation were extended for a couple of years the houses would afterwards be open to taxation; and in the meantime it might act as a stimulus to the building trades creating much-needed employment.

Under ordinary circumstances such a scheme would never be suggested, but it cannot be denied that at the present time we are working under strained economic conditions with so many others as well, out of employment.

DETROIT, March 8 (AP).—Two F. W. Woolworth stores, scenes of Detroit's first "Five and Ten" sit-down strikes, opened their doors today without incident.

Smiling sales girls, refreshed by a night's sleep at home after they evacuated the stores last night, and satisfied with a new wage scale of 33 cents an hour for a 40-hour week, punched cash register keys again in a main downtown store and a branch unit.

Strength of the Argentine market and higher levels at Liverpool during the first hour of trading sent prices one cent higher. Continental buying was in evidence, but export of Canadian wheat was small.

Buenos Aires closed 1½ to 1¾ cents higher, with foreign demand for Plate wheat continuing unabated. Liverpool ruled firmer throughout, to close ⅛d to ¼d higher. At Chicago prices acted similar to Winnipeg.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, March 8—The March meeting of the Havelock Branch Women's Institute was held on Monday afternoon in the Town Hall, with their president, Mrs. John Armstrong in the chair. The roll-call was a favorite "Murphy" dish.

646 MILLION LOAN ASKED BY BLUM

Patriotic Frenchman Urged 'To Dig Down' In Nation's Greatest Peace Drive

PARIS, March 8—(AP).—Premier Blum's government swung into one of the nation's greatest peacetime drives today to enlist patriotic Frenchmen to dig into their purses in support of a defence loan that may amount to 6646,000,000.

While the terms had not been fixed, a cabinet communique asking the borrowing would cover extraordinary credits for armaments in the French budget was interpreted as meaning the government expected to obtain at least 10,000,000,000 francs.

Blum will carry the plea to the nation in a broadcast tonight. The speech will be translated into four—Italian, German, Italian and Spanish.

RESENT BACHELORS' CLUB

Devon Women Hold Quarters, Throw Flour In Beer.

PLYMOUTH, March 8.—(CP).—Devon women are not going to submit to the formation of bachelor clubs without a fight, it seems.

The other day they were black mailed and hauled the Ilfracombe Bachelors' Club and threw flour in the members' beer.

Supporting their Ilfracombe brothers, 100 Plymouth bachelors, mostly actors formed a club and the president announced: "We shall send six members of our members to Ilfracombe shortly to lend our comrades some support."

But a spokesman for the girls made the retort: "We girls won't stand much of this nonsense. If the new club continues we shall enlist support and wreck the meeting."

KING, ROOSEVELT SILENT ON PARLEY

Premier Spends Night At White House Before Continuing On South

WASHINGTON, March 8 (A.P.) —Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King concluded to-day a brief White House visit that gave opportunity for him and President Roosevelt to discuss questions of mutual interest to the United States and her northern neighbor.

The specific subjects of their after-dinner conference last night were not disclosed.

Word from Capitol Hill that administration leaders expected the President to ask the United States Senate a second time to ratify the St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty led some to assume the two chiefs of state had touched on the joint development of the river.

The President suggested to reporters earlier that world affairs would be a major subject of their talk. Mr. King was silent yesterday on the possibility of a united front of Western Hemisphere nations in dealing with international problems. Mr. King's first visit, less than two years ago, resulted in a reciprocal trade agreement between Canada and the United States.

Reminded that President Hoover and Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain sat on a log in the Virginia Mountains to talk of naval disarmament in 1929, the visitor laughingly commented that he and Mr. Roosevelt talked on a White House sofa. Mr. King remained overnight at the White House. He is en route south for a vacation.

WILL NOT ALLOW SIT-DOWN STRIKES

Municipalities Will Be Assisted By Provincial Police Premier Hepburn Announces

TORONTO, March 8. — Sit-down strikes will be stamped out in Ontario if the whole weight of the Provincial Police and other Government resources has to be brought into play, Premier Hepburn announced last night.

"We are not going to tolerate them," he said, "and I point that out to those people now in this country—professional agitators from the United States—to agitate and foment unrest in our industrial areas. And for the benefit of our own workers, let me add that those of whom I complain are paid officials and obtain their salaries from fees levied against the very workmen whom they are supposed to protect."

While making it clear that the primary responsibility of dealing with any sit-down strike, or illegal trespassing, rested with the municipality in which it developed, the Premier voiced the assurance that if such municipality, "after an honest endeavor to cope with the situation," could not handle it, all it has to do was to appeal to the Government.

"Immediately," he said, "I will support it with the full strength of the Provincial Police, if necessary, and other resources at the Government's disposal."

Sympathy With Labor.

Mr. Hepburn said he had every sympathy for the underpaid and the exploited, and the fact that his Administration had been quick to pass the Industrial Standards Act, with its many benefits, and now had a minimum wage law for men going through the Legislature, was adequate indication, he felt, of the genuineness of his sympathy, and of that of his Cabinet colleagues, who he had grouped about him.

"I am right behind any reform as long as it is brought about by orderly and constructive methods," said he. "But I will not tolerate the sit-down strike in this Province of ours. In the first place, it is doing but illegal trespass. In the second place, it is against law and order. When I became Prime Minister one of the first oaths of office I took was to administer law and order. That I shall do if I have to enlist the whole weight of my Administration to do so."

SEALING FLEET LEAVES.

CARBONEAR, Nfld., March 8—(CP)—Cheered by the population of St. John's turned out at the waterfront to-day to greet the Newfoundland northern sealing fleet as it neared the harbor for its annual Arctic trip. Six vessels, with crews totalling 1,300 men, constituted the fleet.

Abram Kean, O.B.E., in command of seeking vessels for the last 40 years, remained ashore for the first time in half a century. The 63-year-old "commodore," still hale and hearty, announced his retirement last fall.

of aviation. It was donated by the late J. Dalzell McKee.

The 49-year-old airman is a Canadian by birth and spent much of his youth in Ottawa. He served in the Canadian Expeditionary Force as captain in the 133rd Battalion and transferred to the Royal Air Force in 1918. He made his first application for a commercial pilot's certificate in April, 1928, and was issued with commercial pilot's certificate on May 29, 1928.

Berry has been continuously employed since then in flying, chiefly into Northern Canada out of Edmonton, with the Northern Aerial Minerals exploration Company, the Mackenzie Air Service and Canadian Airways with whom he is still employed.

891 Hours in Year.

During 1936, he flew 891 hours and 40 minutes and his total flying time is approximately 7,000 hours.

Pilot Berry played an important part last year in the search for Lieutenant Coleman and his mechanic, L. A. C. Fortey of the Royal Canadian Air Force, missing for 38 days in the barrens north of Edmonton.

Several merry flights were also undertaken by Berry during the past year. Late in the fall, Bishop Faliaize and his party were frozen in with their mission boat at Hornaday river on the Arctic coast. Berry made the flight from Aklavik to Hornaday river and the next day flew to Letty Harbor for a load of supplies for the party. They were held at Hornaday river for some days by bad weather and during the return flight, Berry was forced to land and spend the night in a blizzard.

Naturalized in Canada in 1935, he earlier was a member of the Alberta Provincial Police and for three years a Hudson's Bay Company clerk at Herschel Island, off the Northern Yukon Coast, and at Fort Smith, North-West Territories.

He reached Canada in 1923 after harrowing experiences in the Great War and the Russian Revolution from which he escaped with his mother in 1918.

Records at Ottawa showed he deserted the Alberta Provincial Police in 1928. A year later he inquired at Victoria as to the possibility of purchasing his discharge, but after being informed of the terms he dropped the negotiations.

expected and they may be approved in a day. It was said.

Airway Bill Pending

Some further Government legislation is pending, notably a bill to establish an operating company for the Trans-Canada Airway, and other measures already before Parliament have some distance to go before passage.

Among these is the bill now before a Senate committee to establish a Board of Transport Commissioners with wide powers over inland shipping, air traffic and interprovincial or international bus and truck transportation. Another, before a special House committee, would change the capital structure of the Canadian National Railways. It may be reported back to the House this week.

There have brought vigorous contention in committee, but it was learned the committees can present them to the two houses in forms likely to insure smooth passage.

Meanwhile Prime Minister Mackenzie King, on his visit to President Roosevelt, over, was expected to spend a week or 10 days vacation on the Atlantic Coast, where, he did not say. He will ponder matters Canada may raise at the Imperial Conference following the Coronation. Among them was said to be the question of whether Canada will remain a member of the League of Nations, leaving itself even perhaps to embarrassment in the event collective action should be invoked against any nation involved in a war not directly affecting the British Commonwealth.

Imminence of the Imperial Conference raised another question whether the Government may call Parliament to an Autumn session. In this connection it was recalled a Fall session was held in 1932 after the Imperial Economic Conference here.

Moreover, the question of Empire defence almost certainly will come before this year's London conference. The Prime Minister's demonstrated policy of keeping Parliament informed of international affairs likely to affect Canada, especially those involving the world's peace and armaments, has led many to believe he will seek to advise members reasonably soon after the conference of any new situation that might arise from it.

DUCHESS NAMED ROBES MISTRESS

Widow Of Eighth Duke Of Northumberland Will Walk Behind Queen At Coronation

LONDON, March 8—(C.P.)—The Duchess of Northumberland, widow of the eighth duke and mother of the present unmarried head of the great Percy family, to-day was appointed mistress of the robes to Queen Elizabeth.

The Duchess, who is in India, is expected to return in time for the Coronation, May 12 when she will walk behind the Queen and her train-bearers, attended by her own page. Her principal duties are to attend the Queen at State functions.

The Duchess was married to the eighth Duke in 1911 when he returned from Canada after serving a term as aide-de-camp to the Governor-General, Earl Grey.

The last holder of the position was the Duchess of Devonshire, daughter of one former Governor-General of Canada—the Marquess of Lansdowne—and the wife of another, who was mistress of the robes to Queen Mary for many years.

The position of mistress of the robes is the most important in the Queen's household.

In the case of a Queen Regent—as Queen Victoria was—it is the only office among the ladies of the household which carries sufficient political flavor to require a change, if asked for, with a change of government.

British Empire Has Long Stood For Civil, Religious Liberty, Extension Of Freedom To Man

Dr. H. R. H. Kenner Addresses Banquet Of Teachers' Institute

MOTHER OF NATIONS

"The British Empire stands today as it has long stood for civil and religious liberty; for justice and fair play; for the extension of freedom to the ends of the earth; and as the guardian of the backward peoples of the world." Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, principal of Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School declared in the peroration of a fine address he delivered on Saturday night.

As guest speaker at the annual dinner of Peterborough Teachers' Institute at Empress Hotel, which was attended by over eighty members of the teaching profession and their guests, Dr. Kenner discoursed on the topic, "The British Empire—Its Contribution to World Advancement."

Fully representative of the Public and Separate and the Collegiate and Normal Schools teaching staffs, the dinner a most successful event, was planned by the Social Committee of the Institute, which is composed of D. Munro, and the Misses C. O. Mann, E. McKinley, A. E. Hunter, H. S. Thrush, Ethel E. Kendall, Mary McManus, and Frances Bonnycastle.

President F. E. Johnston very ably presided in the chair, and also proposed the toast to "Our Profession", which was responded to by Miss Ethelyn Dix.

The Guests

Guests included: Mayor George A. Macdonald and Mrs. Macdonald; Dr. D. R. Scott, chairman of the Board of Education and Mrs. Scott; the Rev. J. D. Paterson, president Peterborough Ministerial Association, and Mrs. Paterson; and Dr. J. A. Bannister, principal of Peterborough Normal School, and Mrs. Bannister.

On behalf of the gathering a warm welcome was extended to the guests of the evening by Inspector A. Mowat. He commented on the fine representation, particularly from the Normal School, and was glad to see the teachers get together on such occasions as he thought it was a splendid means of stimulating greater interest in their work.

In speaking to the toast which he proposed Mr. Johnston urged that a teacher's responsibility did not end with the teaching of book learning. He pointed to the larger task of character building and warned against a neglect of spiritual things. "The power of our spiritual resources," he asserted, "has not yet been tapped and it is going to be the duty of our teachers, more than ever before, to assist the church if our civilization is to be saved."

Build Well

Mayor Macdonald was the first of the guests to speak in reply to a toast proposed by Inspector Mowat. Further developing the theme foundations of the teaching profession and their guests, Dr. Kenner discoursed on the topic, "The British Empire—Its Contribution to World Advancement."

COAST RACQUET STARS CAPTURE FOUR TITLES

Sibbald And Zaharko Win Doubles Honors For Lone Eastern Victory

HELD AT VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER, March 8 (CP) — One of the greatest triumphs in the history of Canadian badminton was written into the records Saturday as three brilliant British Columbians routed the best of talent from the East and blazed their way to four Dominion crowns.

Only one Dominion title went to the East in finals of the championships Saturday, Toronto's Jack Sibbald and Joe Zaharko lifted the men's doubles crown, beating Charlie Jones, Winnipeg and Art Snell, Calgary, in a hard, three-set fight, 15-6, 15-18, 15-9.

Mrs. Anna Kler Patrick, Vera O'Shea and Dick Birch were the three Vancouver stars who blazed British Columbia's name across the badminton horizon.

Has Unblemished Record

Birch, who hasn't lost a game in tournament play this year, took the men's singles title, undefended by Douglas Grant of Toronto. He beat Zaharko, 15-11, 15-10, while Mrs. Patrick won the women's singles crown from the defending champion, Mrs. W. R. Walton, Toronto, 1-11, 11-8, 11-8, and then teamed with Vera O'Shea to dethrone the Robertson sisters, Ruth and Margaret, of Ottawa, 8-15, 15-10, 15-9, in the women's doubles.

In the mixed doubles, Dick Birch and Mrs. Patrick successfully defended their championship against the Eastern threat of Ruth Robertson and Rev Mitchell of Ottawa, in straight sets, 15-6, 15-12.

With low, easy strokes, smashing drives and clever net play, Zaharko extended Birch in the first game. Zaharko took a four-point lead, but Birch tied the score at 6 to 6. The Ontario player ran it to 10 to 6, but Birch rallied to tie it again, 10 to 10. Zaharko made it 11 to 10, but it was the last point he was able to score as Birch ran out the set on five service changes.

The Vancouver player took a lead at the start of the second set and was never headed. Zaharko threatened only once as he ran the score to within a point of tying Birch, 6 to 7.

Winner Starts Poorly

Mrs. Patrick faulted repeatedly in the first game of her match with Mrs. Walton, and went down 11 to 1, but the second saw the Vancouver woman rally. Mrs. Walton fought to a four-point lead at the start of the deciding game, but the count was eventually tied at 8 to 8 as Mrs. Patrick scored with dropping drives to mid-court. From there the Toronto woman was unable to score again, and Mrs. Patrick marked up three straight points for the match.

Dr. R. Cramer, Guelph, Ont., and Jack Storey, Toronto, won the men's doubles consolation, defeating George Lane and H. Francis, Victoria, 15-10, 5-15, 15-8 in the final.

Victoria's pair of Mrs. E. Young and George Lane won the mixed doubles consolation, with a 17-14, 10-15, 17-14 victory over Mary Fernie, Kamloops, B.C., and W. N. Keenan, Ottawa.

61—SKATING ON SKIS

The skating step is a useful means of increasing the speed on the level or on a gentle slope. It is more adapted to loose snow than to a hard surface in that the skis are not so likely to slip sideways when striking out on a step.

Skating consists of a series of sliding step turns on alternate skis, first to one side, then to the other. Take all the weight on one ski, knees well thrust forward and body crouched. Lift the unweighted ski clear of the snow and turn it through a small angle divergent to the line of travel. Straighten the knee of the weighted leg with a vigorous thrust on the ski and throw the weight from it to the other, thrusting the knee well forward (figure 1). Keep the ankles normal and this will give the weighted ski a slight inside edge at the moment of striking out. Glide on the weighted ski, straightening the body and bringing the rear ski forward for the next sliding step. Crouch and strike out on the other ski, pointing it in a divergent angle to the line of travel on its own side thereof, figure 2. The line of travel will be between the directions of motion when sliding on alternate skis. Do not attempt to place the ski, on to which you are striking out for a step, ahead of the other one, just place it at a divergent angle. This is important. When sliding, do so on one ski only and carry the other one above the snow pointing in the direction of the next step.

Skating, like stepping around, is a very beneficial movement for developing the balance while running on one ski and also to train the muscles in smooth and rhythmic action.

GIANTS' WEAKNESS IS DOWN ON FIRST

Bill Terry May Be Forced Back Unless McCarthy Or Leslie Suddenly Improve

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

HAVANA, March 8 (AP)—Pennant chances of New York Giants for 1937 hing, on a hinge — Bill Terry's crippled knee.

Unless young Johnny McCarthy or the veteran Sambo Leslie suddenly gets hot and stays that way, Terry will have to hobble back on first base to give the Giants the final touch of infield polish and punch they must have to run a winning National League team.

As a whole, the team shapes up stronger than a year ago, with Pitcher Clydell Castleman back in great shape and Lou Chiozza on third in place of the withered Travis Jackson, but just the same Terry or a player almost as good must be on the job at first base for at least 70 games.

Terry, who once said he'd never play another ball game, secretly is planning to play as much or more than his 79 games of 1936, but chances are he'll be lucky to play 25. So far this season, he has favored his watered knee more than ever. His personal training routine has been centered in pitching, fungo hitting and conversation.

McCarthy, a $40,000 rookie obtained from the New York Yankee farm at Newark, still appears a year or two away from his time specifications. As fields well, but his hitting is less than fair. Leslie, always a good hitter, can't field well enough to suit Terry, whose idea of a good ball club is a tight defence and great speed.

Except for the first base problem the Giants look better than they did a year ago. Their hitting has been poor against the highly conditioned Cuban pros, who held them to an average of six hits for the first three exhibition games, but they have better speed and better balance.

COLUMBIANA WINS WIDENER CUP RACE

Little Hirsch Filly Leads Choice Home By Two-Length Margin

MIAMI, Fla., March 6—(AP)—Columbiana, a dainty flapper bearing the silken finery of "Young Hurry" Hirsch of New York, showed her big, rough boy friends the way home Saturday with a burst of finishing speed that won the $50,000 added Widener Challenge Cup race.

Beautifully piloted by Robert Le Blanc, leading apprentice rider of the rich Hialeah racing season, the little filly escaped roughing and burned up the stretch in record-equalling time to win the richest race in Florida's history.

Columbiana's margin of victory was two full lengths over Mrs. Emil Denemark's highly favored Finance, which beat J. Parrish's Feld horse, Dellor, by a length and a half for place. Count Arthur came fourth, with the old "sweet sugar" horse, Amear, fifth.

Columbiana's time for the one and one-quarter mile was 2.01 4-5, which equalled the Hialeah track record set in the first running of the Widener Cup last year by Mantagna. Third among the favorites, he paid $14.20 to win, $6.40 to place, and $4.20 for show. The victory was worth $52,000 net to young Hirsch.

CURLING
By HERB MARTIN

Four mixed rinks from our club motored to Bobcaygeon on Saturday evening to play the return match for the Wood Trophy. Although all our rinks were down by eleven points, the local club wins the cup by the small margin of two shots. As in the former match the Peterborough curlers were victorious by 13 points. The ice was in good condition and many spectators took in the game. The visitors were entertained by the home club to a midnight lunch at Scotsdawn House.

The final game of the Vice-Skips' bonspiel takes place to-night (Monday) when Doc Green and C. Huffman will cross brooms at 7.30 p.m. ....The winning skips of Saturday's local spiel were A. Oates, A. Dewney and G. Calms, and incidentally, we believe it is the first time that these three have reached the prize money. We may be able to start the Leads' and Seconds' competition to-night (Monday).

FORT WILLIAM IS HEADED FOR GROUP HONORS

Wanderers Hold Two-Game Lead Over Port Arthur Bearcats In Section Playoffs

NELSON WINS B.C. TITLE

WINNIPEG, March 8 (CP)—Fort William Wanderers, who lost to the Allan Cup champions, Kimberley Dynamiters, in the western senior hockey final last year, apparently were headed for the intersectional playoffs again today.

Wanderers are two games up on Port Arthur Bearcats in a best-of-five Thunder Bay series. They beat Bearcats 3-1 Friday and 3-2 Saturday and need only a win in the third game tonight to reach the district final with the Thunder Bay Senior "B" winners.

Dynamiters, who took two of three games from Wanderers last year in the western final, are on a European tour and will not defend the Allan Cup but the West Kootenay League which produced them is well represented by Nelson Maple Leafs.

Wins B.C. Title

Nelson won the British Columbia title Saturday with a 10-3 victory over Vancouver Canadiens to top a 5-1 triumph scored last Thursday.

Maple Leafs will meet the Alberta champions in the next round and it will be Coleman Canadians if the Crow's Nest champions defeat Edmonton Dominions in the second game of a best-of-three series at Calgary tonight (Monday). Coleman surprised with a 3-2 win over Dominions in the first game Saturday.

Saskatchewan playoffs advanced another stage Saturday when North Battleford Beavers entered the provincial final with a 3-1 triumph over Flin Flon Bombers, 1936 Manitoba champions, in the fourth game of a best-of-five series. Beavers won two previous games and one was tied.

KANSAS RUNNER IS VICTORIOUS

FAST TIME OF 4.21

CHICAGO, March 8—Alfredo San Romani of Emporia, Kas., established himself in the right circle of "world's greatest milers" Saturday after his victory over Glenn Cunningham in the Bankers' Mile of the revived Chicago relays.

The slender Italian defeated Cunningham, holder of the world records both indoors and outdoors, by two yards in what appeared to be a breezing finish Saturday night. His time was 4.21 on a soft track.

Cunningham won the last Bankers' Mile in 1932.

Charlie Beetham, Ohio State University long-striding speedster, ran a clever race to whip Jimmy Herbert, negro star from the New York Curb Exchange, by five yards in the special 600-yard feature, in the ordinary time of one minute, 17.1 seconds.

SUDBURY BENGALS WIN N.O.H.A. TITLE

Tigers Annex Honors By Two Straight Victories Over Kirkland Lake

SUDBURY, March 8 (CP). — Blanking Kirkland Lake Lakesbores 5 to 0 here on Saturday night, Sudbury Tigers won the Northern Ontario Association senior title in two straight games. Victory gave Tigers the right to continue in Allan Cup playdowns.

Power plays and clever combination efforts played a major part in the Sudbury victory. Led by their centreman, Jim Dewey, who played an outstanding game throughout, Tigers were full value for their shutout victory.

Digging Up the Lead Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.P.)

OUR COLTS swing into action here tonight—after all this delay—in an O.H.A. game, but it's an exhibition tussle. With the Lindsay Midgets, who lost out 8-4 in junior "B" playdowns a week ago to Aurora. A home-and-home exhibition series was arranged Saturday, first one here tonight at 8.30 in the Brock and return go in Lindsay on Wednesday. The local officials, driven desperate almost by the long delay in the playdowns, figured these games would be fine conditioners for the Colts and local fans might see a good game here. The Lindsay lads must be pretty fair as it should be a tight tussle. All the locals will see action this e'en. They've been practising regularly and all are in good shape.

WE ARE informed that Peterborough was offered Hamilton for playdowns last week if Hamilton won out in their series with Guelph, but the latter squad won. There are still six teams in Western Ontario, Point Edward, St. Mary's, Brantford, Niagara Falls, Guelph and Milverton. With two in Toronto, Aurora, Barrie and Peterborough. Guess that's all. So it would sort of look like Barrie—if they rub out Aurora—and our Colts maybe here on Friday. And maybe they'll call it semi-finals. Anyway, it's a guess. Hope the ice holds out.

WITH THE juniors playing here this p.m., the Senior City Puck Loop semi-final between Lakefield and Mayfairs will be postponed till tomorrow (Tuesday) night at 8.30 in the Brock St. rink. And for the hurve Mike let 'em go overtime, if necessary, but got it settled before midnight. They have played twice now in this series and both games ended in ties. More ties than we got for Christmas. Probably, the finals in this Thad and Blunder Loop, between Westclox and the Lakefield-Mayfairs' winner, will start Wednesday. It'll be a two-game series, with goals counting.

SOME CHANGES have been made in Southend Hockey League games to be played this week. Wednesday sees Canuck Midgets tangling at six with St. Peter's and Aces playing St. Peter's Juveniles at eight. Thursday it's Aces vs. St. Peter's Juveniles at seven. There is a possibility that the six o'clock game on Wednesday will be moved up to seven, depending on a Church League contest. More again, if there are further changes. These minor loops should clean up their playoffs this week, if possible, either on the outdoor rinks or at ye Brock St. Winter Gardens.

LOOKS LIKE the Kadunks were kadunked properly up in Lindsay last Friday in the gloaming during the Felt Cup playoffs. The Lehane lads went out like lights before the GM-ites's powerhouse charge in semi-finals (the Oshawa lads doing a ditto later before Sunderland); and then the locals having $30 worth of hockey sticks pinched from their car during the final game. The sticks belonged to the individual players and they are burned up like the young bride's biscuits. The stick-stealers had better change the brands as they all bear the owners' names. Police are checking up on the matter. Kabunk or kazunk might be a better kyword than kadunk!

TWIT'TIE QUITE tickled in Belleville now after the Redmen rubbed out Whitby in intermediate "B" playdowns, young Tumpkins and young Jackson—junior puckists—scoring the big goals. Dunno who they meet next. There is an Allan Cup playdown game on Quinte ice tonight between Port Colborne and the Trenton Fliers, and we fear the senior squad will knock off the Airmen. Campbellford fans will recall that the Runion brothers, Doug and Eddie, will be with the Sailors. Art Upper, who has pitched against the Petes in ball, plays defence for Port Colborne.

A HOCKEY Club official has just called us up to say that all seats at the Brock tonight are two bits—yeah, 25 cents—and that booster tickets for the Colts' next playdown game here will be available to those who attend the tilt tonight. That means that those getting booster tickets this eve will be given first privilege for seats at the game Friday—or whenever it is. They may order reserved seats tonight—provided they are on hand this evening—or they can get a rush-seat booster ticket. This latter will entitle them to line up at the front door next playdown game and get in ahead of the other rush-seat patrons, who will get in the side door of the rink. "We are sometimes accused," this official said, "of not looking after regular patrons during sellout games. Well, our friends who come out tonight will be taken care of. We'll see who our friends are—and they will see a good game and get first crack at the next O.H.A. playdown game."

TWO FINE Senior City Cage Loop contests played Saturday eve in the "Y" gym. First one went overtime before Neill's got a 17-15 nod over Dominion Life. In the other fixture, St. Paul's took a 29-22 decision from C.G.E. to practically assure themselves of a first place playoff berth. First tussle was rather rough in spots and the good sized gathering of gallerytes got a kick out of it. The other jamboree was more open and quite interesting. As hockey will soon be over locally, the cage sport is beginning to grab off more of the spotlight every week. It'll last for several weeks yet.

OBSERVATION PLATFORM: Juvenile Church Puck Circuit playoff contest may be run off tonight at All Saints' rink if there's ice; senior playoff will be Wednesday night at seven in the Brock . . . . City 5-Pin Bowling Loop dope is in tonight . . . . Trenton Fliers decided to risk soft ice at Belleville and to refuse to raise prices for tonight's Allan Cup playdown game in return for fan's support there this winter . . . . How about a senior ball meeting here this week? . . . . Westclox Hockey Club plans a banquet one of these nights . . . . Some smart ski-jumping was seen out at Nassau yesterday afternoon by quite a gathering . . . . Sunderland was a last-minute entry to the Felt Cup tourney when Campbellford withdrew . . . . If the ice is okay this week, practically all the local hockey will be cleaned up—except the Colts.

SEMI-PRO LOOP SEEN IN ENGLAND

Will Allow Mixed Hockey In National But Not International Matches

LONDON, March 8—(CP)—Recent decision of the International Ice Hockey Federation to permit playing of amateur and professional teams may result in the formation of a semi-professional or professional hockey league in London next year.

Some rink managers are strongly in favor of out-and-out professionalism, claiming it would be a grand thing for the game in England. They also seek to get away from control by the British Ice Hockey Association which they claim has not kept pace with development of the game.

British hockey men were somewhat surprised at the warm reception given the suggestion of pro and amateur mingling at the international meeting. The representatives of the several nations agreed to permit mingling in league games but not in Olympic or world tournaments which will remain amateur.

P. Vassar Hunter, president of the British Association, said his body has been extremely careful on the question of the amateur status of players.

"No Canadian has been imported by the Association," he said. "Many come to London entirely on their own and hope to improve their position by playing hockey. They all have amateur cards from the Canadian authorities and we refer them to English clubs.

"All the Canadians here have jobs. Ice hockey could not be played here without their assistance. They are helping greatly in the training of young English players. In a few years' time we shall be represented by an all-British team of amateurs in the true sense of the word."

F. Loisy, president of the federation, said sham amateurism must end. As Canadians were necessary for teaching purposes, particularly in countries where there were only indoor rinks, he suggested local governing bodies should form a branch to deal with professionals and allowed mixed hockey in national but not international tournaments.

SAINTS' CLINCH FIRST POSITION

Assure 'Selves Of Top Place In City Basketball By Downing C.G.E. 29-22

NEILL'S WINS IN OVERTIME

St. Paul's almost assured themselves of first-place in the Senior City Basketball League standing by downing their closest rivals, C.G.E., 29-22, Saturday night in the Y.M.C.A. gym before a good crowd. Play was fast, open and interesting all the way with C.G.E. making it close. the Presbyterians having an edge only in the first few moments and then near the close. St. Paul's got five points early but C.G.E. soon came on and had the short end of a 14-13 count at halftime. They drew in front early in the second frame but Marsh's long shots gave St. Paul's the advantage in the final few minutes. The well-balanced St. Paul's team earned the verdict. Cross went the distance and shone on defence besides scoring 10 points for C.G.E. Richardson also went good for them. McIntyre and Mason starred for St. Paul's, the latter leading scorers with nine points. Pulkinghorn got eight, Thorburn six and Sedgewick four. The teams:

St. Paul's: Marsh, McIntyre, Pulkinghorn, Weir, Thorburn, Acott, Morrow, Sedgwick.

C.G.E.: Richardson, Crowe, Cameron, A. Holmes, Watts, Magee, G. Hunter, Archibald, Palmer.

Referee, H. Dickey; scorer, D. Charlton.

Neill's Win In Overtime

Neill's had to go overtime Saturday night in the "Y" gym to yank out a 17-15 Senior City Basketball League decision over Dominion Life. It was a speedy, interesting game with the insurance gang leading 9-5 at halftime. Neill's tied it up at 15-all in the second stanza and counted two free throws in overtime. Neill's showed a team of fine ball-handlers but lacked shooting skill and had trouble with the aggressive Dominions. It was a rather rough game with Taylor drawing four fouls to leave the floor. For the winners Wolstenholme and Stanger were outstanding, the latter getting nine points. Grose played the whole game for the losers on defence and went good. White had four neat field baskets. The teams:

Neill's: V. Holmes, Broadley, Wolstennolme, Gadd, Taylor, M. Hunter, Stanger.

Dominion Life: Grose, Moldaver, Brady, Smart, White, Weese, Ellis, Hunt, Stinson.

Referee, H. Dickey; scorer, D. Charlton.

Toronto Irish Outbeat Stratford For 6-2 Win

MIDGETS IMPRESSIVE

TORONTO, May 8. — Stratford Midgets, carrying Western Ontario's hopes for a Memorial Cup championship, dropped a 6 to 2 verdict in St. Michael's College at Maple Leaf Gardens on Saturday afternoon on the first leg of their scheduled five-game series for the O.H.A. Junior A title.

While the Irish outscored the invaders in every period of Saturday's contest, the score does not by any means represent the difference between the teams. The 5,500 fans who witnessed the game, the speediest and most thrill-packed of the junior campaign, were thoroughly impressed with Stratford's display.

The "Barber Pole Gang" just couldn't click around the goal-mouth after working in close, but they gave every indication of packing a powerful scoring punch. A fleet band of forwards and a pair of hard-hitting defencemen, backed up by some clever goal-tending by sprightly "Red" McAtee, are quite likely to extend the series to the limit of five games.

Sheedy Scores Penalty Shot.

While his pair of classy wingmen were being kept off the score sheet, Gene Sheedy broke through for three goals, one of them on a penalty shot, to snare the sniping honors of the day. Zukaski, Ross Hunt and Paul McNamara accounted for the other Irish tallies, while McQuade and Smythe counted for the Midgets.

Sheedy gave the Irish a two-goal margin, with the lone marker of the first period and another at 11.47 of the second. Lukasik made it 3 to 0 with a thrilling rink-length dash, before McQuade slapped his own rebound past Tommy Dunne for a Stratford goal.

Paul McNamara scored the fourth St. Michael's tally on a beautiful play, near the half-way mark of the last period, and Sheedy made good on a penalty shot, after Gatschene had pulled down Fred Hunt, when the latter was in the clear. Sheedy's drive dropped into a corner of the net off McAtee's pads.

Ross Hunt banged home the final St. Michael's goal, before the Midgets staged a continual offensive which was finally rewarded when Smythe converted Woodward's pass past Dunne to complete scoring at the 17.36 mark.

Midgets Out-Lucked.

Dave Pinkey's outfit deserved more than the pair of goals they did register. Midget snipers connected with the post on two well-directed shots, and only some great clearing by Irish forwards in front of their own goal, kept the visitors from adding to their score.

Bean and Gardner showed a willingness to "hand it out" on the defence. Gardner caught Ross Hunt with a terrific bodycheck on one occasion, and the diminutive St. Michael's winger was all but knocked unconscious.

Pitcher Baldwin Passes In Michigan

HASTINGS, Mich., March 8 (AP). —Charles "Lady" Baldwin, old-time professional baseball pitcher, died yesterday at his home here. He was 69.

Baldwin pitched the Detroit National League team to Detroit's first world championship in 1887. That season he hurled 38 games and won 43. In the world series that concluded the season he pitched the Detroiters to victory in three of the eight wins necessary to clinch the title.

The next year Baldwin retired.

Remember When—

Jack Hobbs England's cricket 1305, made his 12th century in Anglo-Australian test cricket at Melbourne eight years ago today. The famous Surrey batsman hit up 16 fours in the first test match of that season and the dozen centuries stood as a record until the last international tilt of the series recently saded when Don Bradman equalled the mark in Australia's first innings.

TORONTO LEAFS REQUIRE OVERTIME TO BEAT CANADIENS

THIRD STRAIGHT

TORONTO, March 8. — Dick Irvin and his puck engineers reared along to their third straight victory —longest run of the season—as they vanquished the sectional leading Canadiens by 3 to 1 in overtime on Saturday night.

Some 14,500 fans — who packed practically every nook and corner of Maple Leaf Gardens—saw the locals display a little to much finishing power for the hurtling Habitants and skate away with a hard-earned decision.

It was nip and tuck battling most of the way, with the rivals bearing down fairly closely on their checks, but play was punctuated with numerous combined speed bursts, which required some exceptional saving on the part of the respective goalers.

Not until the second half of the third frame did the Leafs manage to penetrate the brilliant barrier offered by "Kim" Cude, but the Frenchmen retaliated in surprisingly quick order to force an overtime session.

A Costly Penalty.

A penalty to Bill McKenzie, husky defenseman, in the early seconds of overtime, provided the keynote for Leafs to dart through to victory. Charlie Conacher seemed headed for a sure goal—his second of the night—when he was spilled by McKenzie while charging in on Cude.

A penalty shot was called, but Conacher's bullet-like drive rebounded high into the air off Cude's pads. Meanwhile, however, was serving his "time" when Harvey Jackson drove in the deciding counter after a power attack on Cude in which Ivy, Apps, Jimmy Fowler, and Conacher figured.

Fowler made victory certain with two and a half minutes to play when he raced down alone, and, upon reaching the Canadiens' defence, unleashed a hard drive. The puck sailing high and true, lodged in the upper corner of the cage, much to the amazement of the scintillating Mr. Cude.

In the earlier stages of the contest, Toronto were not overly impressive, although it was strictly sensational play on Cude's part that kept them off the scoring sheet. As the game grew older, however, the Leafs finally got geared up, and they were flying by the time overtime was reached.

Sharing the spotlight with Cude was "Turk" Broda—whose playing bordered on the sensational at times. Sprawling, jumping, and diving, the young goaler robbed the Canadiens on several menacing attacks by Johnny Gagnon, Jotre Desilets, Georges Mantha, "Babe" Siebert, and others.

Pienitis for "Chuck."

That Charlie Conacher still is the idol of Toronto and Ontario fandom was indicated by the mighty cheer and applause that greeted his goal at 13:26 of the third period.

"Big Chuck"—with Bill Thoms and Boll, were pressing heatedly in the Frenchmen's territory when the puck shot out to Conacher at the blue line. Winding up, he released one of his old-time "bombers" which was clear through a maze of players and into the net before Cude saw it.

Some loose defensive play was responsible for the Canadien's equalizing thrust, less than four minutes later. Mantha carried the puck down the boards and three Leafs rushed over to check him. Paul Haynes, with another mate, was left uncovered in front of the net, and the centre man had little difficulty picking up the relay and drilling pass Broda from close quarters.

School Squad Pulls Out 9-2 Victory In Final Game Of Series

TAKE TWO IN ROW

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BANCROFT, Mar. 6.—The Pirates finished the hockey season on Wednesday evening by defeating the L.O.I. to the tune of 9-2, before an enthusiastic crowd. It made the second win for the school in a three-game play-off series, and they are now the proud holders of the Dr. S. S. Lamb trophy.

During fast action in the first period, only the superior goal-tending of Jim Joyce prevented the L.O.I. from scoring. With about five minutes to go, Cyril Munro tallied on a pass from J. Munro.

The second period opened with the L.O.I. lads peppering the Pirate district with fast shots, but with little success. Finally, K. Sprung broke away from his planters to net the puck. Shortly afterwards, Bill McAlpine scored for the Pirates on a pass from C. Munro, and the period ended with the Pirates leading 3-0.

Fights threatened in the third, both teams going in with the chip on the shoulder, even the referee was in a fighting mood. Bob Hillis and Art Towle each were penalized when the latter approached Bob with fistic action. Bill McAlpine, then K. Sprung with E. Vance again scored. Sprung received a penalty for checking a man who might have been away for a goal. Jack Russell made the first tally for the L.O.I., followed by another on a solo rush of M. Tryon. Three more school goals were netted, one by B. McAlpine and two by E. Vance, while the L.O.I. played every man up. The school's "kid line" of D. Moxam, R. Conlin and J. Munro was responsible for the last goal.

Line-ups:

Pirates—Goal, Jim Joyce; defence, C. Munro, B. Hillis; forwards, K. Sprung, E. Vance, B. McAlpine; alternates, J. Munro, D. Moxam, R. Conlin, R. Pamley.

Referee—G. Towle. Timekeeper—S. Ferguson.

Penalties—A. Towle, B. Hillis, E. Vance, K. Sprung.

LINDSAY MIDGETS PLAY COLTS HERE

Junior O.H.A. Exhibition Game Arranged For Brock St. Rink This Evening

An exhibition O.H.A. junior "B" game between Lindsay Midgets and the local Colts will be played here tonight (Monday) at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink. The teams will then have an exhibition tussle on Lindsay on Wednesday. With the Colts idle for nearly two weeks, the local management decided to arrange an exhibition game here to keep them in trim for O.H.A. playdowns, and also give the fans some hockey to see. A good crowd of rooters is expected to take in this tilt tonight as the young squads will dish up plenty of action, good hockey and some keen competition. A good sheet of ice has been promised and both teams will be at full strength and using all their signed players.

Lindsay Midgets were eliminated in O.H.A. playdowns a week ago by Aurora but only after two tight contests, 8-8 being the final round score. They stand a fair chance of upsetting the dope and knocking off the classy Colts right here, the Colts' management taking that risk in booking these exhibition games. All the locals are in good shape and anxious to get into action again after a week of drill practices. They may step into the O.H.A. semi-finals against Barrie about Friday, so will be working hard for condition here tonight. It should be a lulu number.

Pameiob Runs 13th And Upsets the Basket

MIAMI, Fla., March 8—(CP)—If the name "Pameiob" should jump out of the racing entries at you it will do no good to thumb a Greek dictionary in the hope of learning how to pronounce it and what it means.

J. W. Parrish, who owns the two-year-old of the impossible name, coined it and each letter stands for a word. The words are "put all my eggs in one basket."

The colt is by Desperate Descond-Polly McWiggins and the name is fairly appropriate, for is fairly wiggles and is desperate to pronounce.

(PS—Pameiob was 13th and last in its last start., so maybe you should just forget about the whole thing."

Toronto's Farm Squad Runs Season's Goals To 142

CHICAGO, March 8 (CP).—Chicago's Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs battled to a 2-2 overtime tie in a fast National Hockey League battle here last night. The Hawks but the deadlock, retained their slim chance of reaching the playoffs.

The game was hotly contested from start to finish, and only the brilliant work of both goalies, "Turk" Broda for the Leafs and Mike Karakas for Chicago, kept the score down.

Frank Finnigan opened the scoring, beating Karakas with a long drive from just inside the blue line after three minutes of play. Pete Palangio tied it up late in the stanza on a pass from Wilder Larochelle.

In the second period "Red" Horner was penalized for holding, and while he was in the box Paul Thompson scored on a double pass from "Doc" Romnes and Johnny Gottselig.

Charlie Conacher's goal, with aid of Syl Apps, came three-quarters through the stanza. Both teams had plenty of shots in the third and overtime periods, but the goalies were too good.

Three penalties, one in each period, were handed to the Leafs while Chicago drew none.

HARVARD GRABS ITSELF A TITLE

Wins American College Supremacy By Defeating Yale 5-0

TORONTO, March 8—(C.P.)—The International Intercollegiate Hockey League of 1936-37—dwindling three tilts in the 15-game schedule was at an end to-day. McGill held the league and the Eastern Canadian College championship. Harvard were rulers of the quadrangular league, emblematic of American college supremacy, for a second successive year.

Harvard, scoring their 22nd victory in the last 23 games, defeated Yale 5-0 Saturday as Dartmouth Indians eked out an overtime 4-3 triumph over the last-place Princeton Tigers. Harvard's victory increased their second-place margin over University of Toronto to six points.

Generally the league was devoid of upsets, although few credited Harvard with the strength it showed in volume over all opposition but McGill, who won in 10 straight. There was no letup in their attack Saturday night as they swept their second straight game from Yale, scoring twice in each of the first two periods and one in the third.

Dartmouth's victory enabled them to finish ahead of Yale and Princeton, who was only one game. Dave Walsh fired the winner for Dartmouth less than two minutes from the end of overtime. Princeton had taken a first-period lead that wasn't wiped out until the third.

Hockey's Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

The sensational Sylvanus Apps and Detroit's veteran Larry Aurie moved into the second-last week of the National Hockey League scheduled to-day with Toronto's star rookie again only a point behind Aurie, league-scoring leader with 43 points. Apps nicked up a couple of assists during the week-end while the league went complacent. Marvin Harry, also a Red Wing, moved back to third place another point behind but still one ahead of Dave Schriner of Americans. The leaders:

AMERKS BOW OUT OF PLAYOFF BERTH IN MONTREAL GAME

Last Period Three-Goal Spurt By Maroons Does The Trick

WIN BY 4 TO 3

MONTREAL, March 8 (CP).—Red Dutton and his New York Americans moved into Detroit last night carrying with them the record of being the National Hockey League's first also-rans in the current race for playoff berths.

While 4,500 fans looked on, Americans bowed out of the picture Saturday night when Montreal Maroons came from behind to defeat the New Yorkers 4-3. The loss not only blasted Amerks' last mathematical chance of making the playoffs, but kept Maroons in the Canadian section's second spot, one point ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs.

BLACK HAWKS TIE TORONTO LEAFS 2-2

Chicago's Overtime Efforts Fail To Beat Broda For Extra Point

BRUINS SHUT OUT RANGERS BY 1 TO 0

Rookie Dumart Slaps In Winner With Only Two Minutes To Go

NEW YORK, March 8. — (CP Cable.)—Rookie Woodrow Dumart handed Boston Bruins a 1-0 victory over New York Rangers of the National Hockey League last night, firing the games only goal with less than two minutes to play.

Allan Shields, hard-hitting defenseman, provided an ideal pass for Dumart's goal.

The victory qualified the Bruins for the Stanley Cup series which starts March 23 even if the Chicago Black Hawks, now in last place in the American Division, win all their remaining games. The Hawks may still nose out the Rangers, however, by finishing the season without a defeat. They would then share third place.

Boston—Goal, Thompson; defense, Portland, Shields; centre, Wetland; wings, Beattie, Goldsworthy; subs, Clapper, Smith, Hollett, Dumart, Schmidt, Getliffe, Cowley, Sands, Mantha.

Lorne Carr, on speedy breaks down the ice, scored the Amerks' first two goals, and Nels Stewart added the third late before the second period ended.

BAR MOTOR CARS OVER BIG AREA CORONATION DAY

Folks In Route Districts Of London Must Travel Afoot Or By Bus

GET FOOD AHEAD

LONDON, March 8.—(CP)—Scotland Yard's policing arrangements for the metropolis May 11-13 have been drawn up with a view to enabling as many people as possible to see the Coronation processions and ceremonies. Limitations have been carefully outlined by the commissioner of police to avoid accidents and inconveniences.

The mixture of vehicular and pedestrian traffic has, in the past, led to confusion and danger, says the commissioner. Therefore no wheeled traffic will be allowed on the actual procession route May 12 and all side entrances will be barred to all vehicles excepting those permitted to enter between certain hours to set down passengers or deliver necessary foodstuffs and mail. But householders and restaurant owners are warned most supplies for the three days must be obtained before May 11.

Special Route For Cars.

A special route through the Coronation Area will be arranged for cars and carriages of ticket-holders in the Abbey. This route will be kept clear of other traffic. Special-colored windshield labels will be issued, distinct colors for different entrances. Guests must leave by the entrance they entered.

Spectators are asked to travel by trams, buses and trains rather than cars; indeed the traffic jam makes this request one in their own interests. Parking space within the Coronation Area will be extremely limited so that cars setting down passengers would have miles to go before parking.

Special arrangements have been made by the London Passenger Transport Board for service by bus, coach and tram to convenient points all along the route. The service will begin at four o'clock Coronation morning and run all day.

Taxis will be permitted to enter the area but must leave after delivering passengers. Underground train service will be augmented but stations within the Area will be closed.

Must Leave Directly.

Seatholders along the route will be given windshield labels so that their cars may enter the Area, but their cars, too, must leave directly. The Royal Automobile Club is in charge of placing signs indicating what streets are for general use and in what direction.

To assist the police to keep the procession route clear and minimize pressure of crowds without obstructing their view short steel tubular barriers will be erected, staggered to permit clearer view for all, in open squares such as that by the Marble Arch. The barriers will be removed directly the procession has passed to assist dispersal of spectators. And should a panic develop and they be a source of danger, to all appearances they will be buried almost instantly.

The authorities do not intend to increase either the regular mounted police or the voluntary "special" branch of the Metropolitan mounted constabulary for the Coronation. There are about 250 regular mounted policemen and about 70 specials. Their horses are exceptionally well trained and officials do no wish to mount extra men on untrained horses which would be exposed to pushing crowds and processional fanfare.

ROUND LAKE

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James McCutcheon was the scene of an enjoyable gathering recently when they entertained a number of their friends and neighbors to a jolly progressive euchre party. Eight tables were played and the prize winners were as follows, high lady, Miss Sylvia King; high gentleman, Mr. Elgera King, while the consolation prize was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. James Thoms. A dainty lunch was served at the midnight hour after which a few square dances were enjoyed which brought the party to a close.

KEENE

Miss Edith Wood was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Dickson of Villiers on Tuesday last.

Miss Rita Dickson spent the week-end in Trenton visiting her sister, Mrs. Joseph Gould.

Miss Lila Drummond returned home after attending the funeral of her cousin in Toronto.

The Day That I Forget

By MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER 20

It is not difficult to analyse the qualities in women that attract men when you know women.

There is the pretty, popular girl who creates the atmosphere of good times wherever she goes. There is the girl who plays up her femininity in her soft, voice, her rapt attention, her pretty, ruffly clothes. And there is the girl who has the indescribable quality in her of making men want to live up to what she expects of them. That quality is recognizable where it exists; it has no name.

The women who belong to the first two groups are obvious. Janet belonged to neither of these but to the last group. From the time when she was a tiny 16-year-old with braids demurely slipping down her back, she had attracted the type of boy and man who looked beyond the obvious prettiness in women and wanted to cultivate the worthwhileness they knew she had to offer.

Janet had had beaux without number but she was never the kind of girl to whom men sent orchids, themselves rebuffed, dropped away. But for the most part, she kept her men friends. They told her their troubles, of their love affairs and their ambitions and time and again through life they were to remember her.

Janet forgot them all. She had one man and she had waited for that one man. Joel Paynter was all she ever wanted. She had had no need for men friends. She was essentially womanly. She needed and had women friends and her one man. She had enough.

There was more than one man in Hollywood who regarded here as his friend but—as in other things—Janet gave more than she received. Perhaps because she was not seeking more than she had.

Vernon Chester was her friend. The famous director was frequently a guest at the white house in the hills. He came to Janet to talk over his production problems, to discuss the personalities in their life and to listen quietly for the revealing things that Janet said to him about her own life. Things that had it: her love didn't waver and she had Joel.

Vernon Chester wasn't the only man who liked to drop in at Janet's home at dusk, to sink in the tranquility of the atmosphere of repose that surrounded her. There were others who liked to watch her slender hands among her silver tea things, to sink into the soft chairs in the library where she received in the autumn afternoons, and there to find a restful change from the hectic routine of their days.

Janet didn't talk of pictures then unless her guests wanted to. Frequently she picked up her knitting or a bit of sewing. And often she wondered why it was that so many of Joel's friends came to her and sat for hours with her.

It bored Joel to sit for very long and he implored Janet to put away her knitting. She always did.

None of the men could have told you why they liked to go to her. They could have said that she was stimulating except that they didn't realize she was. Janet read the newspaper. When there was a historical picture in the making, she referred to her history books which intrigued her; she had revealing things to say. No, they wouldn't have said that she was stimulating. They just said they "liked" her.

If anyone had said she had glamor, her friends would have protested as violently as though an uncomplimentary thing had been said of her. Caroline Maynard would have resented it most.

When Dion Maynard brought his debutante bride back to the picture colony from New York, Caroline Maynard held herself aloof from her husband's friends. She made none until she met Janet Paynter. Caroline adored Janet. She found in her a woman who thought and spoke the way she did and who had the manners of those to whom she was accustomed.

It was Janet who, wisely—and with no air of giving advice—opened Caroline's eyes to what was expected of her. It was Janet who pointed out to the actor's bride that she now shared her husband's life regardless of her own inclinations.

By her own example, her own sacrifices, she showed the other girl the way to a gracious acceptance of all things and so made her happier.

Caroline really enjoyed Hollywood but she patronized it. She decided that she was going to get all the fun out of it that she possibly could and wrote gay and witty notes home to her social registerite friends and told them it was a three-ring circus.

The only person she really was fond of was Janet Paynter. The one person she wasn't thinking of when she wrote to her brother, Russell Bede, was Janet. She couldn't think of Janet as part of the circus.

She wrote to Russell:

"Please come out here, Russ! It's time that you stopped making money and had a little fun. I want no letters reminding me that you have your fun playing squash at the Racquet club, selling your boat and dancing attendance on post-debs.

"It's fantastic here but fantastic enough to amuse you. Every woman is a glamorous, beautiful and a story book character! Every man is a screen hero and a celebrity! They'll adore you. They adore anyone with a million dollars. The girls will mob you. It isn't every day they have a first-hand chance at a 35-year-old bachelor with social position in spite of what you read in the newspapers. Besides, I'm lonesome for you.

"Come on out and be entertained! I'll give gargantuan parties for you and it will be the first time in years you'll meet someone besides Ye Newport, Southampton and Virginia crowd. And I'll save you a blonde with the longest eyelashes in the world."

Russell Bede laughed when he read his sister's letter. He thought that it was true. He hadn't been to a party in years where he'd met anyone outside of the crowd he had grown up with. But then he'd had little time for extra-social activities.

He was a sophomore in college when his father died. Immediately he had taken over the merchandising house in which the Bede fortune had been made. Now, 14 years later, he had weathered the depression and rebuilt the fortune.

Russell Bede wasn't handsome. He was, and looked, a successful young business man. His hair was graying at the temples and in spite of his squash, his waistline was a little thicker. Nevertheless he was a matrimonial "catch."

He thought he was slipping into a life long bachelorhood and Caroline's reference to "a blonde with the longest eyelashes in the world" amused him. He had long been wary of women for other reasons than that he did not understand them.

Impulsively he sent a wire to Caroline saying that he was flying to the coast and for her to go ahead with her sensational party. He left orders with his secretaries and said that he would return in a fortnight.

If he had known how that trip was to affect his life, he would have canceled his wire.

Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY'S NEW CAP

"Whoo-oo!" called Uncle Wiggily in his hollow stump bungalow one morning. "Whoo-oo! Hay!"

"Whatever in the world is the matter?" asked Mrs. Longears, who was helping Nurse Jane pick up the clothes to be washed. "Are you trying to turn into a bluejay bird, Wiggy, my dear?"

"Oh, no," answered Mr. Longears. "I just wanted to know where you were. I want to ask you a question."

"Well, if it's anything like a puzzle or a riddle or why don't elephants pack peanuts in their trunk I have no time for such foolishness," said the lady rabbit, speaking fast, but at the same time, kind and smiling.

"Oh, it isn't anything like a riddle or a puzzle," said Mr. Longears. "I just want to ask you where you put my last Summer's straw hat, my dear."

Why Should he?

"Your straw hat? Gracious goodness! Wanting a straw hat in March when the March wind, it fell on the Bob Cat's head. Rather than take it away from him, I let him keep it. Now I must go buy a new hat. But I want a hat to wear in the store so I thought I'd get out my old straw one."

"Oh, that's all right," said Mrs. Longears as she put some of the rabbit children's stockings in a pillow case to drop down to Nurse Jane in the laundry. "I'll get your straw hat."

"Thank you," spoke the husband rabbit. "And while I am getting a new hat, what would you say if I got a cap instead?"

"I think a new cap would be better," agreed Mrs. Longears. "We are still going to have cold weather. If you get a cap with large enough flaps you can pull them down over your ears. Also there will be much wind in March and a cap doesn't blow off as easily as does a hat. By all means get a cap, Wiggy."

"I shall," decided Mr. Longears. Putting his straw hat on his head, and poking his long ears up through holes especially cut for them in the hat brim, the rabbit gentleman hopped from his bungalow.

Couldn't Do It

As soon as he started for the cap store it began to snow. The March wind blew the white flakes down on the bunny and on his straw hat and some flakes blew in his ears. He could not fold the ears down when they stuck up through holes in the hat brim, you see.

"But no matter," thought Mr. Longears. "I'll soon be at the store. There I'll buy a warm cap and I'll leave my straw hat until Summer."

As Mr. Longears hopped along through the snowstorm, wearing his straw hat, Mr. Twistytail, the fat pig gentleman, looking out of his pen, saw the rabbit.

"Wiggy must be up to some trick," thought the pig. "I'll follow after him, not letting him know it, and see what he does. It's very funny for him to be wearing a straw hat in a snow storm."

The fat pig stepped softly along behind the rabbit. Then Uncle Butter, the goat saw the pig and the rabbit and bleated:

"Ho, something funny is going to happen. I'll join the procession too." So the goat fell in behind the pig and the pig was behind the straw-hatted rabbit. And what happened next I'll tell you in the story after this about Uncle Wiggily's luck.

That is, if the icicle doesn't throw the snowball in the bottle of ink and make it look like a licorice drop.

CHAPTER 20

It is not difficult to analyse the qualities in women that attract men when you know women.

There is the pretty, popular girl who creates the atmosphere of good times wherever she goes. There is the girl who plays up her femininity in her soft voice, her rapt attention, her pretty, ruffly clothes. And there is the girl who has the indescribable quality in her of making men want to live up to what she expects of them. That quality is recognizable where it exists; it has no name.

The women who belong to the first two groups are obvious. Janet belonged to neither of these but to the last group. From the time when she was a tiny 16-year-old with braids demurely slipping down her back, she had attracted the type of boy and man who looked beyond the obvious prettiness in women and wanted to cultivate the worthwhileness they knew she had to offer.

Janet had had beaux, without number; but she was never the kind of girl to whom men sent orchids. She was the girl who was invited to the skating carnival, the barn-dance and for Saturday picnics. Later, when she had left Chester and gone to New York to earn her living, there were the usual number of men who invited her to the theater, to dine with them, to go to concerts. The right club habitues were not attracted to her.

There were, of course, the men who made love to her and, finding themselves rebuffed, dropped away. But for the most part, she kept her men friends. They told her their troubles, of their love affairs and their ambitions and time and again through life they were to remember her.

Janet forgot them all. She had one man and she had waited for that one man. Joel Paynter was all she ever wanted. She had had no need for men friends. She was essentially womanly. She needed and had women friends and her one man. She had enough.

There was more than one man in Hollywood who regarded here as his friend but—as in other things—Janet gave more than she received. Perhaps because she was not seeking more than she had.

Vernon Chester was her friend. The famous director was frequently a guest at the white house in the hills. He came to Janet to talk over his production problems, to discuss the personalities in their life and to listen quietly for the revealing things that Janet said to him about her own life. Things that had it; her love didn't waver and she had Joel.

Vernon Chester wasn't the only man who liked to drop in at Janet's home at dusk, to sink in the tranquility of the atmosphere of repose that surrounded her. There were others who liked to watch her slender hands among her silver tea things, to sink into the soft chairs in the library where she received in the autumn afternoons, and there to find a restful change from the hectic routine of their days.

PREMIER HEPBURN SHOWS $7,347,729 SURPLUS

MILL ON TAXES HEPBURN GRANT TO RATEPAYERS

Innovation In The Budget Announces Subsidy To Ontario Municipalities

FROM $3,000,000 FUND

To Be Paid In Fiscal Year Beginning April 1, As Tax Relief

TORONTO, March 9—(C.P.). — An innovation in Canada in the form of a provincial subsidy to municipalities based on locally-made assessments was announced by Premier Mitchell Hepburn in his budget address to-day in the Ontario Legislature.

"To every city, town, village and township in the province there will be paid a sum equivalent to one mill on the dollar of the ratable assessments for general municipal purposes with the intent that shall be passed on to the taxpayers of every community."

Three million dollars has been put in the estimates for the fiscal year, beginning April 1, to pay the subsidy.

Mr. Hepburn recalled a year ago he predicted the "blessing of good government would be carried into the homes of the humblest man and woman in the province." Cost of government had been reduced since, and the benefits now would be felt.

Aid to Taxpayers

Text of the Premier's announcement was: "The statement a year ago was not lightly made and, after careful consideration the government has decided that, during the forthcoming fiscal year, there will be paid, by way of grant to every city, town, village and township of the province, a sum representing the equivalent of one mill on the dollar of their respective rateable assessments for general municipal purposes. Such grants are made unconditionally, but in the expectation and with the intent they shall be passed onto the taxpayers of every community by a reduction of one mill in the general municipal tax rate, or, where from unavoidable cause such reduction is precluded then by avoidance of a one mill increase in the general tax rate, but for such a grant would have become requisite.

"By means of these grants or subsidies this government believes that property owners directly and, through them, other taxpayers,

Tax Enquiry Planned

"Whether a continuance of such subsidies and benefits will be possible in future years is a matter that will, in some measure, depend upon the findings and recommendations of the royal commission which is to be appointed by the Dominion Government and which it is expected, will conduct an inquiry into the whole system of taxation in Canada with a view to its thorough revision on an economic, equitable and scientific basis with full regard to the tax-paying capacity of the people in regard to taxes presently collectable by the Dominion, by the province and by the municipality.

"The House will agree the crowning feature in passing on the fruits of a balanced budget and an honest surplus is the direct subsidy that will be paid at the rate of one mill on the dollar to every municipality in Ontario."

$21,608 to Peterborough

Morley E. Shaver, city treasurer, informed The Examiner this afternoon that one mill on Peterborough's general rate would amount to approximately $21,600.

"It is pleasant news." Mayor Macdonald said, "but just off hand I don't know what the council can do. We have struck the rate for this year, and the bylaw was passed at the meeting on March 1. Apparently it is intended that the grant should be applied to this year's taxes."

COMPULSORY VOTE PLAN IS DISCARDED

Forced Registration Is Also Thumbed Down By Commons Committee

OTTAWA, March 9 (CP)—Compulsory voting and compulsory registration were unanimously voted down today by the Commons special committee on the elections and franchise act.

Vote was taken without discussion; additional to that at the committee's previous session, when Australia's experience with the compulsory exercise of the franchise was studied.

It was felt that the compulsory system was inapplicable in the Canadian climate, that the increased cost entailed would not be justified by the comparatively small increase in votes polled in countries where it is now in operation.

The "graft" made between some election returning officers and printers, in the printing of voters' lists, could be eliminated by definite tariff of fees set under the election act, Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer said.

He had found in a number of cases, he said, that from two to four cents per name had been returned to the returning officer by the printer.

SPEAKER BLOCKS BLACKMORE MOVE ON AMENDMENT

Refuses To Allow Addition To Original By Bennett On Unemployment

VOTE LIKELY TODAY

OTTAWA, March 9.—(CP).—Government policies on wheat, employment and trade continue to be targets of criticism from all parts of the Opposition groups as the Budget debate pursues its course in the House of Commons. Several times in the last week the debate seemed to have reached the voting point. That point is expected finally today.

Private members and the majority from Opposition groups occupied the whole of yesterday's session which saw an abortive attempt on the part of John Blackmore, Social Credit leader, to add a clause to Leader Bennett's amendment regretting the Government's alleged failure to take effective measures against unemployment.

Mr. Blackmore's amendment would have added a paragraph to the original amendment, also regretting passage of the order-in-council which provided that the Wheat Board would not establish a fixed minimum price unless wheat fell to 90 cents at Fort William.

Speaker Casgrain, agreeing with the sentiments of both Mr. Bennett and Justice Minister Lapointe, ruled that this amendment to the amendment, because it introduced an entirely new subject, was not in order. It could properly be moved as a separate amendment once the Bennett amendment was disposed of, he said.

Debate on the Bennett amendment will probably continue to-day and unless additional members place their names on the list of those desiring to speak it appeared likely an early vote would take place.

Nine Speakers.

Yesterday's speakers included A. A. Heaps (C.C.F.-Winnipeg North), C. E. Rothwell (Lib. Swift Current), Mr. Blackmore, David Spence (Cons. Toronto-Parkdale), H. R. Fleming (Lib. Humboldt), H. J. Barber (Cons. Swift Current), L. Lacombe (Lib. Laval-Two Mountains), Robert Fair (S.C. Battle River), and Jean Francois Pouliot (Lib. Temiscouata).

Mr. Heaps told Liberal members they would have to vote for the amendment if they were to be consistent, since their party gave a

GHOSTS INVADE ONTARIO MINES, CREWS JITTERY

Weird Happenings, Human-Like Forms Create Fear At Little Long Lac, Bankfield

MEN FLEE WORKINGS

Investigation Is Fruitless And Gangs Finally Go To Work Behind Foremen

GERALDTON, Ont., March 9. — (CP)—Strange stories of ghosts and elfs sped through this Northwestern Ontario mining district today.

Employees of the Bankfield and Little Longlac Gold Mines reported weird visitations in the workings although Manager John W. McKenzie of the Bankfield property declared he could find nothing to substantiate the reports.

Albert Caulman, George Kano and Clarence Hands, Bankfield miners, caused the stir Sunday night while at work in the "drift" when they dropped their mine lights and fled because "there was something there."

"I am positive that there was something in the drift last night which certainly looked to me like the elf of the mines," Caulman said yesterday. "Not many people know this story but anyone who has been in this mining game as long as I have knows that following an appearance like that something is going to happen."

Hands was reticent but Kelson commented:

"I sure saw something there alright. People are telling me today that it must have been some gas formation but it was the most human looking formation that I have ever heard tell of."

Lights Startle Crews.

Reports from the Little Longlac mine said men had been startled by the flashing of lights in the drifts.

Many miners confirmed the story, declaring either someone was playing a practical joke or there was something of a supernatural nature.

One Little Longlac miner, who refused to permit use of his name, said he was working on the third level when a light appeared suddenly at the far end where he knew nobody was working. In a few moments the hydrostatic air reserve was opened, sending a great blast of air through the drift. Seconds later the air was shut off and no one was to be found at the controls.

Manager McKenzie of the Bankfield mine, who said he had found nothing to substantiate the reports, declared all miners worked as usual on company property yesterday. The men reported many miners hesitated to enter the workings in the morning but consented after foremen led the way.

Movie Actor Disappears From Beauty Winner's Cabin

Frank Vosper, British actor and playwright who disappeared from the liner Paris during a farewell party in the cabin of pretty Muriel Oxford, 'Miss Great Britain" last year, jumped overboard in a fit of jealousy, according to Ernest Hemingway, famous author and former Toronto newspaperman now on his way to Spain. Hemingway was a member of the party held the last night of the ocean voyage. Peter Willes, room-rate of the actor, confirmed the newspaperman's contention the actor went out a cabin window, but thought the window had been mistaken for one leading to a companionway. ABOVE are recent photographs of Miss Muriel Oxford and Frank Vosper. Watch is being kept along the southeast short of England in hopes that the body will be washed ashore.

9 BLACK LEGION MEN SENTENCED

"Received From One To Five Years Each For Plotting To Kill Newsman

DETROIT, March 9 (AP)—Nine men were sentenced today to prison terms of one to five years each for a Black Legion plot to kill Arthur L. Kingsley, newspaper publisher of Highland Park.

The sentences were pronounced by Recorder's Judge John V. Brennan, who convicted the men a week ago after hearing a month long trial without a jury. Seven of the 16 defendants were acquitted.

Among those sentenced were N. Ray Markland, former mayor of suburban Highland Park, and Arthur F. Lupp, Sr., once milk inspector for the Detroit Board of Health and named by investigators as Michigan commander of the secret society.

The men were convicted of plotting to shoot Kingsley in 1932 because of his political opposition to Markland, who then was mayor but later was defeated for re-election. All nine will be eligible for parole at the end of the minimum one-year terms.

PLAN EXPANSION FOR MILK BOARD

Will Control Cheese Factories, Tomato, Strawberry, Raspberry, Canned Fruit Producers

TORONTO, March 9— (CP).— Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture, to-day announced revised constitution of the Ontario Milk Control Board as the Farm Products Board with greatly extended authority. The Control Board will have control over cheese factories and also over tomato, strawberry, raspberry and other producers selling to canning factories.

He said he had given notice of a bill in the Legislature to provide for the change.

"It is not really a Marketing Act," he said. "Its result will be to give us control over producers who want to organize for control purposes."

Producers' organizations will be empowered to collect dues from all producers when they become representative of 75 per cent or more of the farmers.

"It is important these organizations have funds to fight their own battles," he said. "The only way they can get them is by charging dues."

The broad principle of the control will be permissive he said, but it will be given power to decide whether a new creamery or cheese factory can be opened in a given area.

Many cheese factories and creameries have been started for spite, the Minister said. The farmer loses in the long run by the intensity of competition.

H. J. Mayhew, superintendent of hog grading for the Federal Government in Ontario, told the committee Ontario hog production increased 36 per cent. to 1,600,000 animals last year. Dominion production reached a record high of 3,-700,000, a 60 per cent. increase over 1926. Mr. Mayhew saw no indication of a general drop in hog prices.

Man Picked Up Out Of Sea Thinks Rebel Cruiser Saved Valuable U.S. Munitions

ALL SPANISH CREW SHOT

ARCACHON, France, March 9. — (AP)—Declaring he last saw the shell-pounded Trans-Atlantic munitions ship, Mar Cantabrico, in tow of the insurgent warship Canarias, Juan Poo, a Spanish seaman, related to-day a dramatic story of escape under bombardment in the Bay of Biscay.

His story indicated the Mar Cantabrico might not have been sunk and that her $2,700,000 load of American munitions might have fallen into the hands of the insurgents.

Poo, picked up out of the sea by a French fishing boat after he had escaped from the shelling and burning Mar Cantabrico, said he believed the ship 17 passengers and 150 crewmen had mostly been taken aboard the Canarias and that "all the Spaniards were shot." Two of the passengers were "North Americans," he said.

Rebel Cruiser Traps Government Freighter Sailing As Britisher

Warship Takes Crew, Passengers Off, Then Destroys Victim With Shellfire

S.O.S. CALLS FAKED

Loyalist Crew Bring British Destroyers Racing To Aid In Bluff Gesture

LONDON, March 9 (UP).—The Spanish freighter Mar Cantabrico, which left New York in February as the last vessel to carry contraband United States cargo to Spain under the old neutrality law, was trapped last night off the Spanish coast by the rebel cruiser Canarias, cut to pieces with shell fire and sunk.

The crew and passengers were taken off the blazing vessel and imprisoned aboard the Canarias. There were believed to be two or three American volunteers for service in the loyalist army aboard the vessel.

The sinking of the Mar Cantabrico, apparently running a blockade disrulsed as a British liner, climaxed one of the most dramatic naval episodes in the Spanish civil war.

The freighter, which left New York February 19 on the heels of a Congressional act which—had it been passed a day earlier—would have barred departure of the ship with its American planes aboard, apparently sent out distress signals as the British liner Adda.

Destroyers Respond

The messages, crackling over the Bay of Gascony to French and British stations, brought four British destroyers and two other vessels racing toward it.

While shore stations frantically tried to identify the craft—first as the Elder-Dempster liner Adda, then as the Aba, of the same line—the destroyer Echo boiled over the choppy Bay of Gascony until it was within visible contact.

It reported to the Admiralty Office here that the Canarias had sunk the Mar Cantabrico, after taking aboard its passengers and crew.

Earlier British maritime sources were in complete confusion as to the identity of the craft. The Admiralty first reported it was the Elder-Dempster liner Adda. When it was learned the Adda left Liverpool yesterday this was withdrawn.

Later it was reported it was the Aba, en route up the coast from West African ports, with British refugees from Spain aboard.

Rase To Get Aid.

Messages, crackling from the sinking ship, were signed "Adda." It was believed this was an effort to bring British warships to its aid.

The Canarias reported to the Echo the vessel was "camouflaged," and apparently it sought to run the rebel blockade under a British flag.

The four British destroyers which responded to the distress calls were ordered to return to port.

The Admiralty issued the following communique:

"The following has been received from H.M.S. Echo:

"'Have been in visual communication with the Spanish cruiser Canarias, who states the ship reported as the Adda was a Spanish ship named the Mar Cantabrico. Her crew are aboard the Canarias, so presumably the ship sank.'"

Cargo Worth $2,700,000.

The Mar Cantabrico was en route from Vera Cruz, Mexico, to a Spanish loyalist port, probably Valencia. She carried a consignment of American airplanes and guns valued at $2,700,000.

Allman, a 115-pounder, who has won four matches and lost three decisions this season, said he learned wrestling because it was the only sport open to him.

BUDGET TO GIVE ROWE SOMETHING TO WORRY ABOUT

All Hepburn Has To Say Previous To Announcement—Expect Surplus Over Million

PROBE ROBERTS' CASE

TORONTO, March 9 (CP)—Budget day packed the Ontario legislature today with members and spectators eager to hear the Liberal government's financial record and any tax changes Premier Mitchell Hepburn might announce in his capacity as provincial treasurer.

The premier is expected to announce a surplus of more than $1,000,000, boosted by higher revenues particularly from the succession duty department. Only comment on his budget from Mr. Hepburn was: "It will be something for Earl Rowe (Ontario Conservative leader) to worry about."

Yesterday the legislature decided by unanimous vote to give Dr. A. Duncan Roberts (Lib. Sault Ste. Marie) investigations he requested by the committee on privileges and elections into Premier Hepburn's charges Friday. Mr. Hepburn said the Soo member was guilty of "blackmail" and of "conduct unbecoming a member of the legislature."

Dr. Roberts who moved to the opposition side of the House since being read out of the Liberal party by the premier Friday, was charged by Mr. Hepburn with "blackmail" in attempting to obtain a medical position with the Algoma Steel Company. Last Thursday Dr. Roberts accused Mr. Hepburn of "utter discurtesy and cheap autocracy" for permitting Mr James Dunn, Algoma Steel president, to announce the iron ore bonus.

All Lies' Says Roberts

To the charge regarding the medical contract and one he attempted to use his influence as a member to obtain a pulpwood contract for a northern firm, Dr. Roberts replied: "Nothing but downright deliberate lies on somebody's part." He demanded and received the inquiry by the legislature committee which will hear witnesses after prorogation and submit its report next session.

Opposition leader George S. Henry claimed Dr. Roberts was read out of the party because he used the words "Utter disc and cheap

Quints' Physician Protests And Gets $150 As M.O.H. Instead Of $40

NORTH BAY, March 9 (C.P.).—Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe got a raise in pay yesterday, and a recommendation for further increases when North Himsworth Township, in which Callander and the home of the Dionne quintuplets are situated, is able to pay.

Appealing a decision by the Township Council to reduce his salary of Medical Officer of Health from $75 to $40, Dr. Dafoe was awarded a salary of $150 for 1937. Judge J. A. S. Plouffe also allowed the doctor $25 costs, $5 for witness fees, and certain disbursements in connection with witnesses.

He said no appeal would be taken against his judgment, which did not ignore Dr. Dafoe's request for $360 salary. In setting the amount at $150 he took into consideration the township's "poor" financial position, he said.

"For 1937 I am going to make an order to fix Dr. Dafoe's remuneration at $150, which I don't think is an amount adequate for the value of his services, but which is just as much as the township can pay at this time," Judge Plouffe said.

Le Havre, France, Mar. 9 (UP) FRANK G. Vosper, British actor-playwright who disappeared from the liner Paris at sea after a champagne party, was believed by police to-day to have carried $20,000 into the ocean with him.

Inquiries brought reports that Vosper had $20,000 when he left Hollywood. The Paris's purser told authorities that the playwright neither rented a safe nor deposited money with him after boarding the ship. Vosper also appeared while attending a party in the cabin of Muriel Oxford, British beauty who had appeared in New York night clubs.

Recognition Of Union Demands Tie Up Both Chrysler And Hudson

Settlement In Chevrolet Company Returns 6,400 Men To Work

DETROIT, March 9 (AP)—Approximately 75,000 United States automotive workers, most of them in the Detroit area and more than two-thirds of them employees of the Chrysler Corporation, were idle to-day due to a new series of sit-down strikes.

Governor Frank Murphy, who devoted his first six weeks in office to settling the Chrysler strike, announced at Palm Beach, Fla., where he was vacationing, he would fly back to Michigan immediately because of the new labor disputes.

All nine of the Chrysler plants in the Motor City were closed by strikes called by the United Automobile Workers of America. They employ 56,391 of the 87,000 Chrysler workers.

The Chrysler plant at Newcastle, Ind., with 4,100 employees, was closed by the company, which said it could not continue operations without supplies from Detroit units.

The Briggs Manufacturing Company, which supplies Chrysler with bodies, closed one Detroit plant and part of another, throwing 4,500 out of work.

The Hudson Motor Car Company's three manufacturing plants here also were closed by U.A.W.A. strikes, leaving 10,000 idle.

Demands Rejected

The Chrysler strikes were called yesterday following the corporation's rejection of the United Auto Workers' demand for recognition as the sole bargaining agency.

The last of the units closed by strikes was the Highland Park plant, where the main offices are located. It is there that representatives of the corporation and the U. A.W.A. have been conferring since last Wednesday on the union's demands.

A conference at Flint last night between George G. Paterson, president manager of the Fisher Body company, and Robert C. Travis, union organizer, resulted in the evacuation of 500 strikers from the press and metals departments of Fisher plant No 1.

Paterson said the workers had objected to a wage differential and he promised to report tomorrow after investigating their complaint. The No. 1 plant was held 44 days by sit-down strikers during the eighty which ended February 11.

Earlier yesterday another settlement returned 6,400 men to work in six Flint factories of the Chevrolet Motor Company. There was no disorder during the new Flint sit-downs.

CAMPBELLFORD

FOUND STRICKEN IN HER BATHROOM

Mrs. J. Glassford, Campbellford Woman, Discovered In Unconscious Condition

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, March 9. — Found lying on the bathroom floor with a deep gash in her head, Mrs. J. Glassford, Canrobert Street, is thought to be suffering from a stroke from which she has not yet regained consciousness. Although not in good health for the past few years she had been able to be around having been downtown on Saturday afternoon with her sister-in-law, Mrs. M. Benor. It was not until Sunday at noon that she was discovered lying on the bathroom floor by friends who came to take her out to dinner. When they found the door was locked they realized that something was amiss and gained entry through an upstairs window.

Mrs. Glassford is a lifelong resident of Campbellford. Her husband died some 12 years ago. She is a sister of Mrs. Robert Brenan, Toronto, and J. T. Benor of Florida.

Woman Risks An Icy Death To Attend Brother's Funeral

Crosses Partly Frozen Strait In Boat Equipped With Runners

FOUR MEN AID HER

PICTOU, N.S., (March 9 (C.P.).—Because she was determined to attend her brother's funeral, Mrs. William MacDonald yesterday became the first woman in many years to make the hazardous trip across the ice between Pictou Island and the mainland of Nova Scotia.

Mrs. MacDonald, her husband, her brother Dan McCallum, and two other men made the trip in a boat with runners, rowing in clear water and hauling their craft over the ice floes in between. The dangerous trip is usually undertaken only by men.

Her brother, Victor McCallum, died in Halifax on Saturday, and the funeral is to be held in Truro at 2 p.m. to-day. Mrs. MacDonald attempted to charter an airplane from Halifax, but found herself blocked when it was learned there was no snow around Truro, while a heavy fall on the island made a ski-equipped plane essential for a take-off.

The only other alternative was the runner-equipped rowboat that makes a weekly trip with mail across the five miles of floe-dotted water between the island and the mainland.

Mrs. MacDonald decided to make the attempt.

The four men and woman took nearly six hours in the hazardous crossing. At all times they faced a double danger of having their craft crushed by heavy ice or being carried down the channel and out into Northumberland Strait. But the crossing was accomplished and the journey continued by car to Truro.

MADDENED COW ATTACKS GROUP

Don Glenn Of Campbellford Suffered Bruises—Tossed In The Air

CAMPBELLFORD, March 9. — When a cow owned by W. F. Scott escaped from Sam Covert, she was attempting to remove the animal from a truck at 7.30 o'clock this morning on Ranney street, two men were gored as they tried to help in the round-up.

Young Don Glenn of the Rutherford Dairy, tried to head the cow off and was thrown six feet in the air. The animal rushed at him to gore him. Covert attacked it, with a club, with the result that the cow became madder.

It attacked John Younger who was saved from serious injury by the fearlessness of Mr. Covert. Acting quickly he grabbed the cow by the horns and threw it to the ground. George Hay helped him hold it until other men came with ropes. Dr. E. E. Stuart examined Glenn and found that he had suffered bruises and other bodily injuries.

ers and was able because of loopholes in the laws and bad administration, to escape contributing to the state by way of taxation, that portion of his wealth which he should have contributed," he said.

Revenue Always Up.

There had not been in the present fiscal year a day when the accumulated cash revenues did not exceed accumulated cash expenditures. Gross estimated revenue, forecast in the last budget address at $99,415,680.28, would reach $92,-231,639.31 by March 31.

Outstanding treasury bills at March 31 will be $36,000,000. At March 31, 1936, they totalled $52,-000,031. During the fiscal year $37,-500,000 in treasury bills were sold but $29,500,000 were redeemed.

"The interest rates on these bills are less than half of the rates effective in regard to $47,503,000 of treasury bills left outstanding by the Henry government on July 11, 1934," he said. All treasury bills are held by the chartered banks and are payable only in Canadian funds.

In December last, he announced, the province issued 15-year debentures at three per cent., payable in Canadian funds. Flattering opportunities to borrow in New York and London were rejected. The debentures were sold to a Canadian syndicate for 96.51, the effective interest rate being 3.16 per cent. The price was the most favorable obtained by any Canadian province for 15-year bonds for a quarter century.

No Borrowing Till Fall.

Mr. Hepburn recounted details of other bond issues. Money was borrowed for an average term of 16½ years at about 3½ per cent. The province will not have to go into the money markets again until October or November and "if the financial showing of the province continues to improve this year as it did last year, it may not even be necessary to sell debentures this year at all."

Total debentures maturing in 1937 will be $34,033,000; in 1938, $30,039,000; in 1939, $26,200,500; in 1940, $17,000,000; and in 1941, $13,-630,000.

Mr. Hepburn said there has been a growing feeling a period of expansion is coming to be followed by a hardening of money rates. He inclined to think comparatively cheap money was here to stay for a while.

"Notwithstanding the present unsettled condition of the bond market and the prospects of the British government spending over a short period of years the sum of 1½ billions on armaments, I am inclined to think that in the long run the abundant supplies of gold, the production of which is constantly on the increase, are bound to exert a decided influence in keeping rates of interest to approximately the present levels," he said.

A cablegram February 4 last said Ontario inscribed stock was selling in London eight to nine points above par, the premier said. This proved Ontario's credit has not been disclosed there.

Practising Economy

The Government has endeavored to practice wise economy," not a parsimonious reluctance to spend public money whether it is needed or not, but rather the exercise of prudence and good judgment to secure a dollar's worth for every dollar spent."

The Government kept strictly within its estimates, said Mr. Hepburn. It was given authority to spend $85,817,883.64 on ordinary account, and spent only $84,874,079.78.

He announced cuts in civil service salaries had been fully restored.

Announcing a contemplated surplus of $7,347,729.73 on the current fiscal year, he said "Having budgeted last year for a surplus of $597,-965.64, having collected revenues in excess of the amount estimated after having the cost of unemployment relief and administration in the sum of $12,500,000, and having properly provided for all sinking funds for the expenditure of over $900,0[illegible] I am able to report a surplus, an honest surplus 12 times as great as contemplated, a surplus of $7,347,-729.73."

Capital receipts for the current fiscal year will amount to $44,437,916.-93. They were estimated at $36,-880,318.31. Included will be loan repayments by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of $21,788,800.98.

Capital expenditures for the fiscal year ending March 31 next, were estimated at $26,930,983.80, reduced to $26,770,621.98 by repayments from the Federal Government on unemployment relief works.

Funded Debt $504,115,054.

At March 31, 1935, the funded debt of the province as represented by outstanding debentures, annuities and railway certificates, was $504,-112,854.50. Debentures issued during the year brought this to $530,341,-854.50. Redemptions totalling $62,-280,855.19 were made, leaving the outstanding debentures as at March 31, 1937, at $567,553,699.31.

"This shows a reduction in the funded debt of the province of $26,-160,855.19," he said.

At October 31, 1934, outstanding debentures, payable at the option of the holder both as to interest and principal in foreign currencies, totalled $325,000,000. Since then obligations payable in London and New York have been reduced $34,000,000 and no more have been issued.

Cost of exchange for the present fiscal year was estimated at $1,80,-615.41. In the year ending October 31, 1933, it was $4,047,311.48.

In the fiscal year ending October 31, 1934, 60c of every dollar of net revenue collected, it took 42.62 to meet interest charges. In the present year the cost of interest will be 28 cents out of each dollar.

Present fiscal year will see a reduction of $32,948,924.19 in the gross debt, he said. At March 31, 1936 gross debt was $589,558,519.78. At March 31 next it will be $556,611,-588.57. Gross debt includes advances to the Hydro Commission, Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway and agricultural loans.

Saving Office Deposits.

Deposits in the Province of Ontario savings offices, a branch of the Treasury Department, were $37,-505,429.49 at December 31 last, an increase of more than $5,000,000. There were 25 branches. Individual accounts increased nearly 5,000.

Farm loans through the Agricultural Development Board outstanding at January 31 last totalled $47,-279,315.11; the number of mortgagors being 16,032, lowest in several years.

The Development Board had 524 farms, carried at $2,385,131.91, on its books January 31. During the year 346 farms were taken over either by quit claim deed or sale proceedings. The board sold 408 farms.

"Farms are never repossessed unless the mortgagor is in arrears of both interest and principal for four years, with the exception of cases where definite evidence shows the mortgagor is exploiting the property or damaging the security," the Premier said.

Farm loans re-amortized totalled 1,069. Original 20-year mortgages were extended 20 to 30 years at four per cent.

Mr. Hepburn estimated $31,933,-963.42 would be needed for capital expenditures in the next fiscal year, "partly with a view to giving work and also to carry out an extensive program of highway construction and hospital extension."

167 Miles of Road Added

During the year 167 miles were added to the provincial highways system. There were 76 constructions projects to which the federal government contributed half the cost.

"In preparing our program for this year safety in construction and maintenance will be emphasized," he said. "Roads accordingly will receive special attention. Construction generally will be of a much higher standard, wider road surfaces, improved alignment and grades. The policy of building divided pavements on heavily-travelled roads will be continued; in short, every effort will be made to bring our highways to the highest possible standard of safety.

"The highway construction program calls for an outlay of $14,687,-350 and full consideration will be given to the increasing needs of Northern Ontario."

The premier said 339 townships receive provincial subsidies for roads and bridges. These subsidies have varied from 40 to 50 per cent but now a uniform 50 per cent will be paid.

April 1, the government will reduce interest on tile drain debentures purchase from 25 townships to 4 per cent. It has been 5 per cent.

One Mill Tax Gift

Mr. Hepburn announced the province would pay a sum equivalent to one mill on rateable assessments to every city, town, village and township in Ontario "with the intent that they should be passed on to the taxpayers of every community by a reduction of one mill in the general municipal tax rate or, where from unavoidable cause such reduction is precluded, then by avoidance of a one mill increase in the general tax rate which, but for such grant, would have become requisite."

The succession duty office had contributed more than any other department to the fine financial showing, he said. The Conservatives opposed opening up old estates and W. R. Price (Con., Parkdale), former provincial treasurer, predicted the government would probably have to pay money back if it did. Instead collections reached a peak of $16,000,000.

"That is only the beginning of what we hope to accomplish, for this government will not deviate from its course in fearlessly collecting from those who, under former administrations, flagrantly, boastfully and successfully defrauded that important department," he exclaimed.

The provincial income tax act, he said, replaced a "disgraceful checkerboard system of municipal income tax, full of inequalities, anomalies and hardships." Many escaped it. The budget more than restored anything lost to any municipality through the change and demonstrated its wisdom.

Mr. Hepburn mentioned the reported improvement in hydro finances and said the benefits had been passed on to consumers in rate reductions.

"This House will agree that the crowning feature in passing on the fruits of a balanced budget and an honest surplus is the direct subsidy that will be paid at the rate of one mill of the assessed value of the rateable property to every city, town, incorporated village and township in Ontario," he said.

U.S. Flying Fortress Latest Word In Heavily Armed Fighters

Uncle Sam's giant "flying fortress" attracted plenty of attention after arriving at the general headquarters air force base at Langley Field, Virginia. This giant Boeing bomber, multi-motored, heavily gunned, all-metal, and mighty speedy—is the last word in air fighters. It adds to America's undoubted superiority in the realm of heavy bombing machines.

KELLY WORRIED BY SIT-DOWNERS

Famous Flagpole Artist Thinks He'll Have To "Get Going Again"

NEW YORK, March 9 (CP). — Shipwreck Kelly, the man who sat his way to fame on innumerable flagpoles, stood on Times Square Monday and viewed the American scene with alarm.

"My friends say my records are gone," moaned the 44-year-old former sailor and prize-fighter as sight of a group of waiters picketing a restaurant recalled the wave of sit-down strikes sweeping the country.

"Why those fellows in the automobile factories at Flint stayed longer than I ever kept on a flagpole," the little Irishman with the broken nose wailed to a friendly policeman.

"I sat on a flagpole 49 days in Atlantic City and stood 22 days in Madison Square Garden," he added, "but now I guess I gotta get going again."

It wasn't so much the Flint sit-downers that brought on Kelly's grief as it was the flood of sit-down performances—school kids wanting alimony, bosses squatting with strikers. The novelty was wearing off.

Kelly said he would prefer New York as the scene of his next exploit—perhaps the pole atop one of the Motor Corporation buildings as a gentle slap on the wrist to presumptuous labor strikers.

"I'd also like to go back to Canada and work Toronto again," he said, recalling a performance at the city's Sunnyside amusement area.

OLD PAPER THROWS LIGHT ON MARMORA OF 37 YEARS AGO

Early Edition Of Herald Contained Notices Full Of Interest

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, March 9.—A few extracts from one of the oldest copies of The Marmora Herald of its issue of July 28, 1900, No. 27, of Volume IV, loaned to The Examiner by Patrick Terrion of Marmora, will doubtless prove interesting to residents of that year. Five fraternal lodges inserted their notices on the front page of this weekly. Loyal Queen No. 122 Canadian Order of Oddfellows met twice monthly. The principal officers were Thomas B. Warren, Noble Grand; George W. Larrow, Vice-Grand; B. F. Butler, Secretary, and John Green, Treasurer. The chair of Marmora L.O.L. No. 319 was filled by Thomas Campion, who was also the Master of the lodge in 1891, the year of the lodge's organization. William Sweet was the Recording Secretary.

C. A. Bleecker was Chief Ranger of Court Marmora, No. 1226, Independent Order of Foresters, and S. Mitchell was the secretary. This lodge met in the A.O.U.W. Hall twice monthly. The Worshipful Master of Marmora A.F. and A.M. No. 222 was John McWilliams, J. A. Hubbell was the secretary. Marmora Lodge, Ancient Order of United Workmen, met in the Masonic Hall twice monthly, their notice being signed, John Mayler, M.W.; W. F. Bleecker, Recorder.

Wanted Mispickel Ore

Canadian Goldfields Limited at Deloro desired to purchase mispickel ore in lots of 100 tons and upwards and were prepared to do all kinds of general repairs to machinery in their shops.

W. Golding was the proprietor of the now defunct St. James' Hotel and at the same time operated a liquor store in what was termed in 1900 the new Green Block. Two dentists made weekly calls to Marmora. T. E. Oliver, who came on Thursday, rented an office over the bank, and Dr. W. S. Hall of Norwood saw patients on Mondays in his rooms at the Royal Hotel. The names of the successful candidates in the North Hastings examinations for admission to High Schools include the following:

Jennie Larocque, 1 Marmora; Miss M. St. Charles, teacher, Little Dunlay, 4 Marmora; Mr. E. T. Williams, teacher, Victoria Eastwood, 4 Marmora; Mr. E. T. Williams, teacher, John Butler, Marmora; Mr. E. T. Williams, teacher, D. E. McCallum, Separate School, Marmora; Miss Campbell, teacher.

In this same issue of The Herald is an account of a terrible accident at the Belmont Gold Mine, in which two miners, Louis Dufrense and Peter Terrion, were killed while ascending a shaft.

Another mining news item read:

A Record Run

"The Malone Mine cleaned up on an eight days' run on Saturday. The gold brick worth $922, has been deposited in the bank at Kingston. The pallmas, eight tons, are valued at $118. The results this time are a great advance over former ones. The mill is now starting a two weeks' test run on ore from the new mispickel vein, results of which will be published when the run is completed. Ten more men started to work on the mine Monday."

Short items include a lone description of a stiff lacrosse encounter between Madoc and Marmora, in which the latter team was victorious by the score of 3-2. The Marmora team was as follows:

Another sports item read: "Football between Campbellford and Havelock is reaching a pretty warm pitch and a challenge from Campbellford to play for $30 has been accepted by Havelock."

Appended are a few cullings from the local news column:

"The Rathbun Co.'s drive has just passed through town. Mr. John Callaghan is their cook and has the reputation of being the best on the waters; at any rate he has had a goodly number of visitors to camp since arriving here."

"Now that the government furnish rifles and ammunition for rifle practise (these were the days of the South African War) a club ought to be organized in Marmora."

"A number of handsome monuments were erected in the Marmora cemeteries last week." There were mentioned in an additional local as having been erected by John Coughlin of Coughlin Bros., Peterborough.

On the back page of this interesting old copy of The Herald is the Marmora Fair Prize List in so far as it referred to horses, cattle, sheep and swine, while a news paragraph states, "An Agricultural Society has been formed at Bancroft and will hold a fair this Fall."

EMPIRE AIRPORT AT PORTSMOUTH

Six Million Dollars Will Be spent With Government Donating Half

PORTSMOUTH, England, March 9 (CP).—After months of negotiations, the way has been cleared for the execution of plans designed to make Portsmouth a great Empire airport. Within a few years Portsmouth, already a naval base, may be one of the world's greatest airports.

City Council, after lengthy discussion, accepted a proposal by the Docks and Airports Committee to construct an Empire airport at Langstone Harbor. The estimated cost is £1,200,000 (approximately $6,000,000) towards which the government has agreed to contribute a maximum of £600,000. The project was approved by a majority of two votes, 29 to 27.

When the plan is carried out, airliners on the routes to India, South Africa and Australia will arrive and leave from Langstone Harbor. When the trans-Atlantic air service is established, passengers and that route also will probably go by way of Portsmouth.

Empire air services until now have been operated partly to and from Croydon airport, south of London, and partly from Southampton. After March 6 all departures and arrivals will be from Southampton. But air experts consider Portsmouth a more favorable terminus than Southampton, because there is less shipping and therefore more space for take-offs and landings.

Non-Tidal Lake.

Barrages will be built across the two entrances to Langstone Harbor to convert it into a non-tidal lake. As an inducement to Portsmouth to adopt the scheme, the government guaranteed an income of £20,000 yearly for 15 years from overseas services. The City Council had contended the Air Ministry should undertake the project as one of national importance. But with the proviso of government assistance, the council finally agreed to the wish of the Air Ministry and of Imperial Airways that it should be a municipal enterprise.

A big new land airdrome will be built alongside the harbor. Hangars, repair shops, slipways and breakwaters will be installed. The base will be illuminated so that planes can land and take off by night.

Engaged

Announcement was made in London of the engagement of Viola Margot Catty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Catty of Stamford, Conn., to J. W. Dulanty, Jr., elder son of the high commissioner in London for the Irish Free State. The young couple, well-known in London society, are shown above.

LOAD OF GROCERIES BURNS ON HIGHWAY

Cargo Worth $875 And Truck Are Destroyed Near Norland

LINDSAY, March 9.—A bad accident occurred yesterday near the village of Norland, when a truck belonging to the National Grocers, Lindsay, and driven by A. McCollum, was destroyed by fire, together with a load of groceries valued at $875.00. The driver of the truck was about a mile and a quarter from the village when he noticed the truck on fire. He increased his speed to the village in order to secure help, but the fire had gained such headway that it was impossible to save anything. The cause of the fire is a mystery.

A well-known local curler, Norris Green, of the Anderson Furniture Company, is at death's door as a result of an accident which occurred on the ice. He slipped on the ice, his elbow crushing in one of his ribs which penetrated the organism of the body. A serious complication developed and he was taken to the Ross Hospital, where an operation was performed. A late bulletin to-day announced that there was a slight improvement in his condition.

BRITISH FLIGHT ENDS IN DESERT

Llewellyn Reports Narrow Escape From Bedouin Tribesmen's Attack

LYMPNE, Kent, March 9 (C.P. Cable). — Flying Officer David Llewellyn, hampered by bad weather, faulty machinery and physical exhaustion on his several unsuccessful attempts to lower the London-Cape Town record, returned to airport here to-day recalling still another obstacle during his recent flights.

Forced to land in an African desert miles from any habitation, Llewellyn related, he was approached by a group of friendly Bedouins. Among them, however, was one who became offensive, and while sitting in a little sleep that evening Llewellyn said he was awakened and saw one of the natives almost up towards him.

Llewellyn said he jumped on the intruder and called the other natives who beat him and sent him away. The Bedouins said the intruder was chiefly interested in the flier's wrist watch, but Llewellyn said he suspected "it was something more than that."

SHOE REPAIRS COSTLIER?

KITCHENER, March 9 (CP).—Increase in shoe repairs may soon be necessary with advance in leather prices, Sid Bishop, Toronto, representative of the Ontario Association of Shoe Repairers, told a meeting here.

If They Would Be Quiet!

Mayor LaGuardia of New York made an address in which he stated plainly what he thought of Hitler and Germany. Which wasn't much.

Then the German papers started telling what they thought of the Mayor of New York. And that wasn't much either.

One of the needs of the world at the moment is for complete and kindly silence on the part of a good many people. The trouble with many of the speeches made by national leaders is that they do not help matters in the least. When they are through it appears as though some person had taken a great stick and stirred the waters until the mud from the bottom was showing plainly at the top.

If some person were to make a speech and say a few decent things it might be different. But the idea seems to be prevalent and established that the only speech worth making is one where the individual opens wide a large mouth and proceeds to spew hatred and vitriolic utterance.

We would get along so much better if there were a closed season for addresses by those who do not know how to make them.

He Has No Country

Samuel Joseph Abraham, a Syrian of 46 years, joins the ranks of men without a country. He has been operating a small meat and grocery business in Detroit. Shortly after the death of King George, Abraham was framing a small newspaper picture of the late monarch when a customer entered the store, and according to Abraham "he cursed at the King." It was then the aroused Abraham went into action and things followed in rapid order. An immigration officer arrived and Abraham was jailed for assault but released five days later on a bond of $500. The final decision is that Abraham is to be deported to Syria.

The trouble is that Samuel Joseph Abraham does not want to go to Syria, and Syria does not want him because he became a naturalized Canadian citizen in 1912. He served with the Canadian army in the war, but our immigration authorities say he has forfeited his standing in this country by remaining away for more than a year. He appears to have been a good soldier for Abraham has a Mons Star, General Service and Victory Medals, but he went away for more than a year, and that must be regarded as the unpardonable sin. He might have remained in this country and secured relief if necessary and retained his status as a Canadian.

The world has advanced to a degree of perfection in telling men where they must and must not go. Samuel Joseph Abraham, a Syrian by birth, gave up his claim to that land when he became a Canadian, and now he has forfeited his right to being a Canadian because he went to United States and stayed more than a year. So according to the laws of several countries combined he does not belong any place. It may be that the Creator of the universe arranged things so there would be room and space and opportunity for Samuel Joseph Abraham, but at the moment he cannot go to Syria; he cannot cross the border and live in Canada and he cannot remain in United States. The laws of men and of nations have tied Abraham in knots and as usual no helpful agency comes to the front to tell him what he should or can do.

More Experimenting?

Not long ago Premier Aberhart admitted publicly he could not make Social Credit a success. He had the idea of the thing, but there were some parts of the machine which were missing and it would not run. He seemed to have more doubts than he had when he campaigned for Social Credit in August of 1935. Mr. Aberhart a week or so ago seemed swallowed up in doubt; the thing was all over him and he offered to resign if the people who elected him felt the same way about it.

His latest announcement is that his Social Credit backers do not want him to resign. They have passed resolutions saying they want Mr. Aberhart to "stay with the ship," and such things, and it is recorded that 90 per cent. of the people are satisfied to allow Premier Aberhart to go ahead and see what he can do.

We do not anticipate he will do any more in the next 18 months than he did in the first period of that length. This paper believes William Aberhart started out in good faith and that he was moved by the condition of many of the people in his province. He wanted to do something about it and Social Credit was to be the remedial agency which he would employ. If he could have made it operate he would have done so. If he goes ahead for another period of 18 months with the same policy it will not benefit Alberta. If he is strong enough to admit he has made a mistake he may be able to do something along the lines of sound business practice which will encourage a revival of faith in the soundness of his province and of his government. A protracted period of experimenting is not so good.

Increased Costs Always Come Back to the Farmer

Hon. Nelson Monteith, Former Minister of Agriculture, Believes Farming To-day Is Harder Than It Was a Good Many Years Ago.

HON. NELSON MONTEITH is an Ontario farmer, and he is also the one surviving member of the Whitney Cabinet, in which organization he was Minister of Agriculture. When he was through with public life there was no question regarding what he would do. He returned to the farm where two generations of Monteiths had lived and worked before him. It is on the Embro Road, in Perth county just a few miles from Stratford. It was in his farm home that the Examiner talked with him only a few days ago.

"There was no political color to the talk. It had more to do with farmers and with farming; it centred for a time on whether the farmer of today was as well off as the farmer of some years ago, and on that point Mr. Monteith is qualified to talk for he has been farming a long time.

The former Minister of Agriculture said this: "Everything seems to bear down on the farmer. When I read in the papers a few days ago that the price of steel had increased I could see that price increase working its way into the amount which will be asked for the purchase of agricultural implements. I know it will get there sooner or later and I know the farmer will have to pay his share of that increase."

Mr. Monteith was asked if the relation between the price of farm machinery and farm produce were any better balanced now than in former years. His answers always come deliberately. In this case: "I remember when I first owned a binder. That would be 35 or 40 years ago, and I paid $110 for it. Today I believe if I were to go out and secure a binder the price would be about $235. Of course there have been improvements made here and there in the machine, but there are also improved methods in manufacturing binders which should more than offset the cost of the improvements. Wheat prices are just about the same today as they were in the year when I bought the first binder, so it actually means that 35 or 40 years ago I had to produce 110 bushels of wheat and exchange that for a binder, while today I would have to produce 235 bushels of wheat in order to secure a binder, so on that basis, in terms of wheat, I have to pay over 100 per cent. more for my binder today. There is something more to consider. Land will not keep on producing without fertilization, and it seems to me we have to do more of that than we used to. There is the purchased fertilizer which is needed today as well as that from the barn and it all increases the overhead of the farmer."

The answer to that one had behind it the experience of a good many years. As usual, Mr. Monteith applied the long view: "Raising hogs is like anything else; it is like any other business on the farm or in the city. It is not always profitable, and right now it is in that state. But it is also a business which one cannot take up and drop and expect to make a success of it. It is not possible to be in the selling side of the market every time prices are good, and out of the business when prices are low."

Mr. Monteith was certain it would not be possible to have a farm operating properly without working on it. He admits there are times when he would like to sit back and have the work done. "But farm help is not as good as it used to be, and the average man will not do the same amount of work in a day as he did some years ago. What you might call sit-down farming will not do. It is necessary to be out and around giving a certain amount of leadership and direction all the time. The business of farming has changed a great deal. The farmer today must be a pretty good bargainer; he must know just when and where to sell, and also what to buy and where to get it to best advantage. If the cost of living goes up for people in the towns and cities it must be remembered that the cost also goes up for the farmers. It is that constant increase of overhead which is bothering many of the farmers today. Every time I read of increased prices and increased wages in places where the product is something which the farmer is going to need I am inclined to pause for a moment and try to figure out how long it will be before those 'increases' are passed along and reach the farmer. I know they will always reach us; they never fail. It is that continued upward trend in farm costs coupled with the low prices of what the farmer has to sell which makes farming more difficult today than it was a good many years ago."

Neville Chamberlain has warned the British taxpayers that there are new burdens in sight for them. Surely the people of the United Kingdom have not been under the impression that all those new battleships and armaments came from Santa Claus.

Stretching the Tea Pot

There was something in this paper a few days ago telling the proper way to make a cup of tea. Directions were very explicit and it is necessary to catch the brew just at the stroke of a certain minute. Otherwise damage would be done. We learn it is wrong to keep on pouring in water to make more tea later on, and such a thing should never be done. It's tough on the stomach and unfair to the tea. We came to the conclusion it was not far removed from being dangerous.

We do not believe there were any such directions on the Tenth Concession, and if there were then they were ignored. After dinner the teapot was always shoved to the back of the kitchen range. In early afternoon there was apt to be steam coming from the spout of the tea kettle and that suggested another cup of tea. Grandfather in summer time would take a jug of water with a handful of oatmeal when he went to the field, but he would generally arrive at the house a little before four o'clock. He never came for a cup of tea; he would have denied any such motive, but when he arrived the teapot again came from the back of the stove and there was a little more hot water added and another cup of tea was forthcoming. The tea which went in at the noon hour worked for the afternoon as well and according to the teaching and advice of today it should never have done so.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It is said there is no market in Toronto for old tin cans. However, there must be some way of disposing of those wornout flivers.

Atlanta thieves have stolen a concrete lion weighing at least a quarter of a ton. Probably it will be used as a paper weight at the gang's headquarters.

It is hoped to prorogue parliament before Good Friday. It is surprising how fast our legislators can move when there is something like a trip to the Coronation in the offing.

Polish army reserve officers are being given a two weeks course in skiing to tone up their systems. That will be all right provided they do not go into a sit-down strike at the end of a jump.

Dr. A. D. Roberts, Liberal member for Sault Ste. Marie, has been read out of the party by Ontario's premier. Henceforth he'll be a lone wolf—an Algoma wolf by the way.

That diver who stayed a sit-down strike at the bottom of Lake Superior would have been on the spot if the staff up above had taken him at his word and left him there.

There should be no need in Canada for workers to have to heat iron bars to use as weapons to protect themselves against interference from outsiders. It is the duty of the officers of the law to supply the necessary protection.

Premier Aberhart is reported to have triumphed at a caucus of Social Credit members. The Albertan premier emerges from a crisis of that kind with so much ease that some folk imagine he must do it with mirrors.

It is recorded that an interpreter in Montreal was paid $1.50 for just saying "No". There have been a good many times when a lot more money than that could have been made by giving the same answer.

A Florida man has become a father at the age of 79 years and optimistic as are all the folk in that state he is now probably looking forward to the day when he will dandle his first grandchild on his knee.

Toronto member of the Federal House declares that the Queen City has been badly treated by the Federal government. But then there probably has never been a week when Toronto was not complaining about being badly treated by some one.

SURPRISED

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Sweet Mary Jane is married now, I don't know where or when or how, I only heard today; they did the thing up rather fast, and hastened things toward the last, and then they went away.

¶ And Mary Jane is sweet I know, and had admirers in a row, but she would turn them down; they used to say she was so slick, that she could easy have her pick, of any man in town.

¶ One chap was six foot in his socks, and he'd come in for bonds and stocks, he had a kindly eye; he courted Mary Jane with zest, she sent him travelling with the rest, she merely passed him by.

¶ Another man would be too fat, yes Mary Jane was sure of that, another was too lean; another's ears were far too great, they swung much like a garden gate, the biggest ever seen.

¶ Another talked too much she said, his tongue was bigger than his head, she'd never live with him; another's nose was far too big, it looked like does a Yorkshire pig, she liked them straight and thin.

¶ I find it hard to understand, a girl who wanted men so grand, and was so hard to please; for at the closing of her hunt, she coupled with a little runt—his legs bow at the knees.

Our Statesmen At Their Labors

(From Parliamentary Debates)

PUTTING IT RIGHT

Mr. W. D. MOORE (Ontario): Mr. Speaker, I should like to correct a statement made by the hon. member for Marquette (Mr. Cleaver). Among the many failings of the previous administration was not that of dispensing with the services of the chairman of the former tariff board. I am in a position to say that the previous chairman resigned, and when the present administration came into being he was a member of the House. I am glad to come to the leader of the opposition in that regard.

Mr. GARDINER: Mr. Speaker, there is one correction I should like to make. So far the discussion would seem to take for granted that Mr. Vallance is at the head of the rehabilitation organization. May I explain that the head of the rehabilitation organization has never been changed; Doctor Archibald is still its head. Mr. Vallance is simply one of the employees who is in charge of the office at Regina.

Mr. BENNETT: I did not suggest that it was otherwise. I was careful not to. The hon. member for Marquette (Mr. Cleaver) did.

MUST NOT INTERRUPT

Mr. LAWSON: When the shoe merchant was a shoemaker we had an entirely different standard of living. In that day even the shoemaker's children went to school in their bare feet, in order to save shoes and stockings, as did most of the other children.

Mr. FINN: Where?

Mr. LAWSON: In the small towns and in that constituency.

Mr. FINN: Not in Halifax. Mr. Speaker, I ask the hon. gentleman to name the constituency or constituencies in Canada where these conditions exist.

Mr. SPEAKER: Order.

Mr. LAWSON: I think I had better choose another occasion, having regard to all the circumstances, to deal with my hon. friend's question. In the meantime, Mr. Speaker, if you will be good enough to take care of the hon. member I shall try to take care of myself.

Mr. FINN: The hon. gentleman is attempting to give a second edition of his story to the public, and I ask that he retract those last words of his, because he is out of order.

Mr. SPEAKER: Order. No hon. member has the right to interrupt another member when he is speaking.

A POINT OF ORDER

Mr. FINN: Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

Mr. JOHNSTON (Bow River): The question that arises in the minds—

Mr. FINN: The hon. member cannot introduce into debate something that has been said in a previous session. That is the reason for my remark.

Mr. JOHNSTON (Bow River): Alberta was forced—

Mr. FINN: Was it something he said this year or last year?

Mr. JOHNSTON (Bow River): The fact that the other two provinces were not permitted to default—

Mr. FINN: Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order. The hon. member must say whether he is quoting from a speech of the Prime Minister last year or this year.

Mr. JOHNSTON (Bow River): Mr. Speaker, I ask that the hon. member be requested to refrain from interrupting.

Mr. SPEAKER: Order. I draw the attention of the hon. member for Halifax (Mr. Finn) to the fact that when a member is attending a sitting of the house he must not talk loudly and he must not interrupt any member who has the floor by disorderly noises or in any other manner. I do not think there is any point of order.

LAST POST FUND

Grant to last post fund, $60,000.

Mr. GREEN: How much of last year's vote was used?

Mr. POWER: The whole amount.

Mr. GREEN: Is it used to pay for the burial of Canadians in foreign countries, and, if so, how much was used for that purpose last year?

Mr. POWER: It is used to a small extent to pay for funerals of Canadians in the United States and England.

Mr. MacNICOL: What is the average cost per burial?

Mr. POWER: The grant is a maximum of $50 for the funeral, $25 for the marker and $25 for the grave.

Mr. GREEN: There is some complaint that the words "last post fund" are put on the grave marker. I do not know whether that is so. If it is a fact, I suggest that the department have the practice changed.

Mr. POWER: I am informed that sometimes the relatives prefer it; I do not know why. In the province of Quebec that is always done. I shall be glad to look into the complaint and see whether anything can be done. This last post fund is not operated by the department; it is a grant.

Mr. GREEN: It is also complained that the words "poppy fund" are used. I ask that that be stopped too.

Mr. POTTIER: Is it necessary to have the approval of the officials of the fund?

Mr. POWER: Under the regulations, yes.

PAYING THE TAXES.

(Albany Knickerbocker Press)

WHO pays the taxes? Everyone. But the trouble with the country's tax system is that everyone is not aware of the fact that he pays. According to figures given out by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, there are only about 2,000,000 taxable incomes in the country. For a nation which is regarded as the richest in the world, this is a surprising showing. It means that only one person of every 35, who is old enough to vote pays a directly recognizable Federal tax. Nevertheless all these citizens can vote, which helps to explain the lack of enthusiasm for governmental economy. The attitude will persist as long as citizens can vote for expenditures which so far as they observe cost them nothing.

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics.

BY WAY OF REPLY

Editor Examiner:

Sir: As a reader of the Examiner, and a member of the United Workers Club, I would welcome the privilege of using your columns for the purpose of replying to Mr. Charles Lambert's letter headed, "Don't Want Glory," and published in your paper on Saturday, March 6. The letter just quoted appears to me to have been written by Mr. Lambert after becoming thoroughly rattled over the fact laid bare by Mr. Ferguson. At least that is my opinion, based on the fact that Mr. Lambert in his letter claims Mr. Ferguson to have published certain statements in the Examiner, on March 4, which are most inaccurate and for Mr. Lambert's edification, I would advise him to again read Mr. Ferguson's letter of March 4, then compare it with his reply thereto. Then no doubt he will realize how ridiculous he appears. I understand other members of the United Workers Club and Women's Welfare League intend to answer Mr. Lambert from this angle at a future date. The two organizations just mentioned are numerically small, but very strong in acting, when necessity arises as members of our civic body realized during the years of 1933 to 1936. For Mr. Lambert's further information, he can rest assured that the United Workers Club operates 100 per cent. efficiently, although we were unfortunate enough to lose our leader during the month of July last year.

Now Mr. Lambert states that he has failed to locate any unemployed person who is connected with the United Workers Club and associated body of women. True that is just what it was intended to be. The secrecy of our activities is maintained by choosing members who are wise enough to keep club business within their own ranks. In other words, our organization operates on lines copied from fascism and communism, in the belief that man can always learn something from the other fellow no matter how illiterate he may be. This remark Mr. Lambert should study very closely, then take action if he has the ability and purge his own ranks. Then possibly the civic bodies will know less of what is going on within the membership of his own organization. Then again he should assure himself that all members of his executive are not members of the C.C.F. party. When he has done this he will be able to say whether the P.W. and U.A is non-political or not. I would say to Mr. Lambert that if he wishes to debate the contents of this letter he can be accommodated.

JAMES MURDUFF

Peterborough, March 8.

SWING LOW—SWING FAN

Editor Examiner:

Sir: On Sunday, when I heard Habbi Elsendrath eulogizing the work of the Mendelssohn Choir along with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, I was reminded of the undoubted treat many of us are looking forward to on Tuesday the 16th. About the time that "Swing Fan's" letter appeared, there was also a statement by a representative of the choir who visited the city to make the necessary arrangements, which said, "That no member ever left the choir because they were fed up," and one member has kept his place by annual trial for about 40 years. The pleasure derived from 40 years' voluntary service; by this member, cannot be described in words. It is no exaggeration to say that he would not exchange his experience, for all the jazz bands—with its blaring saxophones, and shoulder wagging devotees, who form part of the "show."

I always compare the men who write such trash, with the men who use their brains to invent poison gas, the one destructive to the soul, and the other to the body. It is a thousand pities they do not use their talents to better advantage, for humanity's sake, and not for personal gain. Who wants to listen to such rubbish with the umbrella titles mentioned by "Swing Fan"? Dr. Peaker was kind indeed in his comparison between saxophone and baboon love. Admitted—"Swing Fan"—life is too fast, which—and instead of the nerve wrecking "hot stuff which makes the heart beat double time"—give us the quiet thrill with its soothing restfulness, that we will experience when we hear the choir next week. I think that even "Swing Fan" would get a "kick" in hearing them sing "God Save the King" as only they can sing it.

Many years ago, when pennies were scarce, I walked miles to hear Dr. Prieker, (conductor of the Mendelssohn choir), give free organ recitals, and later, listened to some of the wonderful Yorkshire Festival Choral Societies, and Philharmonics, render Handel's Messiah, Mendelssohn's Elijah, and other works, under his direction. One could have heard a pin drop, and woe betide anybody who spoke during the performance. All of which is in violent contrast to the present day "junk" which the CBC still permits over the radio, and makes us feel like throwing bricks at it. For while Bach, Mozart, and lots of others died long ago, according to the calendar, their spirit, like their works, will live for ever. The jazz age is doomed,—"Swing Fan"—why not join the "noble army of martyrs" now? Hoping to hear from you after you have heard the famous choir, which I am glad to see is to have a real welcome on the 16th.

Yours

OLD TIMER

LOOK AHEAD

Editor Examiner:

Sir: The Examiner's growing interest in the history, epics and episodes of the past have significance for the days to come, and are especially interesting to the young men and women who are looking ahead to brighter prospects for the city and for themselves.

Those who were school boys and girls about forty years ago will remember the group of public-spirited men who united in completing the foundation of this city. Then the names of Dickson, Hilliard, Lundate identifies the lumber industry; Rogers, milling and boat building; William and Peter Hamilton, machinery; Calcutt, brewing and steamboating; Hall, Cluxton, Stetham and a dozen others, merchandising. One might mention a hundred names, but one would stand out conspicuously, that of a great Canadian, the Hon. George A. Cox, whose leadership gave impetus to the town's progress then and since.

Peterborough's population in 1891 was nearly 10,000 and twenty years after it had risen to 18,880, due chiefly to the influx of new industries. The allurement of the great West and especially that of the United States started an exodus which may be said to have been due, partly, to the example set by the Bar, which lost three members who could not be replaced. Prag Haultaine left to settle in Saskatchewan, where he was knighted and served with distinction in many important offices to become Chief Justice of the Province. Max Deanistoun followed to become one of Canada's most eminent jurists in Winnipeg. Later his Honor Daniel O'Connor left to take his high judicial chair in Toronto. When such men leave us we celebrate their departure.

To what extent the exodus affected the growth of the city has never been disclosed, but the bare possibility of loosing both population and prestige would be a shock. It's known that the city has not been growing too fast, but nobody suspects that it is growing toosslow. No one ever heard of a healthy boy or girl who stopped growing at the growing age. Something like that can happen to a city. The census shows that in the twenty years to 1931 our growth was the least of the eight towns and cities in its class. Our population gained but 179 in the five years from 1931 to 1936. Why not sidetrack the publicity threatened by the controversy before the City Council and organize

MEANS MANY JOBS.

(Belleville Intelligencer)

ENGLAND has led the world on new homes built during the past few years, homes in which occupants are paying for the homes in rates which represent no more than a fair rental value. Several European countries have put over very successful house building and improvement campaigns, the United States spent a billion or two in better housing—but Canada's home improvement plan leads all others as the fairest, and easiest on those participating. Fifty million dollars is the sum provided by the government, but it is expected many more millions will be put in circulation because of the many sides of the campaign. Question is now how much money will Belleville require? Every dollar put into home improvements means seventy-five cents for labor.

A Bit of Nonsense

Unpalatable

The bride of a few days slumped her toes acrylic. "Oh, the days of chivalry are past!" she whimpered tactfully. "How, now, now! What's the matter with me dear? asked her husband, soothingly. "Nothing!" she replied. "Sir Walter Raleigh laid his cloak down on the ground for Queen Elizabeth to walk over, but you flew off the handle just because your dear mother sat on your hat and crushed it."

WATCH OR PLAY.

(Lethbridge Herald)

WE NOTE in an Ontario paper some discussion about a plan for a professional baseball league to include cities from 15,000 to 50,000, but the writer was somewhat skeptical about attendance at the games.

As a matter of fact, attendance at baseball and soccer games in many cities has fallen greatly in the past few years, for the very simple reason that the people who used to go and sit in the bleachers are now chasing a golf ball, swimming in the public swimming pools or otherwise playing instead of watching others play. It is said that one of the reasons that hockey crowds at Montreal are somewhat disappointing this year is because so many people have taken up skiing and tobogganing.

It's a healthy sign when people would rather play and exert themselves than to be content to sit in the bleachers and watch others play.

GOING UP IN SMOKE.

(Buffalo Times)

AMERICAN tobacco factories produced 150,000,000,000 cigarettes in 1936, Wall Street estimates—12 percent. more than in 1935, more than twice as many as in 1922, and enough to supply every human being in the United States with about 1,100 smokes. Laid end to end, our last year's output of cigarettes would stretch 9,810,417 miles, would girdle the Equator some 370 times.

The Federal Government, levying three-tenths of a cent on each cigarette sold, stands to get about $450,000,000 from the 1936 production. Many states and some cities took an additional tenth or twentieth of a cent. Altogether, the little tubes of paper and tobacco, disappearing in smoke and ashes, turned well over half a billion dollars into public treasuries.

A good many people didn't care to smoke their 1,100 cigarettes, or any at all, and nobody wanted to lay 150 billions of them end to end. But one thing the country certainly did want to do with cigarettes, and that was to tax 'em.

A MAJOR INDEX.

(Canadian Business, Montreal)

NOTHING is more germane to the happiness and welfare of every Canadian than the fact that there was created a new and greater abundance of realwealth for all to share last year. We can now calculate more exactly the income improvement expected this year. According to official figures, National Income rose about 10.20 per cent or about $300 millions over the previous year to $4.5 billions. Forestry led the field with a 19 per cent increase, mining came second with 15.5 per cent and agriculture followed at 10.6 per cent higher. Net industrial production at $2.8 billions led primary production at $1.9 billions. An increase of 10.5 per cent in our National Income in 1936 raising the per capita purchasing power of every Canadian from $274 to $419 was a national achievement of outstanding note.

THE REAL PROBLEM.

(Winnipeg Tribune)

IT IS no exaggeration to say that in Western Canada's drought rehabilitation problem the fringe is greater than the core—that the most effective work can be done in the areas where preventive rather than corrective measures are required. Every real farmer knows that a farm's fertility should increase with the years. Wherever tillage methods are failing to produce that result something is, from the long view, wrong.

We are a long way yet from meeting that simple test in Western Canada. And we cannot claim that our agriculture is stabilized until we are at least sure that the vital tap soil is staying where it belongs.

TO DISCUSS PLANS OF REFORESTATION

E. J. Zavitz Of Department Of Lands And Forests Will Meet County Men

A reforestation program in Peterborough county may become a definite project this year according to plans that were suggested at the January sessions of the county council when Reeve W. A. Anderson was appointed chairman of a committee to consider a practical policy which might be adopted in this part of Central Ontario.

While in Toronto recently Reeve Anderson interviewed E. J. Zavitz, provincial forester with the Department of Lands and Forests, who promised to come to Peterborough at an early date to discuss the proposal with representatives of the county.

Mr. Zavitz is expected here during the week of March 17. The exact date has not yet been decided, but it may be the 16th and will be definitely announced later.

Large areas of Peterborough county are regarded as suitable only for reforestation. The county council has approached the subject from time to time, but it is likely that a practical program will be outlined by Mr. Zavitz as a recommendation to the council's committee.

The meeting will probably be held during the afternoon in the county council chamber.

CHINA TIGHTENS DRIVING TESTS

Applicants To Be Examined Medically And Orally Before Trying Out Behind Wheel

NANKING, March 9.—(C.P.). — Faced with an alarming increase in traffic accidents due to rapid expansion of China's system of highways and greater use of motor vehicles, the National Highway Traffic Commission has clamped strict driving tests on Chinese motorists.

The tests were applied after 20 traffic experts, representing 10 great cities and 10 populous provinces, met in Nanking. The experts, summoned by the National Economic Council under auspices of the Highways Commission, decided to start a campaign for education of the general public in the need for traffic safety.

All applicants for driving licenses must undergo three sets of tests. A medical examination will determine efficiency of sight and hearing; an oral test will show the applicant's knowledge of traffic rules and elementary mechanics; and a driving test will determine motorists' ability.

The meeting decided to begin a course of instruction in traffic rules in Chinese Public schools. Free pamphlets will be distributed and lectures given.

Rickshs, wheelbarrow and cootie burden traffic still add difficulties to motoring on Chinese roads, as do unsniffed bicyclists e'-dren playing in the streets and women with bound feet. In other districts peasants often obstruct traffic and throw stones at passing cars.

SUGGESTS ACTORS GO BACK 100 YEARS

Roger Livesey Thinks They Should Stop Being Ladies And Gentlemen

NEW YORK, March 9—(CP).—If actors would stop being ladies and gentlemen and revert to the social status they occupied 100 years ago it would work for the betterment of the theatre, believes Roger Livesey, British actor who has a leading role in "Storm Over Patsy" which opened here last night.

"The best thing that could happen to the theatre," he said in an interview, "would be if actors revert to the social status they occupied 100 years ago; that is, of rogues, vagabonds and generally suspect individuals, ranking slightly below gravelling bagmen and slightly higher than peppy horse tradesp."

The best run of the spoken stage was some 50 years ago, Livesey said. In those days actors worked hard for their living and "lived for the stage for the simple reason they were not socially eligible for cocktail parties, ballrooms and newspaper interviews."

CHICAGO GRAIN

Reversing an earlier downward trend, wheat prices scored general late gains, responsive increasingly to dust storm complaints from domestic crop territory in the United States Southwest and West. Adding impetus to the late upturn of values was a material shrinkage shown in the United States wheat visible supply total. Wheat closed ⅝c to 1⅛c higher.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 9. — Taking leadership from Chicago on reports of dust storms in the United States winter wheat belt, wheat prices advanced ¼ to 1 cent higher on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Weakness in Liverpool and Buenos Aires markets carried values lower in early trading. However, offerings were light and prices quickly followed the Chicago trend as little buying was required to lift prices. Export business of Canadian wheat during the week-end was estimated at 250,000 bushels. Liverpool opened steady in sympathy with the strong close at Buenos Aires on Saturday, but tumbled later, through lack of demand in the United Kingdom. Prices closed 1¼d to 1¾d lower. Buenos Aires closed 1⅝c to 1⅞c lower.

New York Mayor Stirs Nazi Wrath

MAYOR La GUARDIA

DR. DIECKHOFF

Close on the heels of New York mayor La Guardia's alleged "insulting" of Adolf Hitler in an address before the Woman's Division of the American Jewish Congress, came demands from the German press for an apology for the "slanderous words." The mayor, however, made no attempt to offer Germany the apology though Secretary of State Hull regretted the incident. Several days before the verbal outburst came word from Germany that Dr. Hans Henrich Dieckhoff, present German undersecretary of state, for foreign affairs would replace Hans Luther as German ambassador to the United States. Dieckhoff has played an important part in Reich foreign affairs during the Nazi regime.

JAPANESE DENY HAVING DESIGNS ON CHINESE LANDS

Pledges Herself To New Policy Of "Equality" In Dealing With Her Neighbor

IMPROVE RELATIONS

TOKYO, March 9 (AP). — Japan disavowed any intention of territorial aggression in China today and pledged herself to a new policy built on a keystone of "equality" in dealing with her great continental neighbor.

Foreign Minister Nsotake Sato said Japan must abandon her superiority complex in order ever to readjust her long-strained relations with China.

On that principle of "a fresh start on the basis of equality," he asserted, he would build the policy of Japan's Foreign Office which he has just taken over.

Newspapers throughout the empire displayed Sato's speech under scare headlines as heralding a turning point in Sino-Japanese relations.

"Japan has no territorial ambitions in China," Sato stressed, labelling as "imaginary" any fear Japan intended "go beyond the great wall and extend its influence to Central or South China."

Brotherly Spirit.

"Japan respects Chinese interests and wishes to shake hands with them economically," he declared. "That is the only way Japan can expand there."

Japan, he said, might as well recognize China's demands for equality with Japan.

"We must do something definite," he told the House of Representatives "to improve our present unfavorable relations with China which are highly disadvantageous to both countries."

Sato, who resigned as Ambassador to France to accept the foreign affairs post in the compromise cabinet of Senjuro Hayashi, indicated the new policy was dictated by economic necessity.

Aside from the fact that Japan's former policy of infiltration in China has not worked out, Sato said Japan's attitude has caused unsatisfactory relations with other world powers.

FINGERTIP SETS DO MANY THINGS

Gadgets Enable Man To Lather Face, Stimulate Scalp, Manicure Nails, Brush Eyebrows

NEW YORK, March 8—(CP).—Mrs. Claude Grenelser, of New York exhibited to-day the latest invention in labor-saving devices, called "fingertine," a series of gadgets she said would enable a man to lather his face, stimulate his scalp, manicure his nails, brush his eyebrows and put drops in his eyes without "picking anything up or putting anything down."

The gadgets resembled elongated thimbles ending in tiny tools and brushes and are made to fit all fingers. It is just a matter of using one finger after another for tonsorial embellishment.

Another set of fingertips, Mrs. Grenelser exhibited included an eyepaint brush, a screw driver, a pencil, a three-bladed manicure set and a crochet needle.

HYDRO NET DEBT $151,572,943 TO THE PROVINCE

NEW FINANCING PLAN

TORONTO, March 9—(CP)—Net advances by the Province to the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission at March 31 will stand at $151,572,943.94, Premier Mitchell Hepburn told the legislature today in his budget address.

In the fiscal year ending March 31 Hydro repayments to the province have been $21,162,205.94. Total advances to the commission since its constitution in 1909 have been $207,002,750.34. Repayments have been $55,429,806.40, leaving the net Hydro debt to the Province at $151,572,943.94.

Drain On Province.

Mr. Hepburn said Hydro in 1926 undertook to place with the Province sinking funds accumulating for debt retirement. Interest was allowed to Hydro on the basis of average yearly cost. A review of the Hydro financing plan as at October 31, 1934, indicated the following unfavorable factors:

Hydro advances were increasing, draining the credit of the province.

An elaborate book-keeping system was necessary to find the cost of Hydro money.

Hydro sinking fund deposits could not be allocated to previous borrowings.

The Province had two accounts, one for Hydro advances and one for Hydro sinking funds, with no feasible way to offset one against the other.

Change Repayment Plan.

Because of the foregoing factors, the commission and the Province decided as at October 31, 1934, the total Provincial advances to Hydro would be distributed over the Provincial loans outstanding with due consideration being given Hydro repayments.

A study was made of all borrowings on Hydro account and Hydro advances then distributed to each fiscal year over the available proceeds on a pro-rata basis.

"The Hydro repayments represent a portion of the sinking fund accumulated by the Hydro for the eventual retirement of its advances," he said. "The above mentioned Hydro repayments were therefore used in retirement of the Hydro's share in the next ensuing loan maturity."

Mr. Hepburn placed on the records of the House a statement by fiscal years of the advances to and the repayments from the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

Plowing matches are being revived in the Irish Free State with all the glory of the days before modern agricultural machinery, the excitement at some being akin to a Derby event, and an All-Ireland Plowing Championship will be held, to a fine of not less than $1,000 or more than $10,000 and imprisonment.

"We intend to see that this section of the Act is enforced, as we shall enforce every other section of the Act to the letter," he said. Exception will be offered anyone having knowledge of irregularity who gives information enabling the collection of proper duties.

ONTARIO ESTATES GIVE 16 MILLIONS SUCCESSION DUTIES

Hepburn Announces Expectation Figure Will Be Higher Next Year

THIRTY ESTATES PROBED

TORONTO, March 9—(C.P.). — Premier Hepburn told the Ontario Legislature to-day in his budget address that revenues from succession duties reaching a new peak in the fiscal year ending March 31, made up the largest single item in budget receipts for the year.

A few minutes later he forecast a still higher figure would be reached in the coming fiscal year. Taxes levied on estates in the current year yielded revenue of upwards of $16,000,000, Mr. Hepburn said. This amount included actual collections to January 31, and an estimate of collections for February and March.

For the next fiscal year succession duties would reach $17,000,000, he estimated. Figures announced by the Premier compared with collections of about $12,000,000 in the year ended March 31, 1936, and about $5,000,000 in the year ended March 31, 1935.

30 Estates Investigated.

A number of estates, where fraud or wilful concealment had been found, were reopened, the Premier said. From more than 30 of these estates, amounts were collected varying from $2,000 to more than $1,500,000.

"It is the duty of this Government to recover some of the millions wrongfully withheld from the treasury," he said. "This government intends to sift to the bottom every estate where fraud or misrepresentation appears to have been practised.

Ontario's investigations, Mr. Hepburn said he had been informed, had resulted in the Federal Income Tax Department receiving many more millions from certain estates. Cost of collection of succession duties was 83 cents for each $100 collected.

The Premier noted an amendment to the Succession Duty Act this session, whereby any person who wilfully makes a false statement in a written instrument, letter, note, telegram or any other paper or document required by the Succession Duty Department shall be guilty of an offence and liable on conviction to a penalty not exceeding $1,000 or

RUSH POINT

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hedger, formerly of Campbellford, who have spent the past year at Rush Point, are moving this coming week to McGill's Settlement, where they will reside on Archie Menzies farm. Rush Point people are very sorry to part with Mr. and Mrs. Hedger and are wishing them good luck in their new home.

Mr. Carl Gilestone of Feudal, Sask., is spending some time visiting his sister, Mrs. Gordon Hedger of Rush Point. Mr. Gilestone, who was born at Kinmount and moved with his parents, when a very small lad, to their present home in Saskatchewan, says the winter there has been quite severe and he is finding our Ontario climate quite delightful. He is very favorably impressed with the possibilities of this locality and may decide to remain here indefinitely. Mr. Gilestone is an employee of the Feudal Grain Elevator Co., Sask.

Horses Are Injured

A farm team owned by Mr. Walter Davidson suffered severe cuts and bruises when they got down in the snow in the woods recently and were thrashing almost completely to pieces, injuring one horse especially so severely that Mr. Davidson fears the animal will have to be destroyed. The team was being used to swamp out some wood when the driver inadvertently drove them into a pocket from which they could be extricated only by careful backing out. The animals became excited and floundered off the track. The second horse to go down fell across the struggling mate and in the most serious damage was done.

Rush Point residents were pleased to receive word recently from a popular former teacher of the Rush Point school, Miss Elizabeth Brears. Miss Brears is teaching this year in her home school at Fordrich, Ont., and finding it entirely delightful to be at home again.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lytle and family of Trent River district moved on Wednesday last, to Rush Point, where they are living in the house formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Petherick.

EGGS ARE FRIENDS IN NEED AND ALSO IN FAIR WEATHER

Mary Moore Describes Some Intriguing Ways Of Making Egg Dishes

PINEAPPLE OMELETTE

Egotistical as it may be I felt that in a recent article by a food writer with whom many of you are acquainted—her scolding about "Emergency Shelves" was aimed directly at me.

I have a well stocked emergency shelf—and have frequently urged you readers to have one too. But this practical lady says in place of an emergency shelf she keeps a well filled egg crock.

While I serve many a noble egg dish that I would be proud to put before unexpected company—I have preferred not to depend on them too much.

But it is a different story with Lent with us, egg prices low—the unwavering popularity of eggs—all combined with the ease with which they are prepared.

For several practical reasons we have changed our dinner hour from seven in the evening until one o'clock at noon—except when guests are present. Suppers more than lunches seem to lend themselves to hot one-piece dishes. Lunches seemed to be soup and salads and sandwiches and fruit dessert—but suppers can always coax a hot casserole dish or entree out of me.

Many of the egg dishes I have here for you are that type of thing —which does not make them any the less the main item for any dinner menu.

Eggs a la King

Six hard cooked eggs sliced thin, 2 tablespoons butter or salad oil, 3 tablespoons chopped pimientoes, 3 tablespoons chopped green pepper, if on hand 1 tablespoon capers, 1 cup of either, peas, canned or fresh mushrooms or chopped asparagus, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 cups rich milk or thin cream, 2½ tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon butter, paprika. Saute the mushrooms if used in the 2 tablespoons butter or oil. Make a sauce by melting the 1 tablespoon butter, stirring in the flour, then the cream or rich milk, until they thicken. Add all of remaining ingredients to the mushroom (or peas or asparagus) and heat through in top of double boiler in the cream sauce. Serves 6. Garnish with paprika or parsley.

Spanish Eggs

Flavor 1 cup of tomato juice with 1 tablespoon onion juice, 1 teaspoon salt and shake of pepper, 8 eggs, 1 tablespoon parsley, shake of pepper, 1 tablespoon butter. Melt the butter in bottom of casserole, and break the eggs into it without breaking the yolks. Over them pour the flavored tomato juice, then shake of pepper, and over this sprinkle 1 tablespoon fine crumbs. Stand in larger dish containing hot water, cover and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for about 16 minutes or until eggs are set without the yolks being hard. When serving put a spoonful of the sauce over each egg and sprinkle with parsley.

The above dish is also an excellent Sunday morning breakfast item.

It is because I am the victim of vicious habits that I plug for certain "different" dishes to be tried. Cheese Souffle and Savory Eggs are two of my old stand-bys—plenty of times cheese souffle has been described and been included in menus—but Savory Eggs are used with leftover meat, and lose some of their glamor because of it—but none of their deliciousness.

Savory Eggs

Butter individual earthenware dishes and put in each a little chopped ham, tongue or chicken (or any leftover meat), seasoned with a little pepper, salt, and celery juice and if like onion juice. Break one egg into each dish, sprinkle with salt and paprika, put ½ teaspoon butter on top and place in steamer over boiling water (we often boil potatoes or carrots or beets in the bottom of the steamer and put the Savory Eggs over them.) When the eggs are set turn out on buttered toast rounds and serve.

Japanese Eggs

Two cups hot cooked rice, 6 hard cooked eggs, ½ cup medium cream sauce, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley. Shell hard cooked eggs while hot and cut into halves crosswise. Drain the hot rice and place on hot platter and press eggs cut side up, down into the rice. Pour over them the hot cream sauce, to which add a little grated onion, and over all sprinkle paprika and garnish with parsley and toast points.

Poached eggs are greatly improved by adding a cheese sauce to them. Make a sauce by melting 4 tablespoons butter and stirring in 2 tablespoons flour, a little salt and pepper, and 1 cup hot milk, until it thickens. Remove from heat and stir in quickly ½ cup grated cheese, and pour immediately over the newly poached eggs.

Scotch Eggs

These were glittered new to me the other day. I called when driving by, on a cousin I had not seen for years. She makes her own sausage but had little on hand at the time—and as I was a more or less important guest she strove to think of a nice supper.

Having plenty of eggs on hand she hard cooked a dozen. (For we city cousins who count them by ones instead of dozens I think six would be enough). She divided 2 cups of sausage meat (all she had) into equal portions. You should have half-pound sausage meat for each 4 eggs you do. Remove the hard cooked eggs from the shells, cover them with the sausage meat. Roll in beaten egg and bread crumbs, and fry in golden brown pot deep fat. Cut the eggs through the centre or leave whole as you wish. Put on hot platter and garnish with mounds of mashed potatoes, which in turn are garnished with butter and paprika.

Pineapple Omelette

I know before I start that less than half of you will even try this. But for the sake of those who will like it very much I print it. Other fruit omelettes which I think are good are orange and apple sauce.

Four egg yolks, 4 egg whites, 1 tablespoon sugar, 4 tablespoons juice from canned pineapple, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter or cooking oil. Beat the egg whites first, then the yolks in another bowl —beaten both until very thick and stiff. To the yolks add the sugar and juice, then fold the whites carefully into the yolks. Immediately pour into frying pan coated with oil and medium hot, and let cook over low heat until it puffs. Spread top with drained crushed pineapple using 1 cup, and dry off top in oven. Serve immediately. If this is served for supper, a good crisp green salad is fine with it.

KNOX LADIES' AID HOLD HOSTESS TEA

HAVELOCK, March 9.—A hostess tea, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of Knox Presbyterian Church, was held on Thursday afternoon last in the basement of the church, commencing at 3 o'clock.

The basement presented a very cosy, home-like appearance, with one long table in the centre used as a serving table, and where Mrs. (Dr.) Thompson and Mrs. John Armstrong poured tea. Smaller tables on either side where the guests were served afternoon tea, were in charge of Mesdames McLaughlin, Barlow, Copp, Green, Hoffman, Johnson, Greenly, Colquhoun, Wanamaker, Buchanan and Mathison. Solid Foundations

FOR A VITAL SERVICE

Combine large quantities of copper, iron, lead; add some carbon, nickel, aluminum, wool, cotton, silk; then a little silver and a trace of gold — a few bricks and some mortar —

Combine these and a hundred other ingredients by use of initiative, research, invention, experience.

That is the prescription for the construction of the telephone plant that serves you — the switchboards, vacuum tubes, wires, telephones, cables, coils, relays, jacks, plugs, batteries, and a thousand other ingenious intricate mechanisms. But that is not telephone service!

Without its human foundation, the telephone system is an orderly but inanimate mass of complex equipment.

There is something more in your telephone service. It is the desire to serve — the spirit of service — on the part of the men and women in the Bell organization.

Canadians use the telephone more than the people of any other land. That fact is not unrelated to the desire of Bell Telephone workers, to render to users the highest standard of service they are capable of.

FAMOUS CHATEAU BOUGHT BY EDWARD

French Showplace Reported Being Made Ready For Mrs. Simpson

TOURS, France, March 9 (C.P.-Havas). — The Chateau de Conde, reportedly purchased by the Duke of Windsor from its American owner, was made ready last night for the arrival of Mrs. Wallis Simpson from Cannes. Mrs. Charles E. Bedeaux, wife of the noted explorer and industrial engineer of New York, left the chateau yesterday afternoon for an unannounced destination soon after news Mrs. Simpson was on her way here leaked out.

A showplace of France's fabled chateau country, the Renaissance-style manor lies on the banks of the Indre River, near the Chateau du Puit-d'Ardy, once owned by the French perfume maker Francois Coty.

Mrs. Simpson meanwhile was en route here by motor with her friends Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Rogers of New York, after leaving their Villa Lou Viei at Cannes, where she went into seclusion just before Edward's abdication. It is her first trip away from the Riviera since she left England. Before leaving Cannes at noon, Mrs. Simpson said she would stay in Touraine for two months. Her divorce from Ernest Simpson is expected to become final at the end of April. A dozen trunks left the Cannes villa in a truck early this morning.

STUDY OF STARS ATTRACTS GIRLS

Ottawa Expert Finds Sex Faithful Observers Of Stellar Skies

HOLDS BRIGHT FUTURE

OTTAWA, March 9—(CP).—Miss Miriam S. Burland, Canada's only professional woman astronomer and technical member of the Dominion Observatory staff here, believes her science holds a future for interested young women.

Graduate of McGill University with a bachelor of arts degree in physics and mathematics, Miss Burland says young women interested in astronomy should not be discouraged by absence of other members of their sex in the field.

On graduating, she took a course in astro-physics. In the summer of the same year she came to Ottawa, one of two or three students, to do computing work for the observatory. In the fall there was a vacancy and Miss Burland became a member of the technical staff. She has been there for 10 years and finds the work grows more fascinating as time goes on. There is always the chance of making startling discoveries. Miss Burland does her own photographic work of the stars, developing the negative and making the prints.

Miss Burland is interested in the classes that the observatory has been holding for the past two or three years for students from the colleges and the High School of Commerce. She gives them short talks and permits the students to study the stars through the observatory telescope. It is her experience that a great percentage of girls attend these classes faithfully.

ROSENEATH, March 9—A drama "A Light In the Window" directed by Mrs. E. Blodgett was presented by the Y.P.U. on Friday night from the stage of the Orange Hall. The play conveying the message "Jesus Lives" centres around the fulfillment of deferred hopes, the righting of a wrong and of restored mother love. The moral is found in the fact that in small or lame centres, there is always an opportunity for one so minded to restore faith, to right wrongs and bring to the bereaved, the promise of the Resurrection.

The characters were cast as follows: Aunt Hope, Miss Kay Barrie; Emily, Miss Lavigne McMillan; Edna, Miss Luella Tinlin; Mrs. Lorring, Miss Ruby Blodgett; Nina, Miss Alma Thackeray; Jimmy Barnes, Billie Halstead; Jerome Maurice, the women at the tomb, Misses Irene Brown and Janie Smith; the angel, Miss Audrey Mooney; Mrs. Flex McMillan, Miss Helen Barrie and George Turner were responsible for the following additional program—A duet, "Roll On Little Dogies" sung by Misses Janie Smith and Luella Tinlin, the former playing guitar accompaniment; a song "When I Grow Up" sung by Audrey Scott, accompanied by her mother Mrs. L. W. Scott. Audrey responded to an encore singing "The Little Frog"; a piano solo, "Tarantella" played by Miss Marie Mooney; a duet, "Little Dutch Mill" sung by Betty and Joan McMillan, accompanied by Miss Irene Brown; a recitation "Naughty Fingers" recited by Audrey Scott; solo "When My Dream Boat Comes In" sung by Miss Lavigne McMillan, accompanied by Miss Irene Brown; a monologue "Little Boy Blue" presented by Mrs. E. Blodgett, with musical accompaniment played by Miss Irene Brown, and a piano solo "I'll Sing You A Thousand Love Songs" played by Mrs. Stewart Thackeray. The accompaniment to the opening chorus "The Church In the Wildwood" was played by Mrs. Flex McMillan, Rev. L. W. Scott acted as chairman.

QUESTION: Would you please give in the paper a good Chocolate Boiled Icing made with Fry's Chocolate Powder. Also would you give a cocoanut cake with the cocoanut mixed in with the flour. I had a recipe but have lost it and do not remember the proportion of cocoanut. McDermot St.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

Chocolate Boiled Icing

One and one-half cups sugar, 3 tablespoons Fry's Chocolate Powder, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup water, whites 2 eggs. Put sugar, chocolate and water in saucepan, stir and bring to boiling point. Beat egg whites until stiff, then add 1 tablespoon of the hot syrup. Continue to add 3 more tablespoons boiling syrup 1 at a time, continuing the beating. Continue to let syrup boil until it will spin a thread when dropped from tip of spoon. Add to first mixture in fine stream, beating constantly until of right consistency to spread, then add vanilla and spread. This frosting is soft inside and has a glossy surface.

Dixie White Cake has long been a favorite of ours—and I think it is the cake you want too.

Dixie Cocoanut Cake

Three cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup butter, 1½ cups sugar, 1 cup shredded cocoanut, 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon lemon extract, 4 stiffly beaten egg whites. Sift flour once, add baking powder and salt and sift together 3 times. Cream butter well, add sugar gradually, and beat well. Add the cocoanut and the flour mixture alternately with the water, a little of each at a time. Add lemon extract and gently fold in stiffly beaten whites. Bake in layer or loaf pans well buttered—at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 1 hour. Frost with Seven Minute or Cocoanut Frosting.

We hope these recipes are satisfactory and shall be glad to be of service to you in the future.

QUESTION: I am entertaining my bridge club next week and am wondering what kind of sandwiches to make. Could you suggest some sandwich fillings or ideas for novel sandwiches I could use? Thanking you, H. R. P.

ANSWER: Put one cup blanched almonds through medium knife of food chopper. Into them cream 1 cup Bawnmet cheese (very mild smooth white cream cheese). Spread this on crustless very fresh Rye Bread that has been sliced very thin.

Filling No. 2: Cream 1 tablespoon butter, 2 tablespoons catsup, ½ cup flaked tuna fish (canned), 1 tablespoon lemon juice, whole wheat bread, 8 stuffed olives. Soften the butter by creaming, add the flaked tuna, catsup, lemon juice and olives chopped finely. Spread on thin fresh whole wheat bread, remove crusts, cut in triangles. The fresh bread does not need to be previously spread with butter as the filling is moist enough.

Filling No. 3: Four hard cooked eggs (cooked hard by placing in pan of cold water, bringing to boiling point, covering, turning off heat, and allowing to stand 20 minutes), 1-3 cup chopped sweet pickles, 3 tablespoons genuine mayonnaise (made with oil), a little salt if needed. Force the hard cooked eggs through a strainer, and add the remaining ingredients to them and cream together well. A thin flat lettuce leaf in these sandwiches is good. Thin fresh crustless white bread.

QUESTION: I have long been interested in your page and found it very helpful and interesting. I am now in need of a good recipe for Cheese Straws and Upside Down Cake. Would you please send them? L. B.

ANSWER: Of course. We are glad to help our friends at any time.

Cheese Straws

Roll puff or plain taste ¼ inch thick, sprinkle one-half with grated cheese to which has been added few grains of salt and cayenne. (If you use 2 cups flour and 1-3 cup butter to make your pastry, you will need 1 1-3 cups dry grated cheese). Fold the pastry, press edges firmly together, fold again, roll to one-quarter inch thickness. Sprinkle with cheese and proceed as before. Repeat twice—doing the folding four times in all. Cut in strips with knife or pastry jagger, 5 inches long by 1 inch wide. Chill thoroughly. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. in centre of oven for about 8 minutes. Straws must be cold—oven must be hot to make them puff. When serving pile cheese straws log fashion.

Upside Down Cake (Pineapple, Apricot, Peach or Prune)

One and one-quarter cups sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup shortening, ¼ cup sugar, 1 egg well beaten, ½ cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup brown sugar. If you use pineapple you will need four slices, if peaches six halves, if apricots eight halves, if prunes eight whole ones stoned. 1 cup pecan nut meats. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift together 3 times. Cream butter well, and sift in sugar creaming together until light. Add the egg, beat well, then sifted flour alternately with the milk, a small amount at a time. Beat until smooth after each addition. Add vanilla. Melt 1 tablespoon butter gently, in an iron skillet about 8 inches in diameter, then add the brown sugar and stir until melted. On this arrange whichever fruit you select in one layer and the nuts. Pour batter over contents of skillet. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes. When done loosen cake from sides and bottom and serve upside down —garnished with whipped cream not too sweet.

Tested Favorite Recipes

By MARY MOORE.

CHIFFONADE Dressing may be an old friend of yours, but I have postponed trying it until this week—now I am kicking myself for not having enjoyed it all my life.

Lettuce, both curly and smooth endive, and romaine are all good on the big markets just now. Chiffonade dressing is good on them too.

Into a glass jar put 1 hard cooked egg chopped as finely as possible, 1 teaspoon finely cut chives or green onion tops, 1 tablespoon each green pepper and pimiento, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, shake of pepper, ½ cup olive oil, 3 tablespoons good vinegar, 1 teaspoon tarragon if at hand. Let stand in cold place for an hour or more before serving. Shake thoroughly.

Heads of lettuce may be sliced thinly—one slice for each serving, and 1 tablespoon Chiffonade Dressing over them makes a salad course for dinner fit for the most fastidious guest.

CONSTIPATION IS A MISERABLE THING!

It takes the pep right out of you—makes you feel tired and irritable—ready to worry over the slightest thing.

Yet it can be corrected in most cases so easily. Common constipation is usually caused by lack of "bulk" in the foods you eat.

Millions of people have learned that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN ends constipation by putting "bulk" back in the diet. Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, forming a soft mass and gently sponging out the system.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B to tone the intestines and iron for the blood.

Two tablespoonfuls daily as a cereal with milk or cream, or in recipes, are sufficient. Three times daily in severe cases.

Rev. Allan Resigns Charge.

The Rev. William Allan, former pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church here, is resigning his charge as pastor of the Dovercourt Road Presbyterian Church in Toronto. He gives as reasons the lack of complete co-operation of one of the official boards of the congregation, also his desire to devote his attention to writing, radio broadcasts and evangelical work.

The Rev. Mr. Allan has been at Dovercourt Church for six years, after spending a similar time at St. Paul's Church here. He came to Canada from the Church of the Puritans in New York city. His son, Andrew Allan, is special announcer and continuity writer at Station CFRB, Toronto. The Rev. Mr. Allan's work recently has embraced many radio engagements, special inspirational and evangelical services and to Sunday engagements for all denominations, also lectures before service clubs, lodges, school teachers' gatherings and industrial groups.

Rev. Mr. Allan is the author of several books. "The Quiet Place", a volume of selected meditations, is almost sold out in the second printing; another volume with prayers included, called "Crowded Ways", is also in its second printing, while a third, "Musings", is about to come off the press.

In speaking of his decision in Toronto, the Rev. Mr. Allan said: "There is a real hunger on the part of multitudes of lonely souls to get some word of counsel or cheer and I want time to develop that form of ministry. In my judgment we have not yet begun to tap the possibilities of radio in this connection. For the help that it can bring humanity it is one of the most valuable discoveries and inventions of all the centuries."

Just Between Us Women

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors, Conducted by Roberta

KEEP your heart free from hate. Your mind from worry. Live simply; expect little; give much; sing often; pray always. Fill your life with love; scatter sunshine. Forget self. Think of others. Do as you would be done by. These are the tried links in contentment's golden chain. —McLeod.

Dear Friends:

You would think on reading the quotation above, that everything was meant to please the other fellow, and nothing for you, but if everyone followed it out, you would be the other fellow to someone else and get your full share from them.

Of course there are always those who will not do their part, but what of it? That should not deter you from doing yours, because the more of us who do it, the more ashamed the rest will be, and maybe before long, they will be glad to join in the procession.

You know yourself, that if you hate anyone, it engenders a rank poison in your body, and the more you cater to it, the more poisonous you become, and that's no good at all. So if anyone has injured you, have your fit of resentment, or get it out of your system by telling them where they get off, then forget all about it. Hate is a poor bedfellow.

And worry. What has it ever done for you, but weaken you in every way, making your life miserable, and bothering all those around you. Bringing awful things to happen in your mind, torturing you with the fears of things that never happen in real life, and slowing you down in every way. So throw fear overboard right along with worry, and see how much better you will be.

Live simply. It doesn't take as much as you think to make you happy. If you have a mansion, you can only live in one room at a time, eat one meal at a time, (and you can stop your hunger as well with hamburg as you can with sirloin) and sleep in one bed at a time, so what better are you than those who live in a cottage?

Expect little. The less you do expect the more pleasure you will have when some nice thing comes along. There is an old saying, and if it were used without bitterness, it would serve us well." Blessed are those who expect little, for they shall not be disappointed."

Give much. You do not have to be a millionaire to give. You can give your ears to listen to someone's troubles, thus easing their heart of its burden. You can give a smile and a cheery word, and if God has blessed you with much of this worlds goods, you can pass some of it along to those less fortunate, and not just your cast-offs either.

Sing often. What although you haven't a voice like Caruso or Mary Garden, make all the noises that pass for singing, and in a little you will hear others joining in, so that your voice will blend with others to make a fine song. Lots of people could sing, if they would only give their voice a chance.

Pray always. Nothing will give you courage and strength like prayer. Who are you to think you can go it alone? We need the help of our Father each and every one of us, and how do you know He will not answer if you do not ask Him? And the more you pray, the more you fill your life with love, and the happier you will be.

Forget self. That is a hard one, but not if you look at it in the right way. All those who entertain us, forget themselves, and in doing it and making us laugh, it comes back to them. Think of others and it is curious how it reacts on ourselves, because you cannot make anyone happy, without getting happiness yourself. Try it and see.

Do as you would be done by. If you do not want discourtesy and unkindness, practice kindness to everyone, and see it come flooding into your own life. Selfishness begets selfishness after awhile, for people soon get sick of giving to an ungrateful person.

And the greatest of these is charity, for by doing so you are enabled to do all the others. In ourselves we are weak, but with the help of God, we can do anything. I shall look for a letter from you telling me how you make out, so don't disappoint.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

LOCAL PICTURE IN KIWANIS MAGAZINE

Peterborough's Aid To U. S. Flood Fund Warmly Appreciated

The Easter number of The Kiwanis Magazine published monthly by Kiwanis International at Chicago, contains an interesting article written by Merton S. Heiss, managing editor, entitled "Calling All Kiwanians."

Presenting a survey of the untiring efforts expended by members of the Kiwanis clubs in the flood areas of the United States, and acknowledging the assistance of other clubs throughout the continent with their gifts of money, food and clothing, the article is illustrated with a number of photographic reproductions.

Showing how Kiwanians across a whole continent swarmed into action as flood waters began to mount, the series of pictures includes one of particular local interest.

Members of Peterborough Kiwanis Club (Public Affairs Committee) and other volunteer workers are pictured in the magazine as they loaded the box car of produce and supplies raised by the people of Peterborough and district for consignment to Cincinnati Kiwanis Club and ultimate relief of flood victims.

The picture includes President Al. Sharpe, Secretary John A. McKone, the late Perry J. Clifton, chairman of the committee; Fred Ford, L. J. Pettit, and Clifford N. Hall.

In a letter to The Peterborough Examiner in which he acknowledges the picture and details sent him showing how the Kiwanis Club of this city and the people of Peterborough and district helped during the recent emergency caused by the floods, Mr. Heiss states:

"The Kiwanis Clubs in Canada cooperated to a wonderful degree and you may be sure their assistance is sincerely appreciated."

COMEDY DRAMA BY CHURCH SOCIETY

Young People Of George Street Give Fine Performance Of "The Tumult"

A large and appreciative audience on Monday evening witnessed the presentation by George Street Young People's Union of a cleverly enacted three-act comedy drama "The Tumult", staged under the capable direction of Mrs. T. Shield, assisted by Lloyd Parnall and Homer Berland as business and stage managers and Betty O'Brian in charge of the script.

Revolving around a plot to destroy the Chadwick Mills in the mythical industrial community of Steelton, the play had some strong dramatic highlights, which were relieved by many humorous situations, and the two were nicely blended with a strong love interest. Presented in a modern setting the comedy-drama worked smoothly to a fine climax, and called forth some very splendid acting on the part of the entire cast.

In his introductory remarks prior to the rise of the curtain, the Rev. M. C. Parr, pastor of George Street Church expressed thanks on behalf of the Young People's Union on the presence of such a large audience, and declared, "Unless you have taken part in such a production you are not in a position to realize the great amount of work that has gone into its making."

He congratulated the cast and directors on the effort and said they had been rehearsing under difficulties in view of the fact that the Sunday School auditorium is in use every night of the week by one or other of the various organizations connected with the church.

During intermissions Miss Helen Delahaye presented a splendid selection of musical numbers at the piano.

The cast of characters was as follows:

John Chadwick, president of the Chadwick Mills, and most prominent man in Steelton, Joe Weir; Mary Chadwick, daughter of John Chadwick, Margaret Scanlon; Tommy Benson, clerk in the office of the Chadwick Mills, Jabe Burnham; Nita Chadwick, Mary's 17-year-old sister, Lois McNaughton; Howard Trenton, business associate of Chadwick and suitor for the hand of Mary Chadwick, Roland Rennie; Polly Benson, Tommy's sister, Mildred Miles; Charlie Hempstead, clerk in the office of the Chadwick Mills, Cecil Wasson; Grandma Benson, Grandmother of Polly and Tommy, Loreina McDougall; Clay Cranewell, the destroyer, Jack Smith; Burt Taylor, a novelist, friend of Cranewell, Toby Wells.

Business men of Peru are protesting that enforcement of the summer-hour regulations for employees, which became effective January 15, has curtailed hours and retarded sales, and are demanding modification of the rules.

When Nelle Thomsen and his bride and guests in the wedding breakfast returned from the church ceremony to their home at Loekken, Denmark, they found that thieves had stolen the wedding cake and many wedding gifts.

Home and School Association News

CENTRAL SCHOOL.

A splendid attendance of mothers met in the kindergarten room at Central School on Monday evening for the March meeting of the Home and School Association. Mrs. C. H. McWilliams presided and carried through a long and interesting program.

Three speakers, who were both adressive and entertaining, were listened to by a very appreciative audience. Mrs. V. R. Beatty spoke on Visual Education. The speaker emphasized the need of censorship on moving pictures, as today they exercise as much influence as the press.

Mrs. H. H. Graham spoke on the League of Nations. "The League in itself was of no value at the present moment," said the speaker, "but the great need was to keep the idea of a truly peaceful world before the youth of today."

Mrs. E. Want spoke on Music and of the necessity of the parent in teaching the child to love music. Mrs. Want said that a love of music helped to make a happy family life, and that many evil tendencies in children could be eradicated if their minds were occupied by music in any of its branches.

Mrs. C. H. Phillips contributed a delightful vocal solo, "Rank, Red Sun," accompanied on the piano by Mrs. A. H. Radford. The Misses Pauline Loescher and Agnes Rele presented a clever tap dance, with piano accompaniments by Geraldine Loescher. A well-rendered piano solo was given by Doris Fawcett.

Splendid annual reports of last year's activities were given by the secretary, Mrs. L. Callender, and Mrs. Marshall, the retiring convenor.

A collection was taken in the absence of the relief convenor, Mrs. Walmsley. A concise financial report was heard from Mrs. F. Smith, the retiring treasurer.

Mrs. N. Stanger, who is the delegate from Central to the monthly health talks given by Dr. Murray Fraser, read a paper on "Tuberculosis."

Mrs. Marshall was named as the relief convenor for 1937.

The attendance picture went to Miss Doughty's room.

The Indians showed no traces of neurosis and in the 300 villages he had visited he could find no recollection of any cases of insanity during the past 80 years, he said.

KINGSTON FIGHTS COSTS OF TRIALS

Will Protest Being Assessed 70 Per Cent. Of Outlay For Prison Inmate Cases

KINGSTON, Ont., March 9—(CP)—Echo of the murder trial here during the past two weeks when the jury disagreed in the case of Convict Chester Crosley, charged with the murder of Guard John McCormick at the Kingston Penitentiary, was heard at the meeting of the City Council last night when the following motion, by Alderman Stansbury and Alderman Robertson was unanimously carried:

"That this council place itself on record as opposed to this city being assessed 70 per cent of the costs of cases arising out of trials of inmates of the Kingston Penitentiary and Collins Bay Penitentiary.

"The trial of convicts, after the riots and the recent murder trial, are glaring examples of where the money of the taxpayers of Kingston is going; that a copy of this resolution be sent to Hon. Norman Rogers and the Attorney General for the Province of Ontario."

The Irish Free State expects a record number of tourists this year.

Hon. David A. Croll, Minister of Welfare and Labor, described to the members the workings of the labor and industry board to be set up under the new minimum wage for men legislation. It will have authority to inquire into industrial conditions, to negotiate wage agreements and to fix working hours.

The proposed board will supplant the minimum wage board, the apprenticeship board and other bodies, said the minister who described the bill as setting a foundation for a new labor department.

Toes Must Be Trod On.

Industrial workers, the Minister continued, could not be assisted without certain powerful toes being trampled on and he said it was a brutal opinion to say industry and business should be allowed to continue without wages finding their natural level.

"There is only one basic level wages for unskilled workers will find," he added, "that is the subsistence level established by relief allowances. Below that most men won't take the job. And thousands upon thousands of men in Ontario are working long hours for wages only a shade above what their families would be receiving were the men idle and on full relief."

He foresaw serious labor difficulties in 1937 and the Government planned to change the Labor Department to serve in bringing industrial peace. The theory of the sanctity of profits and the rock-bottom wage has had full scope, the Labor Minister declared.

STAGECOACH DAYS FOR ROCKEFELLER

Prefers To Have Lived In Era Of Slower Pace, Minus Cars, Telephone, Radio

NEW YORK, March 9—(AP)—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., indelibly identified with the gasoline age, says he would prefer to have lived in the days of the stage coach.

"I would gladly dispense with the telephone and the radio," said the man in whose mid-town group of steel and concrete towers New York's radio city was born, "if by so doing the peace and calm of life at a slower pace would be brought back."

Then: "Personally I would have rather lived in the days of stage coaches than in this day of automobiles and airplanes."

He spoke yesterday at nearby Tarrytown, long the home of his father, founder of vast petroleum enterprises, to urge a union of the churches of the community.

"Shall we let our personal preferences and feelings, be it hatred, dread or fear, or shall we unite in the spirit of love and service?" he asked, "and thus help to bring about the kingdom of God on earth?"

Recently he recommended a union of all sects as the only means of stemming what he termed the tide of materialism and crumbling moral standards.

ROOSEVELT LIKES LIGHTER PARTIES

White House Guests Treated To Bright Dance Music And Popular Songs

By SIGRID ARNE

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9—(AP)—Dancers were circling the East Room as the White House while the Marine band puffed a thumbs and President Roosevelt smiled blandly.

Suddenly the President's smile turned mischievous. He whispered to his secretary, "Steve" Early, who mingled with the dancers and separated four men from their partners.

"There will be some singing," announced the band director as three red-faced newspapermen and Marvin McIntyre, a presidential secretary, huddled in front of him, humming uncertainly to get their pitch.

They wailed "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," peppered with sour notes. At the end the President applauded with fastness and appeared more vigorously than any of his guests.

That illustrates why "a good time" really is "had by all" when the Roosevelts entertain. It once was customary for White House guests to sit with frozen faces through classical music played by chamber music groups and classics rendered by opera stars.

Sang to Judges

But the Roosevelts had little. blond Jessica Dragonette of the radio, in to sing for the senate Supreme Court and their wives. Chief Justice Hughes smiled into his white whiskers and Mrs. Hughes leaned out a bit to get a better view of the gold cloth dress Miss Dragonette was wearing.

Cabinet men and their wives have strummed happily on the arms of their chairs, keeping time to the fast, rolling tunes. Both the President and Mrs. Roosevelt take a personal interest in the performers who entertain at the White House. After each program the President has asked Mrs. Roosevelt to bring the entertainers to him for a personal "thank you." Some of the more courageous come away with autographed photos of their host.

But the entertainment is tempered to the guests. For one diplomatic dinner the Roosevelts, in consideration of their foreign guests, had an elaborate classical program; a contralto, a Spanish dancer, a cellist, a harpist and a double-piano number.

Several nights later, jolly Vice-President, Jack Garner of Texas

pre-election pledge to end unemployment, and had failed to take any effective measures. Mr. Bothwell said no Government could end unemployment in so short a time and urged the Opposition to give Liberal policies a chance.

Within the framework of the Social Credit plan, said Mr. Blackmore, was the solution to Canada's economic problems with the necessary safeguard against inflation. Nationally-created money nationally issued would come, Mr. Blackmore declared.

Mr. Bothwell accused T. C. Douglas (CCF—Weyburn) of misrepresentations in articles contributed to the "Advocate," Western Canadian newspaper, dealing with proceedings in the House of Commons.

The method of bargaining used in the Conservative Government to obtain the 1932 Empire trade agreements was not in the best interests of either Great Britain or Canada, said Mr. Bothwell.

Spence Is Disappointed

Disappointment at the failure of the Government to reduce or eliminate any of the nuisance taxes was expressed by Mr. Spence. He congratulated the minister, Hon. Charles Dunning, on his financial presentation.

No government could end unemployment without the co-operation of the world. The King Government should not be blamed for failure to end unemployment. Neither should the previous Government, that the Liberal Government from 1921 to 1930 was responsible for a good deal of the unemployment which subsequently came to Canada through failure to protect Canadian industry. "The Conservative party is certainly a hard luck party," Mr. Spence declared.

"We always come into office in time to save the country from ruin and then they kick us out and the Liberals get all the credit. We are certainly a hard luck bunch."

There were in Canada a number of monopolistic mergers operating to the detriment of the Dominion, Mr. Spence said. He referred to Industrials Limited, which he said were owned in New York. "We should curb this sore of thing and give the small merchants and small houses a chance," he urged. "Soon the United States will have us by purchase."

Reciprocity Next Best.

Free trade was next to impossible and the next best, or middle course, was reciprocity, Mr. Fleming said, and the governments reciprocal trade agreement with United States had already brought benefits to Canada. There was more freedom of trade now than at any time since 1929-30.

Mr. Barber said he did not know why Labor Minister Rogers should [illegible] fruits and vegetables. In 1933 Quebec gardeners marketed $5,442,000 worth of vegetables and the next year $6,732,000 worth. The increase of $800,000 was due to seasonal tariffs, he said.

The Democracy of Print

Whether he is rich or poor, highly placed or [illegible], everyone seeks news.

The desire to know what is happening in the [illegible] is strong and instinctive; the need to satisfy this natural curiosity urgent and persistent.

Before newspapers were available, few enjoyed the privilege of regular dependable news of events, ideas or achievements . . . men, manners or markets . . . beyond the restricted boundaries of their own communities. The settlers journeyed weary miles to maintain the necessary contacts with affairs and friends. Roads were few and primitive. Travel was difficult. Mails were infrequent and means of communication slow. In winter the "snowshoe express" took weeks to travel from Montreal to Niagara. Foreign news was scarce.

Today all the news from far and near is brought to every Canadian, quickly and completely, by his daily newspaper. No matter what his interests or occupation may be, it serves his needs. Day after day it provides up-to-date information which influences his opinions, plans and purchases. There is no phase of community or national life it does not touch; the aspirations and accomplishments of the world at work, and at play, are recorded in picture and story on its pages.

Unfailing performance of this service to the individual has made the daily newspaper indispensable to more than two million Canadian families and a constructive force in every community.

In the Estimates

Mr. Par- was asked for his views which set forth in a report read by hairman, Alderman Sloan. Two Applications

The central point of ssion was whether a qualified neer should be engaged for the Appointment of two men, an ant engineer and also a street missioner, as at the time when Kirkham was the assistant en- r and Mr. Bratt's commissioner, regarded as preferable if they needed and the city's finances anted that course.

An Ideal "Sez Us" erman Glover—The set up un- Harry Evans seemed to me an arrangement. He was the ervor of the outside work and able to relieve Mr. Parsons of at deal of that responsibility.

erman Wilson—I think our eer can look after all the work he has to do, and we don't need her engineer. It is hard to get essional man, an engineer, who handle men, and that is expe- true of the young man who engineering but has ittle or no experience with men the job.

erman Cotton disputed that on about the ability of en- rs to act as foremen, and quot- number of instances to support ontention.

erman Glover—I am convinced that a supervisor under the city engineer would save his salary every year.

Alderman McIntyre—We have the material right here, a man who can take off his coat and get on the job and show men how to go about it. An engineer is not for me, gentlemen. I am not in favor of filling this position with an office man.

Behind With Work

City Engineer Parsons said he could not be in the office and out around the city at the same time. He needed considerable time during the next two years to make proper records of the levels of the surface drains and other work which had to be laid out four or five years ago when the council was in a hurry to provide work for the unemployed.

Alderman Cotton—I am in favor of Mr. Parsons' report. He knows what should be done and we ought to accept it.

Ald. McIntyre—Mr. Tuggey would save you money outside where you are wasting it.

Ald. Dutton—I feel that to get the efficiency we require we should have an outside man who will see that the city's employees render efficient service. All we are asking is a fair day's work for a fair day's wage.

Ald. Dutton suggested that G. G. Torrance of the relief office was well qualified for the clerical position at the city yard, and the members of the Board generally endorsed that opinion.

Train Assistants

Mr. Parsons intimated that he was looking forward to the day when he would be able to retire from the city's service, although he felt he had many years of usefulness ahead of him. Mayor Macdonald said that the council should keep in mind when making appointments the desirability of training qualified men as assistants to the department heads whom they might eventually succeed.

Alderman Sloan told the Board he believed that E. A. Chalmers, county road superintendent, would consider the assistant engineer's position for the reason that suburban area commissions might be absorbed by the Ontario Department of Highways, and Mr. Chalmers would be left with only the county road work. Alderman Sloan said he was an exceedingly capable road engineer and had proved his ability in his work for the county council.

Alderman McIntyre wound up the discussion with his motion for the appointment of Fred Tuggey as street commissioner, and Alderman Cotton moved in amendment that Mr. Parsons' report be adopted, including the recommendations for the erection of a fence and the appointment of a clerk at the city's yard, in addition to the appointment of engineer for the combined duties of street commissioner and assistant engineer.

Alderman McIntyre changed his motion to include the appointment of a stores clerk. Alderman Sloan called for the vote on the Cosson-Dutton amendment and it carried by five to three.

MINSTREL SHOW SCORES BIG HIT MURRAY ST CHURCH

Chain Gang Minstrels Stage Show In Sunday School Hall

NOVEL FLAVOR

Merry minstrel fun with a novel flavour was provided by the Young Men's Class of Murray Street Baptist Church with presentation of "The Chain Gang Minstrels" in the Sunday School auditorium last evening. A large audience greeted the show.

The traditional minstrel set-up was varied in a manner which met with the complete approval of the audience by adherence to the chain gang theme throughout. The traditional blackfaces were there in excellent character but lacking were the traditional gaudy garbs to which blackfaces are supposedly addicted. In stripped prison uniforms they made their doleful fun against a background setting of cold, grey prison walls.

The Program

The program was opened with selections by all orchestra lead by Fred Trotter. Warden Charles Clarke then took charge with his convict crew and the fun proceeded. The end men were: "Agony", Grant Palmer; "Boss", Vivien Mills; "Crawfish", Ken. Mann; "Drumstick", Harry Wynne; "Eggnog", Arthur Mann, and "Punitence" Oscar Sloane. The circle was composed of Curt Gould, Frank Weart, Deb. Whatman, Douglas Weir, Harry McNabb and Carles Palmer. In the back row were Earl Spencely, Jim. Mann, J. Dundas, Frank Spencely, George Stevens, and Earl McNabb.

Following a second appearance of the orchestra, a monologue by Bert Alcock as "Professor Dumnoodle" scored a hit. Doug. Weir then afforded a vocal solo "As She Sang to the Bright Silvery Moon" with the support of the gang. A fine reception was accorded a negro skit by Deb. Whatman and Oscar Sloane entitled "The College Water-Boys."

Variety

Ab. Vluette and his Rural Rascals added to the reputation they have gained as local entertainers with a comic musical and vocal act. A generous round of applause was accorded "The Jail-House Quartette" for their melodic interlude. The quartette was composed of Harry Wynne, Vivien Mills, Art Mann and Grant Palmer. Helen Ludbrook and her well known troupe of Hawaiian guitar artists entertained with musical selections. The show was concluded on a note of high comedy with an act by the Spencely trio—Earl and Frank and their father, Al. Spencely.

Walter Fitzgerald was director of the show. Excellent piano accompaniment was provided throughout by Pearl Smith.

PAINTING TENDERS FOR REST STATION

To Property Committee

Nine tenders for painting the public rest room on the market were opened by Alderman McIntyre at the Property committee meeting Monday night. The lowest was from H. Schaver, Hunter street for $120, and the next in upward order was from F. E. J. McClennen and Son for $180. The committee was in favor of accepting the McClennen bid, but several extras have to be added to the contract.

It was decided to refer the extras to four of the painters for their prices: A. Anderson, $175.75; F. J. O'Connor & Son, $185; Harry Manser $185; and F. R. J. McPherson, $160. The committee believed that Mr. Schaver could not fulfill the contract at his price.

"You're free to go," said the judge to the prisoner, "why don't you take up poker?"

FAKIR INCITING TRIBES TO REVOLT

Britain Forced To Send Troops Into Northwest Frontier Area

LONDON, March 9 (C.P.-Havas) —A British expeditionary force, including field artillery and auxiliaries, has been despatched to Waziristan on the North-west Frontier of India to put down a new tribal rebellion, Reuters News Agency reported to-day from Rawalpindi.

Authorities said a fakir calling himself the "Champion of Islam" has arisen in the border country and is inciting the tribes to revolt by describing the British Government as "the ally of the Hindus."

Yesterday Sir H. Aubrey Metcalfe, Foreign Secretary to the Indian Government, admitted, according to Reuters, that two British officers had been killed and $430,000 had been spent in military operations.

GIRL'S BODY FOUND FOLLOWING WRECK

Difference Of Opinion Arises As To Whether She Is Ex-Montreal Newsman's Wife

DAWLISH, Devon, March 9.—(CP Cable.)—A verdict of "found drowned" was returned to-day at the inquest here into the deaths of Constantin Serge Zolotoukin and Miss Phyllis Durant, both formerly of Montreal.

Their bodies were washed up near the estuary of the River Exe along with the wreckage of a small schooner belonging to Zolotoukin.

Evidence at the inquest indicated Zolotoukin, who used the surname of Exo when a newspaperman in Montreal, had set a course for Cherbourg, but had been driven back by bad weather. The coroner remarked it was an extraordinary thing the yacht should have put out from Dartmouth late Friday night when the weather was so bad. But he added the reason was none of his business.

The coroner referred to Miss Durant as "Mrs. Zolotoukin." The man's mother, Mrs. Zolotoukin, Sr., testified that as far as she knew the woman with her son was his wife.

Frank McTavish of Bridgetown Barracks, Chatham, a Canadian officer, identified the woman's body as that of Miss Phyllis Durant, stepdaughter of D. M. Martin, of Montreal. He said he had known both the girl and Zolotoukin but could not say whether any marriage ceremony had been performed.

(In Victoria, B.C., Mrs. Janet Lang Zolotoukin, who was married to Zolotoukin five years ago, said she had no knowledge of any divorce or separation proceedings concerning herself and her husband.

'QUAKE TREMORS ROCK U.S., ONTARIO IN EARLY MORNING

Toronto, Woodstock, Windsor, Chatham, Kitchener Citizens Awakened

NO PROPERTY DAMAGE

TORONTO, March 9 (CP).—Earth tremors which struck parts of the United States reached into Ontario today. The tremors, only slightly felt, were reported at Woodstock, St. Thomas, London, Toronto, Kitchener, Windsor and Chatham.

The tremors were felt about 12.45 a.m. in the six Ontario centres. St. Thomas reported the tremor quite distinct.

Rocking buildings awakened residents in cities near Detroit, while in Indianapolis the disturbance lasted about 10 seconds. Shocks occurred at Lexington, Ky., and Louisville, and faintly in the Chicago area. It was the second shock felt in the mid-western states in the last week.

Two distinct earth tremors disturbed sleeping Woodstock citizens and alarmed those who had not already retired to rest. The shocks were not heavy enough to cause any property damage.

Minor earth tremors were felt in many Western Ontario points and parts of Michigan, according to reports reaching Windsor.

Beds Tremble.

A resident of the western section of Windsor reported beds in his house trembled, while a desk he was working at shook. He said the quake was slight, but could be distinctly felt. Detroit and suburbs also felt the tremors.

A Chatham resident said the shock was felt most in a telephone building. London and Toronto reports said the tremors were felt but "slightly."

Two perceptible earth tremors were felt at Kitchener.

Dwellers on the upper floors of tall apartment buildings detected the pair of shocks which seemed to be missed by those "on the ground."

Rev. Joseph S. Jolief, head of the department of seismology at John Carroll University, Cleveland, said the earth tremors felt in the mid-western states "were of about the same magnitude as last week's quake—perhaps a little greater in intensity."

He attributed the source as the same as the previous one—an upriver section of rock crust in the old glacial region of Northwest Ohio.

Finance Committee To Consider Gift

Peterborough civic officials were this afternoon in doubt as to the manner in which the one-mill subsidy to Ontario municipalities announced in the budget would be applied here. Peterborough's tax rate has already been struck at 37 mills for the year.

The subsidy will amount to approximately $21,400 for Peterborough. Officials are asking themselves whether or not it is too late to re-set the tax rate at 36 mills to allow for the subsidy. The tax department has already started its annual preparations to collect on the 37 mill basis, it is understood.

Alderman G. N. Gordon was of the opinion the Legislature will pass supplementary legislation to enable municipalities to pass the benefit of the subsidy immediately to the taxpayers.

The matter of the subsidy will likely be considered by the Finance Committee at an early date, Alderman James Hamilton said.

TWO BOYS BURNED

Rescued Unconscious After Setting Home Afire Playing With Matches.

WINDSOR, March 9.—(CP).—Two small children of Mr. and Mrs. Fiery Chaban were rescued in an unconscious condition to-day when fire broke out in a small storage room near the kitchen of their flat over a store. The two, Billie, four, and Peter, three, were found under a table in the living room and were taken to hospital where oxygen was administered.

The small boys suffered slight burns which are not regarded as dangerous. It is believed they started the blaze by playing with matches. Damage was confined to the storage room.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, March 10.

AN ACTIVE day and one of important developments in forecast by the prevailing lunar and mutual aspects of major planets. This activity in the direction of progress and established fortunes will be the normal outcome of the breaking up of stubborn obstacles and long-standing congestions in the affairs. Employment, labor, business and investments may respond to such reorganization and sudden stimulus, with lands and possessions increasing in value, probably at the behest of superiors or those in power and prestige.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of important opportunities and definite progress in the affairs, following the breaking up of old crystallizations and obstacles. Influential persons may be found ready to support such readjustments, which may result in stabilized values in property, investments and other possessions.

A child born on this day may be studious, industrious, steady and moderately ambitious, succeeding in employment or in ventures with important interests, where it may make good progress and attain personal power and popularity.

CHOIR LIBRARY WORTH $50,000

Dr. Fricker Excels As Builder Of Programs For The Mendelssohn Choir

PETERBOROUGH NUMBERS

The program to be presented by the Toronto Mendelssohn Choir in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church under auspices of the Man's Association on Tuesday evening next, shows very thoughtful planning on the part of Dr. H. A. Fricker the choir's eminent conductor.

Only years of experience in program building enables a conductor to unerringly select, from a library such as is owned by the Mendelssohn Choir, choral numbers which give the utmost pleasure to every taste that will be represented by the large audience which advance ticket sales have assured.

Over the forty years of the choir's existence it has accumulated one of the most comprehensive and valuable libraries of choral works owned by any choral organization on this continent. It consists of nearly three hundred and fifty numbers representing the choice of the whole field of choral music from Palestrina to Healy Willan and Willan Walton, and, to replace the music today, would cost approximately $50,000. It's bulk occupies the spacest two large rooms in the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

Reviewing the program to be presented here, The Examiner notes, following the National Anthem which is to open the program, a group of four motets including a composition by Mendelssohn after whom the famous choir is named. Also included in this group will be three chorales from Bach's "Jesu, Joy and Treasure" sung with great success at the choir's recent Toronto concert.

The second group, consisting of part songs by various composers, is a selection of the liveliest, most tuneful and ear-pleasing numbers in the choir's library, while the third group consists of Scotch and English airs, such as the wonderful choral arrangement of "Annie Laurie", and "Drunk to Me Only With Thine Eyes" and the jolly part song "Bold Turpin" and the lilting "Dance the Cachucha" from Gilbert and Sullivan's "Gondoliers".

A most pleasing interlude for all lovers of great organ music will be Dr. Fricker's presentation of Bach's "Toccata and Fugue in D Minor" played between the first and second choruses.

LOST IN BLIZZARD 2 BADLY FROZEN

Rescued By Miners After Wandering Wilds Around Little Long Lac

GERALDTON, Ont., March 9.—(CP).—Two Londen, Ont., men were recovering to-day in this north-western mining town from severe frost bite suffered yesterday when lost on Little Long Lac in one of the winter's worst blizzards.

W. B. Archer, manager of the Coronation Long Lac Syndicate, and A. N. Cameron of the London Financial Services crossed the lake to investigate mining claims, although they were warned a storm was threatening.

When they turned to retrace their steps, snow had drifted the trail and the rising sleuard made identification of land marks impossible. They battled the gale two hours before they found shelter in an unoccupied shack.

When the wind abated they tried again to find their way back to Geraldton but the country was entirely strange to them. Fortunately they stumbled across a group of miners who took them to the Hardrock mine where they were given first aid. They were brought to Geraldton and placed under a doctor's care last night.

MONTREAL GAME IS LIKELY OFF

Death Of Morenz, Famed Canadiens' Centre, Calls For Postponement Of Game

OTHER GAMES GO ON

TORONTO, March 9.—(CP). — There was only one subject of discussion to-day among hockey men. The National League stretch drive and the fight for favored places were forgotten in the general sorrow over the sudden death of Howie Morenz.

Three games were scheduled for to-night—in Boston, New York and Montreal—but it is likely that at least the Montreal game will be postponed. Morenz' team, Canadiens, were scheduled to meet Maroons there.

Other contests were down for Boston, where Detroit Red Wings and Bruins meet, and New York, where Rangers and Americans play their last game of the season.

Americans have lost any hopes of taking the city title long ago and they are out of the playoffs. So the game could only mean a chance to fatten their goal scoring records with an eye to contract-signing time.

For Rangers it would mean an opportunity of making sure of a play-off berth. While it is true they need only make one point in five games to beat out Chicago it is likely they will be shooting for it to-night in an effort to blast Hawks out of the picture definitely.

Assists From Ramblers.

Rangers are taking three men from Philadelphia Ramblers for the contest. Clint Smith, Bryan Hextall and Eddie Wares will replace Neil Colville, Lynn Patrick and Bill Cook, all on the ailing list.

A win for Detroit to-night in Boston would give Red Wings first place in the American division without any argument. In the four remaining games Bruins could not catch Wings. Art Ross' Boston team is sure of making the playoffs, but still have to fight to be sure of keeping second place from Rangers, whom they lead by three points.

KING OF WINTER SPORTS
Ski-ing

42—JUMP TURN WITH AID OF

The jump turn is used principally when conditions are such that the successful execution of any other turn or swing is doubtful. When the space available is restricted, when there is insufficient time or speed and especially for a sharp change of direction in breakable crust the jump turn is indispensable.

The turn may be made with the aid of either one or both of the sticks. The procedure using one stick will be dealt with in this article. From the erect running position with skis abreast sink into a crouch, the feet and knees together. Plant the stick about which the turn is to be made in the snow close to the tip of intended inner ski. Figure 1. Keep the elbow close to the body and turn the body and turn the shoulders in the direction of the turn. Figure 2. As the feet reach the stick spring up and take the weight on the stick. Figure 3. Draw the feet up, keeping the ankles and knees firmly pressed together. At the top of the spring swing the hips, legs and skis around pivoting the whole body about the stick. Figure 4. Straighten the legs immediately so that the shock of landing can be absorbed by the knees, that is by sinking to a crouch. Figure 5. The feet should land on a line through the point where the stick is planted, parallel to the direction of travel at the time of the spring. The distance between the point of "take off" and the point of landing will vary with the speed of running and the slope. Keep your eyes on the landing place not on the spot from which you are taking off.

Practice the turn in soft snow on the level, starting a run from a stationary position with skis across the slope, and jumping without making a turn while running. Do not crouch too low for the spring. Turn the body from the waist up in the direction of the turn before the spring. Keep your eyes on the landing point and straighten the legs before coming to the ground. It is well to choose a soft surfaced spot for the take off so the skis will hold firmly for the spring.

Kentucky Derby Favorite

From the rapt attention given by Pompoon, the photographer apparently had little difficulty in getting him to pose. This picture was taken aboard the train that took the son of Pompey from Mount Washington to Columbia, S.C. Pompoon is winter book favorite for the historic Kentucky Derby to be run at Churchill Downs on May 8. This thoroughbred racer is undergoing a spell of training for his debut as a three-year-old in the derby while in Columbia. He was two-year-old champion of 1936.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

AN EXECUTIVE baseball meeting of the senior club will be held at eight o'clock tomorrow (Wednesday) evening in the Y.M.C.A. Main business items to be discussed will be the bolstering of the Petes' team this spring and appointment of delegates to the C.O.B.L. season in Belleville on Saturday. Members of last year's executive are invited and also former members who were not active last year. Manufacturers and sportsmen like Hugh Campbell, Vern Dawson, W. M. Lang, R. M. Glover, Bill Kay, H. A. Cranfield, and others. Without the active interest of these men last summer, the game slumped locally—despite the fine work of the 1936 executive.

* * * * * *

IT REQUIRES the support of such men to put senior baseball over properly. We have but to point to the success enjoyed by General Motors in Oshawa last season in the diamond game. In the strongest senior ball circuit in Ontario, Peterborough should be right up there around the top—and will be if a strong executive is running the club affairs. Baseball here two and three years ago went over with a bang. We had a fine team, big crowds and the best of advertising for the city. But many of the officers dropped out last year and the difference in the Petes' showing and the fans' interest was obvious. Let's all get in there and bring back baseball prosperity to Peterborough in '37.

* * * * * *

THERE IS still a bit of frost on the old crystal ball and we can't predict much about the Petes till the sun gets warmer, but we'll go out on the limb now and bet the Petes will be considerably stronger than last year with the addition of several newcomers with established reps in the Spalding sport. A town this size with a charter membership in the strong C.O.B.L., and with the finest ball park in the circuit, should have a championship ball club playing Saturdays before huge crowds. And in this yearof grace and returning prosperity, 1937, we sort of look for a brand new deal with a powerful executive and a winning team. That's how it looks.

LAKEFIELD AND Mayfairs meet tonight at 8.30 in the Brock to finish their Senior City Hockey League semi-finals. Winner goes into the finals Thursday against Westclox. These teams tied in two games and their tussle tonight should be another torrid one. It ought to draw quite a crowd of puck rooters, and we wouldn't care to lay too much dough on the outcome.

* * * * * *

OUR COLTS copped a 9-2 decision over Lindsay Midgets in an exhibition game before a small crowd here last night. As is usual with exhibition frays, there wasn't too much excitement or interest in the stands. The locals looked better than their rivals all the way—though at times the long layoff showed in their work. They muffed a barrel of chances when in scoring position. Lindsay put up a game scrap against a better team. Judging by the Aurora-Lindsay series and Barrie's 10-5 win last night over Aurora, the local Colts and Barrie should be pretty well-matched when, and if, they meet in the next playdown round. The young Petes have an exhibition tilt in Lindsay tomorrow p.m.

THE GREAT Howie Morenz is dead. A shocked hockey world this morning learned that Montreal Canadiens' peerless centre star had died last night in hospital of a heart attack. Probably the greatest star of them all, this native of Mitchell, Ontario—near Stratford—captured all the honors possible in pro hockey. He didn't go so well last year but this winter, returning to his beloved Canadiens, Howie was having a grand season when he broke his leg. This was followed by a nervous breakdown and then a heart attack. We saw him last in the Ace Bailey benefit game in Toronto and the veteran Morenz could still break loose with a burst of speed that yanked fans to their feet. His name will live as long as hockey does.

Well, fellow members, it looks very much as if Mother Nature has joined the Ski Club, and if she keeps up the good work for another weekend I'll make a motion that she be given a life membership (paid in full). I am of the opinion that a little consideration should be given to other branches of the sport so that the public will not become impressed with the idea that we are a jumping club, which was one of the reasons a great many people were opposed to building a jump in Peterborough. It is time we gave some consideration to the ladies in our club and to this end I think the Ladies' Downhill and Slalom events should be run off this coming week-end at Omemee's Mount Nebo, together with the men's downhill which I looked over last week-end. The water during the summer has played havoc with the gully used in last year's downhill, but the new cut in the woods looks very interesting though dangerous. It has also been suggested that the members interested in the cross-country event should get together by Saturday and hold this event on Saturday afternoon, starting from Jackson Park. Watch for further announcements.

DOMINIONS WIN OVER GOODYEARS

Capture 6-0 Verdict To Take Edge In Toronto Mercantile League Playoffs

Dominions won and now lead in the two-game total-goals series by 7 goals to 6 after defeating Goodyears 6-0 in the second game of the T. and Y. Mercantile League playoffs at Maple Leaf Gardens last night.

It was a stormy night outside but inside the Gardens the ice was fast and the puck travelled at top speed. Dominions scored in the first period when Bill Ezinicki, rushing in from the blueline, beat Goalie Bill Beveridge with a hard shot. Ezinicki scored again in the second period when he took a pass from Bill Thoms and beat Beveridge with a backhander. Dominions added four more goals in the third period, Ezinicki getting his hat trick when he scored on a rebound after Beveridge had made a fine save on Thoms. Thoms scored the next goal on a pass from Ezinicki, Bill Cowley scored on a pass from Thoms and Ezinicki scored his fourth goal of the night on a pass from Cowley.

Goodyears had a number of chances to score but Goalie Bill Durnan was in fine form and turned aside all shots.

Dominions will play the winner of the Toronto Police-Toronto Typographical game in the semi-finals.

Wire Dept. defeated Machine Shop, 5-0, in the C.G.E. Shop Hockey League sudden-death semi-final game at the Brock St. rink to go into the finals against Fractional Motors, last year's champions, in a two-out-of-three series. The victors in the semi-final struggle showed too much class for their rivals, Pammett and Heal turning in a bangup performance for them. Crowe also looked good while the generalship of Williams did much to hold the other squad in check. Harding was hard to beat in goal. Rowbotham, Magee and Seabrooke were best for the losers. Alkers scored the first on Pammett's assist and then Crowe tallied alone. The latter got another on Pammett's pass; while Heal and Pammett combined for two, the former scoring. The teams:

Wire Dept.: Goal, Harding; defence, Crowe, Williams; centre, Heal; wings, Pammett, Alkers; alternates, Freeman, Millard, Moore, Beauchamp.

PORT COLBORNE BEATS FLIERS

Take First Of Allan Cup Playdowns By 4-2 Count On Belleville Ice

BELLEVILLE, March 9.—Superior checking ability won the first game in the Allan Cup elimination series for the Port Colborne Sailors who defeated the Royal Canadian Air Force Fliers 4 to 2 here last night. The second game will be played in Port Colborne on Thursday.

The Fliers were the first to score less than three minutes from the opening, but the Sailors retaliated when Reynolds received a pass from Wade to beat Gibson on a low shot. The Sailors took the lead just before the close of the period when Upper put a low shot past Gibson which bounced out of the net.

During the third period, the Sailors increased their lead when Fitzgerald scored just inside the defense, taking a pass from Runions. Upper scored again, getting the puck on Morrison's rebound and circling the net. Ernie McNeely of the Fliers scored the final goal of the game, receiving a pass from Cowley.

Brownlee played a nice game in the net for the Sailors, stopping many hard shots. Ernie McNeely, Cowley and Lowery played well for the Fliers.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

When Dr. Green scored seven shots in four ends along about the middle of the game that job lot of points just about settled the issue. Up until the sixth end the game was close and interesting but after that it was all Green. We believe that Green's rink was the steadier and on the night's play deserved to win the cup.

It has been a good competition and was played all the way through on good ice—and now all eyes are turned to the outstanding events of our sheet's curling—the Lead's and Second's competition.

Four rinks from our club are playing in Lindsay this afternoon and four Lindsay rinks will play here. It's all to see who will hold the Lindsay-Peterborough Cup for the season.

The finals of the Stanstead Trophy (consolation) was played yesterday morning when Miss Littlefield defeated Miss Munro 7-6, and Mrs. DeGray won from Mrs. Sanderson 10-6. The finals will be played Wednesday morning.

WM. GERBY RECALL START OF MOREN

Came From Mitchell To Jo Stratford Juniors But Got Rough Handling

STRATFORD Ont., March 9 — P)—William "Father" Gerby of Stratford Midgets had tears in eyes today as he recalled the st here more than 30 years ago Howie Morenz' great hockey care As all Stratford, he was stunned the news of the player's sudd death.

The Morenz family had mov here from Mitchell where Howie f showed promise in high school ra key. Invited to play with the Str ford team, Howie showed up wi out gloves and was roughly handl by the other better-equipped la When practice was half over Ge found him in the dressing room, hands were bleeding and bruis "I'm not coming back any more, Gerby," the youngster said.

But young Howie did come ba when the team sent for him af having taken a beating from rivals in Kitchener. They remembered the promise he had shown Mitchell and asked him out to pr tice. Young Howie left his sup unfinished to trudge down to rink, Mr. Gerby recalled. In the turn game with the Kitchener riv "the kid from Mitchell" was the o standing player on the ice.

When Morenz was leaving scene hereof his amateur triumphs and heading for Grimsby to try with the famous Montreal Cana ens he said "I'll make it or I'll c the game." Hockey history reco show how well he made the gra said "Father" Gerby.

Colts Defeat Lindsay By One-Sided Margin In Exhibition Tussle

Top a 9-2 Decision Over Midgets With Fast-Skating, Neat-Passing Showing Before 3m all Crowd Of Local Rooters

LEAD FROM THE START

The local Colts coasted to a 9-2 victory over Lindsay Midgets before 300 fans last night at the Brock St. rink in a game exhibition game. The homesters were too good for the visitors and earned the win handily. They had a 4-0 lead in the first frame, were held to a 2-1 score in the second and had a 3-1 edge in the third.

Play was fairly fast most of the distance and quite clean. The Colts had more speed and better combination than their rivals to dominate play most of the way. For a time in the first, the Lindsay forwards checked the young Petes up relentlessly to disorganize their passing attacks but later the Colts swept in regularly with systematic tries, but they missed numerous chances—especially in the second—when in scoring position. Lindsay battled away gamely to the finish.

HARDING GOES GOOD.

There were no outstanding players for the locals, all going fair after their long layoff. Harding, with some fine net-minding, and Barry, who figured in four of the goals, were about the best. Kingdon was in on three, Connelly two and Brady two. They all went well most of the game. While the whole Lindsay squad worked hard, Wakelin, Parkin and Gerster seemed most effective. Wakelin was hurt in the second frame when bodychecked cleanly near the boards.

The locals, coached by Bill Callaghan last night, showed an early edge but were checked up cleverly as they finally scored in six minutes when Starr took Brady's pass. A minute later, A. Clark scored on Barr's assist. Both went off for tripping and, while he was still in the cooler, Kingdon flashed some fine stickhandling to tally. Just before the frame finished, Starr made it 4-0 with a nice effort around the net.

Colts Muff Chances.

The Colts had most of the play in the middle canto but missed repeated chances in close. Brady tallied a nice one early in the stanza but T. Cook got it back for Lindsay a short time later in a scramble in front of Harding. It was fast and fairly even for a time. Wakelin went hurt for a time and Crowe was sent for tripping. Later the Colts had a big edge on play but kept muffing chances. A minute before the bell Connelly took Kingdon's pass to tally in close.

Early in the third, Beal scored on Barr's assist. Lindsay came close several times but Harding kicked out the rubber. Connelly got another on Kingdon's pass and then, with Lindsay all gassing up hotly, Gerster dribbled one into the local cage. A. Clark got it back a bit later on a scrimmage with all Lindsay up the ice. Following it and later A. Clark went off for kicking the puck after the last his stick. Crowe got the paper next for tripping to leave the Colts two shy but Lindsay failed to take advantage of it. The locals had edge of the play at the final gong.

Tony Starts Again

TONY LESETE, veteran second baseman of the New York Yankees, takes his first turn at bat when the Yanks opened spring training of 1937 at their camp at St. Petersburg, Fla. Dependable Tony will be at his accustomed place in the infield when the season gets under way in April.

Remember When—

Mike McTigue, former Irish light-heavyweight champion of the world attempted a comeback at Havana seven years ago tonight. Mike won the title when he battered Battling Siki, Senegalese fighter, into submission in Dublin on St. Patrick's Day in 1923 and then remained in the ring limelight for years. But his attempt to return was farcical. He lasted only two minutes against Isidoro Gastanega, Spaniard.

Hot tip from Lakeland is Mickey Cochrane will try Rudy York at third if Hank Greenberg refuses to budge from first base. Twenty-five ball players spent the winter here. Colonel C. Willis, the Red Sox outfielder, was christened just that.

TWEED OUTCLASSES MADOC BY 10 TO 6 TO CAPTURE ROUND

Victors Earn Right To Meet Stirling-Belleville Winners

ONLY FOUR PENALTIES

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, March 9. — Completely outplaying and outscoring Madoc 10 to 6 in the second game of the semi-finals, Tweed earned the right to meet the winner of the Stirling-Belleville series for the championship of the Central League by defeating Madoc 12-9 on the round. With every man playing bang-up hockey, Tweed went into the lead early in the first period by slapping in three goals in rapid succession. E. Tummon getting the last counter on a nice rush and Embury closely following with two more.

Madoc broke into the scoring when Embury outwitted Thompson on a penalty shot, J. Tummon receiving the penalty. While Tummon was still in the cooler Madoc scored from a scramble in front of the Tweed net. With the Madoc team completely disorganized Tweed went on a scoring bee, Courneyea getting two unassisted goals and Embury and Marsh one each. This made the score at the end of the first period 7-2 for the visitors.

Second Period.

Playing hard, Alexander was at last rewarded in the first of the second period when he pirated the corner behind Thompson. E. Tummon retaliated, stick-handling through the entire Madoc team. A few minutes later Alexander scored from the blue-line catching Thompson in the Tweed nets of his guard. Courneyea for Tweed closely followed by Akey of Madoc went off for tripping. With one man short on each team Embury scored again for Madoc on a penalty shot, J. Tummon, the bad man of the game, being once more the offender. Tweed playing one man short scored on a pretty exhibition of combination by W. Leal and Courneyea. The Tweed players broke through repeatedly on the Madoc goal, and only stellar work in the nets by Nickle held the score to one goal for the remaining part of the period. Courneyea was the third period made many dangerous rushes literally showering Thompson with pucks, but the Tweed goalie kicked and batted them out, being outwitted only by Smith.

Between six and seven hundred fans turned out to see these two rivals battle for the honor of going into the finals. Both teams are to be congratulated on their good sportsmanship and Tweed should have little trouble in eliminating the winner of the Belleville-Stirling series, the second game of which will be played in the Madoc Arena on Wednesday, March 10.

The old enthusiasm in the league seems to be gradually coming back, and next season should see some real rivalry among the teams.

HOWIE MORENZ SUCCUMBS FROM HEART ATTACK

Idol Of N.H.L. Fans For 14 Years, Star Player Passes In Hospital

FAMED CANADIENS CENTRE

(By the Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, March 9.—(CP)— A stunned hockey world to-day mourned the death of one of its greatest players.

The news that Howie Morenz had succumbed suddenly to a heart attack in Montreal left his friends and admirers almost incredulous.

To National League officials, managers and players Morenz' passing came as a big shock. His loss is felt in countless towns and villages throughout Canada where hockey playing youngsters idolized the colorful centre of Montreal's Canadiens.

Cecil Hart, Canadiens' manager, grief-stricken, said: "He was the grandest person in the world, as a gentleman and hockey player. It is impossible to replace him in either way. I first met Howie back in 1923 when I went to Stratford personally to sign him. I've loved and admired him ever since. Truly, this is the greatest shock I've ever had."

President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League: "There is nothing I can say. I am utterly speechless."

Ernest Savard, president of the Canadiens Club: "It is unbelievable. I thought Howie was on the road to recovery."

A Terrible Loss.

Lester Patrick, manager of New York Rangers: "This is a terrible loss to organized hockey. Myself and everybody in hockey is going to feel a deep sense of personal loss at Howie's death. It was one of the all-time greats and it was only for the good of the game that Rangers let him return to the Canadiens he loved so well. I knew he was in bad shape, but his death comes as a great shock."

Conny Smythe, manager of Toronto Maple Leafs: "I can't believe it. It has been rumored so often and we hoped Howie was getting better. It's an upsetting thing. And it is certainly hard for an athlete of Howie's type to go so quickly. It is a terrible loss to the game and a terrible loss to Canadiens themselves. I certainly feel sorry for his family, for Howie thought a lot of his young boy who surely will miss him."

Tommy Gorman, manager of Montreal Maroons: "A terrible thing to happen. I'm very, very sorry to hear it. Howie was the greatest player I ever saw."

Dave Gill, former manager of Ottawa Senators of the N.H.L.: "It is shocking to think that a man with as great a heart as he had should die of a heart attack. He was a wonderful example to youth and a marvellous hockey player."

Cy Denneny, formerly of Ottawa Senators, who played against Morenz in Howie's first year as a pro: "I'm shocked, very shocked. He was one of the greatest centre players in professional hockey. I'm terribly sorry for his family."

LARRY AURIE LEADING APPS BY ONE POINT

Young Leaf Star Has 41 Points, One More Than Barry Of Detroit

SCHRINER FOURTH

MONTREAL, March 9 (CP)—It's Aurie by a nose over Apps as they come down the National Hockey League's home stretch. Young Sylvanus of the Maple Leafs is just a point behind Detroit's sharpshooting Larry in the race for scoring leadership.

Last night's official league statistics give the Red Wing speedy two goals—he's tops in that division—and sweeny assists. Apps has thirteen goals, and his twenty-eight assists put him at the head of the class as a helper-out.

Oddly, it is a teammate of each of the leaders who leads the other in goals and assists. Hooter Morenz of the Leafs is second to Aurie in goals with twenty; and Aurie's linemate Marty Barry comes behind Apps in assists, having twenty-four.

Barry's forty-point total puts him in third place in the totals, and Sweeney Schriner of the New York Americans is another one behind him. Jackson, with thirty-seven, stands two below Schriner.

The penalty parade is still a one-man show for big Red Horner of the Leafs. His 112 minutes of exile leave him twenty up on Allan Shields of the Bruins.

THOMPSON PAIR WANT MORE MONEY

Offered $50,000 For Oil Rights On Their 3,000 Acres Of Alberta Ranchland

NEW YORK, March 9 (CP)—Intercepting conversational passes on the National Hockey League front:

Paul Thompson, fleet wingman of Chicago Blackhawks, and his brother Tiny, Boston goalminder, have been offered $50,000 for the oil rights on their 3,000 acres of Alberta ranchland. They decided to gamble for a higher offer.

Amateur hockey players hereabouts welcome the newly-formed amateur loop as a big boost for the simon-pures. Hooley Smith, veteran Britain centre agrees as far as the non-paid hockeymen are concerned but predicts it's the beginning of the end for the big time professional game.

Tommy Peden, Canada's champion six-day bike rider, finished the race at Madison Square Garden Saturday night then arose Sunday in an argumentative mood. He told Lyn Patrick, Ranger forward, the latter's plan to stay in Manhattan next summer was unthinkable.

"Listen," said the Victoria redhead, "you got your husky physique roaming Western Canada. Go back there and recover the stamina you lost this season playing hockey. While you are on top do everything to stay there. A star is a star only a short time in any sport and the high pay soon starts dropping. Go West young fella, go West." Lynn said nay.

One New York American asks that well-wishers not feel sorry because the club has blown its chance to make the Stanley Cup playoffs. "We played five games getting into the semi-finals last season," he recalled, "and cashed in $250 apiece. That figures about $46 per game, less than we make during the regular season."

SARASOTA, Fla., March 9 (AP)—Al Schacht, baseball's funny man, is getting in shape for his long tour of the millions by working out with the circus in winter quarters here. Yesterday he almost started a riot... Attired in full baseball uniform, topped off with a long-tailed coat and high hat, Al was busy picking up tips from a clown in one corner of the lot while a group of performing elephants, camels, etc., rehearsed the grand opening spectacle nearby. The parade was marching 'round and around the ring when an elephant named Hazel suddenly spied Al.

Hazel has been with the circus 32 years and is old enough to know better. She has seen some strange sights around the big top, apparently nothing quite like Schacht... She broke from the line, hurdled the edge of the improvised ring and headed for the barn with five keepers in hot pursuit. They finally loaded her down with hobbles and chains and tried to coax her back in line, but it was no good until Al retired behind the wild animal house to finish his act with lions, tigers and leopards (all securely caged) as an audience.

AGED SMITH MAN HOLDS BIRTHDAY

Josiah Bullock Is Ninety-Six Years Old And Never Smoked Or Took Liquor

At a birthday party which recently celebrated the ninety-sixth natal anniversary of Josiah Bullock, veteran South Smith township farmer, a cake illuminated with ninety-six candles formed the unique centerpiece for the table at the home of his son-in-law, William P. Payne, R.R. 2, Lakefield, where the festivities were held.

Mr. Payne is authority for the statement that the old gentleman blew out all the candles in less than half-a-minute. A lifelong abstainer from tobacco and strong drink, Mr. Bullock is in a good state of health, having regard to his ripe old age. He is still able to get out for daily exercise when weather conditions are favourable.

Born in Monaghan Township, Mr. Bullock went to Smith at an early age and spent the greater part of his life there. At the age of twenty-eight he was married to Elizabeth Northey (now dead). Starting out with very few possessions, Mr. Bullock with the help of his good wife, ultimately came to own no less than 260 acres of farming and ranch land.

On his retirement twenty years ago he moved to Lakefield with his wife and there built the fine brick residence. Since the death of his wife some years ago, he has lived with various members of the family who are scattered throughout the district.

Of a family of eleven children born of the union, Mr. Bullock has three sons and five daughters living. They are: Mrs. H. Matthews, Mrs. E. Harvey, Mrs. W. Payne, Mrs. J. Hurl, Mrs. E. Thackaberry, Josiah Bullock, C. Bullock, and S. Bullock.

Not including himself, Mr. Bullock has ninety-four direct descendants and a total of 120 descendants taking into account the in-laws all living.

CHATEAU READY FOR MRS. SIMPSON

Wedding To Windsor Reported To Be Held In Castle's Chapel

TOURS, France, March 9.—(CP-Havas)—The Chateau De Conde, reportedly purchased by the Duke of Windsor from the American consul, was made ready to-day for the arrival of Mrs. Wallis Simpson from Cannes.

The wedding of Mrs. Simpson and the Duke of Windsor will be held in the Chateau's small chapel, it was reported.

It was learned that Mrs. Charles E. Bedaux, wife of the noted explorer and industrial engineer of New York, recently engaged more than 20 domestic servants. Flowers worth nearly $300 were said to have been delivered at the Chateau yesterday.

All these facts were interpreted as indicating that Mrs. Simpson will make a long stay here.

Its purchase by the former king as the permanent home he will make after Mrs. Simpson's divorce becomes final could not be confirmed at the Chateau a spokesman declaring he knew "nothing about it."

Mrs. Simpson meanwhile was en route here by motor with her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Rogers of New York, after leaving their villa, Lou Viei at Cannes.

FAIRMOUNT

Miss Muriel Hooton, of Peterborough, entertained friends at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hooton on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. J. Earle is confined through sickness for the past week.

A very enjoyable time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. B. Malkin on Friday by the young people. The evening was spent in playing cards and music. Mrs. H. McArthur and Mr. Stanley Tulley won first prizes. Mr. F. S. Mathews and Mrs. J. Kemp took the consolation, after which a dainty supper was served.

Mr. Roy Hooton returned on Wednesday evening after making a business trip to Windsor with Mr. M. Monerief.

The Day That I Forget
By MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER 20

CAROLINE MAYNARD told Janet she had sent for her wealthy bachelor brother and was giving a party for him on his arrival from the east.

"I said it was going to be gargantuan and I mean gargantuan!" Caroline said to Janet.

"When does he arrive?" Janet answered.

"Tuesday. The party will be Wednesday. Knowing Russ as well as I do, he may decide to leave on Thursday and I don't want him to get away. So, this is going to be a party as is one."

Janet was amused. "What I'd like to know is: How can you give anything bigger than is done every day? Is there anything more rococo than champagne flowing by the careful or pounds and pounds of caviar? And day we dress as kiddies or Austrians or do we come as the person we'd rather be?"

"Does sound dull, doesn't it?" Caroline agreed.

"Back in Chester we used to have hen parties and Dutch suppers and barn dances and they were really exciting but out here a party is just another sweat when you're satisfied on sweets."

"I know," Caroline said. "I remember when I thought the Butterfly Ball and the Victory Ball and the Beaux Arts and all the deb parties were pretty tiresome but they seem heavenly to me now."

"The only thing we haven't had out here is a barbecue," Janet contributed.

"That's it! That's how I'll tie things up." Caroline took her lanky self out of Janet's porch chair and went to her pocket book. She opened it and brought out a memo pad.

"Here's where we get to work," she said returning to her chair. "I'm going to open Russ' eyes. I've promised him a circus and he's going to have it. How's this for a guest list?"

She handed the pad to Janet. Janet read down the page, flipped it over and repeated the movement several times. Then she looked up astounded. "Caroline Maynard! What a list! You simply can't do it!"

"Why not?" Caroline asked calmly. "My husband is an A star, isn't he? Everybody will have to come whether they like it or not."

Janet laughed with great amusement. "I don't doubt a bit but everyone will want to come, but, my lamb, how in the world can you gather these people at one party? You've got all the children stars down and the children actors and actresses. You've got every ingenue and siren in Hollywood."

"Sure I have," Caroline retorted inelegantly. "That's the best way I know of to get them altogether for an effect. In groups they're hardly effective. This way it should make a good show. The barbecue solves the problem."

"I can see where there'll be plenty of roasting, Caroline, but that's as far as I can see."

"It will be an afternoon and evening party. After all, I've loads of room. I've a playhouse and a swimmink pool and a meadow. I'll invite everyone to come in the afternoon and bring the devil-raising kiddies and their nurses. I'll hire ponies and a carousal, a [illegible] magician. I'll serve everything from lollypops to highballs."

"We'll have the barbecue in the meadow and do it up right with all sorts of roasted things. Boy, will those dieting blondes have a hard time!"

Caroline herself had ashen hair and a tall figure slim as a reed.

"It certainly sounds different," Janet murmured.

"Then, at night, I'll have dancing under a moonlight and fireworks. When Mrs. Maynard give a party, she knows a party!"

"Are you sure you haven't forgotten anything?" Janet asked derisively.

"The flash, my dear, the flash! There's Russell himself and he's the piece de resistance. We'll watch the girls fight over him. Russ has piled himself up a neat little fortune, he belongs to the best clubs in New York, Boston and London. He isn't exactly a dancing man but he's got everything these gawping gals could ask for. And he's utterly immune! That's the fun. I'll get out of it."

"You're a wicked girl, Caroline, and I think someone ought to warn the poor man."

"All right, you warn him. Now, I've got to get going and start up Harman and Bailey act. Dave Wednesday, Janet, and be prepared for the worst."

Janet saved Wednesday. So did every other person, and that included every important person in Hollywood from Mangis Merry, the fabulous six-year-old star, to the Swedish diva of the moment.

It was an October day and hot as mid-summer in New York. Janet brought her bathing suit and after saying her "hellos" to all she knew and deciding that she couldn't even find her hostess, she went directly to the dressing rooms and donned her suit.

Looking from the dressing room windows of the playhouse, Janet thought that Caroline had certainly succeeded in putting on a circus.

She could see the red and white stripes of the marquee where later there would be dancing. Men were at work on the fireworks display on the lower lawn. Girls in summer frocks and men in flannels swarmed over the lawns leading down to the swimming pool to the right of her.

Standing on tip-toe, Janet could see that already the pool was crowded. Men and girls in bright suits lined the edges of the pool or lounged in the wicker chairs and were served by white-coated Japanese.

Janet intended to join that group but to reach them she had to take a path that led around back of the garages where the children's party was being held.

Janet could never resist the lure of baby voices. She decided to join the little ones to see what fun they were having.

The older children were being entertained by a magician and there were four little three-year-olds playing in the wading pool. Their two mothers sat nearby on the grassy bank.

Janet hailed the children as though she were one of them.

"Do you know how to play a game called big ship and little tugs?" she asked merrily.

The children were delighted to have her play with them and she made a great game of being a ship pulled about by little tugs who squealed and screamed with joy. Janet really had herself a lovely time and volunteered to remain with the children while their nurses went to the refreshment tent for tea.

She was alone with them and absorbed in their play and she did not know that she was observed until a shadow fell across the wading pool.

"Lady, could you use a lonesome sea dragon?" a deep, pleasant, masculine voice inquired.

Janet and her small playmates looked at him. He looked as though he'd make a very nice sea dragon. Not at all a fierce one in his white and blue bathing suit and a merry smile on his face.

Janet said she thought they could, and he lowered himself gingerly into the foot-deep water. He established himself, growled pleasantly as sea dragons are supposed to and acted happily that his performance met with squeals of appreciation.

"Say," he said after he had obliged with several exhibitions of snorting, "I'll bet it's lots more pleasant being a governess out here than it is being a movie star."

Janet realized with amusement that he thought she was a governess. "It is," she said gravely. "I could recommend you if you'd like to be one."

He sighed. "Confidentially, I would," he said. "It's no fun being a guest of honor at a shindig like this."

ADMIT McINTOSH CANADIAN APPLE

New York Department Agrees Original Was Grown In Dundas County

ALBANY, N.Y., March 9—(AP)—Canada came to bat yesterday with a claim that the New York State Agriculture Department conceded that the McIntosh, famous New York state apple, originated in Dundas County, Ontario.

Popular belief, the department said, has previously set the origin "somewhere near the southern shore of Lake Ontario."

A resident of Iroquois, Ont., wrote that he he had the "Correct Information based on genuine authority."

"The original McIntosh apple tree was on the farm of John McIntosh, a pioneer settler at Dundela, three or four miles north of the St. Lawrence River," the Canadian wrote. "The present occupant of the farm" he added, "is Harvey McIntosh, a descendant of the discoverer of the McIntosh apple."

"The original tree stood until a few years ago when a monument was erected on the site to commemorate its existence and to mark the exact spot where the first McIntosh tree grew," the letter said.

To all of which the department said "even if it did originate in Canada, it has become one of the leading varieties of New York state."

Bedtime Story
By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S HUNT

"Look! Look!" called Nedda Squirrel, the little boy bear to his father.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Shortail who was reading his paper in the log house.

"There goes Uncle Wiggily hopping in the snow storm with a straw hat on," said Nedda. "And walking after him is Mr. Twistytail and Uncle Butter."

"That is odd," growled the bear gentleman laying aside his paper. "I guess Wiggy is going to do a trick or he wouldn't be wearing a straw hat in the snow. I'll join the procession and see what happens."

"May I come, Daddy?" asked Nedda.

"No, indeed!" said his mother. "You stayed home from school because you had a sore throat and didn't want to go out in the storm. You aren't going out now even to see Uncle Wiggily do tricks."

Mr. Shortail shuffled out and when he began keeping step behind Uncle Butter the bear asked the goat:

Why Not?

"What's it all about—you and Twistytail following Wiggy?"

"I don't know," bleated the goat. "Neither does Twisty. And we haven't let Wiggy know we're following him. He's up to some trick."

"I thing so," laughed Mr. Shortail, so he joined the procession and, a little later, so did Mr. Bushytail, the squirrel gentleman who saw it passing his house.

So there was a pig, a goat, a bear and a squirrel following a rabbit gentleman in a straw hat through the snow storm.

Of course you know why Uncle Wiggily was wearing his straw hat in the snow. His regular Winter felt hat had blown away. The Bob Cat caught it and, rather than get mixed up with the Bad Chap the bunny let him keep the hat.

Then Uncle Wiggily decided to buy a Winter cap. But the only hat he could wear to the hat store was his Summer straw one. But none of his animal friends knew this. That's why they followed behind him to see what they thought was going to be a joke.

Uncle Wiggily knew nothing about the pig, the goat, the bear and the squirrel following him, because the snow storm was so thick he neither saw nor heard them.

Surprise!

But, all of a sudden he reached the cap store kept by a Rooster gentleman. And when the Rooster looked out of his store and saw the procession of animals he thought he was going to sell lots of hats.

"Why—why, I never knew you were following me!" said the bunny to his friends. "What's the idea?"

"We thought you were going to do a trick because you wore a straw hat in Winter," grunted Mr. Twistytail. And how they all laughed when they learned Uncle Wiggily was only going to buy a cap.

He bought it. He left his straw hat with the Rooster. Then, when his friends had returned home, Mr. Longears, pulling the cap down on his head and pulling his ears under the large, warm flaps, went to look for an adventure. He thought he would go to the woods where his other hat had blown off his head onto the head of the Bob Cat.

And when Uncle Wiggily reached the woods where he had last seen his hat, he found he was very lucky. The Bob Cat had gone, leaving the hat there. He had neither bitten nor clawed it.

"Oh, this is great good luck!" said Uncle Wiggily. "And here is more luck, too!" he added as he saw something on the ground in a place that was clear of snow. "Oh, what wonderful luck!"

I'll tell you about it tomorrow night. Then, if the gas stove doesn't boil the snowball pudding until it turn to mush, the story will be Uncle Wiggily's treat.

BRITAIN EXPECTS NO HEAVY BOOST IN HER TAXATION

Credit Two Reasons—Much Of Arms Cash Borrowed, And Recovery In Business

BUDGET DOWN SHORTLY

LONDON, March 9—(CP Cable)—The British taxpayer is resigned to the worst but is still looking for the best.

Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, it is now hoped, may be able to meet coming budget demands without heavy increases in taxation. This is possible for two reasons: (1) £80,000,000 ($400,000,000) of borrowed money is to be used to finance the big arms plan; (2) industrial recovery is increasing the yield of existing taxes.

Estimates for civil and revenue departments, with the three defence services, total approximately £820,000,000. This, exclusive of borrowed money represents an apparent increase over total estimates for the expiring year of around £40,000,000.

The apparent increase, however, is partially due to changes made in last year's budget in regard to the road fund. When the adjustment is made, the net increase to be raised from taxes drops to about £16,500,000.

Gross expenditure in the financial year 1937-38 for the navy, army, ordnance and air force will be £371,695,000, of which £80,000,000 will be borrowed and £187,695,000 will be raised from taxes.

BETHANY

SOCIAL EVENING PLANNED BY W.A.

St. Paul's Auxiliary Arranges For Euchre And Bridge As Attractions

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, March 9.—The Women's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Anglican Church held their regular monthly meeting at the Rectory on Thursday. There were fourteen members present, and one guest.

The president in the chair conducted the opening exercises. It was unanimously decided to select a particular Hymn for use at the meetings and the very pretty piece of music was practiced to be used when the Hymn was being sung called "Bethany", tune so written by the Church Hymn Book and considered very appropriate. The Honorary president, Mrs. McCartney, read the minutes of the former meeting, owing to the unavoidable absence of the secretary, Mrs. A. H. Martin.

Plans were discussed and submitted to the meeting regarding a euchre evening, deferred from 1st of March until Friday, April 2nd, by the entertainment committee. The committee in charge are hopeful to make this a very successful evening of enjoyment. Progressive euchre and bridge games will be the major part of the program. Prizes will be given and lunch served. Everybody will receive a hearty welcome from the hostesses in charge.

Several pieces of work were brought in and sales of fancy pieces were in demand.

One new member joined the society at this meeting.

The ladies decided to make a quilt to be sold at the Annual Bazaar the work to be commenced at the next meeting, when it will be distributed among the members.

Lunch was served by the hostesses in charge of meals, Mrs. Packham, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Holden and Mrs. Kennedy, and a social hour spent after the closing Benediction by the rector.

Ladies present included Mrs. Burke, Mrs. McCartney, Mrs. Packham, Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. C. Reynolds, Mrs. Sid Armstrong, Miss Norfolk, Mrs. Holden, Mrs. H. Morton, Mrs. R. Palmer, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Hopwood, Mrs. McKinnon, Mrs. E. Fallis and Mrs. G. Foster.

VENICE—(CP).—Pigskin upholstery in his carriage on the Venice-Trieste train was removed for the Maharaja of Alwar, carpets, rugs and textile material being substituted, the train being delayed some time.

PLAIN CLOTHES FOR POLICE

CARDIFF, Wales—(CP).—Motor patrol police will wear plain clothes after April 1 as the experiment of using uniformed men to check traffic law violations has failed.

Expenditure on elementary education in England has risen from $21.80 for each child in 1919 to over $36 in the 1931 year.

Brilliant Young English Skater Wins Championship

After winning both the British and European figure-skating titles, Miss Cecilia Colledge has added the world's skating title to her list of laurels. The brilliant young British skating star succeeds Sonja Henie, now turned professional, as champion of the world. Miss Colledge is reported as coming to Canada where she will appear in skating carnivals. Miss Colledge was born in London, England on November 28, 1920. She is pictured here as she goes through one of her figures.

MILLBROOK

CARMEL COUPLE MARRIED 25 YEARS

Mr. And Mrs. Fred Challice Celebrate Their Silver Wedding Anniversary

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, March 9.—Twenty-five years married, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Challice, residents of the Carmel vicinity, were "at home" to their many friends at a quiet celebration of their silver wedding anniversary Saturday.

Married at the Presbyterian manse in 1912 by Rev. William Johnson, they have since resided at their present homestead, where a family of nine children were born of the union, namely, Walter, May, Pearl, Vera, Harvey, Ivan, Clifford, Raymond and Dorothy. There were also four children by former marriages, Mrs. William Aiken (Eva Beggs); Oakhill, Mr. Ervin Beggs, Ottawa and Mrs. Charles Glanville (Rebecca Challice), Orono, and one son Whitney Challice, deceased.

OUSTED SARNIA MEN A PROBLEM

Whether Men Are Entitled To Relief Or Not May Cause Debate

SARNIA, Ont., March 9—(CP).—Condition of Mike Pigliai and Peter Tonko, most seriously injured of participants in last week's strike clash at Holmes Foundry Company here, was reported favorable but still serious at hospital Monday. Meanwhile speculation was rife as to the attitude of Point Edward municipal officials in event discharged strikers apply for relief. While village officials were reticent, it was learned the matter has not been considered. It is the president's contention that under present regulations persons involved in a disturbance are rendered ineligible for relief.

The question of payment of Tonko's hospital bill has not been settled. Hospital officials said no one had yet taken the responsibility for it and whether or not it will become a Point Edward obligation has not been determined. The Holmes plant is just outside the city limits.

COURT REVAMPING PRESSURE LOOMS

Non-Partisan League Prepares To Swing Congress Behind Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP).—U.S. Labor's non-partisan league set out today to bring pressure on Congress in favor of the Roosevelt proposal to revamp the Supreme Court.

"It is up to those who supported him for re-election last fall to follow him now."

The meeting of the League, established last year to campaign for Mr. Roosevelt's re-election, opened a week which partisans of both sides predicted would bring debate on the court program to a new peak.

The President will follow up his Thursday's appeal for enlargement of the Supreme Court—if aged justices do not retire—with a "fireside chat" broadcast to the nation tomorrow. Attorney-General Cummings will open Senate hearings on the court bill Wednesday.

COUNCIL PLANS TO REDUCE TAX RATE ONE MILL

Take Immediate Advantage Of Ontario Government's Aid To Ratepayers

TAX BILLS PRINTED

Alderman Hamilton Says People Expect Benefit This Year

The Hepburn government's municipal subsidy equivalent to one mill in the tax rate will be promptly passed on to the ratepayers of Peterborough by a reduction of the local levy from 37 mills to 36.

"The people expect it," Alderman Hamilton, finance committee chairman, commented to the Examiner today, "and it is the government's wish that this contribution toward the relief of the taxpayers should be put into effect. Apparently it is intended for the present fiscal year only, although that point is not definitely stated, but any way the government wants the municipal taxpayers to get the benefit of the assistance during the present year. So it is up to the council to arrange the details."

Tax Bills Printed

Since the city's budget for 1937 was adopted at the council meeting Monday, March 1, City Treasurer I. E. Shaver has had this year's tax bills printed, and City Clerk Armstrong's department has already completed computations of the general rate in the roll for the south ward.

Printing of new tax bills would cost $120, but this is not a serious item when this city is getting a grant that was at first estimated at $21,-000 and which may amount to $24,-000. Probably the altered figures will be on the present bills. Another suggestion considered in the treasury department was to proceed with the compiling of the roll and making out the tax bills, and then allow a discount for the amount of the grant to the ratepayers. The arithmetic involved in that plan appeared to be too involved, and it will likely receive no further attention.

BURNS AND SMOKE KILL WINDSOR LAD

Brother Rescued Unconscious From Blazing Apartment, Expected To Live

WINDSOR, Ont., March 10 (CP)—Three-year-old Peter, one of two children of Mr. and Mrs. Flory Chuman burned and partially suffocated when fire broke out in their flat over a store here yesterday, died in hospital today. Hospital attendants said death was due to shock, severe burns about the thighs and hands and dense smoke which burnt the kids lungs.

Peter and Billie, four, were rescued in an unconscious condition after being found huddled under a table in the living room by 17-year-old Damien Lajeunesse, a grocer's delivery boy. Billie is expected to recover although both swallowed great quantities of smoke and were placed in an oxygen tent on admittance to hospital.

The fire broke out in a small storage room near the kitchen of the flat while the mother was shopping. Fire department inspectors are convinced the blaze started from the children playing with matches. Billie also suffered burns but not as serious as his brother.

When [illegible] had to w[illegible] still forms he handed them through a window to L. Renaud, a dairy company employee, while the mother was held back by firemen from entering the smoke-filled flat.

All Ontario Municipalities Hail Mill Tax Gift

Likely To Wipe Out Any Losses Following Income Tax Transfer

Means Gift Of $886,000 To Toronto, $164,165 Hamilton, $85,000 Windsor

TRUCKERS JOYOUS

Border City Area Sees End Of Amusement Tax Salvation Of Sport

TORONTO, Mar. 10—(CP)—Motorists, theatre goers and municipal officials welcomed the Ontario budget today with its lower motor licenses, removal of amusement tax and the subsidy of one mill in ratable assessment for all municipalities.

Saving of the municipalities through the one mill subsidy was the big feature of the budget, brought down in the legislature yesterday by Premier Mitchell Hepburn. Transfer of income tax revenues from municipalities to the government cut into finances in some cases but the one mill subsidy promises to wipe out any losses.

Ottawa will benefit by about $150,-000; 13 other Carleton county municipalities by about $13,000; Toronto $886,000; London $81,916; Guelph $14,000; Galt $11,100; St. Thomas $16,000; Hamilton $164,165; Windsor $85,000; North Bay $9,500; Woodstock $7,667.

Mayor H. K. Serviss of Galt said: "It looks as though the government was going out of their way to try to play the game with municipalities in the matter of refunds in lieu of the municipal income tax which the government now collects."

City Treasurer W. C. Miller of St. Thomas described the step as in the right direction because of appeals made by municipalities for relief from the taxation burden.

Woodstock might find it possible to reduce the tax rate from 40.5 to 38.9 mills, Mayor W. M. MacArthur said.

Aid to Property Owners.

"It certainly is a step in the right direction," Mayor William Morrison of Hamilton said. "Property owners will be helped out considerably by the government's decision."

He added it was unlikely the subsidy would be distributed among the citizens as a straight rebate on taxes. The mayor explained no allowance for old-age pensions or mothers' allowances was made in the budget at the start of the year as the city had depended on provincial grants out no funds will be available for this purpose until after April 1 so the city would have to utilize part of the subsidy or face an overdraft.

"Next year will be a bad year because our debenture payments fall due," he added. "We may, if the government permits, use part of the $164,165 to eliminate the possibility of an increased tax rate in 1938."

Mayor T. F. Kingsmill and other London officials had little comment, preferring to await learning leeway they would have in giving taxpayers full benefit.

COBOURG COUNCIL WILL ASK FRASER FOR EXPLANATION

Want Northumberland Member To Say Why Pier Grant Is Missing

MEMBERS PERTURBED

COBOURG, March 10.—Perturbed over the absence in the public works supplementary estimates of any appropriation for promised repairs to the east pier, Cobourg Town Council Monday night decided to interview W. A. Fraser, M.P. for Northumberland, to urge that this matter be taken care of and also to learn why there was nothing in the estimates to cover this. Although $72,-000 was supposed to be the cost of the east pier repairs, only $40,000 was set aside last year for this purpose.

The east pier reconstruction was an election promise which didn't materialize after the election and it was only after much pressure that any action in the way of a grant was taken. Even then the sum was only slightly more than half of what was expected. This month Cobourg was mentioned in the estimates as booked for $18,400 for dredging, $35,000 for an addition to the post office but nothing for the east pier.

Need $30,000 More

Councillor Harry McGuire brought up the matter of the east pier at Monday night's meeting when he enquired why there was nothing in the government estimates this year for the pier. Reeve L. Wilson replied that the grant had been made last year to which Councillor Jack Delanty pointed out that only $40,-000 was set aside for that job last year, in spite of the fact that it was to cost $70,000. At least $30,000 more was needed.

Councillor Delanty said that in his opinion $40,000 would not finish the east pier. W. A. Fraser, M.P., had said that it would come up in the supplementary estimates last year, which didn't happen and it was put through at the last minute. Mr. Fraser tried to get it through the original and then the supplementary estimates but was turned down.

Councillor McGuire felt that any local political influence existing should be put into operation. Reeve Wilson pointed out that the steel was down on the pier and the contract awarded for doing about 700 feet. Mayor Maurice Booth promised that he would see Mr. Fraser and

Cats-'o-Nine-Tails Popular In New York East Side Homes

Come In Three Sizes, Babies, Children's, 'Husbands' Delight' —To Keep The Wife In Line

GAS NEARLY ENDS MAKER

NEW YORK, March 10—(AP). — Rescue of a 70-year-old leather worker from death by gas fumes disclosed to-day that the manufacture of cat-o'-nine-tails—the whips whose history dates back to the earliest days of piracy on the high seas—continues as a small industry on New York's crowded lower east side.

Benjamin Schwartz, who except for the visit of a neighbor woman would have been a victim of gas from his own unlighted stove, makes the whips and sells them to tradesmen who peddle them to mothers and husbands of the crowded tenement section.

Originally a Rumanian peddler, Schwartz has been making the multi-thonged whips in his dimly lighted room for 15 years. Seemingly there has been no change in methods of child—or wife—discipline in that period, because business is still as good as it ever was.

Three Sizes.

Recommended for babies and very little children, Schwartz said, is the light model, with eight thin strips of leather bound to a wooden handle. A more popular size is the second with five bands of heavier leather.

The third size—his daughters explained it was generally used by husbands to keep their wives "in line"—was heavier and stronger than the other two. But, he said, it costs more.

The "whip man" is a familiar figure in east side streets, strolling along with a gross of the cat-o'-nine-tails over his shoulder, calling out in Jewish, Spanish or Italian "Five cents a cat-o'-nine-tails!" or "Five cents a little whip."

TOKYO, March 10—(AP)—Rin Fu Ki, 32-year-old Korean Buddhist priest, who is seven feet, nine inches tall and weighs 308 pounds, planned a trip to North America to-day to challenge other giants to an eating contest.

Reminded the United States has a man nine feet three inches tall, the ingesting priest retorted:

"But I am sure I can beat him because I can eat five times as much rice as a Japanese soldier."

DRIFTING TOWARD WAR.

NEW YORK, March 10 (A.P.)—Lord Davies of England, founder and president of the New Commonwealth Society, told the English-speaking Union here to-day that "there is no doubt that we are drifting toward a war as steadily and terribly then in comparison the last war may be regarded as child's play."

47 MILES OF ROAD IN KENORA AREA COST $2,409,762

Arthur Ellis Wrangles Hour Before Finding Out Cash Dufferin Firm Received

'NOT EXCESSIVE'--ROEBUCK

TORONTO, March 10—(CP). — Dufferin Paving and Construction Company, Toronto, received $2,409,-762.07 for construction of 47.8 miles of Trans-Canada Highway in Kenora constituency, R. M. Smith, Deputy Minister of Highways and Northern Development, told the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature to-day.

An hour and a half of wrangling, chiefly between Arthur Ellis (Cons., Ottawa South), James Clark (Lib., Windsor - Sandwich), committee chairman, and Attorney-General Arthur Roebuck ended when Mr. Ellis said all he was trying to find out what was the cost of the road.

"Well, now we're getting some place," said Mr. Roebuck. "If that is all you want to know, we'll tell you."

Mr. Smith sent to his department for the figures and this phase of Public Accounts committee inquiry ended.

Original contract to the Dufferin Paving Company was for construction of 32 miles of road. The price was $998,296.02. Before completion of the contract at the end of [illegible] stretches of 5.8 miles, 7 miles and 3 miles were added together with some bridge construction. Additions to the original contract which Mr. Roebuck said were provided for, brought the total payments to $2,-409,762.07 when the contract was completed.

"Not Excessive"

"That isn't an excessive amount," said Mr. Roebuck.

"Aw, now," said Mr. Ellis. "What kind of a road was it."

"A gravel road," said Mr. Smith.

To March 31, 1936 $14,226.50 was paid the Dufferin Company on an extension of contract for grading seven miles, Mr. Campbell said.

R. M. Smith, Deputy Minister of Highways and Deputy Minister of Northern Development, the latter since June 1, 1936, said he knew nothing of the contract made by the Northern Development Department before that date.

The Dufferin Company contract was completed about the first of 1937, he said.

Mr. Ellis asked witness to estimate the work done on the contract up to March 31, 1936, for which $1,677,497 was paid. Smith could not do this. He inspected the work July 1 last, and estimated about 80 per cent was done.

Mr. Ellis said what the Opposition wanted to know was the final cost of the work. Attorney-General Roebuck said the government would be happy to comply as the understanding the matter would be brought to a final conclusion.

Tillsonburg Loses $40,000 Flour Mill

Tillsonburg, March 10 (CP)

FIRE destroyed the flour mill of John Rock and son near here today at a loss of $40,-000. The mill, owned by the Rock family for more than half a century, had been operated about 100 years.

Fire broke out in an oil stove in the office and made such rapid headway on the frame structure that the Tillsonburg fire department's chemical truck was powerless to check the advance.

5 POLICE FORCES HUNT 4 ROBBERS OUTSIDE TORONTO

Gang Steal Aurora Lawyer's Car, Loot Nobleton Service Station

CHASE ENDS IN WRECK

TORONTO, March 10—(CP). — Police of Toronto and five suburbs combined to-day to capture four men in a stolen car who broke into a Nobleton service station 15 miles north of the city.

They escaped York Township police in a 70-mile-an-hour chase along the Woodbridge road and twice evaded police shots. Constable Banz Woodbridge, fired at the speeding car as it passed him. Constable Thomas Kane of King township attempted to fire at the men as they left the service station, but his gun jammed.

The robbers' car, stolen from Clifford Case, Aurora, Conservative candidate in the last Ontario election, hit a Hydro pole two miles outside the city and the occupants disappeared. Tobacco and other stolen goods were found in the abandoned car.

DANISH FREIGHTER BURNS AT BOSTON

Fire Tugs Win Battle To Save Waterfront By Hauling Hulk Midstream

BOSTON, March 10.—(AP)— A fierce blaze aboard the nitrate and sugar-laden Danish freighter Lalla —fanned by a series of explosions —finally was brought under control to-day after an active struggle by sea and land fire fighters to avert a menace to the Boston waterfront.

So hot was the blaze as the burning nitrate poured out a column of acrid black and yellow smoke that the ships forward plates buckled like tissue. Within an hour the entire forward part of the vessel was transformed into blackened hulk at the waterline.

Raising another and more serious explosion, four tugs finally managed to get lines aboard and hauled the ship into midstream, thereby checking the danger of flames spreading on to the crowded waterfront.

Longshoremen, who had been unloading the vessel reported that all 29 officers and men on board had escaped.

Tugs first to arrive at the scene towed other vessels in the vicinity to safety.

Nearly thirty explosions, successively more violent, shook the freighter and noise forced spectators back from the immediate danger zone.

MINISTER QUITS CLIMAXING DEAL WITH DOMINION

Australian Trade Official Proposes Business Given Canada Should Go To Foreigners

CABINET DIFFERS

Action Sensation Following Euler's Month Of Negotiations —Balance Too Lop-Sided

CANBERRA, March 10—(CP Cable)—Sir Henry Gullett, minister of trade resigned from the Australian cabinet today following differences of opinion with his colleagues over the position of trade negotiations with Canada.

Sir Henry expressed the view the cabinet should abandon negotiations with the Dominion, which he deemed unsatisfactory, and suggested there should be a diversion of Australia's import trade from Canada to foreign countries willing to negotiate treaties with Australia.

The cabinet declined to accept this proposal on the grounds it would damage Empire trade. Sir Henry then announced his resignation.

The minister's action created a political sensation in the Commonwealth. At first it was announced he had resigned for "personal reasons," and the cabinet members said they were sworn to secrecy.

Month of Negotiations.

Sir Henry's resignation followed by less than a week the departure from Canberra of Hon. W. D. Euler, Canadian minister of trade and commerce, who conducted negotiations extending over more than a month with the resigned minister.

At the time of Mr. Euler's sailing it was understood that the main objectives of the negotiators had not been achieved and that only minor concessions had been granted both ways.

The representatives of the sister Dominions encountered difficulties arising from the fact that trade between the two countries was so disproportionate that if the new agreement was to bring it nearer to balance it would have to incorporate concessions to Australia out of all proportion to the new concessions Canada might receive.

A Natural Balance.

Canada found it impossible to agree to concessions of such magnitude, it was understood. The Canadian argument was that the balance of trade is in Canada's favor was a natural one, largely because Canadian industry had developed to a point at which it was able to provide cheaply and efficiently a large range of manufactures which Australia required.

Mr. Euler also pointed out that some of the principal Australian exports—such as butter and cheese—were competitive with Canadian products and that therefore the scope of any increased quota for Australia in these goods was limited. The Canadian Minister also emphasized that the trade balance for the current year was likely to swing towards Australia owing to large purchases of Australian wool.

Before Mr. Euler's departure last Friday, he said the talks had been "quite successful," and that he would return to Ottawa to submit the results to the Dominion government.

No Light Is Thrown On Source Of Poison In Otonabee Mystery

What The Jury Found In Poison Tragedy

THE verdict as returned by the jury sitting under Coroner Dr. J. C. Smith here on Tuesday night, was as follows:

"From the sworn evidence submitted we find that Arthur Evans, the deceased, came to his death on January 12, 1937, about 7 o'clock p.m., at the residence of Samuel Stinson, Township of Otonabee, County of Peterborough.

"From the medical evidence and from the report of analysis of the stomach of the deceased by Dr. Joselyn Rogers, provincial analyst, we believe the deceased died from strychnine poisoning.

"We are unable to state how the poison was obtained, or whether given to him, or taken by the deceased".

TORONTO, March 10 (CP)—Attorney-General Arthur Roebuck today denied giving instructions to Police Chief W. J. Lannin, Sarnia, his men could not cross the street into another municipality to stop the commission of an offence.

Mr. Roebuck commented on remarks reported made by Lannin to the Sarnia police commission when asked why his men did not aid in suppressing a recent strike riot at [illegible] Chief Lannin was quoted.

"I have never talked to Chief Lannin," said Mr. Roebuck. "It is the height of absurdity. I never said a policeman couldn't cross the street. There may be some municipal limitations of which I know nothing but certainly they are not mine."

Mr. Roebuck said any public-spirited citizen could make an arrest to stop the committing or continuance of an offence.

1,200 Irishmen Busy Fighting Socialist Armies In Spain

Majority Smuggled Out Of Country By German Troopship At Night

SECOND SAILING SLIPS UP

By Ralph Deakin
(Canadian Press Correspondent.)

DUBLIN, March 10 (C.P.) — About 1,200 Irishmen are fighting in Spain, according to estimates made here on the coming into operation of the non-intervention pact, to which the Irish Free State is a party.

Nearly 1,000 are engaged with the insurgent forces in the neighborhood of Vaceres under General Eoin O'Duffy, the leader of the green-shirted Irish Fascist Party. The others are co-operating with the government armies under Frank Ryan, a former Republican journalist who abandoned the Irish Republican Army to found an organization of Communist tendencies known as the Republican Congress.

O'Duffy's followers are in the main young countrymen, a few just out of school, who believe they are fighting for the Catholic Church. There is a sprinkling of hard members of his party who saw service during the Great War or in the Irish Civil War in 1922. They are specialists in guerilla warfare.

Week-Ends In Jail For Accommodation

Albany, N.Y., March 10 (AP)

PERSONS convicted of misdemeanors in Rochester may serve jail sentences on successive week-ends in the future, Governor Lehman's signature on a legislative bill made such sentences legal today.

City Court Judge Jacob Glickman of Rochester proposed the legislation, asserting week-end sentences "enable the first offender, who might otherwise lose his job, to serve his time without harm to dependents."

10,000 OF MADRID'S YOUTHS MOBILIZED

Government Forced To Retreat To More Strategic Posts On Guadalajara Road

MADRID, March 10 (A.P.). — Between 10,000 and 12,000 newly mobilized youths trudged to their barracks at dawn to-day to join in defence of a capital threatened by a strong mechanized insurgent army from the north-east.

Withdrawal of government forces to more strategic positions along the Guadalajara-Zaragoza highway, above Guadalajara, was announced after reports the offensive had been halted about 60 miles north-east of Madrid.

(Advices to insurgent headquarters at Francos Generalissimo Francisco Franco's columns had swept forward 12 miles along the road to Madrid and were within 17 miles of the provincial capital, Guadalajara, or 49 miles from Madrid.)

Insurgent forces — characterized here as "Italian and Spanish" troops—apparently made a new effort to advance on Guadalajara or to veer toward Brihuega. Brihuega is about six miles south of the Guadalajara road and such a move would isolate the insurgents were trying to outflank Guadalajara.)

Between 14,000 and 16,000 Italians were reported by the government to be fighting for Franco in Guadalajara Province.

W. H. Moore Startles Commons By Voting With The Opposition

Ontario Member's Speech To-day Expected To Explain His Reason

RICKARD ENTERS DEBATE

Out-And-Out Free Trader Says Durham Liberal—County Fears No Competition

OTTAWA, March 10.—(CP). — William Henry Moore, Liberal member for the constituency of Ontario, economist and one time chairman of the Tariff Advisory Board, is scheduled to speak in the budget debate to-day and may tell the House why he voted in favor of an amendment that if carried would have caused resignation of the government, what policy by Agriculture Minister Gardiner, when debate opened on the main budget motion.

Mr. Bennett's amendment regretted that "the government has taken no effective measures to deal with the problem of unemployment." It was supported by all Conservative, C.C.F. and Social Credit members and by Mr. Moore. Against it were all the Liberals except Mr. Moore and A. W. Neil (Ind. Comox-Alberni).

The "bolting" of a party member on a question of policy or opinion might not cause a great sensation in Parliament, but the vote of a government supporter for a motion aimed at the very life of that government is rare and Mr. Moore's address is anticipated with considerable interest. He did not speak on the amendment.

Out For Free Trade

Free trade spokesmen had an innings in the House yesterday when W. E. Rickard (Lib. Durham) and J. T. Thorson (Lib. Selkirk) both advocated reduction of tariffs and predicted a free exchange of goods would benefit all branches of Canadian industry.

"I am an out and out free trader," Mr. Rickard said. "I believe it is always best to buy in the cheapest market."

Industries in Durham County were well-established and did not fear competition from outside. They believed it would be to their advantage to obtain the larger trade a free exchange of goods would bring about. The county was not greatly affected by unemployment but there were many young men and women leaving school who were unable to find suitable jobs and establish homes. He was confident the government's youth program would help them.

Mr. Thorson was questioned by Conservatives as to whether more people were employed in the textile industry in 1936 after five years of higher tariff than in 1930 and said he had no figures. He claimed, however, more people would be employed in industry if tariffs were reduced and cited the prevalence of unemployment during the Conservative term of office as evidence protection was not a cure for unemployment.

Against High Tariff

The protectionist point of view was represented by W. A. Walsh (Cons. Montreal-Mount Royal) who said he was not in favor of high

CHURCH DEMANDS HEAVIER PENALTIES IN ROAD OFFENCES

Claims Canada Far Behind Britain, U.S. In Prevention Of Highway Fatalities

BILL IS TALKED OUT

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP) — "Everybody seems to have the speed fever except the House of Commons and the Senate," T. L. Church, Conservative member for Toronto-Broadview, said in the House last night as he urged more drastic punishment for highway offences.

A promise of careful consideration of Mr. Church's bill to amend the criminal code came from Justice Minister Lapointe. The measure, however, was talked out and did not receive second reading.

It would provide increased penalties for driving motor cars "under the influence of alcohol or any narcotic" instead of the former description "while intoxicated or under the influence of any narcotic," stiffening other sections of the code dealing with highway accidents, provide for women jurors at trials of women and for admission of representatives of the press at executions.

Canada was far behind Britain and the United States in laws for prevention of highway fatalities, Mr. Church said. He himself had brought the subject up at two sessions but had been unable to obtain action.

Some said accidents were inevitable, said Mr. Church, that they were due to the modern craze for speed. If this was the case he wished parliament would get a little of the craze in dealing with law reform.

Two Leaders Favor It

Support for the bill came from Conservative leader Bennett and J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader. If the penalty for drunken driving were fixed as proposed in Mr. Church's bill, said Mr. Bennett, it would go a long way toward ending early in the morning. On the afternoon of the same day he reburied the body, he said.

Dr. Robert F. Nott who stated he was acting M.O.H. for Otonabee township during January testified, "I was called by telephone by H. L. Sackville, branch manager of The Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company. He said that speaking for himself and Mr. Evans he wanted the body of Arthur Evans exhumed to determine the cause of death.

"Did you report the matter to the coroner," he was asked by the Crown Attorney.

"No, I did not," Dr. Nott admitted.

Kenneth Hogg, assistant at D. Bellegham and Sons said that on January 27 last, the body of Arthur Evans was brought in by Mather of Keene and rested in Bellegham's morgue from about 10 o'clock a.m. until after the lunch hour when the autopsy was completed. The body was then removed by Mr. Mather.

Assisted In Autopsy

A former coroner for the county, Dr. T. W. H. Young testified that he assisted his son Dr. Herbert N. Young in the performance of a post mortem examination of the remains of Arthur Evans at Bellegham's morgue on the day in question. Dr. H. V. Dobson was present in the interests of the insurance company, he said, but did not take part in the actual performance of the post mortem.

The purpose of the post mortem, Dr. Young declared, was to determine if Evans had died as the result of an accident. "We made a thorough autopsy and then sent to Dr. C. B. Walte at the provincial laboratory here the kidneys, spleen and certain other organs. The stomach was sent to the provincial analyst at Toronto for analysis."

In reply to the Crown Attorney, Dr. Young declared all the organs of the body were perfectly healthy and there were no injuries that would have caused death. The general condition indicated the body had been that of a young man between the ages of 20 and 30 years in a good state of health.

He further stated there was no indication of influenza or pneumonia. "The lungs were all right, and the heart healthy."

"On whose authority did you make this autopsy," he was asked.

"I think it was Dr. Herbert Young asked me to assist," was the reply.

First Knowledge

Dr. Herbert Young, coroner for the County of Peterborough testified the matter first came to his attention when Dr. Devlin of Indian River and the father of the young man came to his office and informed him of particulars in connection with the death.

"Mr. Sackville, manager of the insurance agency phoned me while they were in my office and said he was coming over. He intimated there was a double indemnity policy and that it was thought the boy had met his death as the result of an accident. The doctors knew the boy had been found at the foot of a ladder in the hay mow but the company wanted additional proof," the witness remarked. He added he had nothing to do with the exhumation of the body.

Relative to the autopsy he performed in conjunction with his father, Dr. Young declared, "We did not find any circumstances that might have caused death. There was no sign of a skull fracture or of internal haemmorhage. All the organs were quite healthy."

Dr. Young deposed that the stomach was taken to the provincial laboratory here by Dr. Dobson who was present at the autopsy. Certain other organs had previously been taken to the laboratory.

Did Not Reveal Cause

Dr. H. V. Dobson who declared he was present at the autopsy merely as an observer gave it as his opinion, "the autopsy as performed here did not reveal the cause of death."

Head of the provincial laboratory here, Dr. C. B. Walte, pathologist, said that a stomach and certain other organs were brought in for examination on January 27 last. He said he kept the stomach and Dr. Dobson later took it away.

Witness said he made an examination of the brain, lungs, heart and kidneys and found nothing that would cause death. All the organs were healthy. There was no evidence of disease or injury.

Recalled Dr. Dobson said he had attended the autopsy as observer for Dr. Cruickshank, chief medical officer of The Manufacturers Life Insurance Company at Toronto.

"At the close of the autopsy I conferred with him by long distance telephone and gave him a written report and asked Dr. Cruickshank what he wished further," witness said.

Dr. Dobson proceeded that Dr. Cruickshank later called him by 'phone and asked if witness would send the stomach to Dr. Joselyn Rogers for analysis.

A Pointed Question

Crown Attorney — "And all this was done without reference to the Coroner of this county?"

"Dr. Young was a coroner and I thought he would say 'you can either have the stomach or you cannot'," the medical witness replied.

"So you were acting solely on the authority of Dr. Cruickshank, a medical adviser for the insurance company," Mr. McElderry suggested.

"Yes."

Dr. Dobson recalled that the stomach was forwarded by Canadian National Express in a special receptacle two days after the post mortem examination was undertaken. It had been at the provincial laboratory in the meantime.

Dr. Joselyn Rogers, who described himself as chemist in charge of the Department of Analytical Chemistry at University of Toronto and declared he had been connected with the Attorney-General's Department for a great number of years, said he made a chemical analysis of the stomach that he received from Dr. Dobson. There was a covering letter from Dr. Dobson in which he asked witness to make a report of his finding to Dr. Cruickshank.

Recovered Strychnine

Giving the court the results of the chemical analysis he made, Dr. Rogers stated, "I recovered half a grain of strychnine from the stomach contents." He was unable to state in what form the strychnine had been taken into the stomach.

Judging by the amount of strychnine recovered, Dr. Rogers believed it probable that the man had at least 2 grains of strychnine. It may have been more. He said one half to 2 grains of strychnine is a fatal dose depending on the physical condition of a person and other conditions.

Dr. Rogers said that death from strychnine poisoning would ensue within thirty-five minutes to two hours depending on the variable conditions.

In the stomach which he examined, he declared, there was half a pound of material. He described it as being a relatively large amount, and believed it indicated the man had taken of a hearty meal within a few hours prior to his death.

Discusses Symptoms.

"For a normal healthy young man one grain of strychnin would be quite likely to cause death," Dr. Rogers discussed some of the characteristic symptoms of strychnine poisoning and said one of the outstanding symptoms was a peculiar type of convulsions. "The convulsions are induced by any noise or touching of the body. The convulsions are such that the muscles of the body are drawn up as though an electric shock had passed through the body. Frequently the patient will arch backwards."

In view of the pathological findings," Dr. Rogers asserted, "there is no other conclusion than that Arthur Evans' death was caused by strychnine poison. The poison could not have been taken in any medicinal dose."

Questioned by the Crown as to the possibility of an unidentifiable substance in the stomach contents having been rat poisoning or something of a similar nature, Dr. Rogers said there was nothing in the stomach that gave any clue as to form in which the poison was taken.

The Crown Attorney suggested the possibility of the poison having reached the stomach from the embalming fluid, but Dr. Rogers did not entertain the idea. He had examined embalming fluid for years, he said, and has never found any strychnine in it.

Mervin Mather recalled in the witness box, said he had believed that Evans died in a convulsive spasm. The body was all drawn up and the hands were clenched.

Father Recalled.

Andrew Evans recalled to the box described the movements on the day of the tragic death of his son, and said that Arthur had been up at the other farm doing the chores.

Witness declared that after having been to Peterborough and Indian River he went up to the other farm and there found his son Arthur in bed at the Stinson's house. His drinks and hot water bottles had been supplied.

He said that prior to January 12 "Arthur's health was fairly good." His son was not strong in a sense, he seemed to witness as if he had a weak heart. He was not as rugged as the rest of the family, and had undergone an operation for rupture in December, 1936.

Mr. McElderry—Did he have infirmities on the morning of January 12?

"Two days before that Mrs. Evans thought he was not well and told Arthur he should stay in. We thought he was getting a cold," witness said.

Questioned as to what Arthur had said, when he was being given treatments at the Stinson house, Mr. Evans replied, "I asked what happened Arthur? Did you fall out of the mow. He said 'yes' and asked for water."

Witness believed his son had fallen out of the mow because Mr. Stinson had said he found him under the mow.

"Who was there when you asked him if he had fallen out of the mow?" Mr. McElderry queried.

"Dr. Devlin was present and I believe Mr. Stinson was there."

"From the time you arrived at the house I want you to tell me all that Arthur said to you," Mr. McElderry demanded.

"He said nothing until Dr. Devlin arrived. I asked him did you fall out of the mow, and he said 'yes'."

Mr. McElderry—Did he say anything else?

Suicide Suggested.

"I think he said 'suicide.' Dr. Devlin repeated it and said 'you never committed suicide'."

"Was it clear and distinct or was it mumbling?" Mr. McElderry pursued.

"It was mumbling. The words were not coming distinctly. Dr. Devlin repeated it."

Mr. Evans said he could give no reason why Arthur should take poison or why anyone should induce him to take it. He knew of no enemies that his son might have had.

Questioned as to what poisons he had around either of the two farms, Mr. Evans said there was a preparation in the barn where his son had been working that was marked "poison." It was a worm preparation for pigs.

He had not called it to the attention of provincial police, he said, "because I never thought of it before."

Mr. Evans further stated there was a preparation around the farm used for the treatment of grain smut. He said he had no strychnine around the place, although he recalled that three or four years ago he did buy some to kill rats and crows. He believed he purchased the strychnine around June three or four years ago. He signed for it in his own name, he said.

He used a greater part of the strychnine that was contained in a small bottle for the killing of rats and crows and then gave the remainder to Lorne Braden, a neighbor, for the same purpose.

"How do you account for the strychnine that was found in Arthur's stomach?"

"I can't explain it," Mr. Evans replied.

Mr. Evans said his son had not been despondent, but on the contrary was of a very bright disposition.

"Why do you think he mentioned the word suicide when he was in ecstasis," the Crown asked.

"I don't know."

Mr. Evans related that five or six years ago he insured his son's life. The policy in the Manufacturer's Life was for $1,000 double indemnity. Mrs. Evans was named as beneficiary.

As a result of a discussion he had with the insurance agent after his son's death, Mr. Evans said, the company officials at Peterborough thought they would like to have an autopsy.

"The post mortem examination was performed for the further benefit of the beneficiary under the policy," Mr. McElderry suggested.

Witness did not reply.

"It was performed," Mr. McElderry said, "so that the beneficiary would get $2,000 instead of $1,000."

Witness was not heard to reply.

Mother and Sister Testify

Mrs. Louise Evans, mother of Arthur Evans, and Ruth Evans, a sister of the dead young farmer, both described Arthur as being a young man with a very happy disposition. They know of no reason why he should take his own life. Could not suggest any reason for anyone having wished to take his life, and could offer no clue as to where the poison might have been obtained. They corroborated the evidence of Mr. Evans concerning the purchase of strychnine some time ago for the killing of rats and crows.

Mrs. Evans said that on the morning of his death, "Arthur got up earlier than usual and said he was feeling a lot better in readiness for a

A paper on the Expense Fund and United Pledge Fund was given by Mrs. L. R. Groombridge. Later, refreshments were served by Miss E. Clements and her committee.

THE BLACK CAT

This cat, when we met it, was trying to get into the front door of the Young Men's Christian Association. We found out afterwards that it has a habit of trying to get into the "Y" (perhaps a re-incarnation of a former member). We weren't acquainted with the cat, but that didn't make any difference to it. It was one of those sociable felines that comes and winds itself silkily around your legs and emits faint cries of distress. We've always had a weak spot for cats, anyway, and used to have a habit of speaking to any strays on the street, until we found they invariably trotted after us and seemed quite pleased to go along our way and live with us the rest of their lives.

But there was something seeming about this particular cat. It had an appearance of being a household pet, a big shiny black Persian sort of way, with a perfect plume of a tail, not a white spot anywhere, even on its chest, and big green eyes that were friendly and not hard, like some of them you meet up with. Besides, it took a notion to us, which seemed like a sign of a very intelligent animal, and it stood up against the glass of the door and meowed plaintively on an off key. So we let it in. The matter might have ended there and we could have resumed our walk to business if the cat hadn't suddenly gone haywire and acted as if it never saw the place before. Which just goes to show that no one should be deceived by feline actions.

We asked the young man behind the counter (two strange young men were there in fact) if they owned a cat and they replied in a firm negative which seemed to convey the idea that they really couldn't consider for a minute the harboring of one, if we should take a notion to go off and leave it on their hands. Gazing at the cat, which began to look very excited, we had a bright idea. We imagined it was the very spit and image of a cat we had rescued one cold night when it tried to get in a locked grocery store and we took it to the man next door who obligingly dumped it into his basement for the night (No, we don't spend all our time in looking after stray feline animals).

Back Again

So we made our way awkwardly down George street with several pounds of squirming fur grasped firmly in our arms. Men at work on excavations nearly frightened it out of our arms, but we held on grimly. By this time we were determined to do something about it. Questioned later as to why we didn't leave the thing at the Y.M.C.A. and let it return to its home, we could only argue feebly that it was such a pretty cat we couldn't bear to, which doesn't seem like an adequate reason.

Anyway, we took the cat into this store, and the proprietor remarked, "Yes, that's ...." Relieved, we put the cat down. But the affair was not yet over. Seeing the animal on the hoof, the gentleman decided it wasn't his after all, and essayed to shoo it out from behind a counter where it was investigating some packaged goods. He was unsuccessful. Emerging, he remarked coldly and reproachfully: "That's a vicious animal. It showed its teeth at me." The clerk behind the counter and the proprietor, the latter manifestly annoyed over the intrusion of a female customer, were kind enough to telephone Dr. Thomas Johnston to come for the cat. But in the meantime, it had to be housed safely. So an empty cell was requisitioned, and there, escorted by two policemen, we deposited the cat, the weary-looking gentleman in the next cell who observed our passing by evidently thinking that this dame had to bring her pet with her when she got pinched.

Pinched For Vagrancy

The big black cat sat in the middle of the cell while two heavy and good-natured officers, fearing that it would escape through the bars, took the cell out and upending it, placed it inside the door as a barrier. Little plaintive cries from the cat indicated a certain mild affliction at the proceedings. (And indeed, what would a re-incarnated Y.M.C.A. member want in a police cell?)

So, departing with a backward glance at the pretty big furry thing, we at last reached the office, where a fellow-member at once offered to adopt the stray if no owner came to claim it. Later, the kindly Humane Society inspector had taken the animal to his home "for we might need the cell tonight, you never know," as the police officers assured us. Its owner retrieved it with relief. But that was after we had done considerable telephoning to other ladies who might be possible owners. One of them mentioned a man who had a cat, but he assured us when we described its Persian appearance, that his cat was of pure alley variety!

And it was at the noon hour, before the animal was reclaimed, when we were doing some animated telephoning in a continued effort to find the owner, that we turned around to discover that a listening man, waiting with a report for the paper, was the same clerk who had been in the store where the cat was an unwelcome visitor that morning. He said nothing. Neither did we. We knew just what he was thinking about a certain dizzy dame.—C.L.M.

GENERALIZATIONS ON SEX FADING OUT

Canadian Authoress Says Women No Longer Regarded As Creatures Of Moods

OTTAWA, March 10 (C.P.). — "Generalizations on the subject of sex are going out," Nellie McClung, widely known Canadian authoress, said in an interview to-day. Such phrases as "so like a woman" and "the eternal mystery of woman" are heard less frequently in these days, she said.

"If women have accomplished anything by emancipation it is to be regarded as human beings, not as creatures of moods, whose actions will always be baffling and beyond understanding to mere man. Some of the stupidest women have built up a reputation of mystery and cleverness on just such a theory."

She believed, nevertheless, that Canada with its pioneer background offers a great field for writers, and is enthusiastic about the crop of young writers she believes Canada is producing to-day.

Just Between Us Women

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors, Conducted by Roberta

CULTIVATE the thankful spirit. It will be to thee a perpetual feast. There is, or ought to be, with us no such thing as small mercies, all are great because the least are undeserved. Indeed, a really thankful heart will extract motive for gratitude from everything.

—J. R. MacDuff.

Dear Friends:

Have you a thankful spirit? I remember an old lady who was almost blind, besides being bed-ridden for years, and it was amazing to hear her express thankfulness for the smallest things. If she could turn in bed without having to get help, such a smile would come over her face and you would see her lips move in a silent prayer of thankfulness.

Her hands became stiff, and after the doctor had shown her how to keep moving them and rubbing them to supple them up, she would be so pleased when she saw she could manipulate them enough to turn the pages of her favorite newspaper.

Her bible, and her newspaper were the main things she read, and it was surprising how keen her intellect was, and how grateful she was that it was her body that was sick, and not her brain. It was also amazing how well she understood what was going on in the world, but she always gave the credit for that to the editor of her paper, for making it possible for her to know so much.

She could give you pointers on what the current fashions were, what would be a good dish to have for supper, and a host of other things, all culled from her newspaper, and she used to tell us how thankful we should be, for they did not have them when she was young.

She had never learned to read in her youth, for it was not compulsory then, but the Victorian Nurse helped out by the youngsters, taught her how to read and write, and her thankfulness was a joy to behold, for there opened a new world to her.

Her son who was in the Foreign Legion wrote long letters to her, sent her money, and described the places he had permission to, so that she used to feel as if she had gone adventuring right in her own bed.

Can you see her? A little old lady, without the power to leave her bed, and yet getting so much pleasure out of the smallest things, and being so thankful about it, all. And we with all the power of movements, with no pains or aches, moaning and grumbling because some little thing went wrong, never being thankful for all our blessings in any way.

And when it came my turn to be laid aside for a couple of years, she sent me word that I would manage to go through it, for she had blessed me for helping her to read and write. And when people praised me for my patience under suffering, I gave the credit to my little lady, who died when I was in bed, but who sent another message that it wouldn't hurt me so much this way, as I would always remember her as I had seen her.

So look around and see how many things you have to be thankful for, your eyesight, your hearing, the work your hands can do, the feet that carry you where you will, your relatives and friends (even your relatives even although they may be aggravating sometimes), your nice home, the food you eat, and all the things of beauty in this world of ours.

Only by a spirit of thankfulness can you ever be able to appreciate anything, and only by the lack of it, will it be more likely to be taken from you, for why should all these blessings be left with you, if you have no thankfulness for them?

And every day, I find something I am truly grateful for, even in the midst of trouble. Glad I am no worse, glad when my friends come to see me, or when they write, or 'phone, or show me special kindnesses. Glad to see the sun rise, and to feel that my Father loves me, all unworthy though I am. Feeling thankful? Keep it up, for it brings grand returns.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Not Hard to Take

Premier Hepburn has done something new, and the province will now pay to all incorporated municipalities an amount equal to one mill on the dollar for rateable assessment for general municipal purposes. It is also stipulated the payment from the province shall be so used that it will result in a reduction of one mill in the tax rate.

It is a reversal from former procedure. For a number of years the provincial government have been creating new methods of expenditure and then telling the municipalities how much they would have to pay to support them. That has resulted in a good many requests being made that municipalities should have a share of such revenue as the tax on gasoline, etc.

In Peterborough a mill on the tax rate means $21,400, and there may be some little obstacle to overcome in making the new source of revenue applicable to the 1937 tax rate. The rate has already been struck in this city and the bylaw for that purpose passed. We do not believe the citizens will raise any objection if there is some more striking of the tax rate done so the amount to be received from the province can be made effective at once. Our laws and bylaws are hardly as unyielding as those of the Medes and Persians. The purpose of the provincial government is plainly that some measure of relief should be granted to the ratepayers, and the welcome effects of such relief should be made effective at once.

The Chief Walked

Municipal council of St. Thomas decided to cut off an allowance of $200 per year for car allowance which had formerly been paid to the Chief of the fire department. There have been years when the allowance has been paid; there have been other and leaner years when it has been suspended. This is one of them.

When the fire chief was at home on Sunday an alarm was turned in from a house a mile off, and the chief started to walk. He arrived a good 25 minutes after the alarm was sent, but meantime the firemen had the situation in hand, and the chief was in time to get a ride back to the fire hall on the department's equipment.

It seems a picayune point to squabble over. A fire chief is often of more use outside the fire hall than in it, especially if he is attending to the inspection of buildings and finding out the fire traps in his community. If an alarm comes then he should be at the scene of the fire as quickly as possible. That is his business and it is the business of the municipality to see that he gets there. The firemen are not burning up their own gas and oil when going to the fire, and we can see no good reason why the chief should be called upon to do so.

Some Much-Used Words

The Brantford Expositor warms up once more the old warning to cub reporters and others to depart from the "very habit." It was the late Arthur Brisbane we believe who was always at war with that word. He came to the conclusion it should never be used, but there are occasions when the adverb can serve a fairly good purpose. The Expositor objects to everything being called "very" beautiful or "very" interesting or "very" surprising. Another word which Brantford scorns upon is "splendid." A splendid concert, a splendid lecture or a splendid story. Splendid means brilliant or magnificent, and few events merit such rating.

One of the great offenders is the plain word "that," and the offence comes in using it in places where it is not needed. There has been a clipping on the desk here several days and the Brantford article touches it into print. A man who had been riding on a railway train went over a spot where there was an accident shortly after. He is reported as having said:

> "We passed over the spot not half an hour before. There was nothing that showed that anything was wrong. The trainman said that the track was regularly patrolled. It seems that in the short time in between that the water had cut in under the track."

In short space the word "that" comes in five times, and it could have been written more effectively without using the word "that" at all. The second sentence is clumsy and could be rewritten in a number of ways. The third sentence is where the usual fault takes place: "The trainman said that the track was regularly patrolled." The word "that" adds nothing to the sentence, and it is better: "The trainman said the track was regularly patrolled." In the last sentence "that is not needed although twice used.

We do not know of a more frequent error than the continued use of "that," and it keeps on bobbing up at all times. There are few writers even with long experience who cannot go over their copy before sending it to the composing room and eliminate "that" several times. Apart from the frequency of its use "that" is often used when "which" would be the proper word.

Mental Age of People

Mrs. M. Bower Hopkinson has brought action against Premier Aberhart of Alberta in County Court at Vancouver to secure $500 in wages. John L. Loveseth is also seeking for $625 wages as Mr. Aberhart's personal representative in British Columbia in connection with the Social Credit party.

During the hearing of the evidence Mrs. Hopkinson related that Premier Aberhart had recommended dealing with the public "remembering that the average mentality was that of a 13-year-old child."

And that view is about as interesting as anything which will come out in the trial, and there would be a good many answers if that question were put to the general public: What is the average mental age?

We recall hearing the advertising manager of a large department store say he had difficulty in keeping his copy writers impressed with the fact they must keep their material down to appeal to people with a 17-year-old mind. He considered that to be the limit. We doubt if the moving picture industry is built on an appeal which reaches that mental age. Certainly it does not exceed it.

It is no reflection on mature mentality to say that average mentality does not exceed 17 years. It simply means that people who are appealing to the public in any way should avoid words and phrases and illustrations which the younger mind would not grasp or appreciate. Bunyon's Pilgrim's Progress is an example of plain but simple writing. In the New Testament all the parables used by the Master are recorded in words which readers can understand without looking in a dictionary.

Premier Aberhart may have indulged in a little overblown rhetoric when he placed mental age at 13 years. We think he placed it too low, but we believe that for mass appeal it cannot with safety be placed above 17 years.

Aha! The Women Did It!

There are days when it seems to us things in general are improving. Take, for example, this depression business. For a good many months which stretched themselves into not a few years we tried to find out what it was all about; we yearned to know just where it had started and who was to blame for it. Men who are wise in learning and profound in their methods of explanation told all about it; economists and financiers joined forces in doing more explaining, and yet it was never made clear. Some person, some force, some peculiar set of circumstances were blamed, but never were we able to distinguish them with clarity. We found charts and great columns of statistics difficult to digest. We read or listened to discourses on over-production and under-consumption, about machines taking the work away from people, of tariffs which held back the natural flow of trade, and of the selfishness of human beings in general.

But now it is becoming plain. Professor Norman Wentworth Dewitt of Victoria College told the Board of Trade the depression started because women were caught up in a craze for reducing their weight. Slimming is the phrase used in the Old Land to convey the same idea. There are on the North American continent 26,000,000 women of the age to which reducing makes its appeal, and if each of this great number succeeded in taking off 20 pounds that would make a grand total of 520,000,000 pounds. If the slim woman were to weigh 100 pounds that would be the equivalent to doing away with 5,200,000 women.

We do not know if there are any tables to show how many pounds of food stuff it takes to produce a pound of a human being. They used to work things out quite definitely when it came to producing bacon hogs, and the rule was it took between four and five pounds of feed to produce a pound of finished hog at the age of six months.

If these 26,000,000 people had eaten more instead of less then there would have been a steady inroad made upon the mountains of wheat which became piled and clogged in our elevators. Instead of having too much wheat we would have had too little. It would have taken more yardage too to make raiment for plump women. As they walked about their homes or sat upon chairs or rested upon beds there would have been more wear and tear and consequently a more urgent call for repairs or for new furnishings and equipment.

Strange that no person ever thought of blaming the reducing women for the depression. But of course a professor is supposed to dig deep and then come romping out with suggestive facts to which the rest of us had never before given a thought. Otherwise there would be no use having professors.

There Are Few Eye-Witnesses

Five years ago on March 1 the killing of the infant son of Col. Charles Lindbergh was recorded and the fifth anniversary we noticed a letter in one of the U. S. exchanges dealing with the subject. We quote:

> "Nothing has ever been done to clear up that situation, and the man accused of the crime was convicted on circumstantial evidence alone."

That plea about circumstantial evidence was repeated several times in the letter, and it may be some people would be impressed by it. When Robinson Crusoe saw footprints on his island he knew some one had been there. It was circumstantial evidence and no doubt he would have preferred that to any other kind. A man and his wife go out to spend the evening at the house of a friend. During the evening the husband and a friend step into another room. When it comes time to go home the husband is not in a fit condition to drive the car because he's drunk. The wife drives home because she thinks it is safer. The husband claims it must have been something he ate; the wife says it was something he drank. The husband was an eye-witness to all that took place in the room, and his wife bases her belief on circumstantial evidence, and she is correct.

There was a famous case in United States in 1859 when Professor Webster of Harvard University was found guilty of murdering his creditor, Dr. Parkman. The only evidence was the finding of Dr. Parkman's false teeth in the furnace of Prof. Webster's house. There was an outcry about circumstantial evidence, but it quieted down when Prof. Webster confessed.

Seven relatives and friends of Sarah Jane Robinson of Massachusetts died of strychnine poisoning, and in each case Sarah Jane profited financially. There were no eye-witnesses, but this Robinson person was found guilty. Nor was there much of a case against the famous Dr. Crippen apart from the fact that under an assumed name he fled across the sea with his typist who was dressed as a boy. True he left some fragments of his wife in the cellar at home, and he had purchased hyoscin a short time before. But no person saw him murder his wife, but Crippen was legally executed.

It is also a fact that people contemplating murder do not go into a room where friends and members of the family are present and there administer a dose of poison, nor does a man who intends to use a gun call at the town office beforehand and take the mayor and alderman with him as witnesses. In few criminal cases on record has there ever been an eye-witness. Piecing together the circumstances provides a more certain method of establishing guilt, and criminologists are agreed on that point.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The British labor party's program promises to remove the causes of war. That is a high-sounding pledge but it is weakened by the fact there is no explanation of how the trick will be done.

The official government film of the unveiling of the Vimy memorial will be released soon. Seeing that it was taken only last summer that seems to be a decidedly rapid record for a government department.

The Toronto council of the League against war and fascism has declared a boycott of German goods. It will be interesting to note how faithfully the edict is followed when the prices are in favor of the Nazi article.

Premier Hepburn has promised the services of the provincial police will be available to municipalities called upon to deal with sit-down strikers. The motion does not seem to have been seconded by the Attorney General, however.

A Missouri man is reported to have worn the same pair of trousers for 25 years. When the story said he was a farmer we thought we could understand the thing but when it added that he was a fiddler we had to give it up.

The Home Improvement Plan means taking men off the relief rolls and putting them on the pay rolls as Ald. Dutton has well pointed out. If the campaign does nothing more than that it will have been justified a dozen times over.

New York marine biologist says that sharks can be frightened off by looking them in the eye and waving one's arms at them. Still we imagine there is always a chance of meeting one of those pirates of the seas who is ignorant of the traffic signs.

CHEERFUL

(By S. B. E.)

¶ I like to see old Doctor Hack, when I am flat upon my back, my spine tied in a knot; when I feel cold about the knees, and when I start to choke and wheeze, when I feel cold and hot.

¶ I've had some sawbones in my shack, but none just like old Doctor Hack, I'm better when he's near; the others look so grave at me, I'm scared as any man could be, they fill me up with fear.

¶ But Doctor Hack just breezes in, and pokes me in the ribs and chin, he is a goodly size; he does not diet much himself, but seems stoked full of vim and health, he dotes on cakes and pies.

¶ He spreads the mustard on my frame, nor calls it by some fancy name, he quickly checks my chill; he puts his trumpet on my lung, and gazes somewhat at my tongue, and leaves for me a pill.

¶ He talks of liver and of spleen, and lots of things I've never seen, and tells me what to do; he says that in a day or so, I'll be set up to move and go, I'll be as good as new.

¶ That's why I like old Doctor Hack, when I get pains in front or back, when I feel awful sore; he never says that I may die, but when a day or so gets by—I'll rise and do my chore.

Our Statesmen At Their Labors

(From Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. WOODSWORTH: Mr. Chairman, on a point of order. The Minister of Justice said that in expressing ourselves as we had done we made statements which we knew not to be true.

Some hon. MEMBERS: No.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: Which we knew to be wrong. I say that statement must be withdrawn.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): I say that they knew these estimates are not for outside intervention but for the defence of Canada.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: We do not know that.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Order.

The CHAIRMAN: The point of order of the hon. member for Winnipeg North Centre (Mr. Woodsworth) in my opinion is not well taken.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: Mr. Chairman, I appeal against your ruling. I have never allowed anyone to say that my motives were wrong, that I knew anything which I did not know. I appeal against the ruling.

Mr. CLEAVER: But you will accept any member of the government of that.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): If my hon. friend wants to speak, I have the floor.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: I have appealed against the chairman's ruling.

An hon. MEMBER: Put it in writing, according to the rules of the house.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: I have the right to appeal.

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): But your appeal must be in writing.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: That has not been the practice of this house. I am willing to put it in writing, but in the meantime I say that has not been the practice.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): Does my hon. friend want me to write it for him?

Mr. WOODSWORTH: No. But I have been in this house for a good many years and I have never seen a member compelled to stop to do that.

The CHAIRMAN: The hon. member for Winnipeg North Centre will be good enough to put his appeal against the ruling of the chair in writing, and present it to the table.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: I know of no such rule. Perhaps the chairman will show me the rule. It is not the practice of the house. I submit we ought not to make a certain rule in one case and another rule in another case.

Mr. POULIOT: Mr. Chairman, speaking to the point of order, during the twelve years I have been a member I have never seen a motion which was not in writing. If the hon. member for Winnipeg North Centre moves to appeal from your decision, he must put it in writing, in order that Mr. Speaker may take cognisance of his complaint. That seems clear and official, and there is nothing now before the chair. Mr. Chairman, you are ready to submit to Mr. Speaker the complaint of the hon. member for Winnipeg North [illegible]

An hon. MEMBER: It is six o'clock.

At six o'clock the speaker resumed the chair and the house took recess.

SHAKESPEARE POPULAR.

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE wrote a lot of plays which are not only living today but will probably be played to the end of time. Nobody ever alleges that they "date." They are in a class apart for beauty of language and human interest. Shakespeare died a poor man. He never spent much on his productions because for one reason he never had much to spend.

Recently John Gielgud, an English actor, presented "Hamlet" on Broadway for 132 consecutive performances, which is the longest run that drama ever had in the United States. The gross receipts were nearly $400,000. Another British actor opened on Broadway two or three weeks ago with the rarely played "Richard II," and it is packing the house eight times a week, with as many as 250 people raring for standing room. Both of these dramas will have yielded far more than Shakespeare ever received for his entire output.

APPRECIATIVE

Editor Examiner:

Sir: I noticed a letter published in by a Mr. Charles Lambert, criticizing D. F. Ferguson, chairman of the United Workers Club. One of the remarks made by Mr. Lambert was to the effect that he had failed to gain any knowledge as to the club's membership and their activities, which occasioned no surprise to me, seeing that I am fully acquainted with the fact that all members of the United Workers Club work quietly and secretly, for the betterment of all workers and the community as a whole. I am not ashamed to confess that I and my family have enjoyed the club's valuable assistance at a time when it was sorely needed and in view of this let me wish Mr. Ferguson and his committee every success in their effort to improve matters for their less fortunate brethren. In closing I wish to state that I, for one, deeply appreciate the assistance received from Mr. Ferguson and his co-helpers.

A WORD FOR THE CHIEF

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Kindly allow me a space in your valuable paper with reference to attacks made by Ald. Stocker against our chief of police, Sam. Newhall, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia and influenza. He spoke about the time he puts in at the station and the money he receives. I was very much surprised at the wages he received. A man of Sam. Newhall's calibre is worth more and it would be hard to find a man with the first class experience he has to take his place. It would be impossible for Ald. Stocker to do it. He would last only a short time at it.

This Really Happened.

(By Harry Moore, in the Trenton Courier-Advocate.)

HERE is a story that probably never saw print before and it is authentic in every particular. We heard about it several years ago but it was only this week that we secured the missing details from a resident of the Tyendinaga Reserve near Deseronto.

Some one hundred and fifty odd years ago, a small band of Mohawk Indians paddled up the St. Lawrence and entered the Bay of Quinte at the Gap. The party was headed by Capt. John Deserontyou, after whom Deseronto was named. The original party was under the joint leadership of Deserontyou and Capt. Joseph Brant (Thayendinaga) but a difference of opinion split the party and Brant went on to the head of Lake Ontario to what was later to become the Brantford reserve.

Deserontyou's party in time reached the north shore of the Bay of [illegible] point about a mile west of De[illegible] said they offered [illegible] for having made [illegible] successfully.

On [illegible] the new home for the Mohawks had been purchased by the government of the country from the Mississaugas who were given lands in the Rice Lake area).

So far this story is historical, and perhaps as correct as it is possible to make it. But here is where the story of the coming of the Mohawks takes an odd twist.

The Indians had stolen a white girl before leaving the Mohawk valley and they had brought her with them. This sort of thing has been done in fiction time after time and always the white relatives of the stolen girl have run down the Indians and after possibly a hand-to-hand fight have recovered their daughter.

But in this case no such thing happened. No parents, heavily armed, followed the Mohawks into the Bay of Quinte in quest of their misling child which may sound odd but who knows the drab circumstance behind it all.

In time this white child, Christina Moore by name, grew into womanhood with full rights of the tribe and married the son of one of the chiefs. History does not record what she was looked upon as a queen by reason of her white skin and beauty, for she was beautiful, as a picture of her now in possession of a friend of ours on the reserve testifies.

We are also in possession of the names of the descendants of this white girl and her Indian chief, the complete details making an interesting story.

And now that we are mentioning the early settlers of the Bay of Quinte there is evidence to prove that the Loyalists, under Major Vanalstine, who landed at Adolphustown, brought with them a number of negro slaves. While slavery was a part of the life of the settlers to the south of us until it was abolished by the civil war, there is no indication that it was ever practised in this country at any time.

So it is quite proper to believe that although the United Empire Loyalists brought slaves with them, these people were no longer slaves under the British flag and probably were just as free to come and go as were the Loyalists.

We have had pointed out to us several times families who were known to have been descendents of the colored people who came over with Major Vanalstine's party, but there is little to show now that they had come from a race that was not white. Further than this, these people have become some of our finest citizens which only goes to show that there is no such thing as the color line where there is ambition and energy, courage and worth.

Glasgow Glamorous, Even In Rain.

(By P H M, in Christian Science Monitor.)

GLAMOUR and Glasgow, linked, sound ridiculous to a world that knows Glasgow vaguely as "that rainy place where they built the Queen Mary." True, even Glaswegians admit that theirs is the City of Eternal Rain. But one need only sample the gentle rain that lures the drifts of white clove pinks in some suburban garden (white clove pinks are a favorite in Glasgow suburbs)—and then, see if one can deny the beauty of Glasgow rain.

It sounds like Vienna or Paris to describe a wet, deep blue evening, the wide boulevard, lined with trees, and a perfect dazzle of light, what with street lamps, automobiles, gracious Scottish buildings, and all their slimmering reflections. Yet it's Glasgow's Kelvin Way. In no other city is it possible to stand in a street like that and at the same time see yellow jasmine trailing onto the pavement; a university founded in 1450; huge cranes unloading tea from Indian liners, and a man standing on a coal cart uttering hoarse operatic yells. (That's how Glasgow coal vendors cry their wares.)

Glasgow has one advantage over her romantic rivals, London and Edinburgh. London is so big that she is a metropolis; Edinburgh so old, that she is historic. Glasgow is as yet only a city, while most of her history lies with the future (that is not to mention, of course, our twelfth-century cathedral, whose green copper roofs and rain-pitted Gothic gargoyles you have only to see, some frosty day, through a screen of red rowan berries). Glasgow, as we say, is small and upstart enough to be interested in the stranger within her gates.

Surprises wear many disguises in Glasgow. That comfortable looking grocer in spats is probably a Knight. That stern old Scottish gentleman with the beard, the silver-topped cane, and the spaniel at his heels, is a retired policeman. Here is a dull stately row of tenements; but at the end of the "drive" you can see blue shadows on the snow that streaks the hills. Young women in pepper-and-salt breeches go sledging with their children; and the sledge is drawn by a Shetland pony. Glasgow's Kelvin Way. USE TAX SPIES.

(Windsor Star)

INCOME tax spies are encouraged by the Government of Great Britain. If John Smith thinks his next door neighbor is not paying tax on all his income, he tips off the Government. Then, if information is correct, a reward goes to Mr. Smith.

The secret code for this espionage is called "Inland 123." It is at Somerset House in London. "The payments to spies vary in amounts up to as much as £50. In some cases the reward to the tipster is even more. When the award is greater than £50, special consent must be had from the Treasury before payment is made.

Through this organization the Government in Britain gets thousands of pounds in income tax that it would not otherwise have received. The whole process is kept a deep secret, and no accounts of rewards or penalties are ever published.

BITER IS BITTEN.

(Kitchener Record)

IT LOOKS as if Justice occasionally takes a peep from the bandage that covers her eyes just to make sure that things are really going right in a topsy-turvy world. Thieves recently broke into the hen-house of a western farmer and stole his flock of one hundred chickens. What might have proved a heavy loss turned out to be a very satisfactory business deal for the invaders left a purse containing $300. Three bucks a bird is not a bad return by any means!

Chicken theft is one of the meanest of crimes. To raise a flock of hens to a profitable age takes time, patience, experience, and money. To have months of hard work and all hope of reward wiped out in a single night by the depredation of criminals who batten on the industry of others is enough to discourage the most optimistic. Heavier sentences are being meted out to this type of criminal when caught but the difficulty of tracing such marauders is a very strong incentive in their favor. It gives one a very definite thrill of satisfaction to know that one gang at least paid well for their nocturnal adventure and we have a sneaking idea that they will not return for the purse. Meanwhile, Justice and the chicken-farmer are wearing a smile that won't come off.

BORDER LINE CASES.

(Lethbridge Herald)

A LOCAL resident writes:

"Our income for Kring is $40.50 a month, with a man and wife and two children to keep. We pay our own light, heating and taxes. Fisher has no regular employment, but rustles for jobs enough to pay the taxes so the other fellow can have his 'relief.' We had to get a little irrigation plot so we could live, and it does not leave us enough time to talk Communism. For clothes, father's old pants are made into a suit for Sonny."

There's more in the same vein. It's a story of the struggle of one of those border-line cases. If Canadians all were making the same kind of struggle our problem of unemployment and relief would soon be very much less important than it is today.

(Brantford Expositor)

MR. DUNNING, the Minister of Finance, because of the very position he holds, may be expected to be a canny, prudent Member of the Cabinet. Despite his Liberal philosophy, he has given indications of a cautious outlook. Accordingly some people may be inclined to take his latest advice too lightly. They may suggest to themselves and their friends that when Mr. Dunning says the rising speculation fever now sweeping the country must be kept under control if trouble is to be averted, he is acting like an old fogey. They may, in their short-memoried innocence, suppose that when he says false standards of value and unbalanced development will result in an "inevitable aftermath," he is talking through his tall silk hat.

A Bit of Nonsense

Cured

The artist was painting a sunset—vivid red, with blue streaks and green splotches scattered over the canvas. A farm hand stopped and watched him.

"Ah," said the artist, looking up suddenly, "perhaps 'tis you Nature has also opened up her sky pictures page by page? Have you seen the lambent flame of dawn leaping across the pellucid east? The red-stained sulphurous lobtail floating as if in a lake of fire in the west? The jagged clouds at midnight black as ravens' wings, blotting out the shuddering moon?"

"No," replied the farm hand, "not since I stopped drinking."

in an affray, an affray being defined as the act of two or more persons fighting in a public place to the alarm of the public.

Commenting specifically on Chief Lannin's statement, Mr. Roebuck said:

"Irrespective of whether he was a constable in the particular municipality in which he stood, or near which he stood, he had a duty as a peace officer and as such is specifically charged in the criminal code to do bodily harm.

"He saw property being destroyed and persons being wounded and he had a right to arrest the perpetrators of these offences. As a police officer he was negligent in his duty."

tion Arthur Evans as dead. Dr. Devlin gave the certificate of death. Witness said the thought uppermost in the minds of all present was that Arthur had had influenza and that his fall from the mow had been a result of that condition.

Witness said he heard about the convulsions and thought they might have been induced by a toxic condition from influenza. The muscles of the back of the neck were quite rigid and stiff and witness agreed that while the condition was suggestive of strychnine poisoning, it might also have been caused by uremic poisoning or fracture of a cervical vertebrae after the fall from the hay mow.

"Did you suggest that influenza should be stated as the cause of death?" Dr. Munro was asked.

"No. But I think if I had made it out myself I would have given the same certificate. I knew the people so well and regarded them so highly that the thought of strychnine poisoning was farthest from my thoughts."

He declared that he and Dr. Devlin had no discussion about the death certificate.

Provincial Constable David Silvester testified as to his investigation of the case. He said he had been told by Mr. Evans that his son had not been in ill health and had not had the 'flu.

Lorne Braden who was summoned to the inquest while the court was in session, corroborated the evidence of Mr. Evans. He said he was given a bottle consisting some strychnine because he had been troubled with rats and crows. He described the quantity as being about enough to cover a five-cent piece. Witness did not return the bottle to Mr. Evans.

Mr. Evans was recalled and the Crown Attorney produced a record showing that Mr. Evans purchased 60 grains of strychnine at Payne's Drug Store here on June 30, 1933 for the purpose of destroying rats and crows. The record of the purchase was in accordance with the testimony previously given by Mr. Evans.

Those who served on the jury included: Stanley Kennedan, foreman; Patrick Cooney, J. H. Thompson, Joseph Maher, L. L. Maguire, Mortimer Quinn, Thomas Williams, Joseph O'Dette, George James, Joseph Garvey, J. H. Miles, Arthur Millen.

SINGING COMPANY HOLD ANNIVERSARY

Young People's Organization Of Salvation Army Celebrates Tenth Birthday

A very pleasant week-end was put on by the Y. P. Singing Company of the Peterborough Salvation Army as the celebration of their ten years of service as a brigade. The services were conducted by Adj. and Mrs. Green, former officers of the Corps. Their three children, Gordon, Margaret and Marion, also assisted in the services. The Saturday night program was a very good foretaste of what was heard Monday night. Both week-ends as this bring out talent which is often hidden by group singing. Pianoforte trios, duets, and solos were rendered as well as vocal singing by sextets, trios and soloists.

Sunday Services

The services on Sunday were happy, bright and inspirational under the able leadership of Adj. Green. In the morning his sermon was especially fitted to serve even the youngest singing company member. The praise service in the afternoon was participated in by the junior and senior sonsters and junior and senior band. The Misses Margaret and Marion Green favored us with a vocal duet entitled "Whispering Hope," and Miss Margaret Green rendered a pianoforte solo, "The Red Shield March." The male voice party sang "Cry Out and Shout." The Sunday night service was largely attended. The Singing Company rendered two numbers, "Alas and Did My Savior Bleed," and "Jesus is Close to Me." A vocal trio sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul." The address by Miss Margaret Green was a challenge to everyone there to step out to Christ.

The festival Monday night displayed excellent talent. The Singing Company rendered four numbers. The Singing Company pianist and the Senior Sonsters pianist played a duet which was enjoyed by all. Other items were a pianoforte trio, a Hawaiian guitar, a vocal trio, a vocal solo, a boat song, "The Young Crusoes," and a reading. Miss E. Payton, leader of the brigade was presented with a bouquet of flowers as a tribute for her work as leader. The concert was concluded by the singing of God Save the King.

Leader Congratulated

After the concert, refreshments were served to members of the Singing Company and those who assisted in the program. Mrs. Adj. Warrender had the very pleasant duty of congratulating the leader on her splendid work and presenting her with a song book from the Singing Company members. The sonester leader also gave his congratulations to Miss Payton. To those who are leaving the Singing Company to go into the senior songsters he stated that they could pay not better tribute to Miss Payton than to be true soldiers of Jesus Christ and the Salvation Army.

The ship failed to arrive for a reason which has not yet been explained.

GERMAN WARSHIP VISITS HALIFAX

First Since Before Great War —Gives 21-Gun Salute

HALIFAX, Mar. 10—(CP)—First German warship to enter Halifax harbor since a few days before the outbreak of the World War in 1914, the naval training ship Schesten steamed into port here yesterday.

The vessel was delayed for a time by the heaviest fog to cover the harbor this winter. She waited off the harbor mouth for almost five hours until the fog cleared.

The guns of the vessel of another country roared out a 21-gun salute, and a Citadel Hill battery replied.

BALDWIN TO RETIRE AFTER CORONATION

Will Receive An Earldom, Go To House Of Lords Says Daily Telegraph

LONDON, Mar. 10—(CP Cable)—The retirement of Prime Minister Baldwin was forecast for the week after the Coronation by The Daily Telegraph yesterday.

The paper said the Conservative leader would go to the House of Lords and likely receive an Earldom following the precedents of Balfour and Asquith. Ramsay Macdonald, Lord President of the Council, is believed certain to retire at the same time, the paper said. His friends do not conceal the fact he is looking forward to a complete respite from official duties, although he might decide to continue to sit in the House of Commons in the role of an elder statesman.

At the time of the foreshadowed retirements Parliament will be about to recess, which, The Telegraph said, would permit the government to make the essential reshuffle in an unhurried manner.

Political writers are generally agreed Neville Chamberlain would be the logical successor to Baldwin. It is predicted Chamberlain, as Premier, would be determined to preserve the national character of the government. Among the first duties of the new Premier would be to preside at the Imperial Conference at the end of May.

Taking Chamberlain's succession for granted, political prognosticators are at divergence in candidates for the post of Chancellor of the Exchequer. Sir John Simon and Sir Samuel Hoare appear to be favored, with Hoare going to the Home Office if Simon, at present Home Secretary, goes to the Treasury. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, and W. S. Morrison, Minister of Agriculture, are also mentioned for the Exchequer post.

STEEL COMPANIES RUNNING BEHIND

Steel products have increased during the past few months from $2 to $4 a ton, copper from five cents to 10 and 12 cents a pound. Plumbers' supplies have gone up 10 per cent. within the past week.

COUNCIL PLANS TO REDUCE TAX RATE ONE MILL

12.94 mills, and will be reflected in the local by a cut of one mill from 37 to 36.

An impromptu conference by Mayor Macdonald, Aldermen Hamilton and McIntyre at the city hall this morning was unanimous for immediate action in adjusting the 1937 rate to the assistance from the provincial government. The bylaw striking the rate at 37 mills will have to be changed, and a special of the council may be held this week for that purpose.

Meanwhile the work of completing this year's roll is running behind schedule. In the ordinary routine of preparing each ratepayer's taxes, the arithmetic of computing this amount from the assessment prepared by W. J. Henry's department and also from the mill rate determined by the council is a long and tedious operation. The tax roll is completed in the city clerk's office. It is simply a record of the 1937 assessment of every property and also the taxes charged against them.

These rolls are then passed on to the tax collector, A. S. Couper, whose duty is to transfer the individual taxes to the tax bills which are to be delivered to the ratepayers. This final detail must be completed fourteen days prior to July 9 when the first instalment of taxes is due. Last year it was finished just one day ahead of the "dead line" and with the present delay of two weeks or more it is evident that considerable over time will be required to get the bills ready this year.

WANT A REFUND

KINGSTON, Ont., March 10 (CP)—In view of the opinion of the city auditor that the amount of appreciation, $5,386, set aside out of 1936 operations of the Waterworks Department of the Public Utilities Commission is unnecessary, the city council last night requested Mayor Dalton to ask the commission to refund this amount to the city.

SPEND $2,650,000 MENTAL HOSPITALS

Outlay Includes New Buildings And Additions, Improvements To Present Structures

TORONTO, Mar. 10—(CP).—The Ontario Government plans in the next fiscal year to spend $2,650,000 for additions to Government-owned hospitals and on new construction, Premier Hepburn said yesterday in his budget address.

Site for a new building has already been selected at Port Arthur, Mr. Hepburn said the Lakehead hospital was designed to care for a population of more than 650 mental patients whose homes are in the Port Arthur-Port William district, extending as far west as the Manitoba border.

A program of modernizing and making fire-proof the Ontario hospitals at Brockville, Cobourg, Hamilton, Kingston, London, New Toronto, Orillia and Penetanguishene will be carried out.

Construction of new buildings is proposed for Hamilton, where buildings, including a new reception building will be erected at a cost of $300,000.

At Woodstock, construction of two new units for epileptic children will be undertaken, as well as other additions, improved equipment and fire-proofing.

Almost all work on hospitals will be done by private contract for which tenders will be invited, the Premier said.

20 PAY LIFE POLICIES ARE PAID UP IN 14 YEARS

Many people who insured with The Mutual Life of Canada in 1923 expecting to pay 20 annual premiums on their 20 Pay Life policies, and who left their annual dividends to accumulate at interest, have been notified that if they wish to make their policies paid-up no further payments will be necessary, and in addition a cash credit will be paid them in 1937. The dividends allotted in the 14 years will take care of all future premiums.

For instance, J. D., who insured in 1923 on the 20 Pay Life plan, would ordinarily make six more deposits of $267.50, a total of $1,605. Now it will not be necessary for him to pay this sum, and instead he will receive $52.85 in cash in 1937 and cash dividends each year as long as the policy continues in force.

Of course, if he wishes to continue making his annual deposits with the Company for the next six years and allow his dividends to accumulate at interest, he may do so.

If you are interested in a policy in The Mutual Life of Canada may we suggest that you get in touch with our representatives listed below or our Head Office.

NOT APPOINTING SPINELESS PUPPETS SAYS ROOSEVELT

Does Not Want Men In Court To Decide Cases As He Wishes

WANTS REAL JUSTICES

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(AP)—President Roosevelt put on record to-day a blunt declaration that he would not appoint to the United States Supreme Court "spineless puppets" who would decide specific cases as he wished.

"No President fit for his office would appoint, and no Senate of honorable men in the ..... would confirm, that kind of appointee to the Supreme Court," he declared last night.

He asserted, however, in his second appeal for enactment of his judicial reorganization program that he would choose justices "who will act as justices and not as legislators."

"If that can be called 'packing the courts,' he said, "then I say solemnly and conscientiously that I and with me the vast majority of the American people favor being just that thing—now."

Mr. Roosevelt spoke in a nation-wide broadcast on the eve of Senate hearings on his program.

Attorney-General Cummings became the first witness in what probably will be a long recording of the arguments aroused by the administration Judiciary Bill.

His bill had two purposes, President Roosevelt said.

"First, to make the Administration of all Federal justice speedier and, therefore, less costly; second, to bring to the decision of social and economic problems younger men who have had personal experience with modern facts and circumstances under which average men have to live and work."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get three two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, yet make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

MOORE STARTLES HOUSE BY VOTE

tariffs but of a reasonable degree of protection and a close watch on industry to see that Canadians were not thrown on relief rolls as a result of importations from abroad. He was afraid the the reductions in the duty on woolen goods in the budget would cause some workers to lose their employment.

Answering a question from Finance Minister Dunning, Mr. Walsh said he knew of no loss of employment as a result of tariff reductions by the present government so far.

"Almost $3 of exports lost for every $8 of exports restricted" was the record of the Bennett government, said Mr. Thorson. "That is surely a heavy price to pay for the protection of the textile manufacturers."

If tariffs were reduced the whole of Canada would benefit. The secondary industries would benefit from the added prosperity of the farmers. It would increase the total wealth of Canada although it would not solve all Canadian problems. There would still remain the problem of the equitable distribution of that wealth.

Rev. T. C. Douglas (CCF-Weyburn) declared the world wheat surplus had not been reduced but had been transferred to European countries which, preparing against the possibility of war, were trying to accumulate large stores in reserve. Release from the fear of war would at once throw the surplus back on the market.

Increased dividends boasted of in the budget had been "nod for those whose incomes were derived from investment but had little effect upon the great mass of unemployed whose numbers were not decreasing, Mr. Douglas declared.

"The Finance Minister has said," Mr. Douglas continued, "that profits are the main spring of prosperity. I did not expect him to say that We think the mainspring of prosperity is the needs of humanity.

"I wonder if the Minister of Labor knows that in this city there are 700 transients here to-day—or if he knows of the thousands who are travelling back and forward across this Dominion."

Malcolm McLean (Lib. Melfort) interrupted to say that last season there was a "real shortage" of men for the jobs available.

For some 80,000 young men in Canada the prospect held out by the government was $5 a month for work on a farm, Mr. Douglas said and compared this with the $300 a day and $30 a day expenses being paid by the government to Col. J. L. Ralston, counsel to the wheat inquiry commission. The national employment commission, he said, had initiated a home improvement plan "which might sell some paint for the Canadian Industries Limited."

"It has paid out $1,000,000 in wages," Finance Minister Dunning interjected.

Mr. Douglas referred to charges made yesterday by C. E. Bothwell (Lib. Swift Current) that he (Mr. Douglas) had written misrepresentations in the "advocate," a western Canada newspaper. He suggested a debate on this point at either Swift currens or Weyburn, and he tentatively named next July 1 for the meeting.

"Why spoil the holiday?" asked a Liberal member.

Betrayed By Wheat Board.

Nothing had caused such "widespread sorrow," even among Liberal party supporters, as the government's handling of the wheat board, Mr. Douglas declared. The people felt they had been "betrayed."

Debate on the main motion followed the vote on Mr. Bennett's amendment with W. R. Tomlinson (Lib. Brant) opening. He declared the friendly relations engendered by the Liberal government with United States had greatly increased the tourist trade which was of great importance to his constituency.

Discussing policies of the last government Mr. Tomlinson said the farmers creditors arrangement act was "a juicy" proposition for Conservatives. When the Liberals took office he (Mr. Tomlinson) asked the government to dismiss P. C. A. officials in his district and the work had been carried on by new appointees at one fifth the cost.

Gardiner on Defence.

Mr. Gardiner replied to attacks directed against the government by certain Opposition members who declared failure to ensure the farmers a cost of production on the wheat board resulted producers of more than $60,000,000.

From August, 1936, to February 27, 1937, the average price of wheat had been higher than in any year except the war years and those influenced by the war, Mr. Gardiner declared, while under the last administration, with stagnation efforts conducted for the Government by John I. McFarland the price had dropped to the lowest in history.

Soon after the present government took office an Order-in-Council had been passed providing that the Wheat Board would take deliveries at a fixed minimum price of 87½ cents a bushel and with certificates entitling the producers to share in any advance in prices, but only if the price fell to 90 cents at Fort William.

Up to that time the Wheat Board had been empowered to take deliveries at that fixed price without conditions as provided in the original Wheat Board Act.

"When men come into this House," Mr. Gardiner said, "and suggest that the Dominion of Canada should maintain in existence a policy of handling our wheat which of necessity puts the farmer in the position where he delivers wheat in that organization while wheat is below the set price, but does not deliver it when it is above the set price, only one result can follow."

That result, the Minister said, "is that the Government of Canada will have to pay for the losses of those who deliver when wheat is below 87½ cents and will have none of the profits of those who deliver above in order to bring about an equalization of prices.

"That is not fair to the Dominion of Canada," said Mr. Gardiner, "and the Government has suggested that when the commission which is now sitting on the question makes its report this whole matter will be reconsidered and some policy suitable to the whole Dominion and to the farmers in particular, will be inaugurated to handle the wheat of this country in a systematic way."

LINDSAY TO SPEND MORE FOR WATER

Board Approves $27,000 Outlay For Pump House Improvements

LINDSAY, March 10. — The Town Council, in spite of protests from a number of citizens, gives approval to the plan of the Board of Water Commissioners to spend the sum of $27,000 on improvements at the pump house with a view to improving the town's water supply. Reeve Horn stated that the people should be behind the Water Board instead of criticizing. Alderman Claxton expressed the opinion that the press could do much "to foster a better and more tolerant spirit towards the Water Board in their proposed action." Mayor Logan referred to the suggestion that water be piped from Balsam Lake. Cost of piping, he pointed out, would be in the neighborhood of $350,000, or $20,000 per mile.

Relief costs have taken a slump in Lindsay—624 were on relief in January as compared with 787 for the same period last year. This meant a reduction of $14,300 in relief expenditure.

Mrs. Thomas Clegg, mother of Mrs. Leo Jones of Peterborough, passed away at the age of seventy-six years. The deceased was one of the oldest residents of Lindsay, and was born on the Dutch Line, north of Kinmount. She is survived by two sisters and eight children. Interment took place at Riverside Cemetery.

FORMER ATHLETE ALMOST A CRIPPLE

Now "Right as Rain" After Taking Kruschen

Read this letter from an athlete, telling how he obtained relief from rheumatic pains:—

"My knees were so stiff with a kind of rheumatic trouble that I could only rise from a chair with pain and difficulty. This had been growing worse and worse for about two years. It was all the more galling because in my young days I had played for two counties at football and held my college record for the 100 and 220 yards. Naturally I tried all sorts of embrocation, but with absolutely no perceptible effect. Then I decided to try Kruschen Salts, and to cut a long story short, I am now as right as rain."—W.S.T.

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are frequently due to deposits of uric acid in the muscles and joints. Kruschen helps to stimulate the excretory organs to healthy, regular activity, and so enables them to eliminate this excess acid from the system.

OCIETY FINDS TSELF CAUGHT N STRANGE JAM

hildren's Aid Body Not Properly Organized — Must Regularize Membership

SORSOLEIL COMING

eputy - Minister Of Public Welfare Will Speak At Annual Meeting

At the annual meeting of the hildren's Aid Society of the city nd county of Peterborough, to be eld in the City Council Chambers four o'clock in the afternoon of uesday, April 20th, M. A. Sorsoleil, eputy Minister of Public Welfare r the province, will be present and ill speak.

At that meeting, a by-law will be ubmitted which will regularize the embership.

The president of the local society e Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, presiding at uesday afternoon's meeting of the ciety, held in the City Council hambers, declared, when recording e recent interview with a member the Provincial department, and nversation with regard to embership in the society:

"We are in a strange position here ause all our actions taken during e past year since the new constiution was provided, may be out of der. We were not organized proerly. Therefore the actions of a oup of people carrying on the usiness of this society and doing any things which are all right in emselves may possibly have no anding in the eyes of the law, the ublic or the department. We may nd ourselves in a terrible mix-up, nless we do something about it at e annual meeting."

The whole situation seems to nge on the fact that the members o not now pay any annual fee for embership in the society, and, hile really acting in the best of ith, they also constituted themselves as directors in a sort of "Amos Andy" arrangement, as observed T. J. Carley when he reported the last regular meeting, after ing asked to give a legal opinion to the regularity of the society's rocedure.

Annual Fee Usual

J. Bdgar, the society's superintendent, reported at yesterday's meeting that enquiries from the Lindsay, ort Hope, and Belleville societies elicited the information that the ee of the Lindsay organization pay n annual membership fee of 50 nts, while the women pay 25 cents nd in Belleville the annual fee is

To cover the difficulty, a notice f motion to be submitted at the xt meeting was given, whereby a w will be passed by which very person who contributes a sum not less than 50 cents a year shall considered an ordinary member f the society, when approved by embership by the Board of Directors (who are elected by the general membership). A payment of $100 hall entitle the donor to life membership. Paid-up members shall be entitled to vote.

At the next meeting also, ratification will take place of the actions of the directors during the past year.

In the discussion which took place with regard to this constitutional matter, both H. H. Parsons and Rev. F. Bary pointed out that the local society had acted in perfectly good faith and had presented its constitution to the department, which had failed to point out any irregularity in the set-up at the time.

T. J. Carley appeared at yesterday's meeting also and did much to avoid the members in one of those Canadian constitutional mix-ups which usually result in a general state of dither all around.

The report of the superintendent disclosed 2 cases open at the first of the month of February, with 3 new cases, one closed and one re-opened, leaving 12 at the end of the month.

MAKE YOUR ATTIC PAY DIVIDENDS

Film "House That Ann Built" At Collegiate Thursday Will Show You How

If you can stand up in your attic and reach up without touching the ridge pole, if you can walk about three feet to either side without striking your head on a rafter—be thankful. For you have discovered another barren place that can be made to pay dividends in real comfort and usefulness. Just how this and many other home improvements can be accomplished practically is told in the new Johns-Manville talking motion picture, "The House That Ann Built," which will be shown in the Collegiate Auditorium here on Thursday evening. This feature-length picture is brought to Peterborough under the auspices of the Peterborough Lumber Company. It was produced with an all-star cast under the direction of Mr. Luther Reed who directed such hits as "Rio Rita," "Hit the Deck," and many other Hollywood successes. It is really a "feature" picture; yet it shows you the latest home modernization and new construction ideas of to-day, including literally dozens of "before and after" pictures of all kinds of home remodelling jobs.

Coming at a time when intense local interest is being taken in the new government-sponsored Home Improvement Plan, it is expected that this film will be received with special interest by the citizens of Peterborough.

BUDGET GIVINGS ARE INCREASED BY PRESBYTERIANS

Rev. Dr. Kitchen Of Hamilton Nominated As Moderator Of General Assembly

COBOURG SEEKS TO BUILD

At the March meeting of Peterborough Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church held here under the chairmanship of Moderator, the Rev. J. B. Rhodes of Cobourg, the Presbytery nominated the Rev. Dr. H. Beverley Kitchen of Hamilton as Moderator of the General Assembly which is to meet in Ottawa in June.

The meeting further nominated the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, pastor of St. Paul's Church, as Moderator of the Synod of Toronto and Kingston.

The Rev. C. O. Graham, of Colborne, tendered a report on the budget which indicated increased givings during the year 1936. The Presbytery contributed $8,430 to the budget as against $6,548 in the previous year. Much of the increase was reported due to the fact that St. Paul's, Peterborough, raised $1,600 more for the budget in 1936 than in 1935. Mr. Graham described it as having been the best year since 1920.

Presenting a report on the work of the Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies, Dr. Barr stated that the general average had been maintained with particular progress in two directions. The number of Young People's Societies had increased, he said, while there was a 50 per cent. increase in the number of young people entering the church.

Dr. Barr intimated that the Mason Trophy which was recently destroyed in the fire at St. Andrew's, Cobourg, is being replaced by the donor, E. P. Mason. The shield was given for annual competition among the Young People's Societies of the Presbytery.

Seek To Rebuild.

As an elder of the congregation, J. Skinner of Cobourg presented a request from St. Andrew's seeking authority from the Presbytery to proceed with the building of a new church to replace the church destroyed by fire. The new building is to seat a congregation of 400 and will be complete with nave, chancel and Sunday school rooms.

Permission was also sought and granted to borrow to the extent of $10,000, this amount being required for the new edifice at Cobourg. The Presbytery unanimously agreed to assist the Cobourg congregation in every way possible and appointed delegates to officially represent the Presbytery at the laying of the corner stone in May next. Delegates named were: The Rev. J. W. Foote, Port Hope; the Rev. C. O. Graham, Colborne; the Rev. G. R. Duncan, Warkworth.

The Committee on Recruits to the Ministry voted that there were six young men from Peterborough area preparing for the ministry. This was stated to be a record among the presbyteries of the entire Dominion. Two of the young men are from St. Paul's Church, being Donald Howson and Ferguson Barr.

Mr. Howson was present at the meeting and was certified to the Board of Missions for a summer field appointment.

The Committee to Strike Standing Committees tendered the following report, which was adopted: Missions—Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, chairman; Sunday Schools and Y.P.S.—the Rev. R. Simpson Black, Campbellford, chairman; Budget — the Rev. J. W. Foote, Port Hope, chairman; Pensions—the Rev. J. H. V. Walker, Janetville, chairman; Council Life and Work—the Rev. A. J. Preston, Keene, chairman; Records for Ministry—the Rev. H. H. Williams, Millbrook, chairman; Statistics—the Rev. C. R. Duncan, Warkworth, chairman.

Commissioners to the General Assembly to be held at Ottawa in June were appointed as follows: the Rev. H. H. Williams and the Rev. J. R. Preston, ministers, together with James Dutton and J. Kennedy, elders.

J. M. Simpson, of Lakefield, was present to tender the financial situation in regard to St. Andrew's Church at Lakefield. The Presbytery agreed to ask the Board of Missions, Toronto, for a special grant of $200 per annum to augment the stipend of the minister.

A committee consisting of James Dutton, the Rev. Dr. Barr and T. J. Carley, K.C., was appointed to [illegible] the Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in Canada in connection with the proposed transfer of the Omemee congregation to Lindsay Presbytery.

Representatives from the Harvey field were present, including J. Gillespie and T. Wood seeking that an ordained minister be settled at Keinhorn. Sympathetic consideration was given to the petition and it was decided to make no appointment for three months. The field is to be supplied in the meantime, and the Presbytery will visit Hall's Bridge at the regular meeting in June next.

HUGE MAPLE LOG FOR NOVA SCOTIA

Scott Coal And Lumber Company Shipping Monster Weighing Over Two Tons

A long and a strong maple log is going to have a long ride from its present location in the yards of the Scott Coal and Lumber Co. in Peterborough. Its destination will be at North Sydney, Nova Scotia, where it will be used for a beam in hoisting apparatus in a coal mine.

H. R. Scott said the log came from the Warsaw district. Hard maple, it is 28 inches at the top and 16 feet in length. It will be turned to a uniform size of 21 inches, and is described as being one of the finest pieces of timber ever taken from this district, the heart being unusually small and perfectly sound.

This one log weighs slightly over two tons, and the freight charge for shipping it will amount to $21.

A short time ago Mr. Scott says he had a call for lumber all over ten inches wide and was able to fill the order, the material being required for boxs of boats.

An invitation to the Quinte District Seed Fair to hold its 1938 fair in Peterborough will be extended when the fair opens at Belleville next week. The fair was to have been held in this city, but the low standard of the 1936 spring grains in this district resulted in final choice of Belleville. The last Quinte fair here was the 1931 event. Gordon Hancock of Smith Township is first vice-president, and is likely in line for the presidency.

The program was arranged by Miss John Donaldson and President Gordon Morrison was in the chair.

George Pendleton of Toronto appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this (Wednesday) morning and was allowed to go on suspended sentence after pleading guilty to a false pretences charge. The conditions of his bond were that he makes restitution in the amount of a worthless cheque he negotiated at the George street branch of the Bank of Montreal, in addition to paying the costs of the case. In traffic court, C. Finley and Ronald Perks were fined $2 and $3 costs each for failure to produce driving licenses when called upon to do so.

CELEBRATING CORONATION.

Cahawa is making elaborate plans for a suitable celebration of the coronation of King George VI. The City Council has already made a grant of $250 to help finance the affair and this is to be augmented by donations from organizations and individuals. A citizens' committee has been organized to handle the details.

LOYAL FANS.

Large numbers of Lakefield citizens were in Peterborough last night, the attraction being the City League hockey game between the Lakefield team and the local Mayfairs. The Lakefield folk are loyal fans, and this year they are demonstrating the fact as usual by following their team when it plays away from home.

Y.P.U. MEETS.

The Rev. M. C. Parr was a pinch-hitting speaker at the meeting of the Young People's Union of George Street United Church, held in the board room on Tuesday evening, with an attendance of 40 members. A scheduled debate was called off, as the pastor helped out by giving an interesting review of his trip through Northern Ontario last summer. The meeting was in charge of the Christian Citizenship group and was conducted by the assistant convenor, Kenneth Brenton. A sing-song was led by Miss Loretta McDougall, a delightful duet, "The Old Rugged Cross," was sung by the Misses Isabel Duthie and Loretta McDougall, and the worship period was taken by the Misses May Wilson, Audrey Hardinge and Dorothy Smith.

GEORGE ST. W.M.S.

A large attendance marked the meeting of the W.M.S. of George Street United Church, held in the church parlors, with Mrs. W. H. Morton presiding. Devotional services were taken by Mesdames Latimer and Coon; the chapter of the Study Book relating to missionary work in rural areas in foreign lands was presented by seven ladies: Mesdames Coon, Bradley, Olin, Latimer, McMillan, Hetherington, Mather, Mrs. J. Cameron sang "Oh, Man of Sorrows," very beautifully, with Mrs. M. G. Parr as accompanist. Much enthusiasm was manifested over plans for the Golden Jubilee celebration on Friday. The meeting closed with prayer, offered by Mrs. A. I. Brown.

Traffic Officer Climbs Out On Ladder Over Treacherous Ice To Rescue Dog

Provincial Constable Lloyd A. McClure was the central figure in the rescue from drowning on Tuesday afternoon of a valuable police dog who floundered helplessly in the icy waters of the Goose Pond after breaking through the crust of ice. The officer was assisted by James Cruikshank, 162 Park Hill road and by Miss Isabel Elcome, 693 Elcome Crescent.

Taken from the water in a cold and exhausted condition the dog was wrapped in blankets supplied by Miss Elcome, and was revived by the officer in the kitchen at his own home nearby before being turned over to the care of Dr. Thomas Johnston, V.S., Inspector of Peterborough Humane Society to await a claimant. Up to the time of going to press the owner of the dog had not been located.

The officer tactfully declined to discuss the part he had taken in the rescue, but according to Miss Bessie Elcome, "Mr. McClure crawled out on a ladder and brought the dog out of the water". She said that the dog's fur became coated with ice the minute the animal was taken from the water, and Miss Elcome expressed the belief, "Mr. McClure did wonderfully well to rescue the dog, as he was in a dangerous position".

Mr. Cruikshank who first discovered the plight of the animal as he was on his way home across the Park Hill road bridge, stated, "I ran into two or three houses to get a rope and phone for help. I was at the water's edge trying to throw a rope to the dog when Mr. McClure came along. He went out on a ladder that was provided by Miss Elcome, and after rescuing the dog wrapped it up in blankets and took it home."

Dr. Johnston to whom the dog was turned over by the motorcycle officer, declared when he arrived Mr. McClure had the dog in the kitchen and was doing so well that I just let him go ahead. The dog was soon revived.

The Humane Society Inspector said the dog was later taken down to his place by Mr. McClure where it is awaiting a claimant. He described the animal, "as one of the finest police dogs I ever saw". He added the animal "is a one man dog", but it really took to Mr. McClure and has since taken to the inspector.

EUROPEAN TRICKS KEEP DYNAMITERS UP ON THEIR TOES

Poles, Czechs Flip Puck Into Crowd To Get Rest—Belgians Play Six-Man Defence

REFEREEING WORST OF ALL

LONDON, March 10.—(CP). — European teams have provided some new wrinkles on Canada's national game for Kimberley Dynamiters still on an exhibition tour of the continent.

"They sure are teaching us some new lessons in hockey," said young Johnny Achtemer, who has the difficult role of coach, trainer, manager, stick carrier and interpreter.

Johnny pointed out some of the foreign elements which have seeped into the Canadian game.

For instance in some of the rinks in Poland and Czechoslovakia where the boards are only a foot high, tired players flip the puck into the spectators and get relief at the face-off.

It took the Dynamiters quite a while to get on to the six-man defence system used in Belgium Apparently awed by the reputation of Canadian teams, the Belgians fled to their blue line after the inaugural face-off and stayed there until the next whistle.

"By the end of the game our lads had their tongues hanging out, carrying the play all the time," Johnny explained.

The coach of last season's Allan Cup winners said that the players found themselves "back in their childhood days" in most rinks.

Use Old Rules.

Said Johnny: "They use rules we had in Canada in our junior seasons and we had to brush up on rules we had almost forgotten."

He said the lateral pass rule was in vogue throughout the Continent while players were only allowed to kick the puck in their defending zones.

"But worst of all is the refereeing and the interpretation of most of the rules," declared Johnny, adding: "They allow cross-checking, holding and holding the puck, interpreting it as part of the game, but they blow the whistle for playing the puck off the ice and for a standing check."

Johnny thought that the keenest hockey town in the world is Praha. Here thousands of people were turned away from the rink when the Canadians played. The Swiss have developed the best native players in Europe, Johnny believed.

Strangely enough, enthusiasm in Paris, which was one of the first centres to introduce the game to the Continent, has waned, he found.

The Dynamiters have travelled 13,000 miles since leaving Kimberley November 20. They have played more than 50 games and set up an enviable record of winning all their thirty scheduled games on the Continent. Their list of victories was in face of the fact that they lost the services of two of their star players in a taxi-cram smash-up before sailing from Canada.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

For the first time since the 1933-34 season our Peterborough Curlers were successful in winning the Lindsay-Peterborough Cup.

Although our boys were down three on our own ice in the afternoon, still our chaps overcame that in Lindsay by winning by five shots.

The best game on our ice was the Skitch-Kay affair. Kay was down two coming home when Jack Sedgewick, playing vice, made two beautiful shots to tie up the game. It was the closest series that has been played here for a long time—an average of 10 points per game.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

SCREAMING LINE drives, snappy one-hand pickups, whistling white baseballs and flashing spikes will form the background tonight at eight in the "Y" when the local senior ball club meets. The boys are beginning to bestir themselves with thoughts of baseball again as a warm March sun mops up the snow. Won't be long till fans are filing through the gate at Riverside to see the Petes face Lefty Biddle or Chief Williams in a thrilling diamond duel. But meantime there is a lot of organization work to be done. Players have to be lined up, appointees made to the league meeting next Saturday in Belleville and local club plans made for the coming season.

* * * * * *

ALL OFFICERS should be on hand tonight and also local business men and manufacturers. Senior ball in a city this size is a civic project and requires the support of these in high places. Considerable groundwork has been done already and things are shaping up okay for a classy team in Peterborough this year. But there is still work to do. Sportsmen are urged to get behind the deal and help along. It's not a matter of finances—it won't cost any money to get the club started, and it'll pay its own way provided you have a good team. So, attend this meeting tonight and do your share for sports.

* * * * * *

C. G. E. SHOP Hockey League schedule is all over and Wire Dept. and Fractional Mojons are set for the playoffs. They'll be two games, goals counting. The Wiremen knocked over Machine Shop in the semi-finals and will give last year's champ Fractionals a real battle. The only game the Fractional lads lost this season was to the Wire crew. Eight teams played in this circuit through the winter, before good crowds Saturday afternoons at the Brook, and they dished up some fine hockey. Quite a few O.H.A. players perform in this league. The finals ought to be good.

* * * * * *

AT LONG last word has been received from the O.H.A. that our Colts swing into action here Friday and away Monday against the winner of the Barrie-Aurora series. It is sure to be Barrie. This serial, starting here Friday, may be O.H.A. junior "B" semi-finals.—if not, then the winner will go into the Ontario semi-finals as teams are being eliminated fast. The Colts are rarin' to go and have an exhibition game tonight in Lindsay to tune up on. They hope "Selector" Morganson picks Barrie to beat them, as they should then win out handily—the Toby columnist muffing 'em regularly this winter!

* * * * * *

THE HOCKEY Club has decided to raise prices a little for the Barrie-Colts' playdown game on Friday. Duecants will be 35c, 50c and 75c, with the ladies' rush seats remaining at 35c. Tickets go on sale Thursday and those with orders for the pasteboards in now are advised to pick them up right away at the rink. It'll be a sellout crowd. The officers explain that they find it necessary to boost prices somewhat or risk going in the red. Had they lost in the Kingston series, the club would have been about a hundred bucks down. When you figure several taxis on long trips, a couple of meals apiece for two dozen guys, hotel room, advertising and equipment—well, it runs into heavy sugar. If they win against Barrie they may have to travel to Western Ontario, so some cash in the treasury is necessary. Local fans saw a swell scrap between the Kingstons and Colts here at the usual prices, and they shouldn't kick now about the boost.

SCRIBE LEO Begley says in the Lindsay Post: "The Colts look to us as though they are good enough to go a long way toward a junior 'B' championship, and perhaps right through. We like that team quite a bit. They seem well-trained, especially up front in the attacking lines, with just a little sloppiness around defence. Harding in the nets is a very nice goalie and seems cool under fire. Without detracting from his fine play, we must say that he was lucky on a few of the shots. The Petes were obligingly leaving local players out in front of the net while the puck was in the corner with the result that, when passouts were made, Harding had some difficulty stopping close-in shots. The Colts will have to watch that because some smart forwards will score a lot of goals that way." He's right.

LAKEFIELD GOES into the Senior City Hockey League finals against Westelox either Thursday or Saturday—depending on ice conditions—as a result of their 5-4 win over Mayfairs last eve. Quite a crowd of customers at the Brock St. rink last night curled the shingles with their yelling as the squads battled it out bitterly in an exciting number. Most of the fans cheered for Lakefield probably because Mayfairs were roughing it up more. Blewett, Sabatino and Mowry all suffered injuries in this hectic scrap. The winners were better all the way. Coming into the loop at the last minute, the smart, clean-playing Northerners have travelled a long way and will give the classy Westelox crew plenty of trouble in the finals. They were quite jubilant in the dressing-room after last night's tussle, saying: "That's the end of Mayfairs—bring on Westelox now." Their new blue and white uniforms seemed to put new life in 'em. Mayfairs never quit trying and made it a plenty interesting setto.

CHURCH LEAGUE TO END SEASON

Teams Will Finish Off On Brock Ice For First Time In Six Years

TWO GAMES TONIGHT

The Church Hockey League winds up the longest season in its history tonight. Two games will finish it up, being played at the Brock St. rink for the first time in six years. At seven, Murray St. and St. Paul's meet in the third of their juvenile playoffs, each team having won a game. At nine, All Saints, perennial champions, play Murray St. in a senior playoff. They met three times previously, the first being a tie, the Anglicans winning the next, 6-3, and the other seeing Murray St. give their rivals their first defeat in four years, 3-1.

The juvenile encounter should be keen. Murray St. is a well-balanced outfit, led by M. Foster and H. Pammett, with the Gillespie brothers, A. Lasenby, K. Cox, R. Crary, D. Duncan, V. Whatley, G. Smith and A. Scott. Earl Spencely is coach. St. Paul's have a hard-checking outfit with no particular stars. Jack Kirkwood and John Scullion have been handling them with the latter also playing. Others eligible are F. McBride, A. King, A. Lockington, C. Perks, J. Easton, E. Taylor, W. Dunford, H. Morrow, J. Mackness, L. Ascott, W. Moorhead and T. McMillan. Sickness and basketball may take some of the regulars in this game tonight but it should still be keen. Pres. Lloyd Farnell of the C.H.L. will referee.

A lot of rivalry has developed between the senior finalists and today's entry in the Junior City League to help keep his championship in the Church Loop again. A. Jay, J. Legon, J. Quirt, A. Watson, E. Williams, H. McDougall and D. Mortimer are all eligible. He also has a crowd of others available like J. Maudsley, C. Frost, H. Fisher, F. Alton, E. Hope, A. Beauclerc, S. Seabrooke, D. Rusaw and H. Charlton. But only 12 players may see action. Murray St. has Earl Spencely, playing manager, F. Spencely, A. Mann, D. Whalman, E. McVaish, G. Palmer, K. Johnston, A. Watkins, G. Pammett and J. Barnes. Some of their juveniles, notably R. Crary, N. Foster and H. Pammett will be used if necessary without any weakening. Archie Weir will referee.

DOURO BLOWHARDS WIN AT LAKEFIELD

The Kentucky Gang Of Smith Suffers 4-2 Hockey Setback

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, March 10. — The Blowhards of Douro defeated the Kentucky's of Smith in an interesting game of hockey on Monday, Mar. 8 in the Lakefield rink. The Blowhards won by a hard and well-earned victory of 4 to 2. The play was fast and it kept the referee, Joe Blewett on his toes watching for off-sides. After ten minutes of play in the third period the Kentucky goalie, Jack Birch, grabbed the puck and threw it down the ice, causing a penalty shot. Joe Kendall took the shot, but it failed to enter the net on account of Birch making a spectacular stop.

Marquis Bullock played a fast game and he was the star of the Blowhards. He scored half way through the third period and again later on a snappy pass from M. Brown. Jack Birch was the star of the Kentucky boys. He played a good game in the net and also kept many a hard drive from counting.

Billie Mcfadden scored in the first period for the Kentucky lads, then C. Windsor tied it up. Early in the second period B. Clark talied to bring the Kentuckys into a lead of 2 to 1. Then Marquis Bullock and Cannon Abrams both scored to bring the Blowhards into the lead of 3 to 2. Bullock again tallied in the third to make the final score 4 to 2 for the Blowhards.

Penalties were —Gerald Noethey and Cameron Pearson for the Blowhards.

The lineups:

25—JUMP TURN WITH TWO STICKS

The execution of the jump turn using both sticks is found preferable by some skiers, others may find the use of one stick only satisfactory. The proper use of both sticks will tend to make the turn steadier due to the use of both shoulders in supporting the body after the spring.

The technique as regards the crouch, the upward spring, the bringing of the body and skis together, the straightening of the knees and the shock-absorbing crouch on landing is precisely similar to that for the single stick turn.

The sticks are grounded close together near the tip of the intended inside ski, figure 2. As the outer arm must be held across the front of the body in placing the stick, the necessary inward turning of the shoulders before the spring is made more positive and less likely to be neglected. The tips of the sticks being somewhat apart during the actual turning, more leverage is available to assist in swinging the hips, legs and skis around figure 3. As in the single stick turn the eyes should be directed to the place of landing rather than the take-off.

The illustrations show various phases of the turn which should be practiced under conditions similar to those mentioned for the turn using only one stick.

A jump turn using both sticks can also be made by placing the sticks one on each side, the body passing between them. This turn will be covered in a later article.

Next: The Jump Turn through both sticks.

Schmeling Trying To Force Fight

Joe "we was robbed" Jacobs is pictured pouring an earful of advice into Max Schmeling as the German challenger for the heavyweight title breezed into New York. Schmeling is in the United States to engage in an exhibition tour and to compel, if he can, Jim Braddock, the champion, to go through with a title bout before the champ meets Joe Louis in Chicago on June 21. Schmeling will try to prevent the Braddock-Louis bout, threatening to go before the New York state boxing commission to claim the title if he is not given the chance to win it in ring combat.

YOUNG BOB FELLER TO EARN 15 GRAND

Cleveland Pitcher Will Draw $15,000 Plus Side Money For Advertisements

By RICHARD McCANN

CLEVELAND, March 10.—It develops now that Robert Feller, the highest-paid juvenile matinee idol outside of Hollywood, is going to get $15,000 for his labors this season and not just $10,000, as previously reported in the journals.

We are pleased to hear this because we had been quite concerned about young Mr. Feller and his financial troubles. After all, you can't expect a fellow—not even Feller—to go out there on the hill and do his best when he doesn't know where his next Government bond is coming from.

But now, with $15,000 trickling in, Robert ought to be able to struggle along cheerfully enough until things start breaking his way.

Publication of this $15,000 figure will vex Mr. C. C. Slapnicka, no doubt. Mr. Slapnicka, you know, is the General Manager of the Cleveland Indians, the firm which is using the child labor of young Feller and in announcing Robert's salary at only $10,000, Mr. Slapnicka was selling a little white lie for economy's sake. You see, the $10,000 figure didn't figure to make the veteran members of the Indians' payroll as greedy and as jealous as they would be knowing that rookie was going to make $15,000 for the season.

But Mr. Slapnicka's strategy doesn't seem to have done much good. Only a few of the Indians have signed. Most of them are asking for kingly salaries of $16,000 and $17,500.

And even if the boys relent a bit and come down in their demands the Indian Ball Club will be the highest-salaried second division team since the mighty Yankees crumbled and collapsed into seventh place in 1933, dragging their 1933 salaries with them.

Biggest Money Maker

Starting out at $15,000 his first season, young Mr. Feller threatens to become one of the biggest money makers in the history of baseball. He probably will never make quite as much in one season as did Babe Ruth, who got $80,000, but if he fulfills his promise and carries on through the years his earnings may total more than the Babe's.

Robert is getting quite a running start down Easy Street this year and is making 15 times as much as the Babe did in his first year. In fact, at Feller's age, the Babe was still catching for the St. Mary's Industrial School team in Baltimore.

And, of course, by the time Feller gets through admitting to the advertising gentry that he owes his success to cereals, cigarettes and such, there's no telling just how much money he'll gather in this year of our Lord, 1937.

Mayfairs Rubbed Out By Lakefield, 8 to 4 In City Semi-Finals

Northerners Hand Locals Past ing Before a Noisy Crowd To Qualify For Westclox In Senior City Hockey League Final Playoffs

ROUGH AND EXCITING

Nearly 300 roaring fans at the Brock St. rink last night saw Lakefield eliminate Mayfairs, 8-4, in the Senior City Hockey League semi-finals and qualify to meet Westclox for the league title. These teams had battled to two previous ties and last night's contest was a redhot, exciting fixtere from start to finish. Lakefield earned the win all the way with a fine performance, having a 3-1 lead in the first and showing a big edge on play in the third after being held to a 3-2 count in the middle chukker.

It was a fast, thrilling tilt till play slowed up halfway through the third with Lakefield having a safe margin. Mayfairs turned in a bruising game and never quit battling but they were outclassed in the first from the start. The winners flashed a lot of speed, some fine combination and effective forechecking which resulted in several goals. Play was rough most of the distance with the losers drawing five of the eight penalties. One was a major to Courneyea in the second period for boarding Blewett hard and putting him out of the game with a hurt shoulder.

WHOLE TEAM SHINES.

While the first line for Lakefield—Chittick especially—shone, the whole Lakefield squad turned in a first-rate game. Lennox was effective all the way and the other alternates were dangerous at all times. They had a strong defense, led by Sabatino, in front of fine goaltending by Loyst who kicked out a flock in gagging attacks by the Cafe Kids. Currie made some nice saves in the other end but his defence wasn't clicking in usual style to aid him. The forwards all worked hard with Hill, Meyette and Driscoll the best. Meyette got three of their four goals.

The game was half an hour late in starting but got off with a bang. Chittick's shot from the blue line early beat Currie. Vitarelli was chased for tripping and play was fast and even. Later Blewett scored on neat assists from Chittick and Sabatino and the Northerners for a time looked better. Courneyea came close but Jewell got another for Lakefield with Chittick and Blewett assisting. Blewett scored again but play was called back to give Gardner a penalty for boarding. Meyette sifted in close to tally a neat one for Mayfairs. G. Charlton was gated for tripping and then Sebatino went off hurt in the groin and did not reappear till the third.

Mayfairs Threaten.

Early in the middle chapter, Chittick got the finger for slashing. A minute later Blewett was injured when boarded hard by Courneyea and had to leave the game, the latter drawing a major penalty. Jewell made it 4-1 for Lakefield on Chittick's pass and then Lennox checked Vitarelli in close and scored easily. Lakefield had an edge for a time. Vitarelli was sent off for slashing and then I. Charlton got it for boarding. Play was redhot and had the fans yelling steadily. Mayfairs kept battling and had more of the play the last half. Meyette scored on assists from Driscoll and Vitarelli and then Meyette got through again for a neat one. Just before the finish, Gardner pulled off a smart long rush to angle a shot home.

It was fast and even to open the third till Lennox counted at close range. Blewett went off hurt and as Mayfairs surged up Lakefield played a defensive game. Chittick checked in close and recovered to score again and, with Vitarelli in the penalty box for chopping, Jewell winged in an angle drive to clinch the verdict. The losers kept trying but Lakefield had an edge on play toward the finish and kept blasting hot shots at Currie till the final bell.

Remember When—

Boston's Battling Bruins went into first place in the American section of the National Hockey League with seven starts against Detroit Red Wings last night, their 6-1 shopping keeping the champions from obtaining first place in the National Hockey League's United States section.

The Bruins had to battle every second because the Wings threatened from start to finish, especially during the twelve minutes that the home forces were forced to play short-handed because of penalties.

After a scoreless first period, Gordon Pettinger opened the way for Bruins by drawing a tripping penalty in the second period, and Willie he was on! Dit Clapper scored twice in sixty-three seconds. When Pettinger was freed Jack Portland raised the third Boston goal.

Eddie Goodfellow saved the Wings from a shutout by converting Scotty Bowman's assist at 12.37, to end the second period sharpshooting.

A deceptive shot from the blue line by Charlie Sands, about halfway through the final period brought the fourth Boston counter, and before the game ended, Rookie Porky Dumart registered his second major league goal, and Hooley Smith banged in the sixth tally, after taking the puck away from Doc Kilres just inside Detroit territory.

CANADIENS DROP UNDER MAROON ATTACK BY 4 TO 1

Losers Miss Joliat And Blake—Get Lone Counter 9 Minutes To Go

10,000 HONOR MORENZ

THE FORUM, MONTREAL, Mar. 10.—(CP).—The powerful Montreal Maroons, still hoping for a sectional first place in the fading National Hockey League race, scored a 4-1 victory over Canadiens last night before 10,000 fans.

The 10,000, most of them Canadien supporters, paid impressive tribute to Howie Morenz in simple ceremonies before the game, leaving Maroons' triumph an anti-climax to the farewell to the Canadien Club idol.

Then the puck was faced off and five minutes later Marvin Wentworth shot Maroons into a lead they never relinquished. While the weakened Canadiens, minus Aurel Joliat and Toe Blake because of injuries, fired futilely against Goaler Bill Beveridge, Maroons ran their lead to 3-0 in the second period on goals by Stew Evans and Gus Marker.

Armand Mondou scored the lone Canadien tally in the ninth minute of the third period, but Marker's second effort, that seven minutes later. Playing perhaps with the memory of Morenz to lead them on, Canadiens outfought and outplayed their city rivals most of the way. They showered Beveridge with goals and couldn't get past him. Time and again during the speedily-waged game they had no one to beat but the goalie, then only failure to pick up goalmouth passes beat them.

Maroons played steady hockey to move into undisputed possession of second place in the Canadian section ahead of Toronto Leafs and close the gap between the section-leading Frenchmen.

RANGERS WIND UP BEATING AMERKS

7-5 Overtime Victory Qualifies Outfit For Stanley Cup Playoffs

NEW YORK, March 10 (CP). — New York Rangers wound up their National Hockey League intra-city warfare with Americans for the season last night with a 7-5 win set to the swift tempo of Cecil Dillon's two goals and three assists.

Victory qualified the Rangers for the Stanley Cup playoffs as 10,000 spectators watched the game. It assured Rangers of at least third place in the league's American section, eliminating Chicago Black Hawks. They also won the mythical city championship with four victories in six games with the Americans.

"Butch" Keeling settled the issue in the overtime period, taking Phil Watson's pass to break the deadlock in the second minute. Watson added the final goal a few seconds before the end.

Americans took a two-goal lead in the first period on goals by Eddie Wiseman and Nels Stewart, but Frank Boucher and Keeling evened the count before the frame ended. Dillon and Alex Shibicky put Rangers two goals in front in the second period, and the Americans fought back with goals by "Happy" Emms and Hemmerling. Goals by Wiseman and Dillon left the issue deadlocked at the end of regulation time, and then Keeling scored in overtime after Americans had flashed their goalie in an effort to win with a six-man offense.

The kid forward line that Rangers brought up from Philadelphia Ramblers, Bryan Hextall, Eddie Wares and Clint Smith, played well but did no scoring.

Americans—Goal, Moore; defense, Jervis, Emms; centre, Anderson; wings, Wiseman, Hemmerling; subs, Graham, Stewart, Cunningham, Carr, Jenkins, Scherner, Lamb.

MARMORA SCHOOL TEAM ELIMINATES NAPANEE BY 8-5

Win Round 12-10 And Will Meet London In Division Finals

PLENTY OF SUPPORT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, March 10.—After winning the first game by a score of 5-4 in Napanee, the Napanee High School squad was eliminated from the C.O.S.S.A. playdowns by the Marmora skater. The return game played in Madoc went to Marmora by a score of 8-5. Marmora won the round 12-10 and now go to London for the division finals.

Supported by practically the total population of Marmora and Deloro, the Marmora team invaded Madoc determined to see out a win against the snazzy Napanee squad.

On a hard, fast sheet of ice the play opened in the first period at a torrid pace. After three minutes of play the O'Neill brothers of Marmora combined on a nice play to open the scoring. Two minutes later Parrett evened the count on a pass from Culhane.

Exiler of Napanee was chased for an illegal body check and while his team was short, Marmora put on the pressure and were rewarded. J. Loveless scoring on the rebound of Reynolds' shot. Shortly after Gerow and Leary combined on a beautiful play to even the score.

Just before the end of the period, N. O'Neill scored on the rebound of a shot that had hit the screen, grooving to the side of the net the Napanee goalie falling to clear. Period ending 3-2 for Marmora.

First Period the Best

For clean, wide-open hockey, the first period was the best; as the game progressed, the checking became closer and rushes being broken up at the defence.

Both teams were on their toes to start the second period. Gerow for Napanee, made a beautiful solo effort, two minutes after the period opened; stick-handling through the entire Marmora team, pulling the goalie out to slide it in for the tieing count.

Two minutes later Marmora again counted: N. O'Neill making the pass-out from the corner, to be slapped home by Kourt in front of the Napanee net.

C. O'Neill was penalized for playing with a broken stick, and while Marmora was short a man, Gerow shifted through to drive the rubber behind Hart in the Marmora net. One minute later Leonard scored for Marmora from a scramble in front of the Napanee net. Period ending 5-4 for Marmora.

After one minute of play in the third period, C. O'Neill was chased for tripping and before he returned to the ice, Gerow scored on a backhand shot from a scramble in front of the Marmora net.

With three-fourths of the last period gone and one goal down on the round, Marmora staked everything on a five-man drive. Leonard scored, the goal being disputed but allowed. Thirty seconds later with the pressure still on, C. O'Neill and Kourt again counted on a beautiful combination effort, Kourt getting the goal.

With less than a minute of play left Marmora again counted, Kourt passing out from the corner while J. Loveless banged it in.

Great Goal Tending

Moore, in the Napanee nets, played a sensational game and although on the losing end of the score, he can in no way be held responsible for the breaks that went against him.

Gerow, Barret and Switzer were the pick of the Napanee squad, while the O'Neill brothers, Kourt and C. Leonard were the stars of the Marmora squad.

The game was well handled by Referee Jackson of Peterborough.

BASIL DORAN DUE FOR HOCKEY HONOR

South Porcupine Blond Bags 3 Of Stars' 4 Goals Against Eagles

TORONTO, Mar. 10. —(CP)— It looks as though Toronto Maple Leafs' interests will make a grand slam in prize-rookie honors this season. Syl Apps seems headed for the National Hockey League award while it's going to be difficult for experts to favor anyone ahead of Basil Doran in the International-American.

The blond from South Porcupine, Ont., is a big factor in the attack of Syracuse Stars, Leafs' farm team. When Conn Smythe picked him as a defence after watching a couple of junior games, he didn't make a mistake. In his first year as a pro, Doran is a standout.

In Syracuse last night, he bagged three of Stars' four goals to lick New Haven Eagles 4-3. The Bummer was in great form, scoring the tying and winning goals in the last period. The three markers gave him a total of 23 goals and 14 assists to gain fifth place among the league's leading marksmen.

The defeat was a blow to Eagles who still have a mathematical chance to gain a playoff berth in the eastern section. But it was no more severe than the jolt handed to Cleveland Indians, while Springfield Indians by Springfield Indians. The Reading was 7-4.

Ted Saunders led Indians' assault with four goals after Falcons, clinging to a slim playoff hope, netted a two-goal lead in the first period. But the Clevelanders never stopped [illegible] Springfield had [illegible] 3-2 and 5-3. Del Kiely slapped in two goals with just then four minutes play remaining.

STRATFORD WIN AGAINST ST. MIKE'S BY SCORE OF 7 TO 4

Victory Gives Teams Game Each With Critics Calling Midgets

PAY MORENZ TRIBUTE

TORONTO, March 10 (CP)—The team on which Howie Morenz started toward hockey's Olympian heights was a contender for the Canadian title again today and critics were calling it great.

Christened "Midgets" like the club of Morenz' time, Stratford juniors of the current campaign are proving as powerful as any of their predecessors. Right now they are tied with St. Michael's College of Toronto in Ontario Hocky Association junior A finals and the latest turn of developments has made their bid for Dominion supremacy seem even stronger.

Stratford fans paid impressive tribute to the memory of Morenz last night. Then they watched their Midgets fashion a 7-4 triumph over St. Mike's, to tie the best-of-five rmals at one game each. The Irish won the opener at home Saturday 6-5.

In the Stratford Arena before the game a searchlight played on three hockey sticks set up as a tripod, surmounted by one of Howie's old Montreal Canadien sweaters and a Midget sweater. While a bugler played taps, Walter "Butch" Kellerbourne, once a wingmate of Morenz, laid a wreath over the sticks.

Midgets Set the Pace.

Inspired, the Stratford six staged a grand display. St. Michael's opened the scoring, but after that the show belonged to Midgets. They quickly tied it up, then went ahead before the first period ended. In the second they got three goals and the visitors replied but once. Each team scored twice in the final frame, Stratford easing in after setting up a 7-2 lead.

Jim Gaschene of Stratford and Fred Hunt of St. Mike's were individual stars of the contest, scoring twice each. The third match will be played at Toronto on Thursday night.

Meanwhile other high-scoring Ontario teams prepared for playdowns. Copper Cliff and Timmins learned they would meet for the Northern Ontario Hockey Association championship to-morrow night and on Copper Cliff eliminated Sault Ste. Marie and Timmins put out Norands in sectional play.

Pembroke Lions, Lumber Kings and Ottawa Rideau will meet for the Ottawa district title. Pembroke has won all its last 20 games and may prove Ontario's survivor in Memorial Cup playdowns. Redeans knocked off Kirk Volanis after a strenuous series.

CHAPTER XI

SO THE sea dragon—the lonesome sea dragon—turned out to be Russell Bede, Caroline's brother and guest of honor.

This merry gentleman, burrowing his head under water, snorting and making a fine job of bashing his arms about, was the millionaire attraction for whom the party was being given.

To the right and to the left of him were evidences—most of them in $300 frocks—of entertainment being arranged for him and he was finding his fun sitting with three babies and a girl he thought was their governess in a little wading pool.

Janet suppressed a smile.

"Isn't it fun to be a guest of honor?" she asked.

He shook his head vociferously. "Not one darn bit," he said.

"What do you have to do?" she asked when he had come back from a brief recess, bearing ice cream cones for all of them.

He licked at the ice cream, catching the part that dribbled over the sides.

Janet thought: I always do go for the little boy side of man. He'll have me sorry for him in a minute.

He wiped the cream from his chin. "Well, when you're a guest of honor," he said enlighteningly "you're supposed to look smitten when a girl flutters eyelashes an inch long in your direction."

"Well," said Janet reasonably, "you could try, couldn't you?"

"I did," he said helplessly. "But I ask you, do I look like the smitten kind?"

Janet studied him gravely. "I don't know," she said at length. "You see I couldn't tell. I wouldn't have picked you out in a crowd to be a sea dragon but you've given a credible performance. You may be a man of diversified talents."

He shook his head. "Not enough for this party. Now if it were only one woman with super-colossal eyelashes I could manage it. But they're all like that."

He stopped and looked at her for a long minute. His voice was a little different when he added, "Except you."

Janet looked away hastily from that steady gaze.

"Now what do you think are your qualifications for a governess role?" she asked lightly.

"Ah, now we've got something! I can read almost everything in one syllable words. I excel as a polar bear, a wild lion, and I can juggle."

"And you make up excellent stories."

"That's right," he agreed. "Would you like me to tell you one?"

"Go on," she urged.

"Well...er...I...think you're the most attractive girl I've met here today in this bevy of beauties. Except that isn't a story. I mean it."

"Thank you," Janet answered lightly. "I think you're doing beautifully, but the children don't want that kind of a story. You'll have to do better than that if I'm to recommend you for a job."

"Perhaps we'd better get back to my qualities," he said. "I drive a car carefully, I order excellent dinners and I yearn to drive along a ribbon of road beside the sea."

"That has all the earmarks of an invitation and none of the necessary virtues for governess-ship," Janet answered.

"I keep getting confused. I was thinking of my night off. Or rather your night off."

"I don't have any," she answered demurely and got up.

She picked up her robe and slipped it over her shoulders.

The nursemaids had returned to their positions on the grassy bank.

Janet thought that his expression was as poignantly disappointed as those on the three little faces.

"I've got to go and dress," she said. "I have duties." Joel had promised to arrive at 6 and it was nearing the hour.

"All right Undine," he answered. "But I'm a persistent dragon. I'll seek you out and gobble you up some day when you haven't duties."

"He's a nice, nice person," Janet said to herself as she dressed.

She knew that later many of the girls would disappear and return for dancing dressed in satins and silks. She put on the same frock in which she had driven over. It was a tawny organdie, floor length and the exact shade of her hair. She tied a band of yellow ribbon around her hair and put on brown satin sandals.

She was pleasantly assailed when she strolled down the lawn.

"Janet Paynter, where have you been?" Caroline hailed her. "I've been looking all over for you. You haven't met Russell?"

Janet said she'd been playing with the children in the wading pool and, before she could add anything, someone had claimed Caroline's attention.

Someone brought Janet a cocktail and she was borne along with a group toward the playhouse.

All about her there was talk. "Marvelous party!"..."Hasn't Caroline done the most unique things?"..."Everybody is here!"..."Have you seen the magician?"

Janet said she hadn't and that she hadn't met the guest of honor.

"But you should. My dear, he's simply stunning."..."He owns a string of department stores or something."..."I think he's already got a crush on Tania."..."I haven't seen him around since early afternoon." They were all talking about him.

But Janet could see him nowhere. Perhaps the dragon hadn't been Russell Bede. The man she had met wasn't "simply stunning". He was attractive, he had a pleasant personality but he didn't fit the extravagant things Janet heard around her.

"I still haven't met the wonderful brother," she said when she found Caroline hours later.

"You will, Jan. Wouldn't it be like him to have to disappear in the middle of a party? He had to drive into town to meet some branch manager. But he'll be back later and I'll see that you meet him then. I think the blondes shared him off. Oh, Lord, there's my husband looking for me again. See you later."

Much later Russell Bede returned to the party given for him. With his hands thrust deep in the coat pockets of his dinner jacket, he wandered about the grounds lit by myriads of lights and Japanese lanterns. He was looking for someone.

She wasn't in the playhouse. She wasn't bowling and she wasn't watching the preview of Dion's picture in the private projection room. She wasn't in the bar, in the drawing room or in the library.

He wended his way slowly, escaping those who would detain him, toward the marquee where a Spanish orchestra was playing for dancing.

Perhaps he had been right, perhaps she was a governess. Except that governesses didn't leave their charges as abruptly as she had. And he didn't even know her name.

"Having a good time, pet?" Caroline came up to him where he stood at a post beside the orchestra. His glance was traveling over the dancers.

"What?" His attention was not for Caroline. Suddenly he grasped her arm. "Look, there, Caroline! The girl in the light brownish thing with a yellow ribbon in her hair!"

Caroline's surprised glance looked over the picture stars among her guests. "Who is she?"

"The only girl in Hollywood I've enjoyed meeting. I think she's the One Girl. There, that one...tell me her name quickly, Caroline."

"Why...why, Russ, that's Janet Paynter! She's Joel Paynter's wife."

His hand fell heavily away from her arm.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TREAT

Uncle Wiggily hopped up and down in the snow, for was so glad and happy. Also he shouted: "Whoop! Whoopsie! Loopie!"

"What's matter?" asked a snow bird—the same one who had cut the string when Uncle Wiggily was being carried away by the kite by the ha.

"Look at my back!" laughed the rabbit gentleman, still hopping about. "I thought the Bob Cat might have chewed and clawed my hat that blew down on his head. But he didn't. He left my hat right here and it isn't damaged at all. But now I really don't need it."

"Why?" asked the snow bird.

"Because I just bought a cap that keeps my ears warmer," said the funny uncle. "I'm in luck at finding my hat but I have even better luck. I'm going to make a treat."

"For whom?" asked the snow bird.

Treat for Squirrels

"For Johnnie and Billy Bushtail, the squirrels," said the rabbit. "Look at that big pile of hickory nuts."

Mr. Longears pointed to them. They were on the grass in a place where it had been clearest of snow—fine, large hickory nuts.

"What luck! What a treat for the squirrels!" laughed Mr. Longears.

"What's the matter?"

"And right where the Bob Cat was lying when my blown-away hat fell on him. I don't see how these hickory nuts could have been here all Winter without having been found by Johnnie or Billie."

"The nuts may have been here all Winter," said the bird, "but they were never in plain sight before. The Bob Cat did that for you."

"You say the Bob Cat put the nuts here for me?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Nonsense! He would never do me a favor like that. Look how he kept my hat thinking when I came to get it he could greet me."

"Oh, I don't say he put these nuts here purposely for you," said the snow bird who was very clever. "But he uncovered them so now they are in plain sight for you."

"How?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "How can you tell?"

"By looking at the marks on the ground," said the snow bird. "Like a detective, you know. That's how they tell."

It Was Like This

"What do you think happened here to bring out the nuts?

"Well," said the bird, "it was like this. Those nuts fell off the tree in the Fall. Maybe some squirrels, other than Johnnie and Billie, gathered them and buried them. Then maybe they forgot about the nuts. Anyhow the Bob Cat was lying here when your hat blew on him. He waited thinking you would come and get it."

"Oh, now I understand!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "And when I came and saw the Bad Chap and went softly away, letting him keep my hat, he was so angry, when he found he was fooled, that he clawed the ground."

"Exactly" laughed the bird. "He clawed the ground, uncovered the hickory nuts and left them there, as he couldn't eat them."

"And now I have the luck to find them and I'm going to give the squirrels a treat!" said Mr. Longears. "Hurray! I get back my old hat. I have a new cap and I find the nuts. Oh, what an adventure!"

He gathered the nuts in his old hat and, wearing his new warm cap, hopped to the tree house of the squirrels and gave them a fine treat of the nuts. Mrs. Bushtail made a pudding of some and others she baked in bread. So everybody was happy.

And if the roof doesn't come off the top of the house to go down cellar and have a cup of tea with the mice I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggily's little parking.

SEEK CANADIAN MARKET FOR AUSTRALIAN FRUIT

CANBERRA, Australia, March 10.—(CP)—Australian fruit growers today looked toward Canada as an expanding market for their products. Meeting with Canadian Trade Commissioner L. R. MacGregor, the Australian Canned Fruit Control Board decided to send a standard grade of canned fruit to the Canadian market (instead of the usual choice grade). If the experiment is successful 50,000 cases will be shipped. Canada consumes about 12,000 cases of the choice fruit yearly.

NORWOOD WOMAN CREATED FAMOUS GARDEN ON COAST

Mrs. Edith Stevenson Rutherford Of Nelson, B.C., Known To Many Nature Lovers

A PRESS COLUMNIST

Recognized as one of the foremost authorities on horticulture, and known as a columnist in "The Canadian Horticulturist," Mrs. Edith Stevenson Rutherford, native of Norwood, Ontario, died recently at "Peep O' Day" Ranch at Nelson, B. C.

Her husband, who survives, is a brother of Mrs. Benjamin Shortley and Mrs. L. Burch, both of this city.

"The Nelson Daily News" dated March 4, contains the following report relative to the death of Mrs. Rutherford.

"A famous 'mountain garden' known to governors-general, as well as a wide Canadian circle of nature lovers, was bereft of a gentle mistress when Mrs. Edith Stevenson Rutherford succumbed suddenly to a stroke at her home 'Peep O' Day' cottage on the north shore, at the age of 62 years. Women's organizations also lost an active worker and counsellor.

"Born in Norwood, Peterborough County, Edith Stevenson received her schooling there, and at eighteen became the bride of William Rutherford.

"In the spring of 1897 Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford moved to the west where Mr. Rutherford has been continuously in the drug business ever since. They built a house on Victoria street but soon acquired a small, partly cleared tract of land on the north shore, bearing a two-roomed cottage, and there they lived for nine months of the year. Mr. Rutherford served on the 1910 city council, and then moved out and made 'Peep O' Day' ranch, by then already acquiring fame as a garden, their year-round residence.

"In the years that followed Mrs. Rutherford developed the garden to a bower of beauty, following unskilled natural lines. Her writings started with a column she had in The Nelson Daily News—'Notes From a Mountain Garden', and extending to horticultural and gardening publications, made the garden famous. She received contributions of plants from every part of Canada, from many sections of the United States and from England, while every motor trip which she and her husband made about the district added new species to the wild flower section.

"Blooming trees and shrubs, creepers, rock plants, mosses, water plants, and many varieties of all the standard species known to the gardener were to be met at 'Peep O' Day' in profusion.

"For eleven years Mrs. Rutherford conducted a column 'The Spirit of the Garden' in the Canadian Horticulturist magazine, and was in constant requisition for articles on gardening in various publications of a like nature. As a result of her writings she had a "fan" mail and for years carried on correspondence with many friends whom she had gained through her columns but whom she had never met.

"For touring visitors 'Peep O' Day' ranch had been one of the beauty spots, and it had many distinguished visitors including Lord Byng of Vimy when governor-general. It was of course commercial and one of its developments was the seed business of the Mann-Rutherford Drug Company.

"Mrs. Rutherford was approached at various times on the subject of collecting her writings and having them published in book form, but she never acted on the suggestion.

"As a result of her proficiency as a gardener, Mrs. Rutherford was a regular judge at fall fairs of this section of the interior, for many years for the provincial department of agriculture.

"For many years she was president of The Nelson Horticultural Society, which was the modern expression of the Nelson Improvement Association, the organization that conducted the annual garden con-

Stomach Upsets, Dizzy?

IF you're troubled with stomach distress, gas, and have no appetite, there's nothing better than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Mrs. John Blackmon, 3 Victoria St., Stratford, Ont., says: "Some years ago my health failed. I had weak and dizzy spells, would feel faint. And as all goes feeling most of the time, my digestion was poor and I was constipated. A neighbor recommended Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and after taking it a short time the stomach upsets and constipation were relieving and I had no more dizzy or faint spells. My appetite improved and I gained in weight and in every other way." Now size, tabs. 50c.

LOW VITALITY MAY CAUSE 'FLU

Beware of widespread epidemic! Keep your system free from poisons that lower resistance.

Doctors agree that one of the greatest causes of 'flu is lowered resistance caused by accumulations of harmful body wastes and poisons. Don't take chances. Keep your system free from these harmful wastes and poisons by taking Fruit-a-tives (or Fruit-a-lax). Start right now too, because Fruit-a-tives, without worrying, without nausea, the properties of a pure sweet Canadian physician, contain extracts of fruits and herbs and act to stimulate the liver and help other vital organs to normal activity which relieves the flow of bile, cleanses the intestinal tract of harmful wastes and poisons, tend to purify the blood of poisons and acids. Guard against 'flu. Get your supply of Fruit-a-tives right now. Every druggist has them. Be sure you get only genuine "Fruit-a-tives".

Restless Nights - Pepless Days Take the Joy Out of Life

The potent cause lies in the hurried life we lead, in the extreme nervous tension and fever heat with which we follow in the pursuit of wealth, position and pleasure.

Late hours, want of necessary rest, excessive mental or physical exertion all put a strain on the system it is unable to withstand. No wonder then you pass restless nights and get up in the morning with no ambition to go about your daily tasks.

Take Milburn's H. & N. Pills and see what they will do for you.

Youth Tries Death But Taste Is Enough

Tokyo, March 10.—(AP).

KANAME Okai, 25, an antique dealer hurled himself headlong into the seething sulphurous "crater of hell" on Mount Mihara to-day and then fought his way back to life after six hours within the roaring cauldron.

"I've gone through real hell twice over," the youth cried after his attempt at suicide, "now let me live!"

Okai was caught on an overhanging cliff midway down the pit where more than 2,000 have committed suicide. When he recovered he changed his mind about committing suicide and crawled to safety.

CAVAN

SILVER GIFT FOR MANVERS COUPLE

Mr. And Mrs. Elmer Rowan Surprised On 25th Wedding Anniversary

CAVAN, March 10.—On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. David White, Elias White and Mrs. V. Rowan, motored to Manvers and were self-invited supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rowan.

It was the twenty-fifth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Rowan's wedding day. Their Cavan friends found them prepared to quietly celebrate the event with their own immediate family, Helen and Ralph.

A pretty wedding cake formed the centre piece for their table, and fowl and innumerable other good things formed the supper menu.

Mr. and Mrs. White presented them with a beautiful cabinet of silver, from his mother, Mrs. Rowan, and his brothers and sisters, who included Mrs. David White, Cavan; Mrs. Bell, Toronto; Mr. Fred H. Rowan, Peterborough and Mr. W. L. Rowan, Bethany. The beautiful gift was a complete surprise to the recipients who expressed grateful appreciation.

A happy social evening was enjoyed.

Joint Meeting Held

A joint meeting of the Cavan W. A. and W.M.S. was held at Mrs. Jas. Douglas' home on Thursday afternoon with nineteen ladies present. Mrs. J. W. Trumpour conducted the devotional period.

During the business session, conducted by the president of the W.A., Mrs. R. Matchett, reports were given by the various committees and officers. The visiting committee reported a number of calls made on the sick and shut-ins.

The treasurer reported $54.06 on hand. A flower committee, Mrs. Albert Tinney and Mrs. Harry Tinney, was appointed and the treasurer was asked to leave a deposit of five dollars with them to be used for flowers.

Mrs. R. A. Sutton gave an interesting collection of United Church notes gleaned from different sources.

It was decided to have a Fun Cake Social in the Sunday School rooms of the church on March 23rd, and a program of lantern slides on the life of Christ.

Mrs. Trumpour brought a message from the pastor asking if the W.A. would be willing to serve dinner if the Presbytery should accept an invitation, which he wished to extend to them, to meet in Cavan for their September meeting. The meeting expressed their willingness to do so.

Mrs. Snider and Miss Tinney were named as a committee to look at a stove offered for sale, and if pleased with it, to purchase it for the church kitchen.

W.M.S. Session

Mrs. Swain presided for the W.M.S. session.

Mrs. R. S. Staples was appointed the Herald for "Peace." Mrs. F. M. Staples for Canada, Mrs. Douglas for Japan, and Mrs. Perrin for Christian Stewardship and Finance.

Mrs. Staples read an article "The first woman Preacher in the United Church" soon to be ordained in Kelvington, Saskatchewan.

Mrs. Hunter read "Air Flying in China". Mrs. Douglas read a clipping on Japanese customs. Mrs. R. A. Sutton one on Nigeria, and Mrs. Seymour read "The Challenge of the Liquor Traffic." Mrs. Snider took up Chapter IV. of the Study Book "Pioneering in China is not easy."

It was voted that Mr. and Mrs. Trumpour should be requested to try to arrange with Miss M. Coote, Missionary on furlough, to address a W.M.S. Sunday service, in the near future.

PROPOSAL TO CUT CITY SOLICITOR'S SALARY DEFEATED

Belleville Aldermen Suggested Slash From $1,800 To $1,200 a Year

MAJORITY OPPOSED

BELLEVILLE, March 10.—Following heated discussion, a motion to reduce the salary of the city solicitor from $1,800 to $1,200 per year was defeated in a meeting of the city council Monday night. The proposed cut was sponsored by Alderman Matthew Kennedy and Ernest Baldree, each of whom protested against the solicitor receiving the "outlandish" salary in addition to a grant of $200 from the Hydro Commission each year.

In introducing the motion, Ald. Kennedy declared that Belleville taxes were already far too high. "The solicitor started with a salary of $1,000 and now we find that within two years his salary has jumped to $1,800. In addition to this, he receives $200 from the Hydro Commission," he declared.

Ald. Baldree declared that the present salary in his opinion was too high for "a part-time job." "If Mr. Collins was devoting his entire time to the job, the salary would be within reason, but I believe such a figure is outlandish for a part-time job." Ald Baldree declared.

Motion Lost 9 to 4

Ald. Burton Jennings pointed out the fact that solicitors in other centres were receiving approximately the same salaries. "In view of this fact, and the danger of introducing a fee system for our legal work, I am not in favor of penalizing our city solicitor," he declared.

Alderman Harry Greenleaf was in favor of discontinuing the hiring of a solicitor for the city. "Now that the Hydro Commission has taken over the city utilities, and has three or four departments, I think the commission should hire the solicitor. We could give him an extra grant such as he now receives from the Hydro, for any legal work we might need." When the motion was put to vote, the question lost by nine to four.

Transients Must Work

A bylaw authorizing the city to raise $1,200 per year for the Municipal Band was laid over when the question of giving instruments to the members after five years' service was raised. Under the proposed bylaw, any bandsman with the organization for five years would be entitled to his instrument at the end of that time, even if the instrument were purchased with money from the grant.

Ald. Baldree introduced a motion that all transients using the police station for sleeping be asked to work for their keep, and that no transients be sheltered unless willing to do any work in return for the same. The motion passed unanimously.

BENSFORT

On Friday evening, March 12, the Young People of Bensfort United Church are planning to hold an oyster supper in the basement of the church at 7 o'clock. A good program will be provided, by the young people.

CUT LICENSE FEES ON MOTOR TRUCKS NOVEMBER 1 NEXT

Hepburn Says Saving $1,000,000 To Owners Of Commercial Vehicles

ON 1938 PERMITS

TORONTO, March 10—(C.P.)—Commercial motor vehicle license fees will be reduced November 1 when 1938 permits will be available, Premier Mitchell Hepburn announced in his budget speech yesterday.

A flat reduction of 25 per cent will be made in fees for registration of all commercial motor vehicles and commercial trailers. It will mean a saving of approximately $1,000,000 to 80,000 operators of such vehicles.

"On October 15 of this year a complete survey will be made to decide to what degree we can put into effect a flat reduction of the license fees on passenger automobiles" the premier said.

Of the reduction in commercial vehicle fees, the premier said: "The reduction of operating expenses by a million dollars should provide a distinct impetus to business generally and will benefit particularly those engaged in farming and in small enterprises where the margin between profit and loss has been small. The farmers of Ontario have become increasingly dependent on the use of commercial trucks for the movement of their produce and livestock."

U.S. FIRMS PLAN 10,000,000 ONTARIO EXPANSION

TOURIST BODY ASKS 2 MILLION FOR GAME, FISH

Claim Visitors Bring 100 Million To Ontario, Much Of It Going To Government

300 MORE WARDENS

Stress Observing Of Laws Rather Than Prosecute—Suggest Liquor Board Give Million

TORONTO, March 11 (CP)—Ontario legislature should appropriate $2,000,000 for protection and propagation of game and fish in Ontario, the fish and game committee was told today in a resolution submitted to it by the Ontario Tourist Trade Association.

"We feel we have a perfect right to ask this amount," said E. L. Hughes, North Bay, presenting the resolution. He said $100,000,000 a year was spent by tourists in Ontario and the government received much of it in profits to the Liquor Control Board, hunting and fishing licenses, gasoline tax and by other ways. The Liquor Board should pay a million a year to aid tourist traffic, he said. Another resolution asked 300 more game wardens be employed in Northern Ontario — for purpose of seeing the laws were observed rather than prosecutions.

Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon said the government proposed to issue buttons with each hunting license this fall. A hunter would not be able to say he had forgotten to carry his license.

No Pheasants In Halton

Henry Nicholson, Lincoln County, opposed the proposal to license commercial raising of pheasants. They would be bootlegged, Jack Griffith, Halton County, said there were no pheasants left in his district. Poachers had used traps, hooks and lines to get them. Griffith was a game warden until two years ago.

Mr. Nixon asked the Halton game warden if Griffith's statement was correct. He said they were not. 'There were plenty of pheasants in some sections of Halton.

George Challies, (Dundas), former Provincial Secretary, protested it was unusual to hear game wardens in rebuttal of evidence given the committee.

"Not at all," said Mr. Nixon. "You just want to make carnal of the charges."

"We ought to grant the $2,000,000 now that we have balanced this mythical budget," remarked Fraser Hunter, (Lib., Toronto St. Patrick's).

"Is it the budget is mythical or the balance?" asked Mr. Nixon.

CABINET OFFICES FOR BRUCE, SMUTS?

Chamberlain On Succeeding Baldwin Expected To Include Dominion Statesman

LONDON, March 11.—(CP Cable)—The Daily Mail said today that when Neville Chamberlain becomes prime minister he may include among his cabinet ministers a Dominion statesman as a representative of the Empire.

Stanley Bruce, Australian high commissioner in London, and General Jan Smuts of South Africa were mentioned as likely possibilities. The new minister, the Daily Mail said, would probably become chairman of an imperial defence board, to which Dominion representatives would be appointed to take a share in the formation of Empire defence strategy.

"Imperial questions of trade and defence are assuming increasing importance in the government's eyes and it is understood the defence board idea is to be discussed at the imperial conference," the newspaper said. "The defence board would have broader powers than the present committee on imperial defence."

Britain Orders 148 New Ships For Her Fleet

Hoare Asks 550 Millions To Assure Motherland Being Prepared On Sea

Admiralty Chief Is Emphatic There Can Be No Rivalry With United States

AIR DANGER MINIMIZED

New Battleships Of Latest Design Selected Only After Exhaustive Test

By George Hambleton
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, March 11.—(CP Cable)—"We must have a fleet," Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the admiralty, declared in the House of Commons this afternoon, "strong enough to carry out its responsibilities in both the eastern and western hemisphere."

Sir Samuel was introducing the naval estimates for 1937, which provide for an expenditure of £110,000,000 and a construction program of 60 new ships.

The first lord frankly recognized it was a huge program, yet he was hopeful that an unregulated race in naval armaments still could be prevented. He was emphatic that "now and henceforth there can be no rivalry between the American and British navies."

148 Ships Under Way.

Following immediately on the 1936 program, Sir Samuel continued, Britain at the end of 1937 would have under construction "the remarkable number of 148 new ships, including five capital ships, four aircraft carriers and 17 cruisers."

Never since the years before 1914 had Britain had two such annual programs in peace time. From one point of view it was a huge program; from another it was reasonable. Its very size was the measure of past deficiencies. The new factor was not the need of a new policy but the need of making effective the old essential policy with the least possible delay.

Hoare dealt with three questions. Firstly, was Britain building the right kind of fleet for new world conditions? Secondly, what was the naval policy behind the construction program? Thirdly, what was likely to be the future of naval armaments?

He proceeded that the "wild claims of fanatics that air power has destroyed sea power have been swallowed up in the element from which they came." Today every sensible student of defence problems realised the interdependence of sea and air power. The days were forever passed when the air force and the navy looked suspiciously at any increase in each other's strength.

No Guesswork Or Copying

There would be no guesswork in the construction of new ships. Least of all would there be any slavish copying of old models or foreign types. For the new battleships there had been no less than 18 designs before the final designs were accepted. Full scale and small scale experiments of the most secret kind had been carried out with every type of explosive upon every kind of strength and construction of material.

"There is not a ship in this program which will not bear evidence of this concentration upon the problems of the new world," Sir Samuel declared.

The danger of air attack would be met by the fullest use of air power itself and the production of anti-

Sunspots Greater Than In '29 Likely To Bring Rainy Summer

Certain To Affect Weather And Radio, Experts Say After Peering Into Space

"BLACK WHIRLWINDS"

By Howard W. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

NEW YORK, March 11 (A.P.).—Sunspots surpassing in size, number and violence those of 1929, the summer when unprecedented rains flooded the western dust bowl, are predicted for this coming summer.

Already the spots, seen through the world's largest telescope at Mt. Wilson, California, exceed the 1929 average. They total now about a dozen daily, and will fair to set a record for the present century.

It is certain they will affect weather and radio directly. Further mystery of their indirect effects may be partly solved before the summer is over.

Present spots lie in two broad bands across the sun's face, each corresponding roughly to the temperate zones of earth. Their sizes range from centimeters to black fields larger than the whole earth.

Position a Mystery.

The reason for their position is a mystery astronomers would like to fathom. Only during the "maximum sunspot cycle" as at present are they seen in the "temperate" zones. In the "minimum cycle," when there are few, the spots gather in a belt near the sun's equator.

They are whirlwinds. But they whirl in the opposite direction now from that of "minimum" spots, near the Equator.

Their driving force appears to be electrical and magnetic. They are black because their light is ultra-violet rays, which have far more energy and destructive power on atoms than heat.

Spun spots have been traced back 30,000 years, in 11 cycles, through tree ring changes due to greater or less rainfall, and gravel deposits due to melting glaciers.

They cause increased radio static, and are accompanied, near their edges, by bright flares of light, which cause short-wave radio to fade for 10 minutes to half an hour. Their cycles affect weather, crops, and comfort.

Wages totalling $80,000,000 were paid last year to the 79,000 subway, street car and bus employees of London.

Blind 'Menace To Society' Sent To Prison 10 Years

Record Shows Accused Been In, Out Of Jails, Penitentiaries, Chain Gangs Of Two Countries

18 YEARS' WAR ON SOCIETY

BRANTFORD, Ont., March 11 (C.P.).—William Holder, blind man termed by Mr. Justice Nicol Jeffrey "a menace to society" was sentenced to-day to 10 years in Kingston Penitentiary.

Holder pleaded guilty on Tuesday to "shooting with intent to injure" a Hamilton taxi driver several years ago. The charge had been reduced from "shooting with intent to kill" to which accused pleaded not guilty. "Such a crime would mean a life term," said Justice Jeffrey.

Holder has gone blind since his recent arrest, his counsel told the court. The accused has a long criminal record which was read to the court. He escaped to United States after shooting the taxi driver who had brought him here from Hamilton, served time in a Georgia chain gang, and a U.S. Federal penitentiary, and escaped when previously brought back for trial on the shooting charge.

Mr. Justice Jeffrey read over Holder's record, which started back in 1919 and from then until now he has had sentences in jails, penitentiaries and chain gangs amounting to more than 23 years, in less than 18 years.

Appalling Performances.

"Your record is simply appalling," Mr. Justice Jeffrey said. "You have waged war on society from 1919, both in Canada and across the border, and now the society that you have waged war on will have to keep you. I have consulted with Dr. G. E. Verity, and he informs me that you are comparatively blind, with little or no chance of recovery, but I am not going to give you a short sentence, because if you ever did recover your eyesight you would again be free to wage war on society.

"I sentence you to ten years in Kingston Penitentiary where you will be fed, clothed and receive medical attention. I will also make a report of your condition to the executive, and if they wish to show any clemency, then it will be their responsibility, and not mine."

HULL ORDERS U.S. ENVOY TO PROTEST GERMAN ATTACKS

Says Washington Amazed At Fierceness Of Press Statements In Berlin

LAGUARDIA AFFAIR

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull today instructed United States Ambassador William E. Dodd at Berlin to make vigorous representations to the German foreign office concerning recent articles appearing in the German press about the United States.

The Secretary of State recently apologized formally to the German embassy here for remarks made by Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York in which La Guardia referred to Chancellor Hitler as a "brown shirted fanatic."

La Guardia's statements made before the American Jewish Congress, evoked a deluge of criticism from the German press in which La Guardia not only was attacked but United States institutions and Jewish women also were flayed.

This press campaign was called to Secretary Hull's attention by Mrs. Stephen S. Wise, wife of the noted Jewish rabbi and chairman of the women's section of the American Jewish Congress.

Small Boy Pulled Out Of Otonabee Little The Worse For His Cold Dip

Badly scared, but otherwise apparently little the worse for his adventure, 6-year-old Garry Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Jones, 604 Young street, North Monaghan, was unable to provide the name of the lad who rescued him from certain drowning in the icy waters of the Otonabee River this (Thursday) morning.

Mrs. Jones, whose husband is a local "soccer" footballer declared her two lads, Garry 6, and Bennie 4, had given her different versions of the circumstances which led up to the former falling off Rye's wharf into the river around half-past ten o'clock this morning.

Expressing her gratitude for the prompt action of the rescuer, described as a lad of about fourteen years of age, but otherwise unidentified, Mrs. Jones stated both children came home in a very frightened state.

Addressing the little red-headed lad who was smuggled between the blankets in his tiny white cot, a reported asked: "Who got you out of the water, Garry?"

"A big boy and Bennie," he replied.

"Yes," Bennie agreed, "I helped to get him out. I pulled him by the collar and he was awfully heavy."

At the time of the mishap, the two lads stated they were playing on the wharf with Roy and Thomas Douglas.

ILL FEW HOURS DR. MORRISON DIES IN CITY

One Of Peterborough's Most Prominent Citizens For 46 Years

BORN IN HURON COUNTY

Served Several Terms As Alderman And For Years On School Board

Taken suddenly by a stroke after an illness of a few hours, Dr. Matthew Albert Morrison, prominent Peterborough dentist, died at his home, 452 Hunter street, early last evening. He was 68 years of age.

Believed to be in fair health, he was in attendance at his practice up to Tuesday this week, when he complained of feeling ill and walked home to take to his bed. No serious alarm was caused by his condition until unexpectedly he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage shortly after 7 o'clock Wednesday evening and died within a few minutes.

In many community circles his passing will be mourned. Not alone was he known as a leading member of the Ontario dental profession, but was active at one time or another during 44 years' residence in this city in many public interests and activities. He was an outstanding worker in Trinity United Church. At different times he served on the City Council and on the Board of Education and as chairman of the Peterborough Liquor License Board which was in authority here before O.T.A. days. He was particularly prominent in the Masonic Order. Long active as a worker in the interests of the Liberal-Conservative Association here.

Dr. Morrison was born in the township of Howick, Huron county, son of the late Andrew Morrison and Margaret Williamson. He obtained his early education at the Walton Public school, the Seaforth Collegiate Institute and the Goderich Model School. He obtained a Doctor of Dental Surgery degree from Trinity College and was later awarded L.D.S. and M.D.S. degrees by the Royal College of Dental Surgery, graduating in 1892.

On June 16, 1890, he came to this city to commence his lengthy practice which he continued to the present. Immediately he took in community affairs an interest which spread to many diverse fields in subsequent years.

Elected to City Council.

In 1903 he was elected to the City Council and retained his seat to serve in 1904 and 1905. He turned his attention to the Board of Education in 1906 and was elected to a seat which he retained until 1915. In the years 1914 and 1915, he was chairman of the Board. Of note in his work in the educational field was his chairmanship of the committee which had charge of the construction of the Collegiate Institute and the Queen Mary and King George public schools.

Dental Surgeon of 33rd

His career in dentistry was one of distinction. He was a member from District No. 2 on the Board of Directors of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons from 1913 to 1922 and was president of the Board in 1922 and 1923. Long a member of the Peterborough Dental Association, he served a term as president. While the 33rd Battalion was recruiting, he was dental surgeon to the unit with the rank of lieutenant.

One of Dr. Morrison's leading interests was the work of Trinity United Church. During 20 years he was secretary of the Trustee Board and for many years also was secretary of the Quarterly Official

Harassed By Strikes, See Province Haven For Export Business

Like Province's Program For Industrial Peace Says Hepburn

ADD TO PRESENT PLANTS

Troubles Across Border Giving Canada Great Opportunity Abroad

TORONTO, March 11—(C.P.)—Two huge United States manufacturing corporations, with subsidiaries in Canada, have indicated to the Ontario government intention to spend $40,000,000 on plant expansions in order to take care of the manufacture of goods for export to world markets now being handled by the parent U.S. firms.

Premier Mitchell Hepburn made this announcement to-day after receiving a deputation from the Canadian Manufacturers' Association which endorsed the principle of the Minimum Wage Bill for men now before the Legislature.

Mr. Hepburn said the two U.S. corporations have been harassed by sit-down strikes and other labor troubles and believed the Ontario Government's program for industrial peace would enable manufacture of their goods to be carried on peaceably in Ontario.

On the manufacturers' deputation were J. E. Walsh, general manager; C. F. Sifferet, general secretary; J. M. McIntosh, secretary Ontario division; R. W. MacDonnell, counsel.

"The deputation said it could not speak formally for the association in respect to the Minimum Wage Bill until after the annual meeting of the association," said Mr. Hepburn.

"But as individuals who have been in touch with a large number of manufacturers they are hearty in accord with the measure and anxious to do their part in maintaining industrial peace in Ontario.

Mr. Hepburn said the deputation raised two minor objections to the bill and the government would give them consideration. His statement continued:

Boon to Business.

"I pointed out the Government was appreciative of the attitude taken by the members of the delegation and that the legislation would probably do a good deal to help Canada capture export markets.

"No one can foresee how long European purchasers can continue at their present rate, but while they do, Canada's chief competitor will be the United States which just now is harassed by the worst labor troubles in its history. The manufacturers in Ontario want to co-operate with us to take advantage of the situation to maintain industrial harmony.

"There is no reason why these U.S. subsidiary plants in Canada cannot take care of the export trade now being handled by the U.S. plants. Several manufacturers with international institutions have assured the Government of their intention to expand Canadian plants for this purpose.

"Canadian people will be well advised to study the situation and do all they can to aid peaceful solutions of industrial problems rather than resort to the illegal violent methods now being pursued in the United States.

"There never was a greater opportunity for us to capture export markets.

"The heads of two international companies have indicated to me plans for the expenditure of $10,000,000 to take care of export business handled by their U.S. plants up to now.

"The manufacturers' deputation praised the operation of the Industrial Standards Act, and it will do its share to keep Ontario busy.

"I want to commend the manufacturers most highly on the attitude they have taken and their willingness to co-operate."

LABOR MEN ASK CROLL TO AMEND NEW WAGE BILL

Want Rate Based On Cost Of Living By Federal Standards—And Only Year At Time

INCREASED PENALTIES

TORONTO, March 11. — (CP) — Hon. David Croll, Ontario Minister of Labor, today promised consideration to amendments suggested by a delegation of the Toronto District Trades and Labor Council for the minimum wage bill for men which the minister has introduced in the legislature.

The amendments include:

That the proposed industrial and labor board be composed of two employers, two representatives of labor and a representative of the government.

That before an order may be put into effect a public conference must be called of employers and employees by freely chosen representatives as defined under the Industrial Standards Act.

That minimum wages must be based on the cost of living according to the standards of the federal government.

All orders fixing wages must be for a period of 12 months and no longer.

That trade advisory boards be appointed with three from each trade.

That workers be protected from intimidation by making it an offence to discharge any employee for activity in assisting and promoting the making of a minimum wage order.

That the penalty for non-observance of the act be increased from the proposed $10 to a substantial amount.

Lindsay Girl Hockey Squad Stage 'Sit-Down' For The Fans

Squat On Ice When Ordered Off After Using Up Time "Primping" In Dressing-Room

IGNORE COAXING, BOOS

LINDSAY, Ont., March 11—(CP)—Lindsay sport fans witnessed their first sit-down strike last night at the local arena. It occurred when two girls' hockey teams, the St. Paul Anglicans and the Uniteds of the Lindsay Church League became dissatisfied with referee rulings and protested by monopolizing the ice with a "sit-down" from which action they refused to budge. It happened following a 0-0 score in the play-off series.

The girls had played the first game of the evening, after which the Peterborough Colts and the Lindsay Midgets were to meet. The Lindsay-Peterborough game was started on schedule and the girls were informed that they could come on during the rest period for the Lindsay-Peterborough game and attempt to break the tie. They lost so much time "primping up" in the dressing room that there was no time left, so when they got on the ice they were ordered off without having an opportunity to play.

The girls were having none of it. There was a huddle and the two teams joined forces and sat down in a big circle at centre ice.

Pleading and coaxing by officials and boos from the waiting audience failed to have any effect. The sit-down was on in earnest.

It was only when the bell finally rang and the Lindsay-Peterborough rounds took the ice in play that

U.S. FIRMS PLAN 10,000,000 ONTARIO EXPANSION

TOURIST BODY ASKS 2 MILLION FOR GAME, FISH

Claim Visitors Bring 100 Million To Ontario, Much Of It Going To Government

300 MORE WARDENS

Stress Observing Of Laws Rather Than Prosecute—Suggest Liquor Board Give Million

TORONTO, March 11 (CP)—Ontario legislature should appropriate $2,000,000 for protection and propagation of game and fish in Ontario, the fish and game committee was told today in a resolution submitted to it by the Ontario Tourist Trade Association.

"We feel we have a perfect right to ask this amount," said E. L. Hughes, North Bay, presenting the resolution. He said $100,000,000 a year was spent by tourists in Ontario and the government received much of it in profits to the Liquor Control Board, hunting and fishing licenses, gasoline tax and by other ways. The Liquor Board should pay a million a year to aid tourist traffic, he said. Another resolution asked 300 more game wardens be employed in Northern Ontario — for purpose of seeing the laws were observed rather than prosecutions.

Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon said the government proposed to issue buttons with each hunting license this fall. A hunter would not be able to say he had forgotten to carry his license.

No Pheasants In Halton

Henry Nicholson, Lincoln County, opposed the proposal to license commercial raising of pheasants. They would be bootlegged, Jack Griffith, Halton County, said there were no pheasants left in his district. Poachers had used traps, hooks and lines to get them. Griffith was a game warden until two years ago.

Mr. Nixon asked the Halton game warden if Griffith's statement was correct. He said they were not. There were plenty of pheasants in some sections of Halton.

George Challies (Con., Grenville-Dundas), former Provincial Secretary, protested it was unusual to hear game wardens in rebuttal of evidence given the committee.

"Not at all," said Mr. Nixon. "You just want to make capital of the charges."

"We ought to grant the $2,000,000 now that we have balanced this mythical budget," remarked Fraser Hunter, (Lib., Toronto St. Patrick's).

"Is it the budget is mythical or the balance?" asked Mr. Nixon.

CABINET OFFICES FOR BRUCE, SMUTS?

Chamberlain On Succeeding Baldwin Expected To Include Dominion Statesman

LONDON, March 11.—(CP Cable)—The Daily Mail said today that when Neville Chamberlain becomes prime minister he may include among his cabinet ministers a Dominion statesman as a representative of the Empire.

Stanley Bruce, Australian high commissioner in London, and General Jan Smuts of South Africa were mentioned as likely possibilities. The new minister, the Daily Mail said, would probably become chairman of an imperial defence board, to which Dominion representatives would be appointed to take a share in the formation of Empire defence strategy.

"Imperial questions of trade and defence are assuming increasing importance in the government's eyes and it is understood the defence board idea is to be discussed at the imperial conference," the newspaper said. "The defence board would have broader powers than the present committee on imperial defence."

HAILEYBURY, Ont., March 11.—(CP)—Abraham K. (Harry) Ansara, Kirkland Lake salesman, today was sentenced to four years in Kingston penitentiary following his conviction yesterday by a supreme court jury of wounding with intent to cause grievous bodily harm. Acquitted on a charge of shooting with intent to murder, Ansara was found guilty of the two other charges, and received an additional two years on the illegal possession of firearms charge, with sentence to run concurrently.

Efforts To Rescue Crew Of Stricken Delia Off Newfoundland Fail.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, Mar. 11 (CP Cable)—The Halifax steamship Delia, abandoned in an ice pack four days ago, sank off Dronk Point in Trepassey Bay today, a few hours before the Newfoundland government steamship Sagona arrived to aid her.

Captain John Beinot of Halifax and his crew of 19 escaped to shore Monday night after the crushing ice had torn in her bow and water rushed into the hold of the 1,367-ton freighter.

Britain Orders 148 New Ships For Her Fleet

Hoare Asks 550 Millions To Assure Motherland Being Prepared On Sea

Admiralty Chief Is Emphatic There Can Be No Rivalry With United States

AIR DANGER MINIMIZED

New Battleships Of Latest Design Selected Only After Exhaustive Test

By George Hambleton
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, March 11.—(CP Cable)—"We must have a fleet," Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the admiralty, declared in the House of Commons this afternoon, "strong enough to carry out its responsibilities in both the eastern and western hemisphere."

Sir Samuel was introducing the naval estimates for 1937, which provide for an expenditure of £110,000,000 and a construction program of 80 new ships.

The first lord frankly recognized it was a huge program, yet he was hopeful that an unregulated race in naval armaments still could be prevented. He was emphatic that "now and henceforth there can be no rivalry between the American and British navies."

148 Ships Under Way.

Following immediately on the 1936 program, Sir Samuel continued, Britain at the end of 1937 would have under construction "the remarkable number of 148 new ships, including five capital ships, four aircraft carriers and 17 cruisers."

Never since the years before 1914 had Britain had two such annual programs in peace time. From one point of view it was a huge program; from another it was reasonable. Its very size was the measure of past deficiencies. The new factor was not the need of a new policy but the need of making effective the old essential policy with the least possible delay.

Hoare dealt with three questions. Firstly, was Britain building the right kind of fleet for new world conditions? Secondly, what was the naval policy behind the construction program? Thirdly, what was likely to be the future of naval armaments?

He proceeded that the "wild claims of fanatics that air power has destroyed sea power have been swallowed up in the element from which they came." Today every sensible student of defence problems realized the interdependence of sea and air power. The days were forever passed when the air force and the navy looked suspiciously at any increase in each other's strength.

No Guesswork Or Copying

There would be no guesswork in the construction of new ships. Least of all would there be any slavish copying of old models or foreign types. For the new battleships there had been no less than 13 designs before the final designs were accepted. Full scale and small scale experiments of the most secret kind had been carried out with every type of explosive upon every kind of strength and construction of material.

"There is not a ship in this program which will not bear evidence of this concentration upon the problems of the new world," Sir Samuel declared.

The danger of air attack would be met by the fullest use of air power itself and the production of anti-

Sunspots Greater Than In '29 Likely To Bring Rainy Summer

Certain To Affect Weather And Radio, Experts Say After Peering Into Space

"BLACK WHIRLWINDS"

By Howard W. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, March 11 (A.P.)—Sunspots surpassing in size, number and violence those of 1928, the summer when unprecedented rains flooded the western dust bowl, are predicted for this coming summer.

Already the spots, seen through the world's largest telescope at Mt. Wilson, California, exceed the 1928 average. They total now about a dozen daily, and this fair to set a record for the present century.

It is certain they will affect weather and radio directly. Further mystery of their indirect effects may be partly solved before the summer is over.

Present spots lie in two broad bands across the sun's face, each corresponding roughly to the temperate zones of earth. Their sizes range from continent- to block fields larger than the whole earth.

Position a Mystery.

The reason for their position is a mystery astronomers would like to fathom. Only during the "maximum sunspot cycle," as at present are they seen in the "temperate" zones. In the "minimum cycle," when there are few, the spots gather in a belt near the sun's equator.

They are whirlwinds. But they whirl in the opposite direction from that of "minimum" spots, near the Equator.

Their driving force appears to be electrical and magnetic. They are black because their light is ultraviolet rays, which have far more energy and destructive power on atoms than heat.

Sun spots have been traced back 30,000 years, in 11 cycles, through tree ring changes due to greater or less rainfall, and gravel deposits due to melting glaciers.

They cause increased radio static, and are accompanied, near their edges, by bright flares of light, which cause short-wave radio to fade for 10 minutes to half an hour. Their cycles affect weather, crops, and comfort.

Wages totalling $85,000,000 were paid last year to the 70,000 subway, street car and bus employees of London.

Fire Got Too Hot So He Jumps 60 Feet

Oklahoma City, March 11 (AP)

OVID Carter, 21, jumped 60 feet from a burning oil derrick yesterday, landed in a near-by roadway, rolled over a couple of times, then stood up and said:

"I saw the fire and I had to do something—so I just let go and jumped."

His injuries were slight.

Blind 'Menace To Society' Sent To Prison 10 Years

Record Shows Accused Been In, Out Of Jails, Penitentiaries, Chain Gangs Of Two Countries

18 YEARS' WAR ON SOCIETY

BRANTFORD, Ont., March 11 (C.P.).—William Holder, blind man termed by Mr. Justice Nicol Jeffrey "a menace to society" was sentenced to-day to 10 years in Kingston Penitentiary.

Holder pleaded guilty on Tuesday to "shooting with intent to injure" a Hamilton taxi driver several years ago. The charge had been reduced from "shooting with intent to kill" to which accused pleaded not guilty. "Such a crime would mean a life term," said Justice Jeffrey.

Holder has gone blind since his recent arrest, his counsel told the court. The accused has a long criminal record which was read to the court. He escaped to United States after shooting the taxi driver, who had brought him here from Hamilton, served time in a Georgia chain gang, and a U.S. Federal penitentiary, and escaped when previously brought back for trial on the shooting charge.

Mr. Justice Jeffrey read over Holder's record, which started back in 1919 and from then until now he has had sentences in jails, penitentiaries and chain gangs amounting to more than 23 years, in less than 18 years.

Appalling Performance.

"Your record is simply appalling," Mr. Justice Jeffrey said. "You have waged war on society from 1919, both in Canada and across the border, and now the society that you have waged war on will have to keep you. I have consulted with Dr. G. E. Verity, and he informs me that you are comparatively blind, with little or no chance of recovery, but I am not going to give you a short sentence, because if you ever did recover your eyesight you would again be free to wage war on society.

"I sentence you to ten years in Kingston Penitentiary where you will be fed, clothed and receive medical attention. I will also make a report of your condition to the executive, and if they wish to show any clemency, then it will be their responsibility, and not mine."

HULL ORDERS U.S. ENVOY TO PROTEST GERMAN ATTACKS

LAGUARDIA AFFAIR

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull today instructed United States Ambassador William E. Dodd at Berlin to make rigorous representations to the German foreign office concerning recent articles appearing in the German press about the United States.

The Secretary of State recently apologized formally to the German embassy here for remarks made by Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York in which La Guardia referred to Chancellor Hitler as a "raving, shrieked lunatic."

La Guardia's statements, made before the women's section of the American Jewish Congress, evoked a deluge of criticism from the German press in which La Guardia not only was attacked but United States institutions and Jewish women also were flayed.

This press campaign was called to Secretary Hull's attention by Mrs. Stephen S. Wise, wife of the noted Jewish rabbi and chairman of the women's section of the American Jewish Congress.

Small Boy Pulled Out Of Otonabee Little The Worse For His Cold Dip

Badly scared, but otherwise apparently little the worse for his adventure, 6-year-old Garry Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Jones, 604 Young street, North Monaghan, was unable to provide the name of the lad who rescued him from certain drowning in the icy waters of the Otonabee River this (Thursday) morning.

Mrs. Jones, whose husband is a local "soccer" footballer declared her two lads, Garry 6, and Bennie 4, had given her different versions of the circumstances which led up to the former falling off Ryan's wharf into the river around half-past ten o'clock this morning.

Expressing her gratitude for the prompt action of the rescuer, described as a lad of about fourteen years of age, but otherwise unidentified, Mrs. Jones stated both children came home in a very frightened state.

Addressing the little red-headed lad who was snuggled between the blankets in his tiny white cot, a reported asked: "Who got you out of the water, Garry?"

"A big boy and Bennie," he replied.

"Yes," Bennie agreed, "I helped to get him out. I pulled him by the collar and he was awfully heavy."

At the time of the mishap, the two lads stated they were playing on the wharf with Roy and Thomas Douglas.

ILL FEW HOURS DR. MORRISON DIES IN CITY

One Of Peterborough's Most Prominent Citizens For 46 Years

BORN IN HURON COUNTY

Served Several Terms As Alderman And For Years On School Board

Taken suddenly by a stroke after an illness of a few hours, Dr. Matthew Albert Morrison, prominent Peterborough dentist, died at his home, 462 Hunter street, early last evening. He was 68 years of age.

Believed to be in fair health, he was in attendance at his practice up to Tuesday this week, when he complained of feeling ill and walked home to take to his bed. No serious alarm was caused by his condition until unexpectedly he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage shortly after 7 o'clock Wednesday evening and died within a few minutes.

In many community circles his passing will be mourned. Not alone was he known as a leading member of the Ontario dental profession, but was active at one time or another during 44 years' residence in this city in many public interests and activities. He was an outstanding worker in Trinity United Church. At different times he served on the City Council and on the Board of Education and as chairman of the Peterborough Liquor License Board which was in authority here before O.T.A. days. He was particularly prominent in the Masonic Order. Long was he a worker in the interests of the Liberal-Conservative Association here.

Dr. Morrison was born in the township of Howick, Huron county, son of the late Andrew Morrison and Margaret Williamson. He gained his early education at the Walton Public school, the Seaforth Collegiate Institute and the Goderich Model School. He obtained a Doctor of Dental Surgery degree from Trinity College and was later awarded L.D.S. and M.D.S. degrees by the Royal College of Dental Surgery, graduating in 1892.

On June 16, 1920, he came to this city to commence his lengthy practice which he continued to the present. Immediately he took an community affairs an interest which spread to many diverse fields in subsequent years.

Elected to City Council.

In 1903 he was elected to the City Council and retained his seat to serve in 1904 and 1905. He turned his attention to the Board of Education in 1906 and was elected to a seat which he retained until 1915. In the years 1914 and 1915, he was chairman of the Board. Of note in his work in the educational field was his chairmanship of the committee which had charge of the construction of the Collegiate Institute and the Queen Mary and King George public schools.

Dental Surgeon of 33rd

His career in dentistry was one of distinction. He was a member from District No. 2 on the Board of Directors of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons from 1913 to 1923 and was president of the Board in 1922 and 1923. Long a member of the Peterborough Dental Association, he served a term as president. While the 33rd Battalion was recruiting, he was dental surgeon to the unit with the rank of lieutenant.

One of Dr. Morrison's leading interests was the work of Trinity United Church. During 20 years he was secretary of the Trustee Board and for many years also was secretary of the Quarterly Official

Harassed By Strikes See Province Haven For Export Business

Like Province's Program For Industrial Peace Says Hepburn

ADD TO PRESENT PLANTS

Troubles Across Border Giving Canada Great Opportunity Abroad

TORONTO, March 11—(C.P.)—Two huge United States manufacturing corporations, with subsidiaries in Canada, have indicated to the Ontario government intention to spend $10,000,000 on plant expansions in order to take care of the manufacture of goods for export to world markets now being handled by the parent U.S. firms.

Premier Mitchell Hepburn made this announcement to-day after receiving a deputation from the Canadian Manufacturers' Association which endorsed the principle of the Minimum Wage Bill for men now before the Legislature.

Mr. Hepburn said the two U.S. corporations have been harassed by sit-down strikes and other labor troubles and believed the Ontario Government's program for industrial peace would enable manufacture of their goods to be carried on peaceably in Ontario.

On the manufacturers' deputation were J. E. Walsh, general manager; J. T. Burrett, general secretary; J. M. McIlraith, secretary Ontario division; H. W. MacDonnell, counsel.

"The deputation said it could not speak formally for the association in respect to the Minimum Wage Bill until after the annual meeting of the association," said Mr. Hepburn.

"But as individuals who have been in touch with a large number of manufacturers they are heartily in accord with the measure and anxious to do their part in maintaining industrial peace in Ontario."

Mr. Hepburn said the deputation raised two minor objections to the bill and the government would give them consideration. His statement continued:

Boon to Business.

"I pointed out the Government was appreciative of the attitude taken by the members of the delegation and that the legislation would probably do a good deal to help Canada capture export markets.

"No one can foresee how long European purchases can continue at their present rate, but while they do, Canada's chief competitor will be the United States which just now is harassed by the worst labor troubles in its history. The manufacturers in Ontario want to cooperate with us to take advantage of the situation to maintain industrial harmony.

"There is no reason why these U.S. subsidiary plants in Canada cannot take care of the export trade now being handled by the U.S. plants. Several manufacturers with international institutions have assured the Government of their intention to expand Canadian plants for this purpose.

"Canadian people will be well advised to study the situation and do all they can to aid peaceful solutions of industrial problems rather than resort to the illegal violent methods now being pursued in the United States.

"There never was a greater opportunity for us to capture export markets.

"The heads of two international companies have indicated to me plans for the expenditure of $10,000,000 to take care of export business handled by their U.S. plants up to now.

"The manufacturers' deputation praised the operation of the Industrial Standards Act, and it will do its share to keep Ontario busy.

"I want to commend the manufacturers most highly on the attitude they have taken and their willingness to co-operate."

LABOR MEN ASK CROLL TO AMEND NEW WAGE BILL

Want Rate Based On Cost Of Living By Federal Standards—And Only Year At Time

INCREASED PENALTIES

TORONTO, March 11. — (CP) — Hon. David Croll, Ontario Minister of Labor, today promised consideration to amendments suggested by a delegation of the Toronto District Trades and Labor Council for the minimum wage bill for men which the minister has introduced in the legislature.

The amendments include:

That the proposed industrial and labor board be composed of two employers, two representatives of labor and a representative of the government.

That before an order may be put into effect a public conference must be called of employers and employees by freely chosen representatives as defined under the Industrial Standards Act.

That minimum wages must be based on the cost of living according to the standards of the federal government.

All orders fixing wages must be for a period of 12 months and no longer.

That trade advisory boards be appointed with three from each trade.

That workers be protected from intimidation by making it an offence to discharge any employee for activity in assisting and promoting the making of a minimum wage order.

That the penalty for non-observance of the act be increased from the proposed $10 to a substantial amount.

Australia is decreasing its income taxes payable by individuals.

Lindsay Girl Hockey Squad Stage 'Sit-Down' For The Fans

Squat On Ice When Ordered Off After Using Up Time "Pretty-ing" In Dressing-Room

IGNORE COAXING, BOOS

LINDSAY, Ont., March 11.—(CP)—Lindsay sport fans witnessed their first sit-down strike last night at the local arena. It occurred when two girls' hockey teams, the St. Paul Anglicans and the United of the Lindsay Church League became dissatisfied with referee rulings and protested by monopolizing the ice with a "sit-down" from which nothing they refused to budge. It happened following a tie-score in the play-off series.

The girls had played the first game of the evening, after which the Peterborough Colts and the Lindsay Millers were to meet. The Lindsay-Peterborough game was started on schedule and the girls were informed that they could come on during the rest period for the Lindsay-Peterborough game and attempt to break the tie. They lost no night time "prettying up" in the dressing room that there was no time left on when they got on the ice they were ordered off without having an opportunity to play.

The girls were having none of it. There was a huddle and the two teams lined forces and sat down in a big circle at centre ice.

Pleadings and coaxing by officials and boos from the waiting audience failed to have any effect. The sit-down was on in earnest.

It was only when the belt rivalry rules and the Lindsay-Peterborough parents took the ice to coax their game sit-down or no sit-down, that they called off their strike and reluctantly made their way to the boards.

TOT DIES OF BURNS

Clothes Ignite While Playing Before Fireplace.

TORONTO, March 11 (C.P.). — Marlene Fong, 4½, died last night in hospital a few hours after her clothing caught fire as she played with papers in front of an open fireplace. The child was alone with two younger sisters, and was helpless to put out the flames.

MUNICIPAL SUBSIDY ACT INTRODUCED IN ONTARIO HOUSE

Cabinet Will Direct How Knowledge Of Gift Is Passed To Taxpayers

BUDGET ATTACK OPENS

TORONTO, March 11.—(CP).—The Budget debate opens in the Ontario Legislature to-day with Arthur Ellis (Con. Ottawa South), Opposition financial critic, leading the attack on the budget presented by Premier Mitchell Hepburn Tuesday. The Premier reported a surplus of $1,347,728.

First Legislation to implement a promise made by the Premier was brought in yesterday when the Municipal Subsidy Act was given first reading. The bill provided for payment, at the Cabinet's discretion, of sums equivalent to one mill on rateable assessments to every city, town, village and township in Ontario.

The cabinet will be given power to decide if a municipality meets the condition imposed that the subsidy must be passed on to the taxpayers. It will also have power to direct how knowledge of the subsidy is to be passed on to the taxpayer, whether by a notice on his tax bill, tax receipt or otherwise.

Government bills to transfer to the industry and labor board, soon to be set up, powers now vested in the Minimum Wage Board for enforcement of the Industrial Standards Act were brought in by Hon. David Croll, Minister of Labor.

A new clause in the Industrial Standards Act would give power to fix prices to employer-employee conferences in the barbering and other personal service trades. Penalties for violation of price codes would be provided.

Inter-Provincial Competition.

Another new clause would affect meeting inter-provincial competition. Trade conferences would be given power to assess their members to pay inspectors whose job would be to see wage standards were observed.

Legislation to enable the Government on April 1 to start paying the present municipal share of old-age pensions and mothers' Allowances also was introduced.

John Rowlandson (Lib. Cochrane South) withdrew his Bill to guarantee a minimum wage of $40 a month, exclusive of board and lodging, to piece workers in pulpwood and lumber camps. He did so on the understanding the matter would be taken care of by minimum wage

SALESMAN GUILTY IN SHOOTING CASE

Wounded Haileybury Girl Tells Of Breaking Engagement Because Of Accused's Threats

HAILEYBURY, Ont., March 11—(CP)—Convicted of shooting with intent to cause grievous bodily harm and of being in illegal possession of firearms, Abraham Harry Ansara, Kirkland Lake, today awaited sentence at the end of the current assizes.

The 30-year-old salesman was acquitted on another charge of shooting with intent to murder. A jury under Mr. Justice J. A. Makins delivered the verdict last night after more than three hours' deliberations.

The charges came about after an early morning party in the back of a Kirkland Lake store January 30. Miss Helvi Mutka, 21, was shot through the abdomen and seriously wounded. She recovered in time to testify at Ansara's trial.

The girl said she broke her engagement with the salesman because he had threatened her on two occasions. Once Ansara struck her on the jaw, Miss Mutka said and another time threatened to stab her. She testified that on the night of the shooting she called Ansara to tell him she considered their friendship over and that she intended to marry another man.

FIGHT OVER ERNIE

Laundry Girls Stick to Guns in Demanding Handsome Boss Back.

IRTHLINGBOROUGH, Eng., March 11.—(AP).— With the shouts of 300 girl laundry workers—"we want Ernie"—ringing in their ears, union and company officials of a local laundry tried to-day to settle the absorbing question of where handsome Ernie Greasley was going to work.

His employers thought a promotion for Ernie as foreman of another plant would be nice.

The girls, however, insisted they would strike unless Ernie—he is "Clark Gable" to them—was left at his present post. "Negotiations," officials said, "are in a delicate state."

Adding to their delicacy was the incessant chant of the girls, whose admiration drove Ernie into hiding: "Do not give in, we know what we want. We want Ernie!"

Young Girl Brands Husband Yellow-back For Not Appearing In Court.

WATERTOWN, N.Y., March 11—(AP)—Watertown's girl bride, Mrs. Leona Rochia Buckus, was committed to the New York State School for girls at Hudson yesterday over her tearful protests and without bidding her youthful husband, Stanley S. Buckus, goodbye.

She left a children's court hearing terming him a "yellowback" for his absence from court, while her mother, Mrs. Mary Rochia, blamed the 18-year-old bridegroom "for all our trouble."

They were married at Carthage, N.Y., in January.

San Quentin Prison, March 10 SAMUEL Whittaker, convicted of killing his wife, stood up in court and cried:

"If I am guilty, I hope God will strike me dead before I ever reach my cell."

He died of a heart attack in the prison hospital—before he ever reached his cell.

REBELS REPORT ARMS SHIP SUNK

Fail to State However Whether Munitions Were Saved First

SALAMANCA, Spain, March 11 — (AP)— The insurgent Spanish regime officially announced today that the government munitions freighter Mar Cantabrico had been sunk, contrary to previous assertions it had fallen a prize of war to insurgent warships.

No details were given in the terse announcement. The vessel carried more than $2,700,000 worth of munitions from New York and Veracruz, Mexico, to the aid of the Valencia government.

(The Mar Cantabrico previously was reported to have been taken to Ferrol, fortified insurgent port on the northwest tip of Spain, after being shelled and captured by cruiser Canarias while attempting to run the insurgent blockade.)

(The insurgent announcement deepened the mystery surrounding the vessel since it slipped out of Veracruz harbor and was unreported for 17 days until it radioed a wild appeal for aid Monday, using call letter of a British ship and electrifying the British and French navies.

(It was not known whether the insurgents had removed the huge cargo of war stores and then scuttled the freighter or whether it had sunk enroute to Ferrol in contradiction to the report of its arrival.

(An original report had declared the shells from the Canarias sent the ship to the bottom of the Bay of Biscay during the attack.)

The loss of the Mar Cantabrico's cargo was considered in insurgent circles one of the most crushing blows delivered to the government.

HEARD TOO "LOUDLY"

Deaf Man Halted Proceedings at Old Bailey.

LONDON, March 11.—(AP).— A deaf man who "heard" too loudly interrupted proceedings in Mr. Justice Finlay's court at the Old Bailey to-day.

A persistent squeaking noise baffled attendants. An engineer couldn't ferret out the noise. Then the court discovered the queer sound—like a radio squeal—was caused by an electric hearing apparatus.

The Justice solemnly admonished the offender not to hear so noisily in the future.

This photograph taken at the Montreal Forum just before the Maroon-Canadiens hockey game shows a scene which was re-enacted in many hockey centres in Canada. It shows the two teams lined up on the ice during a two-minutes' silence and while a bugle sounded "Taps" in memory of Howie Morena veteran Canadiens hockey player who died in Montreal. Morens' body lay in state at the Forum until the funeral.

LUCKY "GAMBLE" SAVES LOST YOUTH

Keeps In One Direction, Finds Way Out After Night In Bush

TIMMINS, Ont., March 11 (CP) —A lucky "gamble" by Rene Belanger, 18-year-old youth lost in the dense bush for two days without a compass, saved him from possible death by privation, he revealed to-day after his first sleep since Monday.

Lightly clad, Belanger built a fire during his second night in the bush, and kept awake huddled in front of the blaze while strong winds whipped through his clothing and obliterated the trail he had made.

Yesterday morning he staked everything on a gamble that he follow one definite direction. He took precautions not to wander in a circle and emerged into familiar bush at the edge of Cook's Lake near Timmins. Parties of provincial police and foresters had been searching for him for three days.

Belanger had entered the bush Sunday afternoon in search of game. He began late in the day to retrace his trail but was lost. He wandered about the forest for hours, determined to keep awake, and sighted a fire on the other side of a clearing at McCheaney's lumber camp. There he was given food and shelter, provided with matches Monday morning and shown the route to Timmins, but he was again lost by night.

He built his fire that second night, huddled around it and on the following morning was lucky in striking the right direction to home. He suffered no frost bites despite his light clothing. He was quite hungry when he arrived in Timmins, said he had not noticed his hunger while in the bush because he was so busy trying to find his way out.

BRIDGE PLANNED TWEED HIGHWAY

Federal Government Also Sets $15,000 Aside For Public Building In Village

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, March 11. — Following closely on the announcement that $15,000 was being appropriated by the Federal Government for the construction of a public building, possibly a post office, in Tweed, comes the news that tenders were being called for the erection of a concrete bridge on Highway No. 37 at Tweed. With these two announcements this week, the village is looking forward to a busy summer, and this will assist in the easing of the unemployment situation in this centre.

Frank Derusha of Stoco suffered a painful head injury when he was delivering wood at the Tweed United Church parsonage. It appears that when throwing the wood off the truck one of Mr. Derusha's mitts caught in a silver on a stick of cordwood, causing him to lose his balance and fall off the load over the fence, striking his head and side against the wood pile. Several stitches were necessary to close the gash in his head.

Slippery road at Chapman's Corners on Highway No. 37 resulted in a collision between cars driven by Frank Tummon and Lloyd Johnston of Tweed. Both automobiles were slightly damaged.

As a result of the increasing number of transients at the local jail during the month of February, twelve "knights of the road" were locked in the jail by Constable J. C. Hayes this week. During the month of February 150 transients were given nights lodging in the local jail. Other trailblents who stop in Tweed in the future may find themselves accomodated in the county jail if they come to the village, as it is the intention of the local authorities to discourage their stopping at Tweed.

Jerry Leroux of Lily Lake appeared in the Police Court before Magistrate Lloyd, charged with panhandling on the street. He was given fifteen days in the county jail.

AMUSEMENT TAX ENDS JUNE 1ST

Revenue $1,800,000 For Year Ending March 31—A War Measure

EXPENSIVE TO COLLECT

TORONTO, Mar. 10—(CP)—Tax-free amusements, not known in Ontario since Great War days, will come back June 1, Premier Hepburn announced Monday in his budget address that the tax, raised and lowered by various governments since its inception, will be abolished.

Theatre patrons paid the "great bulk of the tax, estimated to yield the province $1,800,000 in the fiscal year ending March 31. But sports fans and dance patrons have paid their share. Parties where euchre, bridge and bingo were played, and where proceeds did not go to charity, also have been subject to the tax.

"The abolition of this tax will be a distinct benefit to the citizens of the lower economic scale, because over 80 per cent of the amusement tax is collected from admissions of 35 cents and under," the premier said.

Of all taxes, that on amusements was the most difficult and expensive to collect and caused more annoyance than any other, Mr. Hepburn told the House.

"Nuisance taxes are bad taxes and should be reduced and discarded wherever possible," he said. "This tax reform will put Ontario in an enviable position in competing for tourist traffic which is becoming such an important factor in our economic life."

FARMS FORCING TRADING POSTS TO STOP BUYING

Annual Value Of Furs Taken Has Declined Since 1926-27

PRICES ARE LOWER

MONTREAL LAKE, Sask., March 11.—Canada's backwoods fur trade, to use a time-rubbed expression, is taking it on the chin. The Dominion's first and once greatest industry has been suffering from financial influenza since the season of 1926-27, when the value of pelts taken (including those from fur farms) was $18,804,126—the highest on record.

In 1821, before Canadians had even thought of raising fur in their backyards, the total pelt value was $397,565. It was the first record of production.

This winter in many backwoods settlements the black - shingled, white-washed buildings of Revillon Freres Trading Co. have felt the moccasined tread of their last customer. The black and white serpent signs of the "French Company," as northerners know it, have disappeared.

The neat outposts so familiar to Indian and trapper have been absorbed by the Hudson's Bay Co., last purveyor of the industry. Changes in Saskatchewan have been made in such historic hinterland trade centres as Stanley, on the Churchill river, Lac du Brochet, South Reindeer Lake, Portage la Loche, Souris River, and at this tiny outpost 100 miles north of civilization.

Operated Since 1722

"Revillon," a name linked with the fur trade since the firm's establishment in 1722, seems destined to become a memory in the north. Men employed with the company since its incorporation at Ottawa in 1906, have become "Adventurers of England Trading into Hudson's Bay" and their allegiance now is to the 267-year-old "HBC" the only commercial enterprise in the world, incidentally, which is allowed to use the Union Jack as its symbol.

Other Revillon posts, less unprofitable, are being maintained under the name of Hudson's Bay Co. with approximately 20 involved in the reorganization. In the meantime, retail operations in London, Paris and New York, are continuing under the original name.

It has been the silver fox-diamond of the fur trade — that has hurt backwoods commerce. Its sudden production as a "farm animal" has had a widespread effect on the industry. Though the "HBC" last year secured a profit and scores of "free" traders continue to live comfortably on returns from the trade, Canada's 6,000 fox farms have cut deeply into the market. Pelts, much more plentiful than 20 years ago, no longer bring such high return as the $2,675 once paid for a single skin. In 1934 the top price for a pelt had dropped to $178. The year before it was $230.

Closing the last log-walled post of Revillon will mark the passing of an organization that has contributed in no small measure to the progress of the Dominion. Its life blood was the courage, fortitude, patience and vision of the men who were its employees.

The firm, which in 1911 became known as Revillon Freres Trading Co., first started operations in Canada in 1901 following the first visit of Victor Revillon. Posts were established on the St. Lawrence and Northwest Rivers and later on Hudson Bay. Business operations soon spread to the west.

For High Producer

During the 1934-35 season, silver foxes represented 34 per cent of the total value of fur production in the Dominion, the value of all foxes being placed at 54 per cent of the value for all furs. Red fox, blue, cross, and white fox are still chiefly products of the north woods while the silver has become almost entirely a product of "civilization."

It was after 1913 that fur farming showed signs of becoming a widespread industry. Prince Edward Island led the way with its fox pens. Stories are told of the Island's zealous guarding of its foundation stock and of plans to keep the industry exclusively for the province. Breeding animals were sold, however, and in early days of the business brought from $18,000 to $35,000 per pair, alive.

By 1919 there were 7,181 "silvers" on fur farms in Canada and the price of breeders had dropped to an average of $650 a pair. Since then muskrats and mink—both high in "catch" value—have found a place in fur farming. The trade "boomed" until 1931-32, when over 7,000 farms were operating and then a decline set in until the peak year of 1935-37. Since then it has wavered on the downside, fur farms and trading posts suffering alike.

Aeroplanes Banned

The federal government, realizing the need of immediate action to aid trapper and Indian—the latter particularly—has taken steps to build up the fur-bearing populace. White men, chief offenders among those who live by trapping, have been forbidden to use aeroplanes in their fur-gathering operations. In Saskatchewan certain trapping areas have been leased to Indians for their exclusive use. The government is warring against the trapper who depopulates the land moves on to fresh territory. The Indian needs few restrictions. He is a conservationist by nature.

The present-day trader is a bright, well-educated, refined business man. He keeps mentally alert with books, newspapers, radio, recreation, and the days of "going native" are as remote as the bow and arrow.

Life in the backwoods has crept out of the moose hide stage. The fur trade has put on a white collar. More than one trader has white linen and silverware on his table at meal time and bannock and beans are almost a memory, recalled from a Robert Service ballad.

Farm Pelts Flooding Trappers Market

Faced with competition from fur farms which are annually supplying an increasing number of pelts to the market, Canada's traders and trappers are finding smaller returns for their backwoods labor. Lowered prices and stiffer competition has forced merging of the Revillon Freres Company, one of whose northern Saskatchewan posts is shown (top CENTRE), with the powerful Hudson's Bay Company. Top LEFT) is William Mitchell, Hudson's Bay post manager at Montreal Lake, Sask., and an example of the young and well-educated men now in charge of the trading posts. A typical white trapper of the north is pictured at RIGHT. Living a hard winter life, he lives through the summer in comparative ease, providing a good season and fair prices have assured him sufficient funds. A typical black fox from one of Prince Edward Island's farms is shown (BELOW).

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, March 11.—John Jackson, of Toronto is in the Ross Hospital, the victim of a serious motor accident near Fowler' Corners on the Lindsay-Fenelon Falls Highway on Tuesday.

He was sitting in the rear seat of a car driven by A. T. E. Taylor, of Toronto, when it skidded, went off the road, smashed two fence posts and a large maple tree and came to rest between two large trees. The front door of the car was jammed so tightly that it had to be cried open in order to release the occupants. The car was wrecked beyond repair. Jackson sustained serious body injuries and it is feared his skull has been fractured.

The driver of the car and two other occupants escaped uninjured.

New Hockey Rinks

The villages of Cannington and Omemee are planning new hockey arenas for next winter. Cannington's rink does not come up to O.H.A. specifications and as a result the team from that village has played nearly all its games at Beaverton. The Omemee club, which has won four or five cups this year, representing a similar number of championships, has no rink at present. The remarkable success achieved by the club this year has promoted public-spirited citizens to plan for the erection of an arena.

Gets Jail Sentence

Harold Sipes, of Peterborough, who was convicted in Lindsay last year on the charge of theft, was sentenced by Magistrate Gee in Bowmanville court this week to two months' imprisonment for breaking into the C.N.R. station in that town.

Dealing With a Sponger

A young man of 24 was in court at London, Ont., and he informed Magistrate Menzies plainly he would prefer to beg rather than work at anything he did not like. He was particular about the sort of work he did. He said so himself. Said also he had not worked since 1933. When it was suggested a place might be secured for him on a farm he offered the information that farming was one occupation which was out of the question as far as he was concerned. This young man happened in court because he had been found begging.

If this beggar had not been working since 1933 then he must have had money given to him a good many times by a good many people in a good many places. The people who earned the money on which he has managed to exist may or may not be working at something which they like. There is the large chance many of them have to work at the first thing they can find to do in order to make a living. How a young man of 24 expects such people to keep on handing money to him when he will not work is one of the things hard to understand. No wonder the magistrate in London remanded him for a few days to think the matter over. It is not easy to determine how best to deal with a sponger.

Laughing at the Scots!

Trustee J. Gerald Kelly does not wish any more exchange teachers from Scotland in the separate schools of Toronto. The broad accent which they used caused pupils to laugh at the visiting teachers. When a trustee named Kelly opens fire upon the accent of the Scottish teachers it is possible the trouble may go far; it created a small rumpus right in Toronto.

Truth is, Scotland produces a number of accents, and does so in only a short distance as miles go. To use a simple illustration: A native of Maybole, in Ayrshire, which has an elevation of from 12 to 14 thousand feet, will say "blauck cawt" for black cat, while a person from Ayr, only 16 miles away, would merely use a soft "a" avoiding slightly the hard and nasal "a" such as would be used in our country. Maybole produces many tenors, while in Ayr the majority of men's voices are baritone.

There is a difference between Glasgow and Edinburgh, and those places are but 50 miles apart. In Glasgow (which is now somewhat of an Irish city) the Scot uses a rather heavy drole, while in Edinburgh it is lighter and more of a sing-song variety to it. Inverness claims to speak the most perfect English in the British Empire, although Gaelic is spoken there as well as the vernacular of the district. The native there will address himself according to the individual whom he meets.

There is really nothing at which to laugh in the soft-spoken tongue of the Scot, and something indeed to admire when the "R's" begin to roll, but that delightful habit is something which belongs mostly to the folk on the west coast. We fear Trustee Kelly touched on a point where tempers may be fired when he said the children were moved to laughter when they heard the Scottish teachers talk.

The Age of an Oak Tree

Two oak trees standing near Kilworth in Middlesex county have been receiving attention, and experts believe they are the oldest in Western Ontario. W. R. Smith, an advocate of reforestation, says the trees would be 500 years old, in which case they would have been of fair size before Christopher Columbus ever set sail for America.

An expert in such matters in Peterborough says it is quite possible that oak trees could attain that age and more. In England there is the Greendale oak at Welbeck placed at from 800 to 1,500 years, and the Cowthorpe oak near Wethery, Yorks, credited with an age of 1,800 years. There is no way of telling the age until the tree is cut, and then the rings tell the story, but not plainly. It is necessary to use a magnifying glass to make the count as the growth each year is so small that it cannot be determined with the naked eye.

The oak produces no acorns until it is between 60 and 70 years of age and it is not considered profitable to cut the tree for timber until it has entered its second century. It takes at least a century to produce four feet of diameter. There are oak trees in England which have a trunk 120 feet high and a girth at the base of from 60 to 70 feet.

There is not much of this timber left in this district. Some red oak can be secured around Wassaw and Omemee, and there is white oak in the Rice Lake district. Nearly all oak flooring is imported, and the principal reason for that is because our oak is so hard it is almost impossible to drive nails in it. There are a number of oak trees growing in Peterborough which were probably of considerable size long before the first settler ever reached this district.

Could Worry Do It?

That Howie Morenz, idol of the Canadiens, should die when he was apparently recovering from the effects of a broken leg, is one thing difficult to explain. Morenz was the model hockey player of all time. He had been playing professional for 14 years, but was apparently in excellent physical condition, and his habit of living was such that it never endangered his health.

The physician who attended him reported that the day before his death he made an examination of his patient, and found his heart and nerve system normal. And yet a heart attack is blamed for the death of Howie Morenz. One report says he had been worrying a good deal about his hockey future, feeling that the injury to his leg would keep him out of the game, and yet it is hard to believe that man of 32 years in good physical condition could succumb to worry.

And yet Morenz was of the worrying type. He worried when he was drafted out of the one team he loved and where he felt at home—with the Canadiens. He played indifferent hockey at New York and also with Chicago, and it was not until he went back to the Canadiens that he was himself. Canada has not yet produced a greater hockey player than Howie Morenz. A gentleman always.

No Need to Help There

Mrs. Wallis Simpson is much in the news from the continent. When she moves from here to there it is duly recorded that she left here and also fully chronicled that she arrived there. The last move took her to Monts in France to the Chateau de Cante, a fine old spot with 400 years of history to its credit. Friends said she would remain "in this retreat for at least a month."

One may be a little dim or musty in trying to determine exactly what is meant by a chateau or a retreat, but we find a little light thrown on proper and sufficient understanding by reading that "Twenty-two servants, headed by an English butler, lined up as Mrs. Simpson arrived, their uniforms resplendent in the soft red glow of chandeliers shining out under the castle's irregular, high-pointed blue slate roofs and turrets."

So we take it when one is invited to go and visit in a chateau it is understood in advance there will be no need of offering to help do the work in the house or lend a hand with the dishes. Standards differ according to times and countries. On the Tenth Concession for instance company which did not grab a towel and don an apron and offer to help with the dishes stood a poor chance of getting asked back a second time.

For a Worthy Cause

The annual tag day of St. Vincent's Orphanage on Saturday affords the citizens of Peterborough and the district an opportunity to show in tangible form their appreciation of the fine work this organization has been carrying on in the community for many years in the interest of neglected and dependent children. The revenue obtained from this yearly appeal forms one of the main credit items in the financial budget of the Orphanage so it is essential that the response should be marked by the usual generosity on this occasion, especially in view of the fact that the financial conditions of the last few years have naturally increased the demands upon the facilities of the institution.

It is scarcely necessary to stress the importance of the work that is being done by the orphanage. Every citizen is surely familiar with the details and has had an opportunity to note the care and training given to the children who find homes and a new chance in life in this very efficiently and economically managed institution.

Importance of Scrap Metal

The average person has little idea of the part played by scrap metals in industry. Just now prices of scrap metals are on the way up, and scrap or junk is becoming scarce. In a number of places one sees a man with a rig going about gathering up scrap iron, and it may be that from such a picture people get the idea that the business does not amount to much. But it does.

During the war United States made a survey in order to determine which businesses could remain in operation and which would have to close to conserve man power and war effort. There were a good many places with fine looking premises and impressive offices which were written down in the non-essential class, but the business of scrap metal was placed with those which should remain in full operation.

We have been informed that many of the industrial leaders base their movements of expansion on the scrap metal business. When they see prices firming and the supply becoming scarce they know some large project is under way and buyers have taken all the scrap metal they could secure. By the time scrap metal reaches the larger centres it is in the million-dollar class of business.

What About Control?

It would be difficult to prove that the word control has much meaning in the working out of the Ontario Liquor Control Board operations. The last figures revealed that Ontario had increased its spendings more than 16 per cent.

The total sales would have only a short distance to go to reach $50,000,000 and that means about $14 per year for every man, woman and child in the province.

There are a good many people who spend nothing at all for beer or liquor, and the children can also be eliminated, so it must be that many of our adults are spending a formidable amount.

In a city the size of Peterborough there are within the city limits and immediately adjacent to the city at least 25,000 people. Probably more. We are probably about average in our habits with the other people in the province, so we are spending about $368,000 a year for beer and wine and liquor. The "control" feature is not being reflected in such figures.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The weather and the Hepburn budget are both more suggestive of Christmas that the second week in March.

It has remained for Premier Hepburn to locate the forgotten man. The 1937 Budget really does something for the taxpayer.

Premier Aberhart is going to the coronation where he will at least have the distinction of being the only social credit prime minister in the parade.

Probably President Roosevelt calls his talk to the nation fireside chats because he takes advantage of the opportunity to haul the Supreme Court over the coals.

A mild earthquake was noted in Ontario early Tuesday morning and it is realized now that this was probably the advance notice of the Hepburn budget.

So much Canadian lumber has been exported to the United States that there is said to be a shortage in Canada. Still there must be many unused planks from old political platforms.

Young Japanese bride is to distribute 1,500,000 fans among the people as a wedding gift. If they all acknowledge the presentations her fan mail will probably set up a new record.

Stamps bearing the portrait of Adolf Hitler are to go into circulation on April 20th, the chancellor's birthday. Mayor La Guardia will undoubtedly want some specimens of the first issue.

It is reported the Conservative opposition at Queen's Park will sponsor a bill to repeal the Hepburn separate school tax legislation. That sounds as if the board of strategy has started in to build up the propaganda for the next election.

American labor organizations seem determined to throw monkey wrenches into the industrial machine just at a time when industry has been showing signs of getting back to normal prosperity.

The Italian Fascist grand council announces plans to abolish the lower House of parliament. And when the Fascist administration starts in to abolish anything it is as good as abolished then and there.

The Committee for Industrial Organization has announced that "sit-down" as used in connection with strikes is spelled with a hyphen. And now that we have learned to spell the thing the next step is to learn how to expel it.

One of the hockey greats of all time is gone in the tragic passing of Howie Morenz. The Mitchell boy who went to the Canadiens via Stratford was probably the main inspiration for the slogan describing hockey as "the fastest game in the world."

Mr. Justice Kingstone has described the new form of industrial strike as the law of the jungle. It is certainly not the law of Canada and agitators who try to foment that kind of disturbance here should get short shift from the authorities.

NOT SO GOOD

(By A. H. K.)

¶ My Uncle Daniel's nerves are bad, and have been since he was a lad, quite fast he gets upset; and when that happens he can't talk, his brains begin to stop and balk, he's muddled in his thought.

¶ And when my uncle gets that way, why he begins to snort and bray, and words don't come out straight; he makes a lot of sound I know, but does not know which way to go, he puffs much like a freight.

¶ Yet Uncle Daniel likes to speak, he'd like the chance most every week, he thinks he will improve; I heard him just the other night, and things were far removed from right, my uncle hit a groove.

¶ He had a lot of notes prepared, so points he'd make would be well aired, I must admire his pluck; but uncle left his notes at home, and he was stuck there like a stone, was simply out of luck.

¶ He took a drink of water then, and started with a loud ahem, then he began to sink; my uncle said ahem once more, then did what he had done before, and took another drink.

¶ And uncle tried so hard to start, but all his thoughts had come apart, he cannot talk and think; he faced about a hundred men, and all he did was say ahem—and take another drink.

Our Statesmen At Their Labors

(From Parliamentary Debates)

MUST BE SMART

Mr. BARRY: Will the minister indicate how much of the vote is to be spent in each of the provinces?

Mr. CHEBAR: I am sorry we have not the vote set up in a manner which will give that information readily. If I had a lightning calculator here, I could do it.

Mr. BARRY: Can the minister procure it?

Mr. CHEBAR: Yes, we can procure almost anything.

Mr. BENNETT: That is a rather doubtful statement.

Mr. CHEBAR: If the hon. gentleman will ask me the question when another estimate is before the committee, I shall have the information for him.

LET ME ANSWER

Mr. MacNICOL: On a point of order: We are not entitled to discuss the budget under this item. The tariff is not the subject before the committee at the moment; the subject is subventions on coal.

Mr. McLEAN (Melford): Apparently the tariff is before the committee.

The CHAIRMAN: I do not think the point of order of the hon. member for Davenport is well taken. Hon. members have been allowed a wide latitude.

Mr. TUCKER: I am surprised that the hon. member for Davenport rose to that point of order—he of all members—

Mr. HARRY: Will the hon. member explain why every western member considers himself qualified to ask questions and express views as to the sentiments of members from the maritime provinces?

Mr. MacNICOL: Only Saskatchewan members.

Mr. TUCKER: I can answer that: because we suffer from the same fiscal policy that has almost ruined the west as well as the maritimes.

An hon. MEMBER: Let us speak for ourselves.

WORKED FOR NOTHING!

Mr. BENNETT: I should like to ask the minister another question: I see there is provision for the appointment of stipendiary magistrates. At Banff there was a magistrate serving without pay, but he was replaced by a gentleman who is able to get a salary. Why is it necessary to do that?

Mr. ELLIOTT (Middlesex): Maybe he was worth more.

Mr. BENNETT: It can hardly be said that is so.

Mr. CHEBAR: The present magistrate is also making special investigation into relief cases. He is endeavouring to tighten up a little bit on the relief administration in the parks. Those who are applying for relief work have to make good their case before a board on which the magistrate serves.

Mr. BENNETT: Who is the magistrate there now?

Mr. CHEBAR: A gentleman named Mr. Hunter.

Mr. BENNETT: He would not serve without salary at one time, and was replaced by a gentleman who did serve without salary—Mr. Wilson I think was the name—but now Mr. Hunter is serving and getting a salary. How much is he being paid for tightening up relief?

Mr. CHEBAR: He gets $75 a month, but tightening up on relief is only a part of his duties.

GAS ATTACKS

Mr. DUPUIS: Against whom does the hon. member protect himself when he locks his door?

Mr. COLDWELL: Against the robber or burglar who may be in the vicinity of my home.

Mr. DUPUIS: Name him.

Mr. COLDWELL: I say against the robber who may be in the vicinity of my home.

Mr. DUPUIS: There are many international robbers.

Mr. COLDWELL: I ask the hon. member what robber is in the vicinity of Canada at the present time against whom are we preparing these weapons?

Mr. DUPUIS: Name yours first.

Mr. COLDWELL: I should like to read from the report to which I just referred.

Mr. DUPUIS: Scientists will never solve this question.

Mr. COLDWELL: The following is an article which appeared in The Lancet of December 19, 1936:

Major Blackmore said little could be done for the child under five. From that age on, they could be persuaded to wear a respirator, but the resistance in breathing, though reduced to two and a half inches, was enough to inhibit small children. A gum cover has been designed to convert the perambulator into a gas proof room, and this worked excellently. The objections were the difficulty of manipulating a perambulator, and the fact that only 25 per cent. of the population of the east end of London possessed perambulators.

Mr. McLEAN (Melford): Does that article refer to conditions in Canada or to conditions in another country?

Mr. COLDWELL: The city of Montreal is probably just as crowded as the city of Liverpool.

Mr. McLEAN (Melford): But there is more space around it to which the people could be removed.

Mr. COLDWELL: I imagine that gas would kill the people of Montreal just about as quickly as it would kill the people of Manchester.

Mr. McLEAN (Melford): But I would point out that they do not have to stay in the city.

PLANT A TREE.

(Windsor Star)

THE St. Thomas Horticultural Society is interested in a co-operative move for Coronation year tree-planting in connection with the reforesting and soil conservation campaign. The group has endorsed the suggestion of Mayor Duckworth that a tree be planted for every one removed in the city.

This is a splendid undertaking. Perhaps nothing adds beauty to a city or town more than trees. People who are used to driving throughout the Province can tell you of the communities noted for their tree-bordered thoroughfares. There is something quiet and restful about a town or city where trees abound on residential streets. Other centres should consider a plan similar to that proposed in St. Thomas.

Ford Sizes Up Newspapers.

(From the Detroit Times)

HENRY FORD has a gift of putting his ideas into a few pithy, clear sentences completely denuded of "bunk."

"Newspapers," says Mr. Ford, "are the best educators. They arrive every day and are up to the minute."

Newspapers, properly conceived as fact-gatherers, are the real university of the people.

Mr. Ford conceives the newspaper as the "Best Educator" because the great daily, when it pursues its legitimate function, not only presents in an unbiased manner the happenings of the day but also stimulates in its readers the very end and aim of all true education—private judgment.

The newspaper, therefore, as the greatest educational force in American life has a twofold mission—to present the news in an absolutely unbiased manner and to stimulate reflection in the reader of the news.

To continue this great work of being the "best educators" one thing alone is absolutely necessary—the press must remain free.

From the moment the press of a country is gagged, it ceases to be educational, it ceases to be a stimulator of free thought and private judgment. It becomes an instrument to enslave the masses.

Mr. Ford's latest remarks also throw a clarifying light on what he said some years ago—which has always been misquoted.

He did not say "history is the bunk." He said, "The way history is written today is the bunk."

And herein he was also right. For history books, as Thomas Carlyle said, are in nearly all cases the record of biased historians.

The newspaper today is the great Historian. It is a perfect stenographic record of the times. It is the great analist.

And if a newspaper is true to its calling, it will present what happens with one ideal in view—factual integrity.

That is the glory of a free press. That should be the high ideal of the American press.

And Now the Coronation Egg.

THIS is a more color-conscious century than the one which preceded it; the existence of the British Color Council, over whose dinner Lord Derby was presiding recently, is one proof of that point, and a few days ago it was complained from the United States Bureau of Standards that there are "100,000,000 distinguishable colors for which there are approximately only 800 color names."

Everyone is interested in colors, even the poultry-farmer, for whose benefit the Ministry of Agriculture has just issued a bulletin which yields, among other things, the latest information on how to get the right shades attached to the hen's egg. The customer's supposed preference for brown eggs over white is an old story, but the shades of the shell can be easily altered without any assistance from the hen.

The Ministry's bulletin is concerned with the rubifier matter of the yolk's complexion, which at first sight would seem an affair for the hen alone. Research has now shown, however, that the richly yellow yolk (which house-wives are said to demand in preference to any paler color scheme) can be produced by appropriate foodstuffs for the poultry; clover will yield a medium orange-red yolk, cabbage a bright orange-red, and beetroot a darker shade still.

It only remains to introduce the correct diet and it would seem that, though omelets cannot be made without breaking eggs, the ultimate color of the yolk could be marked with certainty on the still unshattered shell. A little more research and a few more rearrangements of diet and further triumphs could doubtless be achieved.

Someone has produced for the British Industries Fair a Coronation piano with red, white and blue keys. Why not a Coronation egg with a yolk like the Union Jack?

Tries Winter Vacation.

(From the Belleville Intelligencer)

THE birds fly south when winter winds blow—at least most of them do, although we are told that some species of birds spend the winter in the depths of forests sheltered from the winds and close to food which nourishes and satisfies. Some humans fly, walk or ride south every winter and, consider they are beating the weather man, as well as the coal man, and other winter afflictions. However, there are many sporting natures who think so much of winter sports that they stay north for the skating, coasting and skiing, and oh, what a kick they get out of it. Such a red-blooded back-to-nature individual is Dr. Charles Greene, of New York City, who has just finished an enjoyable winter vacation of two weeks at Salmon Lake in northern Hastings. This gentleman has a summer cottage there and enjoys the fishing and the summer associations. He has made his cottage cosy and habitable for winter use and for two weeks he has been having the time of his life, for winter is not such a fickle jade at Salmon Lake as it is further south and there was plenty of snow and ice and good fishing through the ice. He stayed just long enough to get the mesmeride gas of the metropolis out of his system and put on a few pounds of firm flesh from the gorgeous meals of fish and bacon and what an occasional Indian might bring in. He motored the entire distance from New York to Salmon Lake and return and in turning his face southward he remarked that he had had a glorious time, was feeling one hundred per cent. better physically and mentally, and his winter vacation just increased his appetite for the summer vacation to come—also at Salmon Lake.

Just try a winter vacation sometime in the bush. No flies, or heat, or rain to bother. Wood fires to keep out the cold besides the fat one puts on from the food which outdoor people eat for strength and warmth and to satisfy that keen and ample appetite which the great open spaces supplies. You eat enormously food which would not tempt you at home, and Nature helps with a splendid digestion—you get hard and lean and forget the petty things which annoyed at home and become a part of the great universe that silently acknowledges God in every branch, and blade, and hill, and glade, river and lake.

NEVER SAY DIE.

(Kitchener Record)

ONLY sympathies go out to the western settlement who are faced with financial disaster owing to lack of feed for their stocks. Owing to successive droughts in the southern portions of Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba, they have made no money and they went into the winter with a serious shortage of feed. To make matters worse the ranges have been covered with deep snow since Christmas. The ranchers can neither get fodder in nor cattle out. Only warm winds that will melt the snowdrifts can save thousands of starving cattle.

To the western farmer and ranchman life seems to be one calamity after another but they hang on with a desperate courage that commands the respect of the Dominion. They are thus naturally heavy sufferers and the summer's success or failure rests in the lap of the gods.

From a distance we are sometimes inclined to wonder why these men and women cling together so doggedly to possessions that bring in no return. We ask why they don't sell out and move to other localities where conditions would be more favorable and where they would at least be assured of the necessities of life. The answer probably is that they are held in thrall by the same spirit of determination and courage that fashed the Canadian pioneers to wrest for themselves homes from the wilderness. One chance but admire their pluck and while watching their annual struggle for existence we hope and pray that Divine Nature will help them during the coming months with good weather and good crops. They deserve a bumper year and we hope they will get it.

ABOUT OUR FEET.

(Rex Beach, in Cosmopolitan)

TWO-THIRDS of us have whimpering feet; we're a nation of semi-cripples, and yet the average person knows less about the proper function or the care of his running gear than he knows about the right life of a terrapin. We all realize that bad feet bring misery and we're beginning to suspect that they can wreck health; nevertheless, few doctors have even bothered to look into the matter.

Bunion is a funny word, but there's nothing remotely amusing about the disorder. The pains emanating from a bunion are about as fiendish as any. The approved surgical treatment is to remove a part of the joint, or the entire head of the bone. Some surgeons just saw off the unsightly lump. It sounds barbarous but it isn't as severe as the other operations performed.

This is deliberate mayhem, for a vital weight-bearing point is thereby destroyed; foot function is crippled and the damage cannot be repaired.

Bunion joints are displacements and not primarily enlargements. They are caused by the slipping of tendons that hold the great toe straight, as a result of which its knuckle at the base and is jammed against its neighbors. The "enlargement" is nothing more than the normal head of the bone, upon which some callus may be formed from irritation.

It is a functional disorder, pure and simple, which the X-ray reveals in a striking manner; nevertheless, surgeons continue to hack into those joints, with results almost invariably disastrous.

WHAT WE DESERVE.

(Ottawa Journal)

THE JOURNAL has again and again protested against attacks on public men. It has done so partly because of its conviction, born of a long experience, that politicians are not nearly as vicious or corrupt as ignorant scoffers make them out to be, but chiefly because of its belief that loss of respect for public men must eventually lead to loss of trust in democracy, with inevitably evil results.

But it will be impossible to maintain respect and trust for public men, or for democracy either, if we go on selecting men for our Parliaments and Legislatures and as leaders of our parties as though government was of no consequence. That sort of thing can only bring us what we have had in Ontario these past two years, and what we saw in the Legislature on Tuesday. In the end it must bring us evils even worse.

PLACING THE BLAME.

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

NO DOUBT the spokesmen for the drys will have plenty to say about the province's liquor bill. They will do a lot of talking about it, but that will be all.

The temperance people are largely to blame for the fact that the liquor bill is as large as it is. If they had conducted a continuous educational campaign, if they had depended more on moral suasion and less on vituperative oratory, the expenditure for liquor would show an increasing decline.

In the old license days, when there was a saloon on nearly every corner, temperance made real progress, because insistent and persistent efforts were made to educate the people, especially the young, to the evils of strong drink, as it was called then. Those were the days when temperance societies told Bands of Hope flourished and John Barleycorn flourished.

HOARE ASKS 550 MILLION TO ASSURE

aircraft weapons on a scale of precision undreamt of in 1918.

"The effect of them is to make the fleet in general, the battleship in particular, the least attractive target for an enemy air force to attack," Sir Samuel proceeded.

"I do not say that because it is the most unattractive target in the world that this target will never be attacked, nor do I say that if the ships are attacked that they will not be sunk. We never claimed to make battleships unsinkable.

"It will always be possible to sink even battleships with gunfire, mines or torpedoes. No doubt in certain conditions it is also possible to sink ships by air attack.

"But the fact remains that of all the targets that the enemy may select, the fleet, protected by its own aircraft and aided possibly in certain conditions by shore-based aircraft, heavily armored by the latest developments of metallurgical science still with anti-aircraft guns of amazing volume and increasing precision, will undoubtedly be the least attractive target an enemy is likely to select."

Stronger Naval Bases.

Moreover, Sir Samuel declared, repeated investigations carried out by the three services went to show "we can and will make naval bases very formidable objects of attack whether the fleet is present or not."

A plan had been adopted to protect trade in narrow seas. If the threat of an air attack on mercantile shipping in narrow seas developed, "our plans will be ready," the Minister said.

With a view to strengthening escorts, old cruisers and old destroyers were being converted into effective escort vessels. A committee representing the Admiralty, the Board of Trade and shipping interests had been created to have ready in advance measures ensuring the least possible dislocation of shipping in the event of an emergency.

But it must not be imagined that the tactics and strategy of the navy would be purely defensive, Sir Samuel declared. The navy, like the air force, believed the best form of defence is a bold offensive. If an emergency came Britain would "be able with naval and air offensives to make it less easy for the enemy to launch upon us the devastating attacks, of which we hear so often, that many of the alarmists seem to think both inevitable and irresistible."

There could be no rivalry between the American and British navies, Sir Samuel said. Nor in view of the Anglo-German naval agreement could there be any race between German and British naval armaments.

"As to the rest of the world, it is much wiser to keep the name of this country or that country out of the picture," the First Lord went on. "Our program is aimed at no country it is best to avoid formulas that give the impression that it is."

An Oceanic Empire

The minister was therefore not prepared to state the British standard of naval strength in terms of countries or of numerals. But he particularly emphasized, there were British responsibilities in two hemispheres.

"For these is danger lest with Europe so much in our minds, we are an oceanic Empire, that if our oceanic communications are cut the Empire comes to an end," Sir Samuel continued.

"It is on this account that I attach such vital importance to completion of the naval base at Singapore and I am glad to think that within a very few months the graving dock will be ready, that we are within sight of completion of the whole base."

Sir Samuel review the 1937 co-ordination program.

During 1937 Britain was laying down five new battleships, two of the 1936 program, three of the 1937 program. This was a great achievement, but it was very necessary, as 12 of the existing battleships were 20 years old.

Unless Britain started building five at once, Hoare warned, "we shall find ourselves in a position of serious weakness in the face of other naval powers that have been building new battleships for some years."

The new battleships would displace about 35,000 tons, mounting 14-inch guns. They would be heavily protected. They were designed for higher speed than existing British battleships.

Five aircraft carriers would be under construction in 1937. They would be of treaty size—23,000 tons. Great attention had been paid to design to vulnerability. So far as this factor was concerned the new carrier would be very different from the old.

Seven new cruisers which Britain proposed to lay down would bring the number of under-age cruisers to 50, of over-age to 39.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 11. — New seasonal highs were established in all wheat futures on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and then heavy profit-taking in the final minutes gave prices a minor setback. At the close of an extremely active session prices ranged 2¾c to 3¾c higher.

The October future advanced the limit in late trading and May at the high point was quoted at $1.34¾, 4¼c over Tuesday's close. This price was the best quoted for any Winnipeg wheat future since January 24, 1930.

Purchases by Germany, the United Kingdom, and other European countries accounted for world export business estimated at 2,000,000 bushels. The bulk of the sales were of Argentine and Australian varieties.

Export of Canadian wheat overnight was estimated at well over 1,000,000 bushels, with the United Kingdom and Germany doing most of the buying. Arrival of a cargo of Indian wheat at a German port was confirmed and rumors were that the Reich had purchased Turkey's surplus supplies.

Liverpool closed 2¾d to 2¼d higher. Buenos Aires, also a prominent factor in the upswing here, followed a 3c advance yesterday, with gains of ¾c to 1c at noon yesterday.

Cash wheat trade was dull. Trade in coarse grains was active.

FRENCH WARSHIPS PATROL SEA LANES

Warn Spanish Rebels After 4 Attacks On Freighters In International Waters

A VETERAN REJOICES

BREST, France, March 11 (AP)—France backed up an implicit warning to Spanish insurgents to keep naval warfare out of French territorial waters with syringes ordered today to her navy and air force.

The orders placed naval and aerial units of the west and south coasts on a continuous duty basis after four attacks by Spanish warships in the international shipping lanes.

French vessels were commanded to defend the lanes bordering France from invasion and watch constantly for belligerent vessels until the international control cordon was in operation.

The rapidity with which the French navy acted to aid the Spanish government freighter Conde De Zubiria yesterday when an insurgent warship made a daring attack within sight of the French coast, was taken as evidence of fresh determination "to force respect for French waters."

Officials launched an immediate investigation to determine whether the shelling occurred within the three-mile limit.

Freighter Surprised

The armed insurgent trawler surprised the freighter in the centre of the ship lane off the Island of Quessant where international shipping rounds the coast of Britanny, 350 miles from Spain.

Sailors declared "only pure chance" saved neutral vessels from peril within range of the 30 to 40 shells the warship fired before fleeing at the approach of French seaplanes and a sloop.

An investigation by French special police aboard the freighter here disclosed only two of the shells were direct hits. A heavy running sea made accurate firing difficult.

The shelling of the Conde De Zubiria added to the capture of the Mar Cantabrico, Spanish government ship flying the British flag in the open sea of the Bay of Biscay; the bombing of the French steamer Djebel Anatar in the Mediterranean and the halting of the Estonian freighter Olev, emphasized the growing gravity of the situation for shipping.

CAMPBELLFORD

GUELPH COLLEGE NOT MODEL FARM SPEAKER STATES

Farmers Guests At Campbellford Rotary Club Hear Professor Buchanan

INTERESTING FUNCTION

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, March 11. — Nearly one hundred Seymour Township farmers were guests of the Campbellford Rotary Club at a supper provided by the Women's Association of Elon Church in the Orange Hall at Fetherick's Corners on Tuesday evening.

Following a few words by President Tom Hall, who welcomed the guests, George Luty gave a vocal solo, after which A. A. Martin, district agricultural representative introduced the speaker, Professor John Buchanan of the Publicity and Extension Department of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Eulogising the Rotary Club for the spirit of fellowship it fostered in sponsoring this type of meeting, Mr. Martin paid further tribute to the club for the shield it has donated as a prize to be given annually to the rural schools in connection with the Northumberland County Musical Festival.

Speaking on "The Utility of the Ontario Agricultural College," Professor Buchanan told his audience that he wished to dispel the idea that the college was a "model farm" but rather a college devoted specifically to the scientific research and teaching of the basic principles of agriculture. The college, surrounded by 750 acres of farm land which is used mainly to support it and to feed the live stock which is kept for student instruction, has enrolled in its various courses of agriculture, home economics and commercial baking, nearly 1,000 students from all parts of the province.

The College Equipment.

Speaking of the equipment of the college the speaker stated that the live stock which was kept for instructional and experimental purposes included three breeds of horses with some cross breeding, and three breeds of hogs. There had recently been added to the college a new breed of sheep known as the Carry Hill breed, which the speaker explained were at the present time being tested.

There are three distinct lines of work conducted at the college. First, to give farm boys and others interested in this work an opportunity to maintain their own in any walk of life; second, the Research Division; and third, the extension work which is carried on through all the departments, which answer as many as 70,000 letters in a single year.

Horticultural Department.

Speaking of the Horticultural Department he explained how members of the department went out through the country giving farmers instruction as to how the best results could be obtained from spraying fruit trees as one example of the work done. A striking example of the results of research work was the development of what is known as O.A.C. No. 21 Barley, which was a type procured in Manchuria, and after careful observation of the growth of a number of grains it was possible, by picking the best specimens, to produce in three years 63 bushels from a single grain. The development of Marquis wheat by the Canadian Government is another example of field husbandry.

Rev. Harold B. Neale moved a vote of thanks to the speaker on behalf of the club for his very interesting address.

DID NOT APPROVE U.K. TREATY, MOORE EXPLAINS HIS VOTE

Opposed 1932 Pact And Saw No Reason To Switch Views

TIME FOR NEW IDEAS

OTTAWA, March 11 (C.P.). — Declaring that "never since Confederation has the power and influence of Parliament been as low as she is to-day," Harry H. Stevens, Reconstruction Party representative of Kootenay West, criticized the Budget in the House of Commons yesterday, offered some new proposals, and scored members who voted at the dictation of the "party whip."

"One curse of politics to-day," Mr. Stevens declared in the Budget debate which will continue to-day, "is the patronage system both Dominion and Provincial. Members know if they dare step outside the directions of the party whip their patronage will be cut off."

The former Minister of Trade and Commerce whose break with the Government in 1934 and formation of the Reconstruction Party were sensations of the last Conservative regime, followed William H. Moore (Lib., Ontario), who on Tuesday voted for the Bennett want of confidence amendment to the Budget—an amendment that if carried would have meant resignation of the Government.

Moore Explains.

Mr. Moore explained that he had voted against his own party because he did not approve the Canadian-United Kingdom trade agreement embodied in the Budget.

He had voted against the 1932 agreement and could see no reason to change his opinion respecting the extension of that agreement now proposed.

The Bennett want-of-confidence motion was based upon the alleged failure of the Government to "take effective measures to deal with the problem of unemployment." Mr. Moore dealt only briefly with that phase. The Government, he said, had a mandate "to provide profitable jobs for Canadians." He merely observed: "We all know whether they have or have not done that."

Earlier in the day Vincent Potter (Lib., Shelburne-Yarmouth-Clare) spoke on behalf of the fishermen who, he said, were in dire distress and not receiving the proper measure of aid from the Dominion on which the responsibility rested. He urged they be given at least a measure of assistance equal to that given Western farmers.

Big Firms Key of Trouble

In this connection Mr. Stevens told the House the plight of Maritime Province fishermen was due in a large measure to "the control of the distribution of fish by the National Fish Company. That is where the trouble lies," he declared. "Will this government do anything in regard to it?" Root of the trouble, he said, lay in "the overbearing and dictatorial power exercised by the great distributing companies."

M. J. Coldwell (C.C.F., Rosetown-Biggar) discussed the defence of-

4 SEAMEN RESCUED OFF WRECKED SHIP

Crew From Empress Of Britain Shoot Line Aboard After Five Disappear

HAVANA, March 11 (A.P.). — A Canadian liner's rescue crew to-day saved four Cuban seamen from the surf-washed deck of the tanker "Hopper 62," on the rocks 10 miles west of Havana. One of their fellows was drowned and five others were missing.

The rescue crew, from the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain, fired a rescue line across the 165-foot Cuban tanker and the four men pulled themselves hand over hand to the shore.

The boat ran on to the rocks, less than 100 feet from the shore, in a heavy squall last night. Treacherous water boiling over the reef between the Hopper 62 and the shore foiled rescue attempts.

Eleven members of the crew of 15 abandoned the tanker in a small boat before she struck the rocks. Their boats capsized, however, and only five were known to have swam ashore. The body of one was found three miles from the scene of the wreck.

The Government, Mr. Coldwell said, had slaved into the hands of Prince Edward County Farmers Predict Yield Will Be Light

PICTON, March 11.—The maple syrup season this year will be a light one, according to predictions of Prince Edward County farmers. They point out that the weather has been too mild and that there has not been any great quantity of snow, both of which are required if there is to be a good run of sap.

Despite the outlook, many sugar bushes have been tapped, and more are being tapped this week. In several cases there have been farmers who made maple syrup early in February but not in sufficient quantities for other than their own consumption.

U.S. ARMS CARGO PRIZE OF WAR FOR INSURGENTS

Bombarded Freighter Reported Able To Reach Port Under Own Power

FEAR ALL EXECUTED

37 Planes, 1,050 Machine Guns, 7,000 Rifles And 42 Million Cartridges Aboard

ARCACHON, France, Mar. 11 (A. P.). — The munitions transport Mar Cantabrico was reported to-day to have been saved from destruction and conveyed as a prize of war to an insurgent Spanish port for the salvage of her $2,700,000 cargo of American-made munitions.

First reported sunk in the stormy Bay of Biscay on Monday when she tried to slip past the insurgent blockade, the lottery vessel was said to have been able to leave the scene of ambush under her own power with the shell-ignited blaze in her No. 2 hold under control.

A boarding party from the insurgent cruiser Canarias, maritime circles here heard, took over the freighter and her cargo after severe shelling from the warship had forced her crew and passengers to surrender.

The only member of the crew known to have escaped Juan Bon, expressed fear the passengers as well as his fellow crew members had been executed aboard the Canarias by a firing squad.

An insurgent broadcast picked up at Rabat, French Morocco, was said to have detailed a huge list of war supplies found aboard the ship: 37 dismantled airplanes, 1,050 machine guns, 7,000 rifles, and 42,000,000 cartridges.

(Previous reports from Vera Cruz, Mexico, the freighter's last known port of call after slipping out of New York harbor, indicated her cargo included only 19 planes and 11,000,000 cartridges, as well as 50 field guns, and a store of hand grenades which the insurgent compilation did not list.)

Women's Missionary Circle Of Lakefield Baptist Church Has Good Meeting

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, March 11. — The Women's Mission Circle of the Lakefield Baptist Church held their March meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Nichols in Smith Township. Mrs. Harvey, president of the Circle took the chair and opened the meeting. The roll-call and the minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Hunter. Mrs. Walker read the Scripture lesson. The items of business were attended to, after which came a season of prayer. That topic, "New Canadians," was taken by the president. The meeting closed with a hymn, followed by the Lord's Prayer, repeated in unison. Mrs. Nichols then served a fine supper. A hearty vote of thanks was given to the host and hostess.

Millbrook Young People From Two Churches Attend Enjoyable Meeting

CENTREVILLE, March 11.—The Young People's Society of Grace Presbyterian church, and St. Thomas' Anglican church, Millbrook, were guests of Centreville Y.P.S. on Tuesday night. There was a very large attendance and an enjoyable evening was spent. On account of illness Ernest Breckenridge, president of Centreville society, was absent. The vice-president, Margaret Larmer, extended a hearty welcome to the visitors and called upon Miss Muriel Ball of Millbrook, to preside for the program which was given by the Millbrook societies.

The topic was given by Miss Ruth Thrasher, who read a very interesting paper on "The boy who was traded for a horse." It dealt with the wonderful achievements of a negro boy who was born in slavery, and by ability and determination became a great inventor.

The next number was a long list of Biblical questions given by Miss Ball and the gathering responded with the answers. Mr. Henry Grey led in community singing.

A special feature of the program was the Mabee Bowes sing-a-long now under the direction of Ed. Williams. A large number of girls and boys gave an exhibition of singing, dancing, reciting and musical selections. The performers did exceedingly well and were appreciated by the gathering.

Following the program there were games and contests, after which dainty lunch was served.

MORE THAN CANADA IN TRADE DISPUTE GULLETT STATES

enies Resignation Due To Plan Of Giving Foreigners More Business

CABINET DIFFERS

CANBERRA, March 11.—(CP Cable)—Sir Henry Gullett denied today his resignation from the Australian cabinet was due to his attempt to divert some of Australia's trade from Canada to foreign countries.

"There's more than Canada in it, but the less said the better," Sir Henry commented.

Other sources, however, indicated the withdrawal as minister of trade yesterday was due to cabinet opposition to his plan to redress the unfavorable balance of trade with Canada by curtailing imports.

Following the conclusion reached in negotiations with W. D. Euler, Canadian trade minister, that it would be impossible to adjust the trade balance by increasing Australian exports to the Dominion, Sir Henry proposed a variation of the existing agreement by which Canadian imports would be cut down by increased duties on a range of Dominion products.

This proposal met with strong opposition from a section of Prime Minister Joseph Lyons' cabinet, it was reported, on the ground that it involved the abandonment of the principle of Empire preference. A heated debate developed on the matter, it was said, and was ended by Sir Henry's withdrawing and later resigning.

Climax Coming Months.

Differences between the former Commonwealth trade minister and his colleagues in the cabinet are said to have been growing for several months because of his policy of diverting trade to those countries which are good customers of Australia.

While no immediate action is expected informed sources predict that a general review of the trade situation policy may follow, particularly as it applies with special force to the United States.

The vacancy caused by the resignation of the trade minister will not be immediately filled, Mr. Lyons announced yesterday. Trade matters would be handled temporarily by Attorney General G. Menzies.

Sullett left the Commonwealth a week ago after abortive negotiations with Sir Henry for a new agreement.

The main difficulty was understood to lie in the fact that Canada has developed its industry to a point where it is able to export to Australia a large range of manufactured products. Chief Australian exports, on the other hand, are agricultural and therefore competitive with Canadian products.

Alberta Farmers Start On Plowing

MADRID RUSHES REINFORCEMENTS TO GUADALAJARA

Government Believes New Rebel Drive On Capital Been Halted

MOSTLY ITALIANS

MADRID, March 11 (AP)—Reinforcements, veterans of the four-months siege of Madrid, were rushed to the Guadalajara front today to buttress government forces reported to have halted an insurgent push toward the capital.

Madrid's militiamen, their commanders asserted, were holding their ground firmly south of Sajanejos blocking the drive on the Aragon highway, northeast of Madrid.

Withdrawal of government forces to stronger positions after reverses in three previous days of insurgent attack had been carried out successfully, it was said.

Sajanejos, lies about 18 miles northeast of the city of Guadalajara, 22 miles from Madrid. Gen Jose Miaja, supreme commander on the central Spanish front, took personal command of the resistance.

Five Italians were reported captured in yesterday's fighting. Government commanders asserted there was only a Spanish "veneer" on an attacking army of about 15,000 Italians.

A large number of tanks, which with motorcycle-mounted machine guns pointed this major thrust of General Franco against Madrid, were said to have been destroyed with explosives tossed under them by reckless "dinamiteros."

Ontario's Premier Reports Surplus

Speaking before the Ontario Legislature in his capacity as provincial treasurer, Premier Mitchell Hepburn reported a surplus of over $7,000,000. In his budget speech the premier announced motor vehicle fees would be reduced and that the amusement tax would be abolished June 1. Also announced was a new provincial subsidy, whereby towns, villages, cities and townships in Ontario will be granted a sum of money amounting to one mill on the dollar of their respective rateable assessments. Premier Hepburn is shown ABOVE seated at his desk in the parliament buildings.

Peter Hepburn Breaks Dad's Ankle In Nightly Wrestling Bout At Home

TORONTO, March 11.—Premier Hepburn called upon his physician yesterday, had his foot X-rayed, and discovered it was broken.

Just a small bone, it is true, but quite painful, nevertheless. The Premier has been limping around on it for two weeks, reluctant to consult a doctor for fear the subsequent diagnosis might interfere with his Budget presentation.

Young Peter Hepburn is responsible.

"Entirely his fault," comments his proud father. "He tackled me from behind, and as I fell to the floor my leg thumped against a table."

It appears that, nightly, the Prime Minister stages a "mauling" match with his boy before he shoos him off to bed. Peter has a small bell with which he sounds "round ended" any time he gets into difficulties with his much heavier but far less agile parent.

The night of the cracked foot, Peter, it appears, used a bit of smart strategy, dinged the bell, then wheeled suddenly on his back-turned Dad and clapped him, rugby style, forcibly below the knees. Ontario's chief budget-maker collapsed with a resounding bump, and young Peter claimed a victory.

"Victory or not," observed Mr. Hepburn, yesterday, "I guess I'll have to let him have his say—one of the things you must expect, I suppose ,when you have a large family."

CONTROL PRICES OF COMMODITIES ABERHART PLAN

Invoices Of Imported Goods Would Have To Be Presented To Government

CAN PROHIBIT SALES

By J. F. SANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

EDMONTON, March 11.—(CP)—Two bills to clothe the Aberhart government with wide powers over the industrial and merchandising life of Alberta, are on the order paper of the Legislature, to be discussed later in the session.

A government bill distributed yesterday would empower the government to set minimum and maximum prices for commodities and products sold in Alberta. It would require that invoices of imported goods be presented to the government, if demanded. Any trade, business or industry could be investigated.

Under the legislation, a trade and commerce advisory board would be established, composed of representatives of different industries. Its duty would be to advise the government how unfair trade practices might be discouraged and the government then would have power to outlaw them.

The government would have power to set "from time to time the minimum or maximum price respectively at which any goods, wares, merchandise or services may be sold within the province, either by wholesale or retail, and prohibit the sale of any goods, wares or merchandise or any services at a price less than the minimum price fixed for the sale thereof or in excess of the maximum price fixed for the sale thereof."

A bill, introduced last week, was a companion enactment, empowering the government to license all trades, businesses, industries and occupations. It was understood the two would be worked together, an industry licensed under one and codes and prices set under the other.

The budget will be brought down to-morrow.

SITE OF ATLANTIC AIRWAY TERMINAL STILL DEADLOCKED

Canada Holds Firm To Montreal While United States Wants It New York

NORTH ROUTE SHORTEST

NEW YORK, March 11 (CP) — Negotiations between the United States and Great Britain providing for reciprocal aviation services in connection with the proposed trans-Atlantic operation by Pan American Airways and Imperial Airways of Great Britain have reached a deadlock says a special Washington despatch to the New York Times today.

The despatch continues:

The chief bone of contention, it was learned today, is a difference of opinion between the Canadian authorities and the United States Department of Commerce as to whether New York or Montreal shall be the trans-Atlantic terminal.

The operators, it is understood, believe the situation will be straightened out soon. They reached an agreement months ago and it was thought then that the British foreign office and the American State Department had worked out the international problem.

The British air ministry, after studying all routes, considered the great circle route, linking Ireland, Newfoundland and Montreal as the best because it is the shortest.

Flying boats will be used for the surveys between North America and Bermuda and perhaps across to the Azores and thence to London, but this route is long and slow as compared to the great circle route, by way of Newfoundland.

All-Empire Route Logical

It is the Canadian view that the all-empire route is logical with an extension across Canada to Vancouver and possibly an all-British line across the Pacific Ocean to Russia and Japan. The name of British aircraft around the world is also the program of the air ministry.

In this picture New York would be a branch, extending down from Montreal.

The Canadians point out furthermore that the distance is almost as short from Bermuda to Halifax as it is from Bermuda to New York and, with air ministry backing for an "all empire" route over the North Atlantic to connect London with routes to Africa and Asia, the Canadians are holding firm for Montreal as the North American terminal.

Pan American Airways, however, it is understood, has a working agreement with the British company to use Bermuda and the new airport being built in Newfoundland with the condition that it would provide facilities for the British planes at New York and Baltimore or Charleston.

However, the Department of Commerce is not prepared yet to grant operating rights for British aircraft here without making a strong plea for a terminal on United States soil, with an extension provided to Montreal.

Imperial Airways, it was learned, is also planning a north and south service linking the Canadian Maritime provinces with Bermuda, Trinidad and Jamaica, with a stop at Puerto Rico, if the reciprocal agreement goes through.

The Bishop of Norwich will preside at the morning session, the Bishop of London in the afternoon and Sir Josiah Stamp in the evening. A choir of 400 will sing sacred music. The Bishop of Norwich has prepared a form of prayer and intercession for use during coronation week.

HOW AMAZING SOAP GETS CLOTHES SO WHITE

Yet Won't Fade Colors . . . And Leaves Hands Soft and Smooth!

● Every day thousands of women are discarding their "slow poke" soaps and are switching to OXYDOL. For OXYDOL does the job so much faster, so much easier, and gets the clothes so much whiter than old-fashioned soaps can possibly do.

The Reason: OXYDOL is produced by a patented process which makes soap much faster-acting, yet keeps it safe. . . . a formula which makes it 2 to 3 times whiter-washing than less modern soaps, by actual test.

Here are the results you get with OXYDOL. (1) You save work—OXYDOL soaks out dirt in 15 minutes without scrubbing or boiling. Even tough spots come clean with a few quick rubs. (2) You get your washing 4 to 5 shades whiter than with old-fashioned soaps. (3) You save time—25% to 40% saving in washing time. (4) You save wear and tear on clothes—less rubbing, less wear.

And OXYDOL does all this with assurance safety to fabrics, hands, and colors. By actual test, three cotton prints have come through 100 consecutive OXYDOL washings without perceptible sign of fading.

TRADITIONS MARK HISTORIC ROUTE OF KING'S DRIVE

Every Mile And Turn Yields Stories Of Fact Or Legend

PICCADILLY PUZZLES

By Thomas T. Champion
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, March 11—(C.P.)—Steeped in history is the route the Coronation procession will follow when George VI and Queen Elizabeth are crowned on May 12. The great Victoria Memorial, The Mall, Trafalgar Square, Whitehall, Piccadilly, and other locations that have seen great events in years gone by, stud the eight miles of historic highway in the heart of the Empire's Capital that will be thronged with spectators of the stately cortege.

When the procession emerges from the forecourt of Buckingham Palace it will first pass on the western side of the Victoria Memorial. This massive pile of masonry was unveiled by George V, soon after the opening of his own reign, one of the spectators being Wilhelm, then Kaiser of Germany. One recalls how this former monarch took up a position on the steps of the Memorial, arrayed in shining armour. On Armistice Day acres of the space neighboring the spot where the Kaiser had looked out were filled with captured German guns.

Thereafter the Coronation cavalcade will proceed into The Mall. This spacious tree-lined avenue runs straight for three-quarters of a mile between Buckingham Palace and the Admiralty Arch. Designed by Sir Aston Webb, the Arch really forms part of the Victoria Memorial, and includes a house of some pretensions which is the official residence of the First Sea Lord. From the top of the Arch the late Earl Balfour was in the habit of watching air-raids during the war.

Trafalgar Square, across which the procession will then move, has been described as the finest site in Europe. It is exactly a century since the Square was laid out. The Nelson Column, 142 feet high, is perhaps the most familiar of all the public memorials in London. For years there existed a legend that a hoard of coins lay in the crown of Nelson's hat, but when the column was decorated to the very top for the Nelson Centenary the story proved to be baseless. Canada House lies on one side of the Square, and South Africa House fills another corner.

Modern Buildings

Whitehall and Parliament Square comprise a continuous broad roadway along which the King and Queen will pass. Most of the government buildings which flank each side are modern, as things modern go in this country. Nevertheless King George and Queen Elizabeth will be able to catch a glimpse of the Banqueting Hall of the Stuart Kings, a superb creation of Inigo Jones, built as a proposed reconstruction of the old Palace of Westminster. From one of the windows of this still-existing hall King Charles the First stepped to his execution in 1649. The hall is used out as an approach to a villa which the Prince Regent, afterwards George IV, intended to build. Old-timers will remember the symmetrical line of buildings which flanked each side of the street. The destruction of the design some 30 years ago created considerable controversy. The whole length of the street is Crown property, and it is understood that as it is the principal store-centre of London the price of a lease here is enormous.

Oxford Street is mainly devoted nowadays to retail stores and has few other points of interest.

The Marble Arch originally stood in front of Buckingham Palace, from which it was removed some 80 years ago to form an entrance to Hyde Park. Owing to street widenings it now occupies an inland position, but its gates will be opened again for the Coronation procession. The last time there were so opened was for George V's obsequies, and the crush of spectators was then so great at this point that the royal cortege narrowly missed being broken.

Hyde Park was a royal hunting demesne under the Tudor sovereigns, and with the adjacent Kensington Gardens covers over 600 acres. The Crystal Palace which lately went up in flames, was built here originally to house the Great Exhibition of 1851—an exhibition which brought over six million visitors to London.

Below the Park, the Coronation for the Banqueting Hall of the Stuart Kings, a superb creation of Inigo Jones, built as a proposed reconstruction of the old Palace of Westminster. From one of the windows of this still-existing hall King Charles the First stepped to his execution in 1649. The hall is used processions will pass Hyde Park Corner, the busiest spot in the Empire's capital with the exception of the space before the Mansion House. Here stands Apsley House, given by the nation to the first Duke of Wellington, the victor of Waterloo, and still filled with treasure collected by him in his campaigns.

DOMINION WOULD STOP RAIL STRIKE

Lapointe, Howe And Rogers Meet Hungerford And Beatty

OTTAWA, March 11 (CP)—Apparently anticipating the result of the railway unions' wage-restoration strike vote, to be completed March 18, the Dominion Government has already taken the initiative towards re-opening negotiations between the deadlocked railways and their employees.

At the invitation of the government, S. J. Hungerford, president of the Canadian National Railways, and Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, yesterday conferred at some length with Ernest Lapointe, acting prime minister, Transport Minister Howe and Labor Minister Rogers.

Invitation has also been forwarded to the joint committee of the 17 standard railroad unions to meet the government at their earliest convenience. It is fully expected in government circles this will result in a round-table conference some day this week.

PIONEER WOMAN DIES.

HIGHWAY CLAUSE STIRS CONTENTION IN TRANSPORT BILL

Meighen Would Avoid Dominion Control Over Interprovincial Traffic

SEES FIGHT AHEAD

OTTAWA, March 11 (CP).—The Senate Railways Committee adopted an amendment to the bill to establish a board of transport commissioners, excluding from its provisions coastwise shipping on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

The amendment to the bill, designed to give the board and the Transport Minister wide powers over inland shipping, airways, interprovincial and international bus and truck traffic, would leave the board authority over inland shipping on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence Gulf.

The committee then passed a clause that the bill should not become operative until proclaimed by the Governor-in-Council.

The section authorizing the Transport Minister to issue licenses for aircraft was modified slightly so as not to bear on strictly pioneer services in the north country.

It was made to read that the Minister may issue an aircraft license whenever the board reported that "a regular service is being conducted." Interpretation of what constituted a regular service was left to the board.

Would Ditch Clause.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Upper House Conservative leader, proposed the highway traffic clause giving the Federal body authority over truck and bus traffic of an interprovincial and international nature or travelling on Dominion highways be stricken from the bill.

He held it could only arouse a constitutional conflict with the provinces "who will fight every inch of the way."

"Why oppose the provinces and invite their ill-will?" Senator J. J. Donnelly (Conservative, Bruce) asked.

"Why should we not exercise our rights when we have them?" Transport Minister Howe countered.

Passage of the clause would cause a duel with the provinces on a comparatively small percentage of the traffic only, Senator Meighen declared. He asserted the percentage of interprovincial and international highway traffic was 1.52 of the total Canadian highway traffic.

The Minister agreed with Senator Raoul Dandurand, Government leader, that he did not intend to proclaim the highway traffic provision until he had conferred with the provinces.

G. W. Mason of Toronto, counsel for Ontario, suggested a section should be inserted in the bill providing that: "Nothing in this Act relating to highway traffic shall come into force before a date to be fixed by proclamation on Order-in-Council published in the Canada Gazette."

The Minister obtained consent to stand this amendment over for study, although he thought it would be acceptable.

PILES GO QUICK

With Dr. Leonhardt's Prescription

Many sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have found out that quick relief can be had with an internal medicine.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel is the cause of piles. The veins are congested and flabby, the bowel walls weak. That is why an internal medicine like HEM-ROID should be used. HEM-ROID stimulates the circulation, relieves the pressure of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and helps to heal and restore the sore, tender parts.

HEM-ROID is the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, who spent several years of his professional life in finding the cause of piles and the medicine that would remove them. His medicine succeeds because it tends to correct the cause.

No matter what kind of piles you have or how long you have had them, if you want to try HEM-ROID, we have our promise to give you back your money if you do not find quick and satisfying relief, after using just one bottle.

SAULT WOLF PACK BREAKS FROM PEN FIVE ARE SLAIN

Tres Former Guardian—One Is Coaxed Home, Two Others Escape

MATING SEASON

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., March 11 (CP)—Of Sault's famous wolf pack only three survive, two recaptured after escaping from their pen at Bellevue Park and the third roaming the woods some where.

Excited, owing to the fact that this was the mating season, the wolves today hurled themselves against the door of pen, tearing it from the [illegible] Four of them were shot during an attempt to round them up and the fifth died of wounds after being recaptured.

Barney, venerable sire of the pack who has been a feature of the Bellevue Park Zoo for 10 years, was the first to be shot. He was brought down by Game Warden Charles Cook when he tried to break through a ring of men who tried to bar the way to the river. Three others were shot as they broke through and made for the open country.

One wolf escaped across the ice to Sugar Island on the American side.

The ninth wolf of the pack had to be killed a few days ago after being badly injured in a fight in the pen.

The wolves won their brief liberty, when in bounding against the sides of the pen one struck heavily against the gate of the heavily wired enclosure and burst the sash carrying the padlock away from the woodwork. Only three screwnails held the hasp to the frame.

Get Excited In Mating Time

Parks Superintendent Louis Barge saw the wolves bounding against the pen walls.

"It is the mating season and they get excited," he said. "I saw the door fall open as the hasp gave way and then the wolves all came outside."

Barge tried to get the wolves back but failed. He phoned police department and sought aid there to round the animals up.

The pack trotted across to Pine street and made their appearance at the back of C. Botham's house to the alarm of Mrs. Botham and her neighbours and resulted in a series of calls again going into the police station as citizens watched the wolf pack gambolling harmlessly about their backyards.

Joe Gasparillo, park worker, on his way to the park encountered the whole pack face to face on the Trunk Road a short distance from the park.

Joe has fed the wolves for years but it was different meeting his charges face to face on a lonely road. Joe immediately took to the handiest tree while his erstwhile charges gathered about the base of his tree and looked him over.

W. Arnott and J. C. Curran, driving to the park, encountered the wolf pack near the Trunk Road and turned it back to the park. Near the pens Curran herded them directly up to the cage where Barge sought, by calling coaxingly to Barney, to inveigle the wolves back into their cage. One went in but the remainder of the pack trotted away across the fields with Barney lagging behind.

Hitler Honors German War Dead In Berlin Ceremony

After he had paid a tribute to the memory of Germany's war dead by placing a wreath on the tomb of the "unknown soldier" in Berlin, Dictator Adolf Hitler pays tribute to a living war hero—the veteran Field Marshal von Mackensen. He is shown greeting the old warrior while General von Blomberg, high Nazi army commander, (at LEFT) holds the marshal's baton.

LOAN FIRM RATES COME UNDER FIRE

Branded Much Too High By Senators But Bill Finally Passes

OTTAWA, March 11—(CP)—Heated debate of the rate of interest charged by loan companies was heard in the Senate before third reading was finally given a bill to change the name of the Central Finance Corporation, Toronto, to Household Finance Corporation, increase the capitalization from $500,000 to $5,000,000, and alter the company's rate of charges.

Criticism centred on the rates to be charged borrowers on grounds they were too high. The proposed rates were a decrease on prevailing rates although they did not represent a two per cent. uniform flat rate per month as advocated by the Dominion Superintendent of Insurance, supporters of the bill said.

Senator William Duff (Lib., Antigonish-Guysboro) and Senator J. T. Haig (Cons., Winnipeg) moved an amendment to send the bill to the Committee of the whole for further consideration, but the amendment was later withdrawn and the bill passed.

Under the bill, the company is authorized to charge 1½ per cent. per month on chattel mortgages.

A Saving Feature

It was an unpopular task to justify the high charges which were made by these small loan institutions with limited means, Conservative Leader Meighen said. In the circumstances, though, if they were not allowed to function under Dominion charter the particular class of borrowers who went to these institutions would be left preys to very much higher charges by uncontrolled loaners of money.

Senator J. P. B. Casgrain (Lib., Montreal), said he would not vote against the bill, but he wished to warn against "loan sharks with the teeth of crocodiles."

Legislation respecting small loan companies, while their rate may appear high, kept people away from "loan sharks," Government Leader Dandurand said. It was commendable that one small loan company was prepared to accept a two per cent. per month uniform flat rate as was suggested by the Dominion Superintendent of Insurance.

Senator James Murdock (Lib., Ottawa) said he understood there was some 70 "fly-by-night" loan operators in Ontario. He urged the passage of the bill should not be delayed and it was desirable that certain people should not be placed in a position where they would be taken advantage of by loan "sharks."

The bill represented a decrease in the charges the company had been allowed to make.

TOURIST GROUP PLANNING TOUR

R. W. Young Appointed As Path Finder For Kawartha Publicity Trip

EXECUTIVE MEETING

Plans for the proposed goodwill tour to cities in the United States in May next, when it is hoped to have a motorcade of at least 100 autos from the district take part as a means of stimulating tourist business, were further advanced at a meeting of the executive of The Kawartha Lakes and Haliburton Tourist Association held here on Tuesday afternoon. President Gordon K. Fraser of Burleigh Falls was in the chair, and representatives were present from Haliburton, Minden, Bobcaygeon, Lindsay, Omemee and Hastings.

Robert W. Young, as a representative of the Association, was authorized by the meeting to visit the cities of Erie, Cleveland, Akron, Columbus, and Pittsburgh to complete arrangements for the tour and to get details of hotel accommodations. He is also to arrange for publicity connected with the goodwill motor tour in papers in the cities to be visited in the United States and in the district press here. He proposes to leave on his mission at the latter end of the present month.

The executive reported that grants towards the work of the Association had been received from Peterborough, Lindsay, Lakefield and Hastings, while there is the promise of a grant from Bobcaygeon.

In connection with the effort that is being made to advertise the tourist advantages of the Kawartha Lakes and Haliburton Highlands, the executive decided to get out a more complete map of the district, which is to include new roads, with particular reference to the connection into the Muskoka and Lake of Bays regions.

AFRAID OF CROWDS SAYS SONJA HENIE

Skating Wizard Neither Smokes Nor Drinks And Has No Training Diet

DETROIT, March 11 (C.P.). — Rosy-cheeked Sonja Henie, Norwegian miss whose name is practically synonymous with peerless figure skating, has a horror of crowds. She becomes self-conscious when flashing about on silver skates in front of large throngs, she says.

Here on a hurried visit before returning next week for a five-day exhibition, Sonja admitted she neither smoked nor drank, and followed no rigid die while in training.

"I eat anything I want whenever I'm hungry," she said, "and don't believe dieting is necessary if you take plenty of exercise."

Sonja, 24 years old, has won three Olympic championships, 10 world rink titles, and a movie career. She visited Canada in 1932 when she won highest awards at a Montreal skating carnival.

Her wizardry is not confined to the ice. Urged by her father, Wilhelm, a former first-ranking speed skater and former world champion bicycle rider, and her mother Selma, Sonja admitted she was ranked as third best women's tennis player in Norway.

She's all in favor of motion picture work, and will start soon on her second picture, "Thin Ice."

MAY JOIN ISTHMIAN.

LONDON (C.P.). — If proposed amalgamation of Corinthians and Casuals, two famous amateur soccer clubs, goes through the club will enter the Isthmian League and compete in both the pro and amateur cup games.

ALEXIE RYKOFF

NIKOLAI BYKHARIN

Here are two more once prominent Bolsheviks who face "liquidation" as Dictator Josef Stalin's purge of dissident elements advances another step. On the LEFT is former Soviet Premier Alexie Rykoff. On the RIGHT, Nikolai Bykharin, former editor of the government newspaper Izvestia. Expulsion from the Communist party recently ended their political lives, and these veteran Bolsheviks who helped Lenin lead the revolution of 1917, are now in prison awaiting trial for their lives for allegedly conspiring to overthrow the Stalin regime.

Itching, Burning, Stinging Eczema or Salt Rheum

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Eczema or Salt Rheum as it is often called is one of the most agonizing of skin diseases.

The intense burning, itching, smarting, especially at night, or when the affected part is exposed to heat, or the hands placed in water, are almost unbearable.

Use Burdock Blood Bitters internally, and apply it externally. A few bottles are usually sufficient to afford relief from this torturing blood and skin disease.

YANKEES, CARDS RUTH'S FAVORITES

The Babe Doesn't Give Detroit Tigers Much Of a Chance

NEW YORK, March 11 (A.P.). — Babe Ruth, viewing the coming major league baseball races from a bunker along the third fairway of the St. Albans Golf Course, predicted to-day New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals will win by at least a margin shot.

"You can't beat that Yankee power," said the Babe. "They've got it from top to bottom. They may not win by as many games as they did last year, but they should win."

Unlike some of the critics, Ruth doesn't give Detroit Tigers much of a chance. He points out that several of their stars are about through, and doubts if Chet Laabs and Rudy York, their two most promising rookies from Milwaukee, can hold them up.

Canucks Gain Nod Over St. Peter's

Canucks took a 3-3 midget Southend Hockey League verdict from St. Peter's last night in the Brock st. rink. Led by Nicholls who got two goals and Cauley with three, the Southenders showed a slight margin on offence over the Students. For the latter, Rochetta bulged the hemp twice while Garvey got the other goal, both players turning in a neat performance. Play was fast and exciting most of the route with some good hockey dished up by the midgets. The two goalies had plenty to do all through. The teams:

St. Peter's: Goal, Crary; defence, Prete, Rez; centre, Rochetta; wings, Smith, O'Donnell; alternates, Bascano, Garvey, O'Connor, Boyle.

KEENE, March 11.—In the first girls' game of the season Keene defeated Lindsay 1-0 in a closely fought game, before a fair crowd.

Keene showed a slight advantage throughout although the visitors worked hard and the play was even most of the way. Keene scored early, when Helen Nelson tallied on a pass from Marilyn McCarthy. Lindsay tried hard but a strong defence held them out while Eleanor McCarthy in the Keene net blocked Lindsay's best chance for goals. For Keene Short, H. Nelson, M. McCarthy and K. Nelson were the pick with Corley, McPhee and Abercombie best for Lindsay. Lineups:—

Lindsay — Goal, L. Abercombie; defence, D. Botting and L. Dennis; centre, A. Abercombie; wings, J. Corley and F. Mark; subs, D. Bexsmith and D. McPhee.

Keene—Goal, E. McCarthy; defence, Nelson and Short; centre, Roach; wings, Nelson and Mc-Carthy; subs, McCarthy, Short, Nelson and Brown.

Referee—Ken Joyce.

Aces Drop Decision To St. Peter's Crew

St. Peter's of the Southend Hockey League copped a 3-1 decision over the Ashburnham Aces in a tidy tussle last evening at the Brock st. rink. Play was fast and quite close most of the distance with the winners showing a little edge in the last half. They had more margin in around the net to sink the disc three times while holding their opponents to a single marker with good checking and neat goaltending. Both goalies hooked out a bunch in this keen scrap. The teams:

St. Peter's: Goal, Shaughnessy; defence, Currin, Murphy; centre, Hay; wings, Thomson, Corkery; alternates, Lynch, Kirby, McCormick.

Aces: Goal, McKinnon; defence, Hawes, Craig; centre, Foster; wings, Graham, Brady; alternates, Vivash, Ferguson.

Follow this Practical Guide to Better Control of Colds

1. To Help PREVENT Many Colds

At the first warning sneeze or sniffle or the slightest irritation in the nose—quick!—put a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril. This specialized medication is expressly designed for the nose and upper throat, where most colds start. Used in time, Va-tro-nol helps to prevent many colds—and to throw off head colds in their early stages.

2. To RELIEVE a Cold Sooner

Of course, some colds strike without warning, or get by even the best precautions. Then you need your dependable Vicks VapoRub. Go straight to bed and massage it briskly on the throat, chest, and back for 3 full minutes. Then spread a thick layer of VapoRub over the chest and cover with a warmed cloth. Long after you relax into restful sleep, VapoRub's famous poultice-and-vapor action continues hour after hour—loosening phlegm, easing your cough, relieving irritation, helping to break up local congestion.

Sickness from Colds Cut In Half!

The two simple steps outlined above, together with a few sensible health rules to build up and maintain resistance, are the basis of Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. In the biggest colds clinic ever held—with 17,353 people as subjects—Vicks Plan resulted in fewer colds and shorter colds. It cut sickness from colds more than half!

You'll find full directions for following Vicks Plan in your packages of Vicks Va-tro-nol and Vicks VapoRub

Woman Housekeeper Guards Mrs. Simpson

MONTE Pranc, March 11 (AP)—French police left Mrs. Wallis Simpson today to the protection of a saaru-eyed women housekeeper in wooden shoes.

She hid the gate key of Chateau De Cande, Mrs. Simpson's new abode, under her apron and telephoned to the Chateau for instructions every time anyone rapped on the portals.

Three policemen withdrew, leaving only Jules Baldy, of the Surete Nationale, somewhere in the Tourraine neighborhood.

Mrs. Simpson slept until noon today. Herman Rogers her Riviera host who accompanied her here yesterday, said she would remain at the Chateau De Cande "at least a month," indicating it might be Mrs. Simpson's last residence before she weds the Duke of Windsor.

"I believe," said Game Warden L. D. Rickey, "Oklahoma has more crows than any other State in the Union."

ARE RETAIL PRICES REALLY GOING UP?

Prices are right now on the up-grade, and there will shortly be very definite increases in the price of merchandise which contains cotton, wool, leather, fats, etc., because these commodities are fetching higher prices on the basic market. It is hoped that these increases will be moderate and gradual enough so as not to upset the business level too seriously.

Retailers Protect Public by Advance Buying

Wide-awake merchants have done what they could to protect the public by placing orders at current prices for many lines of merchandise to cover their requirements. However there are limits to the stocks they can accumulate, and when merchants tell the public in their advertising that prices are going up, it is not merely an effort to force sales but is a true statement of fact.

Merchants Anxious to Keep Prices Down

Low prices mean more purchasing power, which in turn stimulates retail activity. The merchants are therefore interested in keeping prices down to the lowest possible level consistent with the good of their own business. The buying public of this district can depend upon the local merchants at all times to give them the best possible values obtainable anywhere, and particularly so on a rising market.

POLICE AWAITING FURTHER ORDERS IN EVANS' PROBE

No Motive Uncovered In Support Of Theory Youth Took Own Life

WAS VERY QUIET LAD

Asked if he intends to continue with his investigations into the mysterious circumstances under which Arthur Evans, 20-year-old Asphodel Township farmer met his death on the evening of January 12 last, Provincial Constable David Silcox declared: "I am awaiting further instructions from my divisional inspector."

Inspector Francis Gardiner, head of the Belleville division of the Ontario provincial police to whom the constable had reference, was an interested spectator at the inquest here on Tuesday night when a jury of nine citizens under Coroner Dr. J. Ross Ponton found that Evans came to his death by strychnine poisoning. They were unable to determine how the poison was obtained, or whether given to the deceased, or taken by him. The inspector was seated at the barrister's table and took full notes of the proceedings.

So far police investigation is believed to have uncovered no motive in support of the theory that young Evans took his own life, although Andrew Evans, his father, and Dr. Irvin of Indian River, both testified at the inquest that when in extremis the youth revealed the word suicide at least four times.

Described by members of his family as a young man of a happy and cheerful disposition and declared by medical men who performed an autopsy as having been in sound physical condition, the dead youth was not known to have had any love affair.

On the contrary he held the reputation in his community as a young man of extremely industrious and steady habits. His sole hobbies were said to have been a team of horses which he was particularly fond of, and a gun.

It is probable that he never came to town more than two or three times a year and on such occasions he returned to the home of his brothers for the nurse of attending a picture show or some game.

This will be the third Imperial Conference at which the Canadian delegation will be headed by Prime Minister King. Other members of the Ottawa delegates are expected to be announced by the Prime Minister when he returns from a visit to President Roosevelt in Washington and a rest on the Atlantic Coast.

As regards constitutional questions particular subjects proposed for consideration are certain matters relating to nationality, treaty procedure, the international status of members of the British Commonwealth and channels of communication. Arrangements have been made for preparatory work by officials on these points before the main conference opens.

Other Topics of Interest

As regards trade, shipping and air communications and allied questions, the following will be main headings:

1.—A general review of the progress of Empire trade and questions arising therefrom.

2.—A review of the work of the Imperial Economic Committee and other intra-Imperial organizations in the economic sphere.

3.—General questions arising in connection with shipping policy, including a review of the work of the Imperial Shipping committee.

4.—Civil air communications.

It is hoped there will also be an opportunity during the course of the Imperial Conference for an exchange of views on the subject of interation within the Empire.

It has been generally agreed by His Majesty's governments that any questions arising out of the Ottawa agreements can best be dealt with on occasion offers in separate discussions between the individual governments concerned and apart from the Imperial Conference.

Hot Water Radiator Pulled From Wall By Two Drunks Spending Night In Cells

While in custody on charges of intoxication, James Murphy and Carl Smith, both of this city, on Wednesday night caused wilful damage to the hot water radiator in one of the police station cells.

This (Thursday) morning the pair pleaded guilty to joint charges of intoxication as second offenders and charges of causing wilful damage to public property to the extent of twenty dollars.

Each was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., on the liquor charges to a fine of $50, and $4.50 costs, and in default one month's imprisonment, while on the other charges the pair received a fine of $20, without costs, and in default 15 days' imprisonment to date from the expiry of the other sentence.

"You will get out at the end of April. It will be nice weather for you then," His Worship commented as the pair were taken below.

Inspector James Reid told the court that on his arrest around eight o'clock Smith was placed in the small cell, because there were a number of transients in the other cell block. When he started to rip the hot water radiator from the wall, Smith was removed and was confined in one of the cages in the large cell space. Subsequently Murphy was brought into the station. He was placed in the little cell recently vacated by Smith, as it was the wish of the police to keep the pair apart to avoid a scrap. The Inspector alleged that Murphy completed the destruction started by Smith and tore the radiator from its moorings, so that a plumber had to be called in to repair the damage.

Municipal Waterworks System In Lakefield To Be Discussed

If Project Approved By Council Be Outlined At Public Meeting

FREE OF DEBT IN 1940

Plans for a municipal waterworks system in Lakefield will be discussed at a meeting of the council Monday night March 22.

If the project is approved by the council it will be outlined at a public meeting of the citizens which is being planned for April 5. Sentiment expressed by the council last Monday night was strongly in favor of this community investment, and opinion among citizens is gradually moving the same direction.

Several comparatively recent developments are creating more favorable circumstances for such an undertaking than when it was first proposed and rejected. At that time money was worth about 7 per cent, and by the time debentures were retired they would have cost around 9 per cent in interest charges.

Members of the council contend that the village could go into the market today and borrow at the rate of 3½ per cent or possibly less, and the total interest payment for thirty year debentures would not exceed 5½ per cent. The direct saving to the community by the improvement in terms is obvious to everybody.

Another favoring factor is that within two or three years Lakefield will be free of debt. By 1940, it is understood, the last of the outstanding obligations will have been retired.

A new waterworks system with hydrants placed throughout the village would also have the effect of obtaining lower insurance rates, and it is also pointed out the water service would add residential values to Lakefield. Those who believe that the community is in a strong position to undertake the proposed expenditure declare that at least twenty-five families that would have taken homes there were turned away by the lack of a public water system.

Complete plans have been prepared by D. H. Fleming, Toronto engineer, who has estimated the cost of this improvement at slightly in excess of $80,000 at present prices. Employment of local labor would be assured for six or seven months, and the entire range of advantages are regarded as warranting the undertaking early this year.

The attitude of the council may be declared at the meeting on March 22. Reeve C. S. Tanner told the Examiner today that members of the council had given the subject a great deal of thought. He said he was personally in favor of the expenditure, and although he could not speak for the council as a whole he expected that they would endorse the waterworks project and recommend it to the ratepayers at the later meeting in April.

COUNCIL TO MEET ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Adjust Tax Rate Following Government's One-Mill Subsidy

Calculation of Peterborough's tax rate is likely to be affected by the intimation of Premier Hepburn in his budget speech that the government's assumption of the cost of old age pensions and mothers' allowance does not take effect until April 1.

The council had understood from Hon. Mr. Croll's earlier information that this aid from the province would be retroactive to January 1, and had prepared the city's budget on that basis. Apparently, however, the city will have to pay the cost of these services for the first quarter, amounting to about $8,000.

Mayor Macdonald has called a special meeting of the council for Friday evening at 7.30 o'clock to adjust the tax rate to the government's one-mill subsidy. If the city has to pay for mothers' allowances and old age pensions for the first three months of this year the 1937 rate will probably be determined at 36.4 mills instead of 36 mills as was announced on Wednesday. At the fractionally higher rate it will be one mill less than last year's levy of 37.4 mills.

Board. He took particular pride in his work in the Sunday school. For almost 25 years he served as assistant superintendent, a post from which he retired at the end of 1916. At various times he acted on church groups at the Pulpit Supply and Reception committees.

As one of the oldest past masters of the Corinthian Lodge, A.F. & A.M., he will be mourned by Masons in this city. A lifetime association with the Order was distinguished also by a term in office as Master of the Peterborough Lodge of Perfection, Scottish Rite, and membership in the Toronto Lodge of Perfection, Scottish Rite.

President Board of Trade.

Among many other varied interests to which he gave unstintingly of his time since his arrival in the city were the Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce. For two years he was president of the Board of Trade. He was a member for years of the Motor League and was for a period, an active member of the Rotary Club. His interest in the Conservative party was signalled by two years in the chairmanship.

Dr. Morrison's principal interest in business was in Barries Limited, in which he was a large shareholder. He was president of the company for a period.

Surviving is his wife, formerly Phoebe Palmer Harris of Otonabee township. One son, Frederic, remains in Vancouver, British Columbia, and two daughters surviving are Mrs. Wilfred Hall of Gravenhurst, Ontario and Mrs. George Surrett, of Chatham, Ontario. Remaining also are two brothers, William of Brandon, and Thomas of Source, Manitoba, three half-brothers, one half-sister, and five grandchildren.

The funeral will be under Masonic auspices Saturday afternoon. A private service will be held at the home at 1.30 o'clock and a public service at Trinity Church will follow at 2.30 o'clock, Rev. George S. Eason officiating. Interment will be made in Little Lake Cemetery.

Active pall-bearers will be R. J. Kidd, Dr. F. C. Neal, R. F. Downey, Dr. R. C. Honey, W. H. Morrow and E. B. Fowler. Past masters of the Corinthian Lodge and the Lodge of Perfection and members of the official board of the United Church are among those named honorary bearers.

Tribute Paid.

"I was very sorry to hear the news of the death of Dr. Morrison this morning," E. A. Peck, K.C., former member of the Ontario Legislature and Dominion Government, stated to The Examiner. "He was an old friend of mine, and gave me valuable assistance in my provincial and Federal elections. He was a public-spirited citizen, who took a great deal of interest in municipal and community affairs. He was a man of sterling character and strong convictions, and was a sincere advocate of temperance. For years he served this city and county as a member of the old License Commission, a difficult position in which he proved a capable administrator. The death of Dr. Morrison is a loss to Peterborough."

Mayor Macdonald—Dr. M. A. Morrison was a citizen of the best type. He set an example in his willingness to accept the responsibility of public service, and his record in the City Council and in the Board of Education was a valuable contribution to the progress of Peterborough which we do not forget. I have known him for thirty years or more as a splendid character, who played his part as a citizen faithfully and always enjoyed the confidence of the people. His death is a loss to Peterborough, for we can ill-afford to lose men of the type of Dr. Morrison.

E. R. Armstrong, City Clerk—"Dr. Morrison was not only a member of the Board of Education but also of the City Council. He was a very estimable member, faithful in the performance of the duties he assumed, always with an eye to the interests of the city and the ratepayers. That was characteristic of him in all his undertakings."

Vincent Eastwood, member of the old Board of Education during the period when the late John Crane, D. W. Dumble, W. H. Hill, L. M. Hayes, B. F. Ackerman, Dr. George Burnham and others were expanding Peterborough's public school and Collegiate Institute system, said — "Dr. Morrison was always a very agreeable colleague with whom it was a pleasure to be associated. He was on the side of progress, and took a moderately liberal view of school requirements that called for expenditure of money. He gave a great deal of time and thought to that work, and in doing so he was a member who desired to co-operate with the rest of the Board. We shall all miss him very much."

J. P. Strickland, K.C.—Apart from other things which can be said of Dr. Morrison at this time, I should like to recall that he was a prominent member of the Conservative Party in West Peterborough. He assisted me in 1935, and I greatly appreciated his help and interest. His death is a very real loss to the Conservative Party.

HOWIE MORENZ RESTS IN STATE AT CENTRE ICE

Body Circled By Mass Of Flowers Lies In Centre Of Forum

THOUSANDS PASS BODY

MONTREAL, March 11.—(CP)—Howie Morenz rested in state today on the spot where he enjoyed his greatest moments of glory.

In the huge ice palace he helped to build, the great hockey player lay in death, receiving the silent homage of the thousands who knew him as a wizard of skate and stick and flying puck. He was buried this afternoon, his bright national hockey league career cut short by swift death, on the uphill slope of Mount Royal. And while he waited burial, the fans of hockey came for a last sight of the centre player called the greatest of them all.

Rested Over Centre Circle.

His body, circled by masses of flowers, lay in the vast emptiness of the Forum, where he and the Canadiens had their days of triumph together. Over the centre circle, the coffin rested, where Howie's familiar crouch a thousand times had leaped into vibrant action at the drop of the rubber disc.

Of those who had seen his witchery of the ice, thousands came to give him their tribute in death. At the rate of 100 a minute they filed past the bier where the pallid features of the once-great Morenz turned sightlessly to the arched roof that had echoed to his admirers' roars.

All morning, long before Boxie came to the Forum for the last time, the crowd had been waiting. Men and women, rich and poor, some with babies in arms, all united in a common love for the player whose speed and dash and courage epitomized the spirit of hockey.

Hard To Believe.

As they moved past the coffin a furtive tear dropped here and there, or a hand brushed the eye briefly. A few cried openly, but for the most part they walked silently.

"It's hard to believe," a Forum usher said. The policeman nodded.

Morenz' burial was to be preceded by a brief service in the Forum, where he would have wanted it.

A Presbyterian minister, Rev. Dr. Malcolm Campbell, was to read the service, and deliver a simple eulogy of the dead player. After that, the last exit from the ice.

The central table was done artistically with two silver candelabra holding cream tapers and a mirror reflector on which was placed a silver basket filled with pale yellow daffodils.

The flowers were donated by Mrs. Rose Carney and Miss Jennie Saunders.

SCARLET FEVER.

Occasional isolated cases of scarlet fever appear in the community, but they seem to be mild and cause little physical discomfort. Just why present day scarlet fever should be such a feeble imitation of its previous character is difficult to explain. About the only inconvenience of to-day's scarlet fever is the necessity of remaining under quarantine for four weeks. There is the ever-present possibility that as a result of the mild character of the disease we will regard it as a mild infection and neglect to take the necessary precautions for prevention and treatment. This is too bad because scarlet fever is a dangerous disease due to the complications of nephritis and ear trouble, both of which may cause permanent disability. It may resume its former severe type at any time and we should be prepared to receive it in such a way as to defeat its onslaught.

Prevention.

We can be inoculated against scarlet fever in much the same way as diphtheria. For the latter we give three doses three weeks apart, but for scarlet fever there are five doses one week apart. The effects are much the same and the result is protection against the disease.

The Dick Test.

Not every child needs to be protected because some possess natural resistance to the disease. We can separate the immunes from the non-immunes by a simple test known as the Dick test. A drop or two of fluid containing scarlet fever toxin is injected into the skin. If the child has a natural resistance to the disease no reaction develops, but if he has no natural protection there will be a red area around the injection. This means that he is liable to develop scarlet fever if he is exposed to it. This procedure is recommended because there is no object in inoculating a child against a disease when he is already resistant to it. Contacts in a home where a case of scarlet fever has developed should be tested in this way before receiving preventive treatment.

It is therefore obvious that the proper course is first a Dick test, and if the result is positive (i.e., if a reaction develops) inoculation with five doses of scarlet fever toxin by your doctor.

Treatment.

Scarlet fever antitoxin can now be given to treat the disease. If given in doses large enough and early enough in the disease it reduces the temparature and helps prevent complications. It should be given in all severe cases.

Isolation of the patient and quarantine of contacts is, of course, necessary to prevent spread.

ADELAIDE, Australia, March 11 (CP)—Mrs. J. B. Curry, 90, has a new black dress. Back in 1867 Mrs. Curry was the first customer in a newly opened department store. The management presented her with an outfit of clothing and told her if she came back when she was 90 they would give her another gown.

They kept their promise.

Miss Alice Williams' Revue Of Spring Styles at Salon

Vagaries Of Season's Modes Displayed By Models—Much Variety

LARGE CROWD

Bouquets of white camellias sailed up instead of down, spraying themselves across the softly-glistening surface of black chiffon satin their patterning matched by the gay trio of scarlet and white camellias at the left side of the neck, featured one of the lovely cocktail gowns in the Style Revue of Spring Modes presented on Wednesday evening at the Character Clothes Shoppe, the salon of Alice T. Williams.

Watched by a large number of interested women, graceful mannequins (the Misses Lenore Lee, Evelyn Tuthope and Onna Lacheur) paraded in many outstanding garments that displayed the season's highlights in feminine wear.

Although the highlights of women turn to suits and coats just now, it is impossible to resist mentioning first the 'swish' beauts of the brings for gala occasions.

Interested comments followed the progress of the exquisite Coronation red of cyclamen pink net that fell away in front to display more fully its foundation of pink taffeta. Over the fulness of the skirt were scattered applied lover's knots of the taffeta. The sleeves were elbow length.

Spaced rows of tiny ruffles imitating modest formed the striking trimming of a beautiful gown of black chiffon, its short sleeves edged with the same trimming and its collarless neck showing a softly-shirred tiny yoke at the front, accented by two brilliant clips.

Black 'High' Mode.

Black was predominant in the lovely gowns for afternoon and dinner wear. An interesting model of French designing was in navy blue summer alpaca with short sleeves, the interest of the gown concentrating itself in the exquisite little bouquets of French flowers embroidered into the fabric in a scatter pattern. Their shades of soft blue, subdued pink and orchid were repeated in the bouquet of cellophane flowers to be worn at the shoulder or at the girdle. This frock had the mushroomed collarless V neckline.

The vogue for patterned fabrics had it way in a pure silk crepe dress with dark brown ground covered with iris blossoms and piped with bright shades of scarlet and green; in the large white 'mums that made their way across the surface of a black elre model girdled by a Spanish scarf in emerald green; in the soft loveliness of white chiffon flowered with huge pink poppies that repeated themselves in the hue of silken flowers at the neckline, with long sleeves of apple green.

A striking model in black crepe Marina had a cape of net studded with brilliants that floated from the shoulders and separated in the back, while another stunning black frock of net for evening wear had trios of taffeta motifs applied to the fluttering stuff, and a V neckline that reached in decolletage to the waist in the back was outlined by flat bands of taffeta. An accent for this beautiful thing was a large red velvet poppy placed at the left of the upper bodice and centered by tiny black beads.

An afternoon gown showed a navy blue chiffon topped by a bodice patterned in blue and white, with fluting trimming the edge of the peplum. Another black silk crepe showed the liking for bright, appliqued flowers in the treatment of its wide Princess sash girdle and sleeves, while a black redingote style in crepe Romance with inset section of brightly-printed stuff used the flowers in the printed fabric in cutout design to trim its sleeves. Suede dainties of white and half type bordered the redingote opening of another frock, a Princess fitted model with zipper from neck to hem. The Spanish influence displayed itself in a bolero model of navy crepe in which the lower half of the full sleeves was made of the gay print of the inner bodice.

Coats and Suits

In the coats, the nubby materials were prominent, with rough surfaces. Navy woollen material of this type made a double-breasted model fashioned in 'coachman' style with four buttons, while camelhair was used for a semi-fitted topcoat developed in grey and black checks, to be worn in either double or single breasted mode. A soft-finished suede cloth, however, made the coat of Coronation green with squared shoulders and high pointed lapels.

Strictly tailored, and of the utility type, was an English belted model, in small checks of sand and red blending. Mustard-colored bouclé made another dressy coat of three-quarter length collared by soft amber wolf. For trimming, in a small collar of grey lamb, finished a coat of Coronation blue Wild worsted, semi-fitted, with swing skirt. A topcoat of English tweed in navy and white plaid, with a belt, was an interesting garment, as was an example of the new 'Ballerina' mode, in which narrow gores at the back, sixteen in number, flare out in unpressed pleats to give a jaunty appearance to the garment. This double-breasted model of navy blue basket weave material was worn with a dashing scarlet cravat.

Among the suits, the strictly tailored mannish things had a chic all their own, worn with the lovely hats, gloves, bags and lingerie suit fronts that came from the Robert Fair Store, in delightful modes that showed the interest of the Revue. The hats illustrated the season's vogue for smart little flower-trimmed 'pillboxes', cloches and sailors of many varieties.

Tailored in masculine fashion that extended even to the linings and the pocket treatment was an English worsted suit in blue-grey tones and one-button style, with flap pockets and bone buttons on the sleeves. Another extremely smart outfit in a suit of navy and grey small-checked English worsted had high notched lapels, double fitness and binding in navy ribbon. And a third example of the popular suit mode was in the popular tecoteur that the English name 'Town and Country', with a little flare to the bottom of the short jacket and tight in bone buttons.

Three In One.

The three-piece outfits that are so good this Spring were illustrated in several models. One was a grey and blue ensemble, the suit developed in grey flannel, the coat, with a slit to the skirt, of grey and blue flecked material.

'Tabac' brown was the interesting shade of another outfit, with four pockets to the suit and a coat of swagger type, leather-belted, with swing back, in a very smart style.

Grege, that color which is a cross between grey and beige, was developed in an ensemble in English hopsack, with a tailored suit of the plain material and a 'baby swagger' coat showing vertical stripes in shades of beige, green and brown.

For sports wear, there was an effective little outfit which used a black crepe dress, collared in white pique, beneath a short grey coat. In addition, there were the usual demonstrations of two and three-piece knitted wear in plain and high colors.

An interesting and brilliantly-colored hip-length, one-buttoned coat of the 'jigger' type with full swagger back was of nubby cloth in bright Coronation red, lined with silk crepe of the same eye-filling hue.

Floral Print Crepe

To swing into spring, Bette Davis wears this printed crepe frock. It has widely-spaced, bright-colored flowers on a dark background, and the new square neckline.

MARY PICKFORD TO END BUSINESS

Will Devote Time To Wifely Duties After Marriage She Says

SOUTHAMPTON, England, March 11 (AP).—Mary Pickford won't mix marriage and business after she becomes the wife of Buddy Rogers in the latter part of May, the actress said on arrival aboard the Berengaria yesterday.

"Buddy is perfectly capable of protecting for himself," the Torontoborn actress said when asked if she planned a film starring her Kansas-born husband-to-be.

The actress said that Rogers now working in English studios, would return to Hollywood in April to fulfill contracts, but that she would visit the Continent a short time before returning to California for their marriage in May.

SMALL BABY DIES

Mother And Three Other Children Suffer Burns In Montreal Fire.

MONTREAL, March 11 (CP) — Rene Leblanc, 11-months-old son of Mrs. Aime Leblanc, died last night in hospital from burns suffered in a gasoline explosion in his home which also injured the mother and three other children.

Mrs. Leblanc and an 11-year-old son, Jean Jacques, suffered severe burns about the face and body while Jacqueline, three, and Marcel, 15, were only slightly burned.

When the explosion occurred while Mrs. Leblanc was cleaning clothing, flames filled the small kitchen where she worked. She threw the baby boy out a window and assisted the escape of her three other children.

Home and School Association News

KING GEORGE SCHOOL

The Rev. E. W. Rowland, pastor of Mark Street United Church, was guest speaker at the meeting of Tuesday evening of the King George Home and School Association with the president, Mrs. M. Swanston, in the chair.

Instructive talks on the European situation were continued by P. S. Kerr, and Mrs. C. English read an monthly paper for Dr. G. M. Fraser's Health Group, dealing with Skin Diseases.

It was decided to hold a poppy collection on March 24th and 25th, also to send a delegate to the annual convention in Toronto in Easter week.

A piano solo by Jean McLeod and a recitation by Muriel Woodcock were much enjoyed.

The banner for the month went to G. C. Northey's room.

Rev. Mr. Rowland, in his address stressed the point that all of life is one great problem, which each individual should endeavor to solve according to his or her own requirements. We should never cease in upholding our ideals, so that we may leave the problem at the last with the thought: "We builded to the best, with the materials given us."

Parents must always co-operate with the teacher, asserted the speaker, in the building and shaping of the child's character and life.

An appreciative vote of thanks to the speaker and those taking part in the program was voiced by Miss Fern Rahmel.

The meeting, which opened with the recital in unison of the Home and School Creed, closed with the singing of "Abide With Me," and the National Anthem.

N.B. TO GRADE BUTTER

New Marketing Plan Announced In Budgeting Debate At Fredericton.

FREDERICTON, N.B., March 11 (CP)—The Government will institute marketing of creamery butter on a graded basis during the present year, Hon. A. C. Taylor, Minister of Agriculture, told the Legislature yesterday as he spoke in the budget debate.

His statement followed introduction in the House of a bill which would empower the Governor-in-Council to establish grades for a wide range of natural products.

Creamery butter grading will mark the inauguration under Provincial legislation of a major agricultural policy—likely later to include many farm products—which is designed to bring the farmer higher returns for better produce and assure that the buying public gets proper quality.

Just Between Us Women

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors, Conducted by Roberta

OTHER'S follies teach us not,
Nor much their wisdom teaches;
And most, of sterling worth, is what
Our own experience preaches.
—Lord Tennyson.

And, this:
The world which credits what is done
Is cold to all that might have been.
—Ibid.

Dear Friends:

Just the other day, I was talking with a man, and he was so earnest about wishing he could live his life over again, and was positively sure that he would not make the same mistakes again. I agreed insofar that if he had the experience to take back with him into his youth, there was the likelihood that he would steer clear of these mistakes, but if he only renewed his youth, he would probably make the same ones, or maybe worse ones.

We all have certain traits in our nature, certain strengths and weaknesses, and getting our youth back is not going to alter these things, nor is it going to make us act more wisely.

After all, we all have to learn, and things come up in our lives that cause us to do this or that, and how could we alter it, no matter how often we go back? If your desire was for a career of some kind, and there was not enough money, or interest shown in the talent you had, what else could you do but what was indicated?

If you had others dependant on you, how could you leave them in the lurch and reach out for what you desired? If you were pushed and prodded in one direction, and lacked money to stand on your own two feet what else could you do but go where you were told to go?

Our habits, of course, we might have made better, but that rested a lot in our environment, and in our training, and in the disposition we inherited or were born with.

No, I cannot see what good going back would do at all. The only thing would be to train us to learn sooner by experience, Try and get someone to learn by your experience, or someone else's, and see how far you get. They have to learn of their own, and looking around, some never seem to learn at all.

They say, "a burnt child dreads the fire," but it does not look as if adults applied that maxim to themselves, and when you look at it rightly, it isn't hard to understand.

You would have to be more than human to go on day after day, doing your best, denying yourself so that others might be happy, and not feel like kicking over the traces some time or other, when no happiness comes your way.

You know you will be mad at yourself afterwards, but you kick them over anyway, and it is one way of escape, one way of letting off steam. And all the going back in the world will not stop these things from happening now and then. So you might better learn how to go forward from now on, than wish to be young again.

Many's the time this last year and a half, I would have kicked over the traces myself, had I not reminded myself of the price I would have to pay in the bitter regret, but a series of bad things happening one after the other, day after day for months on end, certainly sickens one.

But, hurting myself because someone else has hurt me, lowering myself because things have gone wrong, that's no good, and the price is too high to pay for what you get out of it. The other day I had a birthday, and some of my friends wished I would live to be a hundred, and I said "God forbid." I have had pleasures in life, but the pain has predominated, so why should I wish it prolonged? And why should I wish to go back and suffer some more?

So, my face is set forward, for I know what has gone before, but maybe something good may come in new days that are not born yet. And in conclusion I give you this from the New Testament: "And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not."

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

To J. L. P.

Dear Friend: Thank you so much for such a nice letter, and am pleased to know you read my stuff every night, in our own Examiner. It is good to know that you get so much pleasure, and you are not alone, for lots of the men readers write to me, and I do enjoy your letters. So you had the "Fit" also, and sent me a poem about it. Now that is what I call a nice thing to do, so thanking you for all you have said about my work, and hoping you will continue to get food for thought each night, I will now copy your poem, which is very good.

ODE TO MR. 'FLU

Mr. Flu, with spirits gay,
Called at my home to say good day,
I was loth his company to seek,
But he stepped in and stayed a week.

So I hustled around to roast him out,
Ate enough onions to give him gout,
Took a tonic far from sweet,
Raised a temperature like last summer's heat.

Mr. Flu could not stand the onions strong,
Surely he says, I've got in wrong,
This is too hot, but I'll scoot,
Before he gets mad and gives me the boot.

Thank you, J. L. P. and if any of the rest of you have had a visit from this bold bad man named Flu, let us hear from you in verse if possible. Go on, it will help you forget about the darned thing. ROBERTA.

Dear "Fawn".

Thank you again for another lovely letter. Yes we have outgrown lots of things and I have written an article about customs, so see if you like it. I entirely agree with you, that men have no more need of sowing wild oats than women have, in fact there is no good of wild oats in anyone's life. I do not agree that they are stronger mentally, for many more men lean on women, than women on men. It is the maternal instinct in them, I could say more about the physical part, but not in the newspaper. Your letter is good, and shows you have studied things out, but I have had to cut it down a little. Thank you my dear, and do write again.

Your Friend, ROBERTA.

Dear "Dorothea".

Thank you so much, and am glad to have been of help with your problems. We all get fogged down at times and cannot see clearly. Now, do not make any hard and fast decision, and do go out and mingle with those your own age, and you will be surprised how you will soon forget your troubles. Do write again and thank you for all the lovely things you've told me.

Yours, ROBERTA.

Dear "Ray".

Don't you think you are far too young to be thinking of such a step? How can you cope with conditions in a new sort of life, if you cannot cope with those you have now. Marriage alters neither person, and it takes a great deal of love to battle conditions such as you suggest, and battle the world for a living at the same time. You have only the strength of one person after all. Let him be on probation for at least a year, and see how he makes out in that time. If he cannot do it for love of you now, he will never do it afterwards. If he will not wait, he is not thinking about you, but simply of himself. Most habits like that come on by sheer selfishness. Hope you got my letter. Please send stamped addressed envelope for replies after this won't you? Best wishes that you see straight. Forever is a long time to be sorry in.

ROBERTA.

Dear "Allene".

No I do not think you are even a little bit crazy, I am only too glad to be of help. Now you will not think I am an old fogy when I say that nothing good can come of this friendship. Shortly he will be demanding more than friendship, and just look at it this way. If he can treat such a nice person as his wife this way, how can you ever expect better treatment? As for her not understanding him? Pouff. I have heard that story too often. He is just enjoying himself, and having a wife and a sweetheart at the same time. While you are taken up with him, you are keeping better men away. Do write again and thank you for all the lovely

Amusing Motifs Coupled With Monotones

Two-piece street frock consisting of fine wool jersey skirt, patchwork quilt printed blouse, left: right, sheer navy wool sports frocks with doll design: separate jacket of nubby linen trimmed with navy wool.

By LISBETH

THE NEW costumes invariably have wide shoulders, and pockets galore are the order of the day.

This follows both in formal or informal suits and frocks. The more formal of the dressmaker suits are often in sheer wool. Slim, decorative frocks with interesting details are made more exciting and doubly useful by being coupled with full-length or short jackets of matching or contrasting material. Full-length coats following the fitted and flared lines of the frocks may be in wool to match their partners, and may be trimmed with white or printed accents to match the trimming detail of the dress. The new ballerina flare is a charming silhouette to be seen in this type of costume.

An attractive costume, complete with or without its accompanying jacket, is the one-piece frock of navy sheer wool embroidered in diagonal rows of little white dancing dolls, shown right. A slide fastener in matching navy is finished with small tassels of white kid, and runs from the top of a front inverted pleat to the modified V neck with turned-back collar. The accompanying white crash linen jacket with four flap pockets banded in navy wool is caught at the waist by a military looking belt with navy and white buckle. Tucked into the neck of the frock is a matching white linen ascot for sporting occasions.

Amusing Two-Piece

Less nonchalant in style is the amusing two-piece frock of lightweight wool jersey, left, which poses a trimly fitted Gibson-girl blouse, in a vivid patchwork print, over a slender gored skirt of plain black jersey. Self-fabric buttons march in close file up the front of the blouse to meet a softly draped black taffeta scarf worn ascot style of the collarless neck. The short mush-un sleeves are widely puffed.

Combinations of fabrics are intriguing, too, such as a taffeta lined, wool jacket over a taffeta trimmed sheer wool dress. Many printed crepe and solid-color combinations will be seen this year—most noticeable being a revival of the full-length wool coat lined with

FIND BABY NEEDED HOSPITAL CARE

Jury Thinks Lack Of Heat, Bedding, Clothing Contributed To Death

TORONTO, March 11 (CP). — Little Bertha Shone, the 17-month-old baby daughter of parents on relief, should have been removed to hospital, and her death at their home was possibly hastened by unsuitable living conditions, it was decided last night, following an inquest conducted by Dr. George Phelps.

"Death may have been hastened by unsuitable living conditions, lack of sufficient heat, lack of suitable bedding, clothing and necessary accessories to a sick child of this age," the coroner's jury said in its verdict.

Reports by Welfare officials showed that had not supplied coal to the Shone family because the landlady of the rooming house was receiving payment for a heated flat.

BARN COMPLETELY DESTROYED BY FIRE

Blaze Of Unknown Origin Causes Heavy Loss Near Reaboro

LINDSAY, Ont., March 11.—Fire of a mysterious origin completely destroyed the barn and outbuildings on the farm of Ben Pogue, south of Reaboro, at an early hour this morning. Mr. Pogue arose at five o'clock, and looking out into the yard was surprised to see it full of smoke. A member of the family aroused neighbors by telephone, and through their efforts the livestock was saved.

A quantity of hay, grain and hens were destroyed. There was some insurance on the buildings.

PITCHING RULE FOR SOFTBALL TO BE AMENDED

T.A.S.A. Forwards Three Resolutions To Be Considered At O.A.S.A. Annual

SUNDAY BALL

TORONTO, March 11. — At the resumed annual meeting of the Toronto Amateur Softball Association three resolutions were passed, to be sent on to the annual meeting of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association, which will be held at Simcoe on March 26. Delegates to the latter meeting were named and nominations for office of the O.A.S.A. were endorsed.

The resolutions were as follows:

(1) Re Sunday ball: That senior and intermediate teams under the jurisdiction of the O.A.S.A. be allowed to play Sunday ball in Quebec and United States where legally permitted.

(2) Re extension for playoffs. That where an association embraces more than two leagues that an extension of one week be given for declaration of champions. Where such an association embraces three leagues that two weeks' extension be granted, and where there are four or more leagues under the jurisdiction of an association that three additional weeks' extension be granted.

(3) New pitching rule.

The pitcher shall take his position facing the batsman with both feet on or in contact with the pitcher's plate, and when in the act of delivering the ball he must keep one foot in contact with the pitcher's plate. He shall not take more than one step in the act of delivering the ball to the batsman, but he shall not be restricted as to curving the ball. He can take one hand off the ball only in the act of pitching. When one hand has been taken off the pitch has begun and must be completed without bringing the ball into both hands again or changing the ball from one hand to the other. He must release the ball on the first forward swing of the pitching arm.

(a) This permits the pitcher to take the ball upward in front or over, or backward to the rear in a continuous swing, but requires him to release the ball at the completion of the first revolution.

(b) In the forward swing, the pitching hand shall be below the hip, and the wrist not further from the body than the elbow.

Snappy and jerky delivery of the ball shall be considered illegal.

If the pitcher violates the above pitching rule, the pitch is illegal, and time shall be immediately called by the umpire and a ball is called on the batter.

SWIMMING COACH ENGAGED AT "Y"

Gordon Minty Of Toronto Added To Local Staff For Special Two-Month Period

Gordon Minty, noted Toronto swimming coach, has been added to the staff of the local Y.M.C.A. for a special period of two months this spring. He is directing swimming and life-saving classes for "Y" members. Assistant swimming director of the Toronto Broadview Y.M.C.A., Mr. Minty has been engaged in this work for the past four years. He was instructor for the summer swim classes last year for the Toronto Board of Education, as well as being director of the Island Aquatic Association and the New Toronto Swimming Club. Included in his achievements is that of the highest Y.M.C.A. life-saving test record and a member of an Ontario water-polo championship team.

"You have one of the finest swimming pools in the province in your Y.M.C.A.," Mr. Minty stated during an interview today. "You have not been getting the most out of it in regard to learning style in swimming and everything in life-saving. I have been engaged to teach members what I can and I hope to accomplish a good deal in this respect." He added that a local team may be sent to compete in the Eastern Ontario championships in Kingston later this month.

Several classes have been organized at present. The "Sinkers," for juniors just beginning, receives instructions at 4.15 Monday afternoons. On Thursdays at 4.15, the "Minnows," those who can negotiate one length of the pool, have a class. The Junior Swimming Club, 16 years and under, have classes Tuesdays at the same hour. These are in addition to the regular general periods in the pool. Seniors—those over 16 — have life-saving classes on Wednesday evenings at 8.15, and general swimming instructions on Tuesdays and Friday evenings at 8.15—these being members of the men's department. A special class for senior beginners is held every Monday and Thursday evening at 8.15 o'clock.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

THREE GIRLS' basketball games are on the books for the Y.W.C.A. tomorrow night. Westclox Juniors meet St. John's at 7.45, C.G.E. Seniors and Westclox tangle at 8.15, and "Y" Quakers clash with C.G.E. Juniors at 9.00. These games deserve larger crowds as the squads battle it out for playoff berths. Two important interscholastic tilts are listed for the P.C.I. gym Friday with Bowmanville junior and senior boys playing the local crews. Saturday eve at the Y.M.C.A. these Senior City Cage Loop games are billed: St. Paul's vs. Neill's at 8.15 and Dominion Life vs. C.G.E. at 9.15—followed by a dance in the gym.

SECRETARY JIM Dorris of the Peterborough Senior Baseball Club will represent this town Saturday at the Spring meeting of the C.O.B.L. in Belleville. Nine diamond enthusiasts turned out to the meeting here last p.m. in the "Y", a disappointing showing. Maybe the weather is too cold yet or m...be the others who should have been on hand want a little coaxing. At anyrate, those present checked up on duties previously alloted and reported good progress is being made. Everything points to a strong local team but it'll take time and some work yet. Some definite dope should be available when the general meeting is called to elect officers in a couple of weeks or so.

* * * * * * *

THE MAIN purpose of the C.O.B.L. session on Saturday is to line up forces in preparation for the annual O.B.A.A. meeting April 3rd in Ottawa. Nominations and any amendments to the rules desired will be decided upon then. The loop will back three Eastern Ontario men to the hilt. They will nominate Ernie Gibbard of Napanee and Max Swanston of Peterborough to offices again on the O.B.A.A. executive, and they will battle for a life membership for Bob Elliott of Delore. They should gain all three points.

* * * * * * *

THOUGH WE did not know Bernard Park personally, we were sorry to hear of his death yesterday. He was an officer of the St. John's junior club in the O.H.A. and was a noted badminton player with the Garrison Club here. A few years after the war he played junior hockey for Peterborough as a wingman and was in that playoff series against the strong Dela Salle squad that had Babe Dye, Duke McCurry, Jess Spring and Shorty Green—who turned pro later.

OUR COLTS took a 9-4 win over the Midgets in Lindsay last night before a couple or three customers. We didn't see the game but Coach Frank Buckland said the locals took two periods to get going properly. Heal and Crowe turned in a good performance and young Heath was used in the local net for two frames—allowing only one goal—till he gave way to Harding in the third after getting a bad bump on the noggin. All the Colts were used and the game should do them some good. They'll have tough opposition in that Barrie crew here tomorrow night, Barrie having rubbed out Aurora by a 17-9 score on the round. Folks in Barrie are very sweet on their defence of Jones and Dyie, and they also have a nifty centre in Bowen. We have some good players, too.

* * * * * * *

THERE ARE still quite a few seats available at the Brock, so fans should not decide the place is sold out yet, though there'll be a huge crowd when the teams hit the ice at 8.30 o'clock. Three new rows of reserved seats—over 80—have been installed in the southwest corner of the arena. Judging the comparative scores of Barrie, Aurora, Lindsay and the Colts, it would seem that Barrie and the locals are about in the same class—as they were in that heetic series a couple of years ago when Barrie and Kid Pitu scored a close decision over the young Petes. Anyway, the whole town is talking about that crucial contest here tomorrow in the glooming.

FOR THE first time in six years All Saints will be without a Church Hockey League championship. Their '37 bid was lost last night at the Brock when Murray St. Seniors copped a 6-5 nod in a torrid playoff struggle. Earlier in the evening the juvenile championship was won by St. Paul's in a nifty number with the Murray St. squad, 2-1 being the count. This winds up the Church Loop activities for the season. George St. having taken bantam honors. The season will be closed officially later with a banquet and the presentation of shields to the winning teams. A fine season for a good puck circuit, and our congrats to the winners and the loop officers.

WESTCLOX AND Lakefield are set for the two-game Senior City Hockey League finals. It ought to be a sizzler before the chips are raked in. The winner will not go into the O.H.A. intermediate "B" playdowns this year owing to laziness in affiliating and the lack of suitable opponents within a reasonable distance. It would cost too much now with the weather uncertain for natural ice starters. With Westclox somewhat stale from a long layoff and Lakefield fresh from two weeks of gruelling hockey, the smart Clockmakers may find the Northerners very tough to lick. The teams will meet Saturday at 8.00 p.m., all tilts tonight being off to save the ice for Friday.

LAKEFIELD, March 11. — The Lakefield High School Leafs defeated the School Canadiens in a 4-3 hockey tussle on Tuesday. Hudson, who played a fast and brilliant game and kept the puck in action all the time.

Most of the scoring was done in the first period by Billie Clark (1) and F. Lowe, (2), for the Canadiens, and Julian Morin (2) and Fred Hudson (1) for the Leafs. The second and third periods were scoreless, but after ten minutes of overtime, Hudson tallied for the Leafs

PREP SCHOOL BOYS GAIN 4-3 VICTORY

Village Team Fights Game Battle Before Succumbing To College Sextet

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, March 11. — The Lakefield Prep School team defeated Lakefield Public School boys for a 4-3 win on Wednesday, March 10th in the Lakefield rink. Although the Prep school lads were larger, the Public school boys kept them on the run by fast play and stickhandling.

The Lakefield lads made many hard attempts to score but failed because of the good goal-tending by Goldsmith.

In the first period shortly after the game had started Bob Smith scored a goal on a pass from Morley Crowe. Later Dalgweish (or Dalgleish) caught the right hand corner of the net to tie the score and seen after Carson brought them into a lead of 2 to 1.

Foster made many hard attempts to score on Allen, but he was outstanding in the nets for the visitors.

Grove Takes Lead

Early in the second period Glenford Murphy evened it up, but soon after Caldwell and Cayley tallied to end the scoring in the second period.

Late in the last period Basil Arthurs scored to end the remaining few minutes of play.

Penalties were handed out to G. Murphy in the first period and Charlie Earnshaw in the second, both on the Public School team. The line-ups:—

Grove—Goal, Goldsmith; defence, Foster and McLaren; centre, Caldwell; wings, Vaughan and Cayley; alternates, Urshart, Carson, Wilkes and Tilley.

KING OF WINTER SPORTS

Ski-ing

By Charles Schaer

Sponsored By Peterborough Ski Club

64-JUMP TURN THROUGH BOTH STICKS.

In addition to the methods of executing the jump turn described in previous articles, it can also be made by passing the body between the sticks instead of around one or both of them.

With skis together drop to a crouch and place the sticks close to the tips of the skis, one on each side. Spring from the crouch as the feet pass the sticks and keeping the legs together, swing them forward from the hips, keeping the knees straight. The body will remain upright and should be raised to the full height of the sticks, the arms straight and close to the sides, figure 1. When the legs have reached a horizontal position the skis will be vertical. At this point turn the skis horizontal, pointing in the direction of the turn, by twisting the legs from the hips.

Figure 2 shows the skis being turned horizontal. As you drop down, turn the body in the direction of the turn and bring the outside stick around with it. Absorb the shock of landing by bending the knees.

Practice the jump turn in a fair depth of soft snow to obtain a good "grip" for the spring and to cushion the return to earth. You will be amply repaid for time and energy spent in perfecting your technique in these turns on your first encounter with breakable crust or deep heavy snow for which jump turns are particularly suitable.

LOCAL STUDENTS GET CAGE MARGIN

P.C.I. Juniors Cop 32-14 Win In Bowmanville In First Of Home-And-Home Playoffs

Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School junior basketeers got away to a nice start in their playoff with Bowmanville High School, winning 32 to 14 on the latter floor last night.

The locals had the edge in the first frame with Mortimer and McDougall scoring while Foster got one for the other side. The Baptists were better next, however, and Foster and Johnston tallied to give them a 3-2 lead. The hectic third saw All Saints ganging up and Murray Street going well defensively. Both tallied three times, Johnston and Mortimer getting two each and Maudsley and Palmer the others. Play was of the blood and thunder type, with tempers flaring. McDougall and Mortimer were most dangerous for George Beaudette's gang, with the veteran Maudsley and Ruzsa also effective.

Murray Street, with but one sub, owing to players travelling, were plenty tired at the end. Captain Earl Spencely was outstanding and Palmer's defence work late in the fray was a high spot. The teams:

Murray Street — Goal, MacNab; defence, E. Spencely, F. Spencely; centre, Johnston; wings, Mann, Palmer; alternate, Foster.

All Saints — Goal, Seabrooke; defence, Ruzsa, Frost; centre, Fisher; wings, McDougall, Mortimer; alternates, Quiri, Maudsley, Charlton, Watson.

Referee—C. Sproat.

MURRAY ST. WINS SENIOR HONORS

Nose Out 6-5 Decision Over All Saints' For Church League Championship

Murray Street Seniors defeated All Saints 6-5 last night at the Brock street rink to win the Church Hockey League playoffs. It was a torrid struggle, this fourth game of the senior finals, with both teams maintaining a blistering pace. The shorthanded Baptists almost bowed to the perennial All Saints' champs. The latter, in losing their second game in five years of senior church hockey, were without Jay, regular goalie, Seabrooke went in and looked good in the first half, but bad on the last three goals. The other goalie made many nice saves in a busy evening, but also looked weak on a few.

ONLY EIGHT TEAMS STILL IN RUNNING WESTERN HOCKEY

Edmonton Dominions Won Alberta Championship By Beating Calgary

NELSON, B.C., WINNERS

WINNIPEG, March 11 (CP).—Only eight teams remained in the running for senior amateur hockey laurels in Western Canada today as Edmonton Dominions and Nelson Maple Leafs made ready for the first round of inter-provincial playdowns.

Dominions won the Alberta championship last night with a 4-0 victory over Coleman Canadians in Calgary. Canadians, who lost to Lucky Indians in the 1936 Provincial final, won the first game of the best-of-three series 3-2 but Dominions took the second 5-4 and triumphed decisively last night.

Nelson's British Columbia champions will be at home to Dominions tonight in the first game of a best-of-three series. Other games will be played in Edmonton or Calgary, depending on ice conditions. Calgary has artificial ice but Edmonton has not.

North Battleford Beavers won the first lap of the three-game Saskatchewan final last night, defeating Regina Aces 2-0 in the capital. Aces had beaten Yorkton Terriers 4-1 in overtime Monday in the deciding game of the southern final.

Two Winnipeg teams, Canada Packers and Great West, will decide the Manitoba title tonight. Each has won one game.

Manitoba survivors tackle Thunder Bay champions in the Western semi-final next week and it is probable Fort William Wanderers will represent the Lakehead. Wanderers eliminated Fort Arthur Bearcats in three straight games and last week defeated Schreiber Colts 6-3 in the first of a two-game regional final.

JUVENILE TITLE FOR ST. PAUL'S

Defeat Murray St. 2-1 In Church Hockey League Final Last Evening

St. Paul's won the juvenile Church Hockey League championship at the Brock Street Rink last night with a 2-1 verdict over Murray Street in the third play-off game. A major penalty to Foster, captain of the Baptists, paved the way for the winning marker. Feuding with Captain McMillan of the Presbyterians and also taking on the referee, earned the enforced rest for Foster. Murray Street, though losing, forced the play most of the game and only spectacular work between the pipes by Pork McBride saved Jack Kirkwood's crew.

The speedy duo of Pammett and Foster led most of the losers' attacks. Sound defence work however, held them in check. The former played scored in the first frame after circling the net in a nice rush. Both the St. Paul goals were scored by Morrow on passes from Easton in breakaways from ganaging attacks. The first was when the Saints were shorthanded. King starred for the winners and he had much help from his teammate, MacMillan. The forwards showed good combination, with Morrow shooting opportunely. Murray Street were minus their regular goalie, but were not weakened. Crazy going well. Pammett shone on defence, with the forwards having no particular star. The teams:

St. Paul's — Goal, McBride; defence, MacMillan, King; centre, Easton; wings, Ascott, Morrow; alternates, Lockington, Mackness.

Baer Is Off To England

Wearing his happy-go-lucky smile, Max Baer, former heavyweight champion of the world, says goodbye to New York through a porthole of the liner aboard which he sailed for England. With him is his manager, Ancil Hoffman. Baer is scheduled for several fights in the English capital during the period of festivity that will mark the coronation of King George VI. It was reported that a last-minute attempt was made to prevent his sailing and to force him to fulfil contracts in New York.

English Different Type Of Players Will Never Be As Rough As Canadians

OTTAWA, March 11 (CP).—Cecilia Colledge, 16-year-old English skater, thinks English hockey players will never be as rough as Canadians. "The Englishman might trip another player but he would never hit with his stick," she said in an interview today.

Miss Colledge, amateur woman figure-skating champion of the world, is here to perform in an Ottawa skating carnival. She feels native-born English skaters are few, because they have not had the opportunity to learn to skate when young.

However, she said, at Earnscliffe, where she is staying with Sir Francis and Lady Floud, England is realizing that in order to have good hockey teams they must teach their young boys to skate. Various organizations are instructing hundreds of boys how to skate.

Many men playing on English teams are Canadians, she said, but the few native-born English players are keen and enthusiastic about the game.

"The Englishman is a different type of player, she said. "He is more controlled and not as likely to be stirred into creating any fuss." She believed that when England has developed a team of English hockey players they will be "as good if not better than Canadian players."

KEENE CAPTURES WEST-END HONOR

Otonabee Villagers Wind Up Hockey League With 2-1 Victory

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, March 11.—After a long schedule featured by close scores and tie games, 18 six games being played out of a possible 30, which gives a good idea of the close competition. Only two points separate the first and last place team.

Keene, after taking the first game 4-3 in Warsaw, took the championship in two straight games, winning 2-1 in ten minutes overtime in Keene Wednesday night.

The game was fast and very clean throughout, with Warsaw holding their own and sometimes outplaying the Keensters.

The Keene team led by Bill Wood, who was a standout throughout, was very effective and played heads up hockey from start to finish. Play shifted from end to end and rival goalies, both in top form, shone throughout, honours with the Keene net shading honors with Wood.

The first period was scoreless and the play was fast and even. Warsaw was first to score in the second period, Watts scoring in ten minutes. Six minutes later Gall scored for Keene on a nice angle shot, to tie the score.

The third period was scoreless. After eight minutes of overtime Bill Campbell banged home the winning goal from a scramble in front of the Warsaw net.

Every player on both teams gave all they had with Clements, Payne, the Watts brothers and Morgan being the pick of the Warsaw crew. Only three penalties were handed out by Referee Harry McFadden who handled the game to the satisfaction of both teams. Keene six and Warsaw one.

Much credit was due for the success of the West-End League to Harry McFadden, who voluntarily handled the ball throughout the season, keeping the games well in hand, thus being responsible for the clean play and good sportsmanship shown by the four teams comprising the loop.

Line-ups:—

Keene—Goal, Renwick; defence, Wood and Nelson; centre, McIntyre; wings, Fletcher and Gall; subs, D. McCarthy, Joyce, Campbell, O. McCarthy and Bowie.

COLTS OF BARRIE PUT AURORA OUT BY SCORE OF 7 TO 4

Win O.H.A. Junior "B" Round By 17 To 9—Goalie Proves Ace

MEET PETERBOROUGH NEXT

AURORA, March 11. — Barrie Colts advanced another step in their quest for O.H.A. Junior "B" honors by handing Aurora a 7 to 4 setback here last night, to win the round by a score of 17 to 9. Colts will meet Peterborough in the next round of the playdowns.

Before game time Major Spalding asked the spectators and teams to observe two minutes' silence in respect to the memory of Howie Morenz.

The first period was fast, with good bodies on the part of both teams. Aurora opened the scoring when Wilson slips from close in on a pass from Barnard. Dyke equalled the score on a solo effort for Barrie. The Aurora team won the play in Barrie territory for most of the period, but failed to tally against Young, who handed in a three-star performance as net guardian for the Colts.

The second and third periods were marred by frequent penalties Barrie increased their lead through goals by Dyke and Jones in the second period. In the third period both teams resorted to wide-open play and accounted for three goals each. Bowen scored Barrie's three goals on two assists from Lonk and one from Dyke.

CLEVELAND, HAVEN OUT OF RUNNING

Victories All But Give Philadelphia Eastern Tops and Pittsburgh Chance At West Laurels

TORONTO, Mar. 11 (CP)—All that remains to be decided in the International - American Hockey League's first-year schedule is the final alignment of the playoff clubs. The five survivors of the seven-club league have been determined and under no contender had more than five games to go.

Cleveland and New Haven were knocked out of contention last night by Philadelphia and Pittsburgh respectively. Victory all but assured Philadelphia of first place in the eastern section and Pittsburgh retained a mathematical chance of joining the first-place Syracuse team in the western division. Providence is the third eastern playoff entrant and only two of the three western teams are eligible for the money series.

The wins were convincing enough. Philadelphia scored five times in the first two periods and coasted to a 6-3 decision. Pittsburgh rapped in a trio of quick goals in the final frame before Baley Conton replied for New Haven to set the final score at 5-1. Both winning clubs were playing at home.

Clint Smith of Philadelphia gave up to within seven points of Jack Markle, Syracuse, in the league's individual scoring race by whipping home Ramblers' second and third goals. Joe Krol, Charlie Mason and Bobby Kirk got the others and Benny Hanney and Earl Balholome scored for Cleveland.

Play was clean and goalless for two periods at Pittsburgh. Then Buzz Williams, Clarence Drouillard and Art Giroux scored in quick succession for Horrets. Conton getting his tally but after half the final session had elapsed.

BARRIE AND COLTS IN PLAYOFF HERE

Two Strong Junior "B" Squads Tangle Friday In Important O.H.A. Series

Barrie and the local Colts tangle here tomorrow (Friday) night at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink. It will be the first game of their home-and-home O.H.A. Junior "B" playdown series, return game being in Barrie on Monday evening, goals counting on the round. A huge crowd will pack the local arena for this important fixture and indications are it will be a sellout crowd. The ice is expected to be in good shape, both teams are at full strength and ready for the crucial series, and fans are urged to refrain from smoking in the rink that night. Barrie eliminated Aurora this week while the Colts rubbed out Kingston two weeks ago and have been idle since, except for practices and two exhibition contests.

On their records, these teams should be well-matched. Two years ago the same teams met in the playdowns and Barrie nosed out the verdict on the round, though losing the second thrilling tussle here. Another grand series is anticipated with the result a toss-up. Coach Frank Buckland will be back in charge of the locals and will ice his strongest squad. He expects a win here and hopes to have his team pile up a comfortable lead to take to Barrie.

ARSENAL SIGNS YOUTH.

PENRHYWCEIBER, Wales (C.P.). — Arsenal, famous London football club, has signed Douglas Daring, a 14-year-old outside right of this town and a former Welsh schoolboy international, to play as an amateur.

American Horse For Grand National

F. M. Gould's "What Have You", steeplechaser, entered in the 1937 Grand National Steeplechase to be held in March in England. It is one of the 12 American-owned horses entered in the gruelling contest.

Leafs' Star Rookie Is Honored

Before a game between Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens several players from both teams were presented with gifts. Syl. Apps, crack rookie centre of Toronto Leafs, was the central figure during the presentations, receiving gifts from his home-town fans of Paris, Ont., and also from fans in Hamilton where he played before turning professional. In the ABOVE picture Russell T. Kelley, prominent Hamilton sportsman is seen giving Syl. a travelling bag from Hamilton fans. Apps also received a set of golf clubs from his home-town well-wishers.

FANS WONDERING IF MURDOCH GOAL ISN'T ALMOST DUE

Maj. McLaughlin To Try Out "All American" Idea Tonight Against Bruins

FIVE GREEN YOUNGSTERS

TORONTO, Mar. 10.—(CP)—As National League teams race to the wire, playoff qualifications completed, interest of most fans turned to statistics. Chief among them was whether Murray Murdoch, hockey's iron-man would score a goal before the season ends and when Major Frederick McLaughlin would present his all-American Black Hawks.

Both questions may be settled tonight. Murdock will take his regular left wing position in New York Rangers entertain Detroit Red Wings while Boston Bruins invade Chicago, giving the Major an opportunity to display his novelty. Out in the cold as far as playoffs are concerned, Hawks have nothing to lose.

A few weeks ago McLaughlin startled the hockey world with a statement he planned to change the name of Black Hawks to Yankees and have only United States-born players on his roster. It may take a few years to admire but he's made a start, and intends to introduce about five green youngsters from U. S. amateur ranks before the season closes.

Although Murdoch, former University of Manitoba junior star, has already passed his last season's total-points mark, he has failed to score. One of the league's best backcheckers, Murray has been credited with 12 assists—last season he scored twice and helped in nine other goals.

Not Missed A Game Since '26.

But team-mates of the 33-year-old Murdoch are pulling hard for him to fool some goalie in his remaining four scheduled games. Murray came to the New York club from Winnipeg Maroons of the Central League in 1926 and since then has not missed a game, setting a major league record.

Manager Lester Patrick figures there's plenty of good hockey in the iron-man yet and is not worried about his failure to find the net. Murdoch has worked well with Phil Watson and Butch Keeling, both ace snipers. These boys will go out of their way tonight to give Murray scoring set-ups.

While Montreal fans still mourned the death of Howie Morenz, Canada's ace centre star, they prepared to witness one of the season's most crucial battles. Maroons treat Toronto Maple Leafs tonight and the results may play an important part in settling the Canadian section second-place berth.

Hoping their best stride of the season, Leafs hope to win and draw even with the Red-Shirts for the final four-game drive. Maroons will be minus Jimmy Ward, speedy right winger, seriously ill with influenza.

Marmora H.S. Team Will Meet Oshawa

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, March 11.—Marmora High School hockey team were notified on Wednesday by T. E. Moffatt, principal of Tweed High School and secretary of the O.S.S.A. northern group that home and home games will be played with Oshawa Collegiate.

The Oshawa boys play Marmora at Madoc on Friday evening and in all probability, the return game will be played in Oshawa on Monday evening.

SENATORS STRONG IN PITCHING STAFF EXPECT FIFTY WINS

Outfit Showing Stronger Than In Past Two Years—Able To Hit

HARRIS BEAMING

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

ORLANDO, Fla., March 11 (A.P.). — Clive Bucky Harris is a well-rounded pitching staff and he may come up with the big surprise package of the American League pennant festivities this year.

Bucky's got a big flock of apple-chuckers in his training Washington camp here at Orlando with Shanty Hogan, the reformed catcher, to advise and catch them, but they have got to show remarkable improvement if Senators are to upset the flag fight.

The team shapes up much stronger than the club which got nosed out of second and third places last year, except for doubtful pitching. The team can hit, it has plenty of speed, more experience as a unit, and an infectious spirit that even has Clark Griffith so delighted with his club that he's got half a notion to make a comeback himself.

"Never saw anything like it," beamed the old fox of the Senators, "looks like this team ought to win at least 50 games by talking and hustling alone."

Newsom Signs Again.

Buck Newsom, recovered only this week from his annual attack of hoodoonitis, again will head the mound corps and should at least duplicate his 1936 record of 17 victories. Jimmy Deshong, who blossomed into a real winning pitcher with the Senators last season; Pete Appleton, fifth in effectiveness among American League pitchers in '36, and Joe Cascarella, who loomed great last season despite a run of tough luck, are figured to round out the "Big Four" of the staff.

Harris hopes to get one or two more good hurlers out of his nine other mound candidates. Most promising of the nominees, perhaps, is Jack Salverson, big right-hander from Los Angeles. Ken Dick Lanahan, a southpaw from Chattanooga Salvesen, winner of 21 games for Los Angeles, was flanked in three previous tryouts, but Dutch Reuther and Lefty O'Doul, one on the West Coast and he can't miss this time. Lanahan last won 13 and lost one last year for Chatanooga when he hurt his arm, ending up with 10 straight losses. He sure he's all set now.

Remember When—

Major R. O. D. Segrave, famous British racing driver, set a new world's speed record at Daytona Beach, Fla., eight years ago today. The racing driver his glistening 12-cylinder Golden Arrow over the sands at 231.36 miles an hour. But the mark was left far behind by Sir Malcolm Campbell who now holds the record with a flash at 301.13 miles an hour in Utah, September 3, 1935.

BAKEWELL RECOVERS.

NORTHAMPTON, England (C.P.). — A. H. Bakewell, England and Northamptonshire cricketer who suffered a fractured arm in a motor accident some months ago, has recovered and is expected to play for his county in the summer.

BUTCH KEELING RECEIVES HONOR FROM HOCKEYMEN

N.Y. Ranger Veteran's Style Very Unorthodox But Gets Results

'LARRY KELLY OF GAME'

By Central Press Canadian

NEW YORK, March 11. — The flashy left winger of the New York Rangers who never seems to do anything until the last minute is Melville "Butch" Keeling. He has now been dubbed the 'Larry Kelly of Hockey," playing anything but orthodox hockey. Some of the previous nicknames he has received are "The Butcher," "The Loudon Express," and "One Shot" Keeling.

The main responsible for this latest monicker are Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, president of Madison Square Garden, Manager "Red" Dutton of New York Americans and Coach Clem Loughlin of Chicago Black Hawks. Those three hockey gentlemen went into a huddle and came up for air with the verdict the Rangers "minute man" was Kelly's double for unorthodox playing.

In case you are getting Larry Kelly mixed up with one of the Kellys in the National Hockey league, it is high time we put you straight as to who this Mr. Kelly really is. He was the sensational end of Yale's 1934 football squad who always had the measure and fans in doubt as to what he would do next.

The three, above mentioned, hockey moguls agree that Keeling is the same unorthodox style of player. "He does not seem to do anything in orthodox fashion," said Colonel Kilpatrick, "yet he comes through in the pinches. I will never forget the goal he scored when Rangers put Americans out of the first round of the Stanley Cup playoffs in the 1935-36 season. The teams had played 60 minutes without a score in the first game, and it looked like they might play all night without a goal in the second match until Keeling came through with one of his blazing shots to win the series." Mr. Dutton then added his bit to the Keeling story stating that the sharp-shooter of the Rangers "takes more chances trying for a goal than any other man in the league." "And," added the Americ boss, "what I would not give to have a couple like him on my team."

Owen Sound Product

"Butch" Keeling was born in Owen Sound, Ont., some thirty-one years ago. The place of his birth was also the place where he scored his first goal as a future hockey player while playing with Owen Sound juniors in 1920. He wound up his amateur career with the Owen Sound "Greys" in 1934 when the team was junior world's champions. Professional hockey first saw Melville with the London, Ont., "Panthers" of the Canadian Pro-Hockey League in 1926. The following year Toronto St. Pats, now the Maple Leafs, signed him and he played with the team until '28 when his contract was purchased by the New York Rangers. This is his

SENATE PUTTING FINISHING TOUCHES ON TRANSPORT BILL

Debate On Sauve's Policy For Developing Natural Resources Set For Tuesday

SEES GOLDEN FUTURE

OTTAWA, March 11.—(CP)—The Senate Railways committee to-day was expected to surmount the last obstacle in the Government's Transport Bill and report the measure back to the Upper House.

Meanwhile debate on a resolution of Senator Arthur Sauve, Liberal-Conservative, for a long-range policy governing Canada's mining and allied resources remained adjourned till next Tuesday.

Senator Sauve's resolution was aimed at stopping dishonest brokerage practices, promoting greater utilization of sub-soil resources through rational development, defence against ill-advised investment, fallacious prospectuses and misleading publicity, foreign overlordship and influence of undesirable aliens.

The committee to-day completed its study of the bill, which sets up a Board of Transport Commissioners to regulate railway, water, air, rail and highway traffic.

Senator Bauve's resolution was aimed at stopping dishonest brokerage practices, promoting greater utilization of sub-soil resources through rational development, defence against ill-advised investment, fallacious prospectuses and misleading publicity, foreign overlordship and influence of undesirable aliens.

The senator predicted Canada's natural resources in 10 years will represent a national asset worth more than $30,000,000,000 and that production in industries developing them will be worth $5,000,000,000 annually.

Delayed By Maritime Protest.

A protest from Maritime interests blocked reporting of the Transport Bill yesterday. The Transport Commission of the Maritime Boards of Trade wired the committee the eastern provinces would be deprived of Central Canadian markets if through shipments from Canadian Atlantic ports to the lakehead or St. Lawrence ports were not exempted from Federal control the bill proposed to vest in a Board of Transport Commissioners.

This contention was supported in wires from Saint John Board of Trade and W. H. Silver of Halifax.

Several amendments were made in the bill yesterday. The clause dealing with brokerage in transport was deleted by the committee on the suggestion of Transport Minister Howe. This section had been attacked by several transport interests a week ago.

A permissive amendment was also passed in connection with the general authority of the Transport Board to license certain traffic on water, air, rail and highway. The wording of the bill was changed to read "may" review considerations outlined in the bill on dealing with application for licenses, rather than "shall" consider them.

A new clause was inserted in the highway traffic provision by an amendment which declared such provisions would not be effective until proclaimed by the Governor-in-Council.

ENJOYING CHATEAU SAYS MRS. SIMPSON

Receives Three U.S. Newsmen But Questions Are Arranged In Advance

MONTE France, March 11 (AP)—Mrs. Wallis Simpson received three American reporters today to tell them she was enjoying to the utmost her stay in the Touraine Chateau country.

She is likely to stay at the Chateau De Cande at least a month. She is looking forward to some golf as soon as the course dries out.

Mrs. Simpson received the press on the condition that questions asked would be agreed upon in advance and that she would not be quoted directly.

The newspapermen met her in the library of the beautiful chateau—reached through a twisting stone corridor with small banks of hydrangeas and pink roses in the corners.

She was dressed simply in a tight fitting navy blue two-piece wool dress. There were two gold flower clips at her neck and she wore earrings to match. Her only other jewelry was a sparkling sapphire and platinum ring, on the third finger of her right hand.

PROPOSE MEDICAL CARE $2 MONTH

Ontario Association Feels Persons In Certain Income Group Neglected

WINDSOR, March 11—(CP)—The Ontario Medical Association is convinced that persons in a certain income group are not getting the benefits from medical science that they should, Hon. Dr. Raymond Morand, Windsor, told members of the Retail Druggists' Association here last night.

A plan sponsored by the association for prepaid medical and hospitalization service, whereby medical services would cost $2 a month a person would benefit this group, among others, Dr. Morand said.

The scheme will fulfill a duty, not only to the general public which requires health service, but to members of the medical profession who have a service to give but have no means at present of giving it to those who are in need," he said.

"Our aim is to apply the scientific advantages and developments of medicine to the advantages of those who find it difficult to pay for medical aid," he continued. "We are trying to distribute the cost of adequate medical service among people on an insurance basis."

"We are not proposing to establish a prepaid health service as an economic aid to the physician," Dr. Morand, managing director of the medical group working on the plan here, said. "If we wanted to do that we could just establish a collection bureau and make sure everyone paid their bills."

The scheme will be put into operation at Toronto as an urban centre; Essex County industrial centre, and Norfolk County, rural area.

CHAPTER 32

RUSSELL BEDE watched the dancers and tried to keep his level glance from following the graceful figure of the girl in the tawny colored dress.

He was aware of her face lifted to the handsome face of her husband. Aware of the possessive arm curved about her small waist.

He didn't cut in at once but when Janet changed partners, he made his way slowly and determinedly across the floor touched her new partner on the shoulder.

They danced a few steps and Janet said, "This is an odd place for a sea dragon to turn up."

"I've been looking for you for the last hour," he answered and led her through some intricate steps.

"I missed you," she said.

They danced the length of the crowded floor silently.

"I'm glad," he said.

When they had gotten back to their starting point, Janet said, "I mean that as a guest of honor, you are little evident."

"Was that all you meant? I am disappointed. I thought you meant that you missed my company."

Quickly she said, "I would have if I'd been in the pool. You're quite the nicest dragon I've ever met. And a very competent one, too."

"I'm not a dragon any more," he said. Then the music stopped and they clapped their hands for more and looked away from each other.

"What are you?" she asked when the music started again.

"A disappointed man."

Janet strove for lightness. "Because I haven't got long eyelashes?"

"It isn't because of what you haven't got. It's that you ..."

Larry Kellon touched Russell Bede's shoulder. "Sorry, old man," he said, "but Janet is the best rhumba dancer here and you can't keep her all night."

Bede relinquished with a sad smile. Janet wanted to tell him that she wasn't going to disappear into thin air but she was afraid to say anything personal to him.

While she was dancing with Kellon, she looked around a little wildly for Joel. She felt that she needed him to hang onto for moral support.

Joel was dancing with a willowy girl with slumberous eyes and who wore a clinging black satin dress. Her eyes were slumberous but her red mouth close to Joel's ear was whispering to him and Janet saw a rapt expression on Joel's face that she had learned to dread because it made her feel as though her next step would be into a deep, dark pit.

She was a trifle regretful at that moment when she needed Joel to look across the room and find her eyes and smile at her, his attention was for someone else.

Would it be if he knew that for the first time in their joint lives, she was feeling something that was so pleasant it disturbed her?

She thought: When Joel needs me I am always there. Even when it is an emotional disturbance that doesn't have anything to do with me, he needs me. I need him right now. If Joel were to come over here and take my hand as he used to do and just ask me to walk over to the punch bowl with him, everything would be the way it used to be. I wouldn't feel bad because another man looks at me with a hurt expression in his eye. I wouldn't care about him.

Powdering her nose in the dressing room, she was surprised to see that her face was radiant. I look happy, she thought. I look like a girl at a high school dance who has met a nice boy.

She touched a lipstick to her mouth and wet her fingertip to draw it over the line of her fine, smooth brows. I'm not a high school girl, I'm an old married lady soting like a schoolgirl just because a man paid me a compliment.

Combing her hair and rearranging the ribbon band she thought: How Joel would hate for me to call myself an old married lady. He doesn't even want me to think of myself as a wife; "sweetheart". I wish he didn't feel that way. Nothing will ever change the fact that I feel married and that I want to. I don't want to be a sweetheart. I haven't the temperament to live up to it.

Thinking over her wifely thoughts, she composed herself before the long mirror, smoothed her skirts and arranged her thoughts. Nevertheless it did not escape her that the gown gave her height and its matching shade gave her hair a new luster.

Satisfactorily, she noted that she did rather measure up to the other girls. She didn't often feel that way and was generally happier in one of her smart suits or her sports clothes than in evening things. Tonight she liked herself.

There was a bouquet of white flowers on the dressing table. She picked a cluster of them from the bowl and thrust them in her narrow belt.

Then she stood off and inspected the effect. It was quite all right.

She added a little more lipstick and opened the dressing room door. She had a feeling of embarking on adventure although she would never have admitted it to herself.

She walked down the narrow circular staircase, swinging her soft skirts and lifting them daintily.

There was a man standing with his back to her as she reached the lower step.

It was Joel and she had a swift thought: I'm glad it's Joel. I'm feeling much too giddy.

"Hello," Joel said with a light in his eye when he saw her. "You've been dolling up?"

"I needed to," she said ordinarily because wives don't flirt with their husbands. At least they didn't in Chester.

He noted the flowers at her slender waist, the color of her cheeks and the sparkle in her eyes. "You're cute," he said.

Janet flushed, she really did, Joel could still do that to her. He could bring a quick flood of color to her cheeks when his compliment did the same thing to her heart. Joel could do it with such charm.

"Like me?" she said and twirled on the brown satin slippers.

"Very much," he said. "But look, Jan, you're having a good time, aren't you?"

"Grand. Aren't you?" she asked surprised.

"Oh sure, great! But.... er.... I've got to be on the set at daybreak tomorrow and I thought I'd run along."

Janet was swiftly disappointed. Disappointment was a thin, dull little thing that ran from her mind down to her dancing toes.

She smiled and said, "All right, darling, I'll run over to the house and get my bathing things. I left them there but my wrap is in the car."

He protested at once. "No, Jan, you stay here and have a good time. I'll leave the car for you."

"But how will you get home, Joel?"

"Why," he looked away from her, "as a matter of fact, Nina Harley"—Nina was the girl with the slumberous eyes—"is leaving now and she said she'd drive me. Our place is on her way."

"Oh," Janet said. Now she wanted to get away from the party. "Then go along. I'll be in later. Good night, darling." She reached up and kissed him on the tip of his nose. She wanted to slap him.

She walked slowly across the lawn to the marquee. She saw Russell Bede standing in the shadows and her anger at Joel fled.

"Are you going to tell me why you were disappointed?" she said softly when she came up to him.

"I'm afraid I am," he answered, "not that I want to. In fact, little girl, I wish you'd go away and stay out of my life."

But he led her firmly toward the dance floor and, while they danced, Janet could feel his heart thumping when he held her close.

GERMANY DOOMS JEW RAGPICKING

Only 100 Per Cent. Aryans Allowed In Profession In The Future

BERLIN, March 11 (CP-Havas).—The lowly calling of rag-picking was classified last night by official Nazi edict among the professions from which Jews are excluded in Germany.

Henceforth only "100 per cent. Aryans" may browze about the streets and alleys of Berlin, picking up rags and rubbish, according to a decree by Arthur Goerlitzer, assistant Nazi leader of the Berlin district.

All the capital's ragpickers are to be mobilized in the Reich's four-year economic-sufficiency plan. They will be obligated to wear green armlets and carry a badge of the national organization for the war against waste.

Stating more than 800 different kinds of rags are known to German science, Goerlitzer declared the task of collecting all the different varieties must be placed in the hands of "specialists."

Modern girls of England are becoming motorboat enthusiasts.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S ICICLE PUDDING.

"Gurr!" growled the Wolf.

"Wurr!" snarled the Fox.

"Burr!" purred the Bob Cat.

The three Bad Chaps were in the den of the Wolf. The Fox had gone there looking for something to eat. So had the Bob Cat.

"But I haven't anything to eat. If I had I would eat it all up myself," growled the Wolf who was very selfish.

"If we could only catch Uncle Wiggily!" snarled the Fox.

"We would have a fine meal!" purred the Bob Cat.

"Hush!" suddenly whispered the Wolf. "I think I see Uncle Wiggily coming this way. Oh, joy! He is! He's hopping right this way!" went on the Wolf, all excited like. "He doesn't see my den because of the snow storm. Get ready now! We'll rush out and catch him before he knows what is happening."

Beware!

The three Bad Chaps got ready to catch Uncle Wiggily.

Now you may want to know why it was Uncle Wiggily was in the woods so near the den of the Wolf where the two other Bad Chaps were hungrily hiding. It happened this way.

After Uncle Wiggily found the hickory nuts and took them for a treat to the squirrel family he started back to his hollow stump bungalow. But he lost his way in the storm and, before he knew it, he was near the Wolf den.

Then, all of a sudden, the three

Bad Chaps rushed out in the storm and caught the rabbit.

"Oh, my goodness me! What's this?" cried Uncle Wiggily as he felt himself grabbed. "What do you want, gentlemen?" He called the three Bad Chaps "gentlemen" which they were far from being.

"We want something to eat!" howled the Wolf.

"Something to eat!" yapped the Fox.

"Something to eat!" mewed the Bob Cat.

"But I have nothing to eat," said Uncle Wiggily as they pulled him through the snow to the Wolf's den. "I had some hickory nuts but I gave them to the squirrels. I have nothing left."

"Oh, yes you have!" snickered the Wolf.

"You have yourself!" chuckled the Fox.

"You'll make a lovely rabbit stew!" mewed the Bob Cat.

Then Uncle Wiggily knew the worst might happen. He didn't want to be made into a rabbit stew. If that happened he never could have any more adventures. So he thought of a trick to play on the Bad Chaps.

"How would you like an icicle pudding?" he asked.

"An icicle pudding?" asked the Fox.

Tells How

"Yes," said Uncle Wiggily. "If you are going to have me for a rabbit stew," he said, "you will want a dessert after it. Icicle pudding is a lovely dessert. I'll make it for you."

"That's fine! That's grand! Oh, how wonderful!" said the Bad Chaps.

"But first you must get me the icicles," said Uncle Wiggily. "I can't make an icicle pudding without icicles. Get as many as you can."

"He's right!" mewed the Bob Cat. "We'll get you lots of icicles," he mewed. "You stay here until we come back," he purred.

"Oh, yes!" said Uncle Wiggily, winking one eye. And when the silly Bad Chaps, leaving Uncle Wiggily in the den, ran off to get icicles to make a pudding, the rabbit hopped safely back to his bungalow. Ha! Ha! Ha!

And if the front wheels of the auto will stop long enough for the back wheels to jump hop Bounce over them, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's snow cream.

HASTINGS

PLAN DINNER FOR POPULAR COUPLE MARRIED 53 YEARS

Mr. And Mrs. Adam Humphries, Well-Known Asphodel Residents, To Celebrate

HAVE HOST OF FRIENDS

HASTINGS, March 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Adam Humphries will celebrate the 53rd anniversary of their marriage on Friday, March 19th, at their farm residence in Asphodel.

Eighty years of age, Mr. Humphries is remarkably hale and hearty and in spite of his years he retains much of the vigor and resources of his younger days. As a keen sportsman, he has been known as an ardent angler and hunter all his life. He is young, feels it, looks it, and acts it and on Monday of this week was seen with his gun over his shoulder, travelling with only his dog as a companion on a fox hunting expedition. Foxes are quite frequently seen in his district, and it seemed a delight for this fine old gentleman to take the walk of four miles. Just recently he remarked that he wasn't going to die until he had to, so life must be a joy for him. Those who are intimate with him cannot realize he is 80 years of age.

As a most successful farmer he has always taken a keen interest in agricultural affairs, also in municipal politics and had served for years as a councillor for Asphodel and three years as Reeve of the township.

Plan Turkey Dinner

Although Mrs. Humphries has been confined to her home with slight indisposition having not quite recovered from the flu, her friends are hopeful that her conditions will be improved by Friday when they are planning a turkey dinner in their honor. Seventy-five years of age she is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Richardson, of Asphodel and was married at the home of her parents 53 years ago by the late Rev. E. H. D. Lewis, pastor of the Methodist Church, Hastings.

Both have always found time to be of service to every worth-while enterprise in their community and have always been prominent in the affairs of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, where they or some member of their family rarely miss divine service.

Of their happy union ten children were born, all living, the daughters, Mrs. John Thompson, Mrs. Alex. McKee, Mrs. John Davidson, Mrs. Wm. Moore, Mrs. W. J. Breckenridge, Mrs. Gordon Manley and Miss Lillian Humphries, and the sons, Stanley, Roy, James and Max. They have also 29 grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Humphries feel today that they have lived a life worth while and are happy in the hope that they have many years more of life's good things ahead of them.

63 Years in Business

On Friday, March 12th, Mr. Alex. Wilson will celebrate 63 years of business in the village of Hastings. Mr. Wilson has a multitude of friends who wish him the very best of wishes.

the moment. Mr. Gardiner had said the price of wheat had gone higher than at any time since the Conservative Government had started stabilization efforts. "Are the farmers getting that price or are the speculators getting it?" he asked.

Liberal Policies Abandoned

Mr. Moore declared that in negotiating the Canada-United States trade agreement the Government had abandoned the tariff policies initiated by Liberalism. "And I use the word 'Liberalism,'" he said "as opposed to State Socialism, Fascism, Dictatorship or Autocracy." The agreement was made effective by order-in-council without reference to the Tariff Board or Parliament.

"I don't believe we even made a good bargain," said Mr. Moore. "Increase in trade with United Kingdom had been largely due to that country's expansion of credit."

The world was in a "state of transition," Mr. Moore said, "and I cannot see that our measures make proper provision for the economic structure we must have for the future. Figures did not bear out the claim of many that high tariffs caused depressions. Other causes were at work and his opinion was that high tariffs were only an indication of some weakness that should be carefully studied.

Need Balanced Economy

"We have come to a new era," Mr. Moore said, "an era that means debtor countries cannot afford to risk speculation." Records indicated that greatest drops in value during the depression occurred in those countries that specialized in their output.

"We must lay aside some of our pre-conceived theories and think of the need for a balanced economy," Mr. Moore continued. Governments had laid down the policy that unemployed must be given shelter, food and clothing but the money had to come from the federal treasury and eventually the source would dry up.

"We have to think very carefully as to the future relation of our foreign and domestic trade," said Mr. Moore.

The previous government and the present must have been attracted by preference on wheat given in the agreement, he said. It was not important. Canada and Australia together produced more wheat than Great Britain consumed. As long as Australia and Canada competed in the British market neither could get any benefit from the preference. They had to sell some wheat outside where world prices prevailed.

The King government was elected in 1935 with certain mandates from the people and on certain promises.

"One mandate," he said, "was to restore responsible government, or what was responsible government, and I question if they have done it," he said.

The Job Question?

"Another mandate was to find profitable jobs for Canadians. We all know whether they have done that or not.

"A third mandate was to maintain good relations in the empire and without. I wonder if an imperial economic pact is designed to promote good relations with other parts of the empire."

It was fine to speak of trading with the Mother country, but "mother is a sharp trader." When Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin came to Ottawa to deal with Mr. Gen. R. B. Bennett, Mr. Moore thought both had cards up their sleeve.

"I am not familiar with cards," interrupted Mr. Bennett.

"Well there are different kinds of cards," said Mr. Moore.

One said the British had up their sleeve was that before coming to Ottawa they had arranged to subsidize domestic production of wheat.

They took the subsidy in part from Canadian wheat growers by a tax on flour.

"What would the Englishman say if we put a tax on all textile imports and distributed the proceeds to Canadian mills?" he asked. "Would he not think it was sharp practice, that it reduced the value of preference given him?"

"I don't want anyone to think I am prejudiced against trade with the United Kingdom," said Mr. Moore. He read some opinions of prominent economists to the effect nothing was more likely to disrupt the association of British nations than the 1932 agreements. "And now he continued, "we are asked to take this second step in economic imperialism."

Restrictions Lead to War.

Trade restrictions led to war, said Mr. Moore. Russia, the British nations, and the United States were for peace, and it was the "have-nots" who are for war.

He believed Mr. Moore said, that there were many people in Canada who just not realized the responsibilities they had taken up in the Empire agreements. He doubted if it was possible to defend the economic plants in the country or in the House of Commons.

Mr. Stevens found little solace in the Budget for the downtrodden, the farmer or the "harassed business man who finds himself little more than a collecting agency for the Government." He warmly defended the 1932 agreements and congratulated the Government for perpetuating the Canada-United Kingdom trade agreement.

Mr. Stevens proposed that the Canadian National Railways problem be dealt with on a non-party basis. He suggested that three committees of the Senate and House be set up to study various angles of the problem and report to a special session of the House next fall, called specifically to deal with the railways.

Mr. Stevens also proposed that for railway purposes Canada be divided into three zones—one in the Maritime Provinces extending to Riviere du Loup in Quebec, a central zone extending to Fort William, and a western zone from there to the coast. In United States, he said, there was not a single transcontinental railway system.

CAMELLIAS FOR EASTER

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP). — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt may not know it, but she helped the pink camellia rise from politics to the Easter parade.

A florist who has seen 40 Easter parades said today the camellia, form pink and durable, would be the favorite of many American women for Easter wear this year.

Mrs. Roosevelt, unconcerned about her influence on fashion, probably has forgotten the sheaf of pink camellias she wore with a wine colored gown to the Madison Square Garden rally last fall.

Lack Of Men On Farm Is Britain's Weak Spot Lloyd George Charges

What Use Arms If Food Short —As In War, He Asks House

PLEA FOR BLACK AREA

Veteran Holds Commons Forty Minutes Despite Dimming Of Old Magnetism

By George Hambleton
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, March 12.—(CP Cable)—For 40 minutes David Lloyd George returned today to his old arena of parliament. He appealed for the black areas of distress. He urged a more adequate, more concerted plan to deal with recurring waves of unemployment.

Most of all he pressed for more workers on the land. He charged that while the government was spending £1,500,000,000 in preparation for war it was neglecting the weakest link in the chain of defence — the food front which almost brought Britain down in the Great War.

The veteran of many parliaments spoke from the front opposition bench. His animated gestures lent emphasis to point after point. But it was evident that the passing years had taken their toll. His old magnetism had dimmed. His voice at times scarcely carried across the House.

Yet he held his audience from the first word to the last.

Only Quarter Jobless Aided.

He dismissed the government plans for the distressed areas as inadequate. Moreover, Lloyd George argued, they touched only one quarter of unemployment.

What plan, he demanded had the government to meet the situation when the £1,500,000,000 had all been spent on armaments and unemployment started to rise again, touching, it might be, the 4,000,000 mark.

It was a bad thing for nations to work up artificial prosperity by expedients which threatened the human race with calamity. The hysterical rush to armaments must come to an end some day because the nations would not stand it.

Before the war seven per cent. of the population of Britain worked on the land. Now the percentage was only 4.6. This compared with 20 per cent. in Belgium, 28 per cent in Holland and 29 per cent. in Germany.

"The food front," he continued, "nearly brought us down in the

FIND THIRD BODY IN VIRGINIA MINE

Rescue Crews Fear Fifteen Others Missing Are All Dead

LOGAN, W. Va., March 13—(AP)—The explosion shattered Macbeth mine gave up its third body today and scene crews doggedly digging through debris, were virtually certain 15 other trapped men were dead.

The seared body of Floyd Fields, 30-year-old section boss was brought to the surface today. He had gone to work in the mine only three days before. He had a wife and three children.

A grimy rescue worker who came to the surface with the body reported to the crowd of anxious watchers at the pit mouth.

"If we do not run into any more big falls, we may reach the place where the others are in about three hours.

A crowd of 100 or so gathered about the pit as dawn broke over the mine where 10 other miners lost their lives in a blast last September 2.

Most of them were men. The bereaved women, who had stood through most of the night, had returned home to care for their children and to catch some rest while waiting word from the entombed.

LEWIS COHORTS TO CONSOLIDATE GAINS BY UNION

Auto Workers Expect To Have 300,000 Members By End Of Month

MICHIGAN STRIKE HOLDS

CHICAGO, March 13 (AP) — Leaders of two major groups affiliated with the John L. Lewis committee for industrial organization mapped plans today for consolidating unionization gains.

The steel workers organizing committee gathered at Pittsburgh at the call of its director, Philip Murray. The latter said the group will perfect plans for consolidating its recognition by the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation.

Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, called a meeting of the national executive board at Cleveland Monday and Tuesday. He claimed the union's membership would reach 300,000 by the end of the month.

Meanwhile, the strike stalemate between the U.A.W.A. and three Michigan Automobile Manufacturers persisted, keeping more than 70,000 workers idle.

The union's demand for recognition as sole bargaining agency for all employees was the cause of the disputes that kept 50,000 Chrysler Corporation employees and 10,000 Hudson Motor Car Company workers idle at Detroit and 2,200 Reo Motor Car Company workers idle at Lansing, Mich.

Officials of the Los Angeles Chrysler plant announced it would be closed indefinitely because of a shortage of materials, keeping 1,100 workers idle.

Dozen Strikes in Detroit.

Negotiations were at a standstill in the Hudson dispute and little or no progress was being made toward settlement of the others. Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan, said he did not intend to intervene.

A dozen Detroit firms outside the automobile industry were plagued with sit-down strikes. At Crowley-Milner & Company, large department store, 3,000 employees remained on a sit-down while union and company officials planned a new conference.

Mayor Sanctions Bingo, Crown Says Prosecute

Stratford Chief Magistrate Defies Court, Says He Will Issue Licenses

FANS IN DILEMMA

STRATFORD, Ont., March 12. — (CP). — Crown Attorney W. E. Goodwin to-day threw a monkey wrench into the prospects of bingo and bingo games being operated when he announced he would instruct police to prosecute if the games were held here.

On the other hand, Mayor T. E. Henry said he would issue licenses insofar as it is in his power to do so. "Let them prosecute if they want to," he said. Early this afternoon no application for licenses to operate bona games had been applied for by local organizations.

"In my opinion Keno and bingo games are illegal," Crown Attorney Goodwin said when asked regarding his stand. "If keno or bingo games are held here I will instruct police to prosecute. It isn't a principle of morals which is involved, it is the law."

Police Chief R. J. Beatty said he had informed Mayor Henry that the Chief Magistrate had as much power to issue licenses as the Chief of Police.

SIR CHARLES ROSS IS SOUGHT AT SEA

British Inventor Three Days Overdue On Cruise Off Florida —Planes Out

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 12 (CP)—Two coast guard planes were ordered into the air today to join surface craft in a search for Sir Charles Ross, noted British inventor and former advisor to the Canadian government on small arms, reported missing on a trip from Pass-A-Grille to Keywest aboard a launch.

Sir Charles—inventor of the Ross automatic rifle used by the Canadian forces in the Great War—was three days overdue at Key West, his secretary, Mrs. Mary McKay said early today in asking coast guard aid.

Mrs. McKay said the Briton left Pass-A-Grille Saturday in his cabin launch "In" accompanied by Captain Horace Roberts, the boat's skipper.

Mrs. McKay said Sir Charles is an expert navigator and there have been no storms in the eastern gulf since he sailed. She said he was due in Key West not later than Tuesday and had said he would wire her immediately after his arrival.

Two coast guard amphibians were ordered out from the base here while a picket boat already has been dispatched from Key West which is about 180 miles south of Pass-A-Grille on a direct line.

CHATHAM, Ont., March 12 (CP). —Walter Turner, 35, of Dresden, charged with the murder of his wife, Evelyn, was remanded a week when he appeared in court here today. He was not asked to plead.

Turner, not taken to Dresden for the inquest yesterday, following which a jury returned with a verdict of death by violence, held a conference with his counsel, A. L. Hanna, in a room at police headquarters.

NET HYDRO DEBT NOW 144 MILLION LYON ANNOUNCES

Expects Commission Will Owe Government Nothing By 1966

NO INQUIRY—ROEBUCK

TORONTO, March 12.—(CP).—Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission's net debt to the province at March 1 was $131,572,943, of which $7,168,019 was on account of Northern Ontario projects, of which Hydro is trustee for the Provincial government, leaving the net debt on account of Hydro properties at $144,404,922.

The figures were given Public Accounts committee of the Legislature to-day by T. Stewart Lyon, chairman, as Arthur Ellis (Ottawa South) examined him on debate of Hydro financing.

On July 31, 1914, shortly after the present commission took office, Hydro debt to the province was $307,-250,356, of which $9,272,477 was on Northern Ontario account, Mr. Lyon said.

"Where do you expect to pay off the balance," asked Mr. Ellis.

"Well now, I'm over 70, you know" said Mr. Lyon.

The Hydro chairman exhorted that Hydro would owe the government nothing by 1966 if sinking fund accumulations continued at the present rate.

Mr. Lyon said $28,000,000 was withdrawn from Hydro sinking funds for repayment to the Provincial Government in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1936, leaving the sinking fund at approximately $7,-000,000. He said this saved money for Hydro as the interest received on the sinking fund did not equal the interest paid on Hydro debt.

Would Refuse Probe.

Suggestion the opposition in the legislature could ask for a royal commission inquiry into Hydro was made by Attorney General Arthur Roebuck, Hydro commissioner, when Mr. Ellis posed a long series of questions on general Hydro policy and finance to R. T. Jeffery, chief Hydro municipal engineer. Mr. Roebuck objected to the questions and said matters of policy did not come within public accounts committee's jurisdiction.

"Would you grant a request for an inquiry," asked Mr. Ellis.

"I would not," said Mr. Roebuck.

Pneumonia Following In Path Of Epidemic Will Take Higher Toll

Scores Are Ill With Whole Families Reported Down

INDIAN SETTLEMENTS

100 Children From One School Affected With Peak Not Reached

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., March 12 (CP)—Thirty-nine deaths were reported today in the measles and influenza epidemic sweeping Ile a la Crosse and Beauval Indian settlements 200 miles northwest of here.

Pneumonia has developed from the measles and influenza and has brought deaths quickly.

Deaths in Beauval to date total 24, with 10 of the deaths in the Beauval Indian Mission School where 100 Indian children are sick. Every Indian family in Beauval village is reported ill.

At Ile a la Crosse, two treaty Indians are dead and 13 non-treaty Indians have succumbed. Scores more are ill, reports said.

Survive Single Attack

Where the Indians have not had measles to contend with as well as influenza, the death toll is light.

The Indians in the area between Ile a la Crosse and Churchill, Man., having been through the influenza epidemic earlier, are believed to have recovered sufficiently to ward off measles and pneumonia. Only two cases outside the two villages are reported.

From P. Pederson, manager of Hudson's Bay post at Beauval came this brief telegraphic message:

"Every family in village down with measles or influenza. Pneumonia setting in. Twenty - four deaths to date and many more not expected to live."

Emil Benoit, Canadian Airways Ltd. agent at Ile a la Crosse, wired: "Epidemic has not reached peak as yet. Two deaths treaty Indians and 13 deaths non-treaty Indians at Ile a la Crosse."

JUDGE ORDERS WM. MUNCHUK HANG MAY 31

Accused Already Serving 20-Year Term For Slaying Victim's Husband

IN LINE-FENCE DISPUTE

First Execution For St. Catharines And First In Lincoln For Sixty Years

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., March 12.—(CP).—William Munchuk was sentenced to-day to be hanged May 31 for the murder of Mrs. Amy Seabright in a line-fence dispute. The jury deliberated 80 minutes.

Munchuk was charged with slaying Mrs. Seabright last June 8. He was serving a 20 year sentence for the slaying of John Seabright at which trial Mrs. Munchuk was acquitted.

Spectators sat in silence as they heard the prisoner sentenced to death.

The sentence will be the first capital punishment in Lincoln county in 60 years. There has not been a hanging in St. Catharines.

Mr. Justice McFarland told the jury to-day that if they believed Munchuk killed Mrs. Seabright they could not "salve" their consciences by bringing in a verdict of manslaughter.

Crown Counsel Joseph Sedgwick, K.C., Toronto, had made the same remark to the jury last night and remarked: "There was nothing done by the woman to justify this murderous attack."

DROWNING VICTIM HELD BY WEED BED

Plunges Through Ice While Taking Short-Cut Across Bay Quinte

BELLEVILLE, Ont., March 12. — (CP).—Body of George Kellar, drowned in the Bay of Quinte near Trenton, was recovered to-day, embedded in a weed bed and seven feet of water. Identification of the victim was made by Elmer Bonter of Trenton and A. Lamoore of Trenton, the latter being the proprietor of the store where Kellar purchased a pound of butter near the spot and a small slew of beef.

School children, playing near the spot, told police they saw a man wearing glasses start across the ice and a few minutes later the heard cries for help and saw a man thrashing in the water. Police identified the man through the cap found floating in the water.

Kellar is a resident of Hillier, Prince Edward county, a small community about 15 miles south of Trenton and it was apparent he was intending to hitch bike to his home after crossing the ice.

Toledo's Treasured Paintings Weather Bombardings Intact

Priceless Cathedral Religious Antiques However Disappear With Government Troops

VALUED IN MILLIONS

TOLEDO, Spain, March 12.—(AP) —Toledance, whose city has been described in the guidebooks as a museum of the grandeur that was Spain's have counted the art treasures left them by the war and find them singularly rich.

Many of the paintings of the masters, missing when insurgent troops of General Francisco Franco entered the city last September, were feared lost or ruined. But most have been found.

That masterpiece of El Greco, "The burial of Gonzalo Ruiz, Count of Orgaz," again fills a corner of Santo Tome Church with glory. Rated by some art critics as one of the dozen greatest paintings in the world, it was torn from the wall of the church and thrown to the floor.

There, when the debris of the struggle was cleared away, it was found intact.

Most of the other paintings in Toledo's cathedral and museums likewise have been recovered in good condition, among them some of the finest work of Velasquez, Goya and other giants of art. Although they are of great intrinsic value, it would have been difficult to recover them into ready cash.

But so the treasures of the cathedral, said by many to have been the finest in Europe. Treasures say millions of pesetas worth of religious objects, most of them antiques of gold and precious stones, disappeared with the government troops when they fled from the insurgent soldiers who relieved the long besieged Alcazar last autumn.

Think $300,000 Cash Hidden In Old Shack

Edmonton, March 12—(CP)

LIFE savings of an aged hoarder, $300,000, are said to be secreted within the walls of a dilapidated and condemned shack at Peace River, Alta., 250 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The tumble - down tar - paper building, which was condemned by Town Council as a public menace, suddenly has become a centre of attraction, the object of careful scrutiny of Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the town constable.

The money is said to have been accumulated by an 83-year-old second-hand dealer, Henry Lovik, who died July 20, 1936. The $300,000 is said to be entirely in cash.

The committee members decided upon Admiral J. S. C. Oliver, former Dutch squadron commander to direct the naval patrol and selected Danish Colonel Claus Thaarup Leon to supervise the work of frontier patrols along the France-Spanish border.

The naval patrol, in which British, French, German and Italian warships will participate will begin tomorrow.

Wife Comes Seeking Husband After Reading He Is Bigamist

Mate Has Spouse, 3 Children In Brantford

GIVES UP IN TORONTO

WINDSOR, Ont., March 13— (CP)—Married four months, 20-year-old Mrs. Douglas Upperton, formerly Lorna Fouset, came to police headquarters to enquire about her husband who surrendered to Toronto police yesterday and confessed he was a bigamist. Mrs. Upperton said she knew nothing of her husband's whereabouts until she "saw the story in a newspaper."

She told police she last saw Upperton Tuesday when he left home to get a pair of shoes repaired. Upperton told Toronto police his real name was Victor Drury and that he left his first wife. His first marriage, he said, was in 1925 to Bessie Jane Elliott at Stratford and she bore him three children.

Mrs. Upperton said she met Upperton, as he called himself, on a farm near Amherstburg, 18 miles south of here, 16 months ago. They were married last November 16.

"He was so much in love with me," she said, "that he changed his religion."

She said her husband was employed as canvasser by a Windsor furniture firm and that he gave his age as 21 when they were married in Amherstburg.

19 MEN DEAD IN W. VIRGINIA MINE BLAST

Two Die In Blast And Rescue Crews Give Up Hopes For 17

NO AIR IN SHAFT

Explosion Is Second In Seven Months, Ten Being Killed Last Fall

LOGAN, W. Va., March 12 (A.P.) —Rescue crews groped through smoke, gas and dust two miles back in a mine to-day, seeking 17 men they feared dead in an explosion that already had taken two lives.

The blast, second in seven months at the Macbeth Mine of the Hutchinson Coal Company, tore through the shaft last night a few hours after the night shift entered the mine.

The rescuers, 1,500 feet from the centre of the explosion just before dawn, reported they expected to reach the trapped men to-day or to-night.

It took 40 hours to recover the bodies of 10 men killed in the explosion there last September.

E. L. Carquie, member of a rescue crew, on his last trip to the surface to-day said there was "no hope" for the 17.

"There is no air back where they are," he added.

Company officials said between 40 and 45 men were in the mine at the time of the explosion. Only two escaped from the section where the 17 were trapped and two were killed.

The bodies of Joe Frye, mine motorman, and his brakeman, Troy McCoy, were carried out within four hours after the blast.

The two who escaped were John Bodner and George Matthews, both were burned.

"The percentage of decrease in the Dominion totals when the drought areas are included, was more than 14 per cent. in respect of families and over 13 per cent. in respect of the total number."

MINIMUM WAGE GOES UNOPPOSED SECOND READING

No Fixed Standard For Province—Local Conditions To Be Guide

QUEBEC TO CO-OPERATE

TORONTO, March 12 (C.P.).—Quebec and Ontario have joined hands in a fight to prevent exploitation of workers.

The Ontario Legislature last night unanimously voted second reading to a Bill to provide machinery for fixing minimum wages for men.

While the House considered the measure Hon. David Croll, Labor Minister, was advised from Quebec that the Legislature there will be asked to pass similar legislation.

Mr. Croll dramatically waged what he called "thin pay envelopes" war as he asked the House to approve his Bill. He read the amounts and hours for which the wages were paid. Some were as low as $5.00 to $5.00 for a 66-hour week.

"That is the evidence of exploitation which has led us to enactment of a minimum wage law," he told the House. "Behind each of these thin envelopes lies a story of hardship, discouragement and despair. I offer no other arguments as to whether such legislation is necessary."

No Fixed Standard.

The Minister said no standard minimum wage will be fixed for the whole province. The bill provides for the appointment of a Labor and Industry Board. It will hold hearings and set minimum, having regard to local conditions. Ontario already has legislation providing for minimum wages for women.

Russell Nesbitt (Cons. Toronto-Brasondale) voiced the only major opposition criticism of the bill. He

NORTH HASTINGS AREA SUGGESTED AS GAME PRESERVE

Borders On Algonquin Park—Now Scene Of Extensive Fur Poaching

BEAVER MAIN PRIZES

TWEED, March 12. — Tentative plans are being made for the formation of a Crown Game Preserve in the northern part of the County of Hastings, Game and Fisheries Inspector H. McCabe stated on Thursday. "This is being done with a view of stopping the extensive raiding of fur poachers on the beaver colonies. While we have stopped this practice to some extent there is still a lot of it being done. This forming of the preserve will place it out of bounds for everyone not connected with it and make trespassers liable to arrest."

It is noted that the northern part of Hastings County borders on the southern boundary of Algonquin Park, and in order to protect the animals, which are under protection in the park, that wander into the territory south of the boundary, a game preserve should be established in certain sections where poaching is being carried on on a large scale.

The game life, especially beaver and mink in the northern part of the district is becoming quite plentiful, and with a few years of protection, should restore to the normal level of a few years ago.

QUEBEC LIBERALS QUIT THE HOUSE

Protest Vote Procedure — Address Adopted After Dramatic Climax To Debate

QUEBEC, March 12 — (CP). — Political Quebec, temporarily switching attention from its battle for the next move of Liberal members who deserted the Legislature in a mass walkout protesting Government procedure on votes.

In a dramatic climax to the Throne Speech debate, eight Liberals—all who were in the House at the time—walked out last night after the government's refusal to permit Cyrille Dumaine (Lib., Bagot) to adjourn the debate at the hour when Liberals claimed the House must rise unless unanimous consent was obtained.

Their unprecedented action ended the debate, for Premier Maurice Duplessis immediately sought, and obtained, a unanimous adoption of the address in reply to the speech. At the same time, the House decided to go into committee to-day.

What the Liberals would do as the House reconvened was problematical. Last night, as he led his seven followers out of the Chamber, Opposition Leader Bouchard said his party would "leave the Government to do as it likes." It appeared to him "no longer necessary to have any opposition sit in the Assembly." But neither he nor the other seven indicated how long they would stay out.

The eight Liberals are less than that party's full representation in the House, walked out after Dumaine had tried vainly to gain adjournment of the Legislature at 11 o.m. When he moved to adjourn the debate, Premier Duplessis called for a vote, and then his overwhelming majority beat down the Liberals, 46-8 on straight party lines.

As the Opposition called "nay" and "cloture," the Opposition leader called on the little group to follow him out, and they left the House.

M. J. Coldwell Pops Up Debate By Challenging Western Liberals

ON WHEAT BOARD VIEWS

OTTAWA, March 12. — (CP) — Western Liberal members of parliament who took part in protest meetings last fall against the government's wheat board policy have been challenged to debate the subject in the House.

M. J. Coldwell (C.C.F. Rosetown-Biggar), in the budget debate yesterday, read reports of numerous meetings in which Liberal House members were quoted as either joining in protest against suspension of the wheat board's operations or attending the meetings.

"Where are those protesters now?" Mr. Coldwell asked the House. he said, was the place their protests might be most effective. He urged them to speak in the same manner they had spoken among their constituents and expressed the hope party loyalties would not deter them.

Mr. Coldwell continued his charge that in depriving the western grain growers of the marketing machinery set up in the Wheat Board Act the government had bettered the farmers and opened the way to speculators to reap the benefit of rising prices.

Another feature of yesterday's debate was the protest of Wilfrid Clariepy (Lib. Three Rivers) against sending into Quebec government of-

Army Of 30,000 Italians Blocked In North Front

Madrid Charges Mussolini Waging "Undeclared War" On Spain

MORE REGULARS COMING

MADRID, March 12 (A.P.). — Insurgent artillery blasted anew at this beleaguered capital to-day as government commanders reported their war-fagged "Milicianos" were holding an army of 30,000 Italians in check on the north-eastern front, 44 miles away.

Shells exploded in the Gran Via, an important thoroughfare, and struck the lower buildings of one section of the city. Several persons were believed hit and screaming ambulances raced to the shelled area.

On the other hand, 300 insurgents were killed or wounded in Southern Spain, it was reported from Andujar, when they attacked Villanueva Del Duque, Jaen Province.

The Cabinet in Valencia, meanwhile, prepared a protest to the International Non-Intervention Committee, of which Italy is a member, terming the presence of Italian troops a grave violation of the European non-intervention accord.

The government accused Italy of waging an "undeclared war" on Spain.

In the face of overwhelming attacks, Madrid's troops were reported to have forced a flattening of the insurgent spearhead along a 23-mile front in Guadalajara Province.

The government's characterization of the conflict as international was said to have been strengthened further by the reported declaration of an Italian prisoner of war, identified as Major Luciano Antonio de Inino, that the Italian government was planning to send even more "regular Italian troops" to Spain.

PITKIN'S LETTER TERMED INSULT

Smirch On Millions Of French-Canadians Bouchard Says In Legislature

QUEBEC, March 12—(CP)—Prof. Walter B. Pitkin's comments on French-Canadians, termed "libellous and false," were protested today in a resolution to come before the legislature of this French-Canadian province.

Notice of the resolution was given in the House last night by Opposition Leader T. D. Bouchard. The resolution said Pitkin, author and professor at Columbia University in New York, had insulted millions of French-Canadians in a letter published in a Toronto newspaper.

Under the resolution, attention of Columbia's president, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, would be drawn to the incident.

The letter was asserted to have been written by Pitkin to a Toronto man who protested statements in a book he wrote. It referred to French - Canadians entering the Eastern United States as "the lowest specimens of humanity, except for a few elemental traits of simple honesty." Another reference spoke of "the sort of cattle we get from Quebec . . . I'd rather have Alabama niggers than those muskrats."

The opposition leader gave notice of his resolution after he had been barred, earlier yesterday, from discussing it in the House. Premier Maurice Duplessis declared the "ramblings" of such writers as the one who wrote the letter should be ignored.

Leo Dansey (U.N.-Lake St. John) thought it should be drawn to the Federal government's attention, so Ottawa could communicate with Washington.

The Opposition leader said he would find "some other means" of protest.

RIVERSIDE, Ont., March 12 (CP)—A proposal to force all male relief recipients to work 24 hours a week in this suburban Windsor town was passed by council at a welfare meeting last night. The plan will be considered further at a meeting Monday.

The scheme will put all male recipients between the ages of 18 and 60 to work four days a week for their relief allowances.

Under the proposed plan, a single man would be paid approximately 20 cents an hour considering his relief allowance, while a man with a large family will receive approximately 85 cents an hour.

FRESH OUTBREAKS INCREASE TENSION U.S. STRIKE DRAMA

Chicago Taximen Stoned, Lancaster Ironworkers Pelted With Eggs

RIOT, CALIFORNIA PLANT

CHICAGO, March 12—(AP)—New outbreaks of violence heightened tension in fast moving drama of industrial conflict today. Nearly a score of persons were injured in a clash between police and pickets at the California Packing Corp. plant at Alameda, Calif.

In Chicago more taxicabs were stoned and non-striking drivers pursued and beaten in a dispute that has crippled cab transportation.

At the Lancaster, Pa., iron works, scene of a strike, a crowd pelted workers with eggs.

Injunctive proceedings against strikers gave rise to fear of possible violence at Detroit.

The riot at Alameda, third disturbance there within a week, started when non-union workers tried to pass a line of 200 union warehouseman pickets who have attempted to organize employees.

Police released tear gas bombs and firemen shot streams of water at the pickets. Clubs, fists and rocks were brought into play during the melee. Clouds of tear gas forced some nearby residents to evacuate their homes. Two policemen and a picket were seriously injured.

Circuit Judge Allen Campbell ordered Chrysler motor strikers and union officials to show cause on Saturday why an injunction should not be issued. The latter retaliated by announcing sit-down strikers would not permit corporation executives to enter Chrysler plants.

2,200 Walk Out at Reo Plant.

The U.A.W.A. called a strike that threw 2,200 workers out of their jobs at the Reo Motor Car Company factory at Lansing, Mich. Union officials said the dispute arose over a "general pay cut" and discharge of 15 men for union activities.

At Pittsburgh the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation announced extension of a general pay increase on March 16 to more than 30,000 office and salary workers.

A steering committee of the corporation's employee representatives group turned down a proposal to join the American Federation of Labor in fighting John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

An agreement ended a sit-down strike that kept 450 motormen and freight handlers idle and crippled transportation in underground freight tunnels at Chicago. Several new strikes started in the city, however.

Some 300 employees of the Chicago Mail Order Company were on a sit-down for wage boosts. As many, including 170 women, started a sit-down at the Regard & Marcusson Co., manufacturers of bed springs, while 345, including 40 women, struck at the Ludlow Typograph Company.

CANADIAN CATTLE REACH HIGH PEAK ON BUFFALO MART

Strength In Toronto Reflected At Border Point—Hogs Regain Opening Losses

CALF SECTION LOWER

TORONTO, March 12 (CP) — Strength in cattle featured the Toronto livestock market this week, the Dominion Livestock Branch reported. Advances ranged from 25 cents on steers and heifers to around 50 cents on some cows and bulls. Calves lost an early 50 cent rise in later trading while hogs regained an opening loss of 15 cents. Sheep and lambs were unchanged throughout.

A heavy run of cattle was absorbed at the higher prices. Weighty steers ranged from $6 to $7.25 and a few choice heavies reached $8 cwt. Butcher steers and heifers sold generally between $5.25 and $6.50 with top light steers as high as $7.25.

Butcher cows moved between $3 and $5 cwt. and canners and cutters from $1.75 to $2.75. Good bulls sold for export at $4 to $4.50 with bolognas from $3.50 to $3.75. Fed calves held unchanged at $6 to $8 according to quality. A small supply of stockers brought $4.50 to $5.50. Milkers and springers were somewhat dull at around $65 for tops on untested varieties.

The strength in the cattle market here reflected price gains at Buffalo where Canadian heavy steers reached $11 for four loads, the highest price of the year.

St. Andrew's Y.P.U. Captures Interesting Contest With "Kidnapping Betty"

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, March 12.—Messrs. Bruce B. Dawson, Millbrook, president of the Young People's Union of the Peterborough Presytery, and Thomas Hultman, Peterborough, dramatic convenor of the Y.P.U. of the Peterborough Presbytery, extended gracious words of welcome to the many who attended the drama festival held in the Sunday school hall of St. Andrew's United Church.

The event was sponsored by the Presbytery, and every union in the district was privileged to enter who had previously prepared a comedy drama. Competitions in the sacred drama division sponsored annually by the same organization will take place after the Easter period.

Besides the three one-act plays presented by representatives of Benefort, Springville and Millbrook, there were added and pleasing features in the jolly sing-song led by Rev. Clarence Ferguson, B.A., Bethany, and assisted by Miss Phyllis Kidd at the piano; a whistling solo by Miss Beatrice McDowell, and vocal solo by Orville Wainman, accompanied at the piano by Miss Mary Burnham.

Dramatic convenors of the three societies, Mrs. B. B. Dawson of Millbrook, Mrs. Howson of Benefort and Mr. Douglas of Springville, introduced the plays before each presentation and announced the members of the cast.

Judges were Mrs. J. McKone, Messrs. J. Rehill and J. Donaldson, Peterborough, and first place was awarded the local troupe, who enacted in fine style the comedy drama, "Kidnapping Betty." Members of the cast, representatives of the local Y.P.U., were: Betty Meadows, Marjorie McDowell, Stan. Fielding, Jack Arundel, Nat Meadows, Earl Edworthy, Bud Simpson, Kenneth Kidd, Molly Fielding, Jean Burnham, Joanna Fielding, Eleanor Bigelow, Sally Perkins, Mary Burnham.

Lose The Debate.

Representatives of the Young People's Union of St. Andrew's United Church, Misses Bernice Smith and Anna Rowland, were defeated by a small margin in their support of the negative side of the debate: "Resolved that the idea behind the League of Nations is sound" held at Bethany, Wednesday evening. Messrs. Robert Fair and Stewart Thompson upheld the affirmative as representatives of the Y.P.U., St. Andrew's unit is now in possession of a "torch of friendship" presented them by the Bethany society at Tuesday evening's meet.

BANCROFT MARBLE MACHINERY ORDER PLACED FOR $15,000

Flu In Tweed Plays Havoc Putting Whole Families In Bed

FARMER BADLY HURT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, March 12.—An order for $15,000 worth of machinery with which to equip a crushing plant in the village of Bancroft, has been given to a Canadian firm by a Toronto syndicate. The plant, which will be used in the marble industry, is expected to arrive within a few weeks. With the exception of only one man, all help will be recruited from the village of Bancroft and district.

Influenza has seized a number of victims of this village and district within the past week. In some cases families have all been confined to their beds. Work was almost completely tied up at Lefaive Motor Sales, when with one exception, the mechanics were all down with the 'flu. Fortunately the epidemic is of the mild type. At the Tweed Consolidated School, early this week, from one-quarter to one-third of the pupils were absent through illness.

Clarence South, 36-year-old son of Robert South of Sharp's Corners, received serious injuries when he was struck by the limb of a tree while working in the woods about two miles east of the village of Roblin on Wednesday.

He was rushed to Kingston General Hospital, where an X-ray showed a broken neck. He was conscious when taken to hospital, but his body was paralyzed. Following his arrival at the hospital he lapsed into a state of unconsciousness.

Annual depredations of vandals breaking into and destroying summer cottage property in the vicinity of Bancroft are taking place, according to Provincial Police headquarters. Provincial Police Constable Everett Smith has returned from an extensive investigating tour of the northern part of the county, where he looked into complaints regarding the breaking and entering of several summer homes. These homes are mostly occupied by summer residents from the States and from the southern part of the county, while residents of Toronto and various western cities spend considerable of the vacation in the summer paradise.

The roll call was responded to with each member furnishing an Irish joke. Following the business period, "Current Events" was given by Mrs. J. A. Rice. A St. Patrick contest was won by Miss Rita Shannon. A series of pictures illustrating the economic and food value of bread was shown by Mr. Tolton, representative of the Standard Brands Limited to the interest of the gathering.

Constable-Clubbing Widow May Be Spared 10 Days In Jail

Crown Offers To Reduce Costs As Woman Prepares For Cell—Demands It Comfortable

ALL OVER HER PUP

WOODSTOCK, Ont., March 12—(CP)—Mrs. Clara Kendall of Norwich, hovering on the brink of a 10-day visit to the Oxford County Jail in default of payment of $22.15 costs arising from a fracas in which she clubbed County Constable W. D. Sharpe over the head, has found a champion.

At Mrs. Kendall's farm there is a herd of first-class Jersey cattle, and a prominent fancier of this breed, living in Woodstock, has interceded on Mrs. Kendall's behalf. A couple of weeks ago Mrs. Kendall was found guilty of assaulting an officer and was given the alternative of paying a fine or going to jail.

Crown Attorney Craig McKay said to-day he would be glad to relinquish any claim to fees for the Crown if the reduction of costs would inspire Mrs. Kendall to revoke her determined decision to "do the time," but expressed some misgivings as to whether the compromise would be received graciously by the Norwich widow.

A letter recommending that she pay the reduced costs will be sent her by her new adviser.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Kendall is biding her time, having sent notice to local officials, asking that her cell be made warm and cosy and inquiring if she may bring her pup "Coronation" with her to enjoy the hospitality of the county.

It was through "Coronation" that the whole thing started.

The pup wandered away from the farm and was found by a neighbor who advertised that it would be returned to the owner on payment of advertising costs.

Mrs. Kendall went and got her pup but didn't pay the advertising costs, and it was while Constable Sharpe was acting in the role of bill collector that the assault took place.

HAROLD NICHOLSON OLD BALL PLAYER DIES IN KINGSTON

Played For Twenty Years On The Kingston Senior Baseball Team

ALSO HOCKEY STAR

KINGSTON, Ont., March 12—(CP).—Harold Nicholson, former well-known local hockey and baseball player died in hospital to-day, following long illness from sinus trouble and subsequent operations.

Nicholson played with Kingston Frontenacs in 1913 when they went to the finals with Toronto Eatons for senior O.H.A. championship.

On the Toronto team were "Jerry" Laflamme, Bill Ryland, Hankin Bricker, Frank Foyston, Meeking and others. Nicholson, a regular on defence, though only weighing 135 pounds, had as team mates, Dicta Imperial, Mel Hyland, "Bouncer" Brousseau, Reg. Crowford, Reg. Boyer, Shawnee Reid, and the late George T. Richardson. He played for Kingston Intermediates in 1915 as a kid when the team lost in the finals to Collingwood.

As a centre fielder Nicholson was without a peer locally. He played for more than twenty years, finally retiring about ten years ago after several seasons with the local team in the Central Ontario Baseball League.

Our Statesmen Go Modern

Strange how the method of address and conversation which develops among the younger people, even to the boys, eventually finds its way to the House of Commons.

That phrase "Can't take it" is not particularly old. As used by the boys when applied to some person who could not stand hardship or defeat or a practical joke, it was generally given this way: "Can't take it, eh?"

A few days ago when Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, was speaking, he was interrupted several times by Mr. Perley of Qu'Appelle. From the Parliamentary Debates we quote:

Mr. PERLEY (Qu'Appelle): Mr. Speaker, I think the hon. member—

Some hon. MEMBERS: Order.

Mr. PERLEY (Qu'Appelle): I never said that at all.

Mr. GARDINER: I have only forty minutes, or the hon. member could interrupt me as often as he wishes.

Mr. PERLEY (Qu'Appelle): On a point of order—

An hon. MEMBER: Can't take it.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Sit down.

There is nothing new in a member being told to sit down; that is of old vintage, but "Can't take it" is new verbal diet for the Commons.

The Cost of a Road

Information was brought before the Public Accounts Committee of the Ontario Legislature that 47 miles of gravel road construction in the Kenora constituency for the trans-Canada Highway had cost $2,409,762.

The report of the proceeding said there had been an hour and a-half of wrangling before the information was forthcoming. Just why there should have been any wrangling at all or any delay in producing the information is a bit hard to understand. That is why the Public Accounts Committee is formed, and that is why it goes into session. It should be and often is one of the most useful committees of the Legislature.

Without having thorough knowledge of the district through which this road passes it is not possible to know how much it should cost to build the road or clear the way. There may have been a good deal of blasting or there may have been bogs to fill. The cost of surfacing a road is more definitely known, and the gravelling of a road should cost about $1,000 a mile; ashphalt will cost from $16,000 to $18,000 a mile, and concrete from $18,000 to $20,000 a mile. In the case of the road in Kenora district, of gravel surface, the cost per mile was $31,271, so the Public Accounts Committee could well afford to ask a number of questions concerning such construction.

The Right Way To Do

The Ontario Government is apparently going to make certain that the subsidy for the reduction of municipal taxation to the extent of one mill is going to be applied directly to that purpose and to no other. And that seems right enough.

It is proposed that each municipality must give satisfactory proof that the subsidy goes directly to the payment of taxes, and that taxpayers have actually been relieved to the extent of one mill.

This cannot be considered as interference with municipal management. The government is arranging and budgeting to make this payment to municipalities so it will benefit the individual taxpayer, and for that reason it has the right to provide regulations which will make certain the original purpose will be carried out to the letter.

A Good Citizen Passes

Peterborough is the poorer by the loss of Dr. M. A. Morrison who came squarely into that category commonly designated as good citizens. During his many years of residence here he found time, despite faithful attention to his profession, to serve the public in a number of useful capacities and lent his sound judgment and valued counsel to the deliberations and activities of both the city council and the Board of Education, compiling a record of faithful service in both bodies. As a member of the board of license commissioners for West Peterborough before the advent of prohibition he gave earnest attention to the responsible duties of that position while church and fraternal organizations found him a zealous and hard-working member whose influence was all the more potent because it was based on the strength of a sound and sincere personality.

During a period when Peterborough was growing rapidly and expansion was the order of the day in civic and educational circles Dr. Morrison was called upon to play a major role in municipal leadership and the verdict of his contemporaries would undoubtedly be that he played it with distinction for himself and to the lasting benefit of the community he served so long and so well.

Where Stratford Leads

In 1936 there were 782 entries for the Stratford Musical Festival, and reports indicate the number will be greater in 1937 for the eleventh annual event. The Festival begins on April 15 and continues until the 23rd, and most of the time it will run morning, afternoon and evening, and on several days in two auditoriums. The fact that there were 782 entries in 1936 hardly tells the entire story, because many of those entries were choirs, orchestras and bodies of musicians where one entry may mean from fifty to one hundred performers. It is not exaggeration to state that in 1936 there would have been close to 5,000 actual participants. And it looks as though there would be more in 1937.

The experience in Stratford has been different to that of a number of other places. And better. When the first Festival was held it was probably no better and no worse than any other for a start, but the second year and the third demonstrated the thing was suffering from growing pains. Today it is right enough to state the Stratford Musical Festival is the largest and most successful venture of its kind in the province. There are two points in Western Canada which would make it difficult to say it is the greatest in the Dominion.

It has never been a money maker, and it was never intended that it should be. If each year pays its way that is considered sufficient. The reason why Stratford succeeds where other places have failed is that the music teachers themselves are organized, and through their organization they manage the Festival. The other reason is the outstanding quality of the adjudicators who have been engaged. That costs money and plenty of it; Stratford has paid as much as $50 a day and expenses, but the expenditure has been justified. It is indeed satisfactory to know that the 1937 Festival is an assured success before it begins. We doubt if there is any voice or combination of voices, or any instrument or combination of instruments for which space has not been provided at this remarkable Musical Festival in Stratford.

Who Gets the Benefit?

Objection has been taken to the decrease made in the rates charged for license fees for commercial vehicles on the ground that it will make it easier for trucks to take more business away from the railways. It is doubted if the reduction of 25 per cent. will cause any trucking company to add another unit to its outfit. For trucks of less than two tons the registration fee at present is $10 if equipped with pneumatic tires, and $16 for solid tires; the corresponding fee for a five-ton truck is $65 and $85. The ten-ton truck with pneumatic tires costs $170, with solid tires $200. It is not likely that reducing these annual charges by 25 per cent. will cause more commercial vehicles to come into existence.

Whether a reduction of 25 per cent. will be sufficient to cause any lowering of rates charged to shippers throughout the year is another matter of doubt. If the reduction were in any way certain of being passed along to consumers or producers there might be benefit to them. At present it looks as though the reduction in registration rates will be just that much less which the transport men will have to spend.

Average Weight 135 Pounds

Four Peterborough men were having a little mild entertainment when weighing in one the sort of scales which operates only when coaxed by the dropping in of a coin. It was found the weights were 147, 168, 150 and 172. One of the four with a mind for statistics figured the average weight was 159 pounds.

We noticed a few days ago a small item from one of the mining towns of the north where five men who stayed at the same boarding house weighed more than half a ton. They were all over 200 pounds.

We recall an entertainment given by a Women's Institute where the weights of all members was taken and the average was 137.

There are plenty of charts published showing what people of various ages and heights should weigh, but there are not many who are found to conform to the scale of uniformity in weight.

The Department of Highways for purposes of computing the carrying capacity of busses multiply the seating capacity by 135 pounds, indicating a belief that such is the average weight of passengers, and we believe that figure for such a purpose would be found upon extensive investigation to be fairly close to the mark.

Many Ontario communities have plans for a fitting celebration of Coronation day well in hand. It is not too early for Peterborough to be concerning herself with the local program for that memorable occasion. Community celebrations cannot be planned over night.

Commenting on the Examiner's editorial in reference to the omission of this city from the New York Times' list of Canadian cities which were pioneers in the protection of their children against diphtheria the Ottawa Journal says: "Peterborough is entitled to great credit for its foresight, its energy and determination in this matter. Its experience adds to the great body of evidence which demonstrates beyond argument that diphtheria can be prevented."

NOTE AND COMMENT

Hon. J. G. Gardiner predicts the highest price for Canadian wheat this year since the war years and we have an idea the country can absorb a lot of that kind of news without flinching.

It might be well to draw the attention of municipal authorities to the fact that they have no right to expect this year's municipal subsidy of one mill is to be made an annual handout.

It is estimated it would cost Port Hope $67,000 to provide efficient protection against floods. One ordinary splurge on the part of the Canaraska runs up a bigger bill than that.

W. H. Moore, Liberal member for Ontario, voted against the King government on the Budget vote. With a majority of 88 on the division, however, the government managed to stand up under the shock.

There is something to think about in the statement that 24,500 individuals in Toronto have been on the relief list for at least four years. The incentive to seek work must in their case be very effectually killed by this time.

We imagine the Opposition board of strategy took one look at the highlights of the Hepburn budget and then started to send out wires to the boys in the riding organizations to keep their powder dry.

HE'D NEVER CHANGE

(By A. R. K.)

¶ With spring there comes more books on clothes, on neckties, collars, shirts and hose, it tells the color scheme they're trying colors on the men, so they'll look gay as peacock pens in blue and red and green.

¶ Grandfather's tie was always black, of color scheme it showed a lack, today that may seem strange; for ninety years grandfather stayed, no difference in his choice was made, and he would never change.

¶ When he bought neckwear it was tied, and time and change it well defied, and it was always black; there was a hook and ring I mind, and he could fasten it behind, it did up at the back.

¶ Grandfather's meals were like his ties, he liked fat pork and spuds and pies, his tea was strong and straight; his oatmeal started off his day, and he'd have things no other way, a change he'd well nigh hate.

¶ His habits too were like his ties, he'd stir just when the sun might rise, and he was never late; he'd have the chores and milking done, he'd eat according to the sun, be in the field by eight.

¶ His politics were much the same, his candidate he'd quickly name, he thought all others strange; I know he'd scoff if he were here, to see the color schemes this year—for he would never change.

Our Statesmen At Their Labors

(Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. DOUGLAS: I wonder whether the hon. member for Melfort realizes that in this city of Ottawa, the capital of Canada, there are about 700 transients living at the mission or the shelter or at Friendship House. I wonder if he and the Minister of Labour know that these men get two meals a day — a breakfast consisting of porridge and bread and tea, and an evening meal consisting of either soup or stew and bread and tea—and a bed.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): Does the hon. member propose to allow me to answer the question?

Mr. DOUGLAS: The hon. member for Melfort has all the opportunity that I have; he can have forty minutes at any time.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the hon. member asked me a question a moment ago. A day or two ago his leader objected to rhetorical questions being put to that side of the house. May I say in answer to the hon. gentleman that last year in the constituency of Melfort there was a real shortage of young, unemployed men willing to take jobs available during the fall and winter.

Mr. DOUGLAS: I will continue my speech. The hon. member says there is a shortage of men in Melfort.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): In the constituency of Melfort there was, I said.

Mr. DOUGLAS: If he can influence the Minister of Labour, who sits in front of him, to transport some of these men who have been living on two meals a day, I am sure they will be glad to take the jobs.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): Would they be any good when they got there?

Mr. DOUGLAS: No, not after living on two meals a day. I doubt whether the hon. member for Melfort himself would be any good if he lived for any considerable length of time on two meals a day. The fact is, talking about moving these men, they come to town and are allowed one night's lodging and two meals, and then they must move on; but when they go to the station to catch a freight train to go to my hon. friend's constituency the mounted police will not allow them to get on the train; they must wait until it is moving quickly and then try to catch it, with danger to life and limb. They must either do that or stay where they are and beg on the streets.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): Why did they come here in the first place?

Mr. DOUGLAS: Because there is nowhere for them to go. The average young man today is caught on the horns of a dilemma. He must either look for work elsewhere or stay at home, in which case he is not eligible for most of the government projects such as the home placement scheme. If he leaves home to try to get on any of these projects he at once makes it impossible for himself ever to come back to his home and get relief. He is penalized either way. The hon. gentleman that last year in the constituency of Melfort there was a real shortage of young, unemployed men willing to take jobs available during the fall and winter.

If he leaves home to try to get on any of these projects he at once makes it impossible for himself ever to come back to his home and get relief. He is penalized either way. If he stays at home he cannot get work, and if he leaves home and wanders about the country looking for work he cannot come back home because the authorities are not willing to accept him as a responsibility.

Let us look at the matter of farm placements. In the first place it is of very little value to those who would like it, the young farmers, young men in small towns in the prairies who would be glad to go on the farm, having had some experience. They cannot go because they have a home; scores of them have been refused on the ground that they have a place to live in. The young men who are homeless come in the main from the cities; in the first place they are not suited to farm work, they are of no use to the farmer, and they do not like such work. Therefore, those who want it cannot get it and those who can get it do not want it and are not of much use to the people to whom they go.

I was interested the other day to receive a postcard from the Ottawa Young Men's Christian Association notifying me that Hon. Norman McL. Rogers would be the guest speaker, taking as his subject "The Outlook of Youth." I am sorry I did not hear that address.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): You are past that stage anyhow.

Mr. DOUGLAS: Whether the Minister of Labour told these young men or not, the fact remains that for fifty or sixty thousand young men in Canada to-day the outlook is $5 a month on a farm; otherwise they can go to the mission and get two meals per day. Some people think that $5 a month is a lot of money, and sometimes I am amazed at the sense of values shown by hon. gentlemen opposite. I have here a copy of an order in council, which I mentioned before, showing that Colonel Ralston, counsel for the Turgeon grain inquiry, receives $20 a day for expenses, and a salary of $200 per day. Compare that with the lot of these young men. Let us leave out the living expenses, though they are not altogether comparable; the boys get board and this gentleman gets $20 a day. Let us take Colonel Ralston's salary and make a calculation on the basis of it. It would take a young man, working under the farm placement scheme, eighty-seven years to make as much as Colonel Ralston makes in a month of twenty-six days, or 1,044 young men working a year to make as much money as he would make if he worked one year.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): Will my hon. friend allow me—

Some hon. MEMBERS: Order.

Mr. DOUGLAS: I have been very patient. The hon. member for Melfort has not made many speeches this session, and I am sure the house will be glad to hear him if he has anything to say.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): The question was quite pertinent.

Mr. DOUGLAS: In the meantime I suggest that the hon. gentleman resume his seat. Even if we accept the statement of the Minister of Finance that there has been a five-per cent decrease in unemployment, it means that the unemployment problem, diminished to the extent of five per cent, is with us for at least twenty years.

Mr. DUNNING: You are a bad calculator, I am afraid.

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics.

BY WAY OF REPLY

Editor Examiner:

Sir: May I ask the courtesy of your column to reply to Mr. Murdoff.

Your letter reveals quite clearly the weakness of the organizations under consideration. First, you admit your numerical strength is weak; secondly you say you have taken a leaf out of the book of Fascism and Communism and that your organization is secret. We on the other hand stay true to good old democracy. We are numerically strong. Our meetings are in the open. Our decisions are arrived at after a vote of our membership. We do not need leaves either from fascism or communism. We carry on our business without deceit or subterfuge in a democratic manner.

As for the political color of our organization, may I repeat again, we are non-political. All parties are welcome to join. All will be treated in the same manner regardless of political, racial or religious differences. The object of our association is to protect the standard of living of the unemployed and to drive for the elimination of relief by substituting work and wages. Any unemployed man or woman may become a member. All are welcome. Our meetings are open to the public. In all our dealings with the council and our members there is no secrecy. Mr. Murdoff's attack on our organization is unwarranted and is, to say the least, unusual since he himself is a member of the P.U. and U.A. Sincerely,

CHARLES LAMBERT
President, P.U. and U.A.

Peterborough, March 10.

THIS MUSIC BUSINESS

Editor Examiner:

Sir: "Old Timer's" recent letter to your paper has prompted me to come to the rescue of "Swing Fan."

Your letter "Old Timer" is amusing; you are speaking of something about which it is evident you know not whereof you speak. Because modern music is called jazz you leap to conclusions and show thereby your ignorance. If you do not like modern music, and incidentally do not judge it by small town dance bands, which I admit are mostly blatant, I am not trying to make you like it but only to ask you in all fairness, to enjoy your type of music and let us enjoy ours.

I personally refuse to become a martyr and listen to your type of music as you so aptly put it. I agree with the famous humorist who once said that classical music and bag pipes are supposed to be better than they sound. You speak of jazz and swing as being one and the same thing which is more evidence of you ignorance. Jazz is played as it is written but swing is improvised around the melody as the tune goes on and to do this a person has to be musical to their fingertips. Professional musicians who can do this are paid in the neighborhood of $1,000.00 an hour and they also as a rule are masters of half a dozen different instruments, while the majority of those who condemn it could not play a mouth organ or pick out Pop Goes the Weasel with one finger. If you doubt my word about the salary, you will see it in the January number of Reader's Digest.

Alas, there is more hypocrisy about music than most of the arts. I am sure my friend that if you listened to someone dressed in fancy costume singing a popular song in Italian that you would love it, but don't make the mistake of confusing sanctimoniousness with religion.

Who has more right to say whether modern music is good or bad—Gershwin, Rubinoff, Whiteman, Tibbet or you? If you are more musical than any of these, or think you are, then ignorance is bliss. You have every right to prefer the old to the new but why tread on other people's toes. Simply because I prefer to read a modern book by McFee to one by Marryatt or listen to one of Paul Whiteman's concerts does not condemn me to the level of makes of poisonous gas or wife beaters, nor have I even kicked my son!

If you wish to write another letter in answer to this, go to it. I am sure that it will be just as amusing as the first, but I refuse to argue any further.

And so Swing Fan, Cheerio. Consider not the critics for they play not neither do they swing.

Who Is the Workingman?

(From the Chatham News)

ONE of the most abused, and misinterpreted expressions in the English language is "The Workingman."

We hear it used, particularly at election times, when candidates appealing for popular support strongly declare that they will "look after the workingman." What do they mean? Who are the workingmen?

Through common acceptance, the term is supposed to indicate men who "earn their living by the sweat of their brow," in trades which require manual effort—men whose muscles and deftness of touch represent their livelihood. A professional man, a merchant, or an industrialist is never regarded as a "workingman" within the meaning of the term as applied by the politicians. But is this fair, or right?

The man who reports for work at a factory at a certain hour in the morning and quits at a certain time each evening, is entitled to the dignity of being known as a workingman. But he is not the only man entitled to that distinction. Many a lawyer, doctor, and business executive, reporting for duty at his place of business just as regularly, working just as many hours in the daytime, and burning the midnight oil in overtime, for which there is no extra remuneration, is just as much entitled to be known as a workingman—and is just as much in need of the special services of those seeking political honors.

Work is not confined to manipulating the hands. The brain worker is often subject to just as much fatigue—sometimes bodily as well as mentally—as is the man at the factory bench. Moreover when the average factory hand quits work for the day, his troubles are over until the next morning. But not so with the business executive. His business is "on his mind" during all of his waking hours. He finds himself returning to his office, or working out his problems at home, to the exclusion of many worldly pleasures which may be enjoyed regularly by the man who handles tools, and confines his work to regular hours.

So that when reference is made to the "workingman," and the necessity of having his interests guarded on public governing bodies, don't forget that these men compose the vast majority of citizens in a community. It is a fine thing to honor the men who labor, for they are the salt of the earth; but all laborers do not wear overalls. Vast numbers of them may be found among the class of people who are holding the so-called "white-collar jobs"—many of them indeed working harder, and putting in longer hours than some of those who enjoy the popular distinction of being known as workingmen.

Wants Game Sanctuaries.

(A Letter in the Toronto Daily Star.)

SIR: Of late a great deal has been said about how wild life is being destroyed. Very little has been said about how it can be saved. Those who are advocating sanctuaries, I believe, are on the right track.

Absolute sanctuaries should be selected over great areas, free from man's destructive influence, where axe, saw, rod, gun and trap are prohibited, areas where agriculture has no place, where mining, water-power development or industry can have no interest.

Limited sanctuary areas, such as our national and provincial parks, must be greatly increased both in size and number. In the more settled and thickly populated districts refuges or reserves should be set aside in every township.

Depletion of wild life, whatever its cause, has been allowed to go on and on unchecked. For this, past and present, governments have been blamed. Apathy, political jugglin, divine concessions, etc., have led to this situation. Are we, the people, of this province not to blame? We are responsible for the election of our legislative assembly; in fact, we are the government. The department of game and fisheries has a function and is carrying on admirably in its scope. That scope is limited by the apathy of the people of this province.

The sportsman, naturalists and other conservationally minded individuals should make each member of provincial parliament conscious of the value of his or her vote. Then we may hope to see some action on the floor of the House where the subject of the preservation of our wild life and wild areas should receive equal consideration, at least, with other important items of provincial business. This should not be left to an unwieldy disinterested fish and game committee, many of whom are seldom if ever seen at committee meetings.

I congratulate 30-30 and those who have contributed their views to this important subject, also The Star for its consideration and interest in publishing their many letters.

CANADA'S PART.

(Ottawa Journal)

WE SHOULD like to be able to believe that story telling that what Prime Minister Mackenzie King and President Franklin Roosevelt discussed at the White House on Friday evening was "a North American accord for the promotion of world peace."

But we can't.

We can't for the simple reason that we don't like this idea of taking ourselves so seriously. It is too juvenile.

Actually, the part Canada can play in "promotion of world peace" is a very small one, all but insignificant. Nor does Canada—apart from talk—do much to show that she is conscious of any such capacity or mission. A nation out to promote world peace should at least be in a position to cooperate effectively with nations anxious to enforce peace—should that become necessary. Canada is in no such position. She is not even in a position to enforce her own neutrality.

THE TRAINS RAN.

(Lethbridge Herald)

BEFORE it is too late may we say a word of praise for the manner in which the Canadian Pacific Railway met the situation during the past six weeks. At a time when practically every other means of transport except the air was blocked, when trucks and buses were held in their terminals and private automobiles were unable to move on the country highways, the Canadian Pacific at a tremendous cost kept their lines open.

It was done only under greatest difficulties, and by the spending of money for train crews and extra gangs to shovel the snow. Even the branch lines which are seldom used such as those to Whiskey Gap and Glenwood were kept open when the expense was at least ten times the revenue.

As a result of the company's effort, food, supplies and fuel for the people were transported, feed for starving live stock was distributed, and a mail service of a sort was maintained. The Canadian Pacific deserves the thanks of the people of South Alberta for the untiring efforts of its officers and men on the Lethbridge division during the worst transportation tie-up in modern times.

WHAT SPEED DOES.

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

WHATEVER may be done by the Legislature in reference to the speed limit on the highways—and there is every indication that the general ordinary and rarely-observed limit of 35 miles per hour will be altered—it will be a mistake if the authorities overlook the fact that speed, and often quite insane speed, is responsible for a very large number of serious highway accidents from year to year.

The Motor Vehicles branch of the Department of Highways has just issued a report based upon six years' experience in accident reporting in Ontario. Examining its records for that period of time, it finds that not less than 28.8 per cent. of all accidents and 36.9 per cent. of fatal accidents—larger percentages than in any other categories—involved drivers who were operating their machines at excessive speed.

A Bit of Nonsense

Too Risky

In a county court a Jewish counsel met his match in a witness of his own persuasion.

The case concerned a suit of clothes. The counsel argued that his client was entitled to three sittings in which to pay his bill.

"Now sir," said counsel to the witness, "had I ordered the clothes instead of my client would you have summoned me to court?

"Well, no," was the reply.

"And why not, pray?"

"Well, because you see, I should have waited each down from you."

MRS. H. CLEMENTS IS GUEST SPEAKER

Addresses Members Of Women's Institute On Recent Course In Buymanship

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, March 12. — Mrs. J. A. Crowe very kindly opened her home to the members of the W.I. on Thursday afternoon. In the absence of Mrs. Weller, Mrs. David Miller took the chair. A letter was read from Mrs. Fred Crowe thanking the Institute for the flowers. A request from the Tennis Club which had helped the Institute last year, that they have the Institute scenery and curtains was made verbally by Mrs. Charlotte Cooper, a member also of the club, and the requ... was granted. Practically ever... the Cenotaph was placed. Mrs. Robert Moore has looked after the flower baskets and done it well, but she thought it was unsatisfactory and a committee, Mrs. Robert Moore, Mrs. Arthur Payne, and Miss Lizzie Crowe, was appointed to find out what could be done about watering a flower border. The committee will arrange to have the beds prepared and April's roll call will be plants or bulbs for the garden, and if 100 cold promises of what can be donated. Mrs. Charlotte Cooper read a letter from the Canadian Association for the Protection of Fur-bearing Animals, which was laid over until better understood at another meeting. Notice was brought that there is a boy who has no clothes to go to school. He is in the U.F.O. area and a member of both Institute and U.F.O. will see to it.

New song sheets were used for singing before Mrs. Clements gave her very interesting account of the latter part of the first day and the second day Buymanship classes held in Peterborough. Miss Collins, the instructress, is known here, as she held sewing classes some years ago. In her talk she said it really costs more to clothe a boy than a girl on a farm. The ladies present did not all agree with that. She spoke of the advantages and disadvantages of home-made clothing, described various cloths, and how to test them, had quite a lot to say about silk in general and silk stockings in particular. Some averaged a pair of silk stocks a week. Care of silk hosiery was described. They should always be washed before wearing, and after every wearing. Warnings were given tall, short, slight, and stout women about dressing to look well and not be conspicuous or ludicrous.

Housekeepers were urged to keep accounts of income and expenses. There were several booklets on the various needs of the household, including budgeting, some of which may be had free and some at 3 cents each. Mrs. Clements always puts her reports in an interesting manner, and she fully did so on this occasion.

A vote of thanks moved by Mrs. Arthur Payne and Mrs. E. N. McDonald was given Mrs. Clements. Some of the younger members served a delicious lunch, and a very happy social time was spent.
